EMINEM

By MURPHY MITCHELL

It's safe to say Eminem is back to his old ways.

With the "Marshall Mathers LP 2," Slim Shady signals a return to his former prominence that made the rapper one of the most unique and well-known personas in the industry.

Since Eminem's seventh studio album — "Recovery" — the hip-hop artist has maintained a low profile with only a handful of releases.

Now, Eminem is taking his audience on a nostalgic trip down memory lane with a throwback to his old style and influences.

He's ditched the buzz-cut brown hair image that's graced the cover of his last few albums in favor of the trademark, punk-ass bleach-blonde hairdo (sometimes donned with a beanie).

This album marks more than a return to the old Slim Shady, but instead a critical indication of Eminem's post-"Recovery" image reformation.

With production help from the likes of Alex da Kid, Dr. Dre and Rick Rubin, it's no secret Eminem was aiming to reach the pinnacle of his creative prowess.

While each track on this album brings back a particular flavor of the old Slim Shady and the hip-hop era that birthed him, a couple hits seem to stand above the rest.

"Berzerk," which is the eighth track on Mather's creation, peaked at No. 3 on the Billboard Hot 100.

Not even five seconds into the track, the listener is plunged into a long-forgotten, Beastie Boys-esque form of hip-hop.

With a helping hand from mastermind producer Rick Rubin, B-Rabbit hit gold with this track (Damn son, where'd you find this?).

Once again, Eminem collaborates with Rihanna to help pad his otherwise heavy rock-influence album and deliver an instant radio hit.

Shady's incomparable lyrical abilities were put on full display in his third released track of the album, "Rap God."

Mathers lives up to his ability with a stunning 97 words in 15 seconds—which the rapper describes as "supersonic speed."

All in all, Slim Shady does an excellent job of appealing to the fanatics of his highly innovative and groundbreaking early work while still releasing radio-friendly tracks.

This album is not only worth a listen, but quite possibly a purchase, too.

Enjoy, because the real Slim Shady has just stood up.

BOX OFFICE TAKEOVER

Three New Releases Push Their Way Into Top Films

By Miles Clements
Entertainment Reporter

This weekend the box office saw the young, the old and the children at heart as three new, drastically different releases punched their way into the top four grossing films for the first weekend in November.

Ender's Game

Written and directed by Gavin Hood ("X Men Origins: Wolverine", "Rendition"), "Ender's Game" is a Sci-Fi film based on a novel by Orson Scott Card. It follows Andrew Wiggin, who is gifted with unusual talents and is sent to an outer space military academy in preparation for an alien attack.

The film takes its Sci-Fi label seriously. A lot of the film utilizes computer-generated images to develop the story. With all that CGI, the acting must come through. "Ender's Game" won the box office with a $27 million weekend. The book contains a thought-provoking element the film didn't seem to portray but nevertheless a great adaption.

Last Vegas

"Last Vegas" proved to audiences that the 60-something crowd can have its adventure too. Whether that adventure will create sequels has yet to be seen. Directed by Jon Turteltaub ("National Treasure," "The Kid"), "Last Vegas" is a dramatic comedy following four best friends in their late 60's celebrating a bachelor party. The film finished third in the box office with a $16.3 million take away. Unfortunately, this is no "Hangover."

The draw for this film is the cast. There's always going to be something special to watch when Morgan Freeman, Robert De Niro, Kevin Kline and Michael Douglas play off each other. Yet, the film is filled with clichés. There are better ways to spend 105 minutes.

Free Birds

In the spirit of Thanksgiving, Reel FX Creative Studios gave us animated turkeys.

"Free Birds," directed by Jimmy Hayward ("Jonah Hex," "Horton Hears a Who!"), follows Reggie the Turkey (Owen Wilson) and his fear of getting stuffed on Thanksgiving. His anxiety separates him from the rest of the flock.

"Free Birds" attracts child audiences but lacks the critics' praise, even with a solid acting core consisting of Harrelson and Wilson. Hayward brings a lot of animation experience as well, but the unnecessary puns throughout the film and overall snooze factor the parents produce in the theater doesn't help the re-watch value.

TIMELESS

Barry Sanders' 1988 Season Still Resonates

By CODY STAVENHAGEN
Sports Reporter

In 1988, Barry Sanders defied the supposed limitations for what a man could do on a football field.

Every Saturday, on nearly every carry, Sanders did something spectacular. It was mythical. Even seeing the numbers in record books and watching unparalleled runs unfold on tape, Sanders' 1988 season feels more like legend than reality 25 years later.

But it was real. It happened, and his accomplishments haven't been diminished; they've been refined with a touch of nostalgia, like an old photograph — untarnished, unforgettable, revered.

The immeasurable greatness Sanders displayed that season withstands the weathering of a quarter-century. The legacy of that incomparable season remains — like a story passed on for generations — timeless.

Sean Higgins/O'Colly

Out of Nowhere

HOUSTON NUTT

Coached receivers and quarterbacks at OSU in 1988. He's since coached at Arkansas and Ole Miss.

Houston Nutt knew Barry Sanders was good.

He knew he was damn good.

But Heisman winner? All-time record-breaker? No one saw it coming.

"We knew he was special," Nutt said. "We knew he could run, jump, do all those things, but we had no idea what we were about to witness."

Of all the incredible moments Sanders provided in '88, one in particular stood out to Nutt.

It was against Nebraska in Lincoln, a game OSU lost, 63-42. Sanders, however, had 189 yards and four touchdowns.

It was a simple carry. Sanders was hit nearly two yards in the backfield, and hit hard. Nutt said the Red Sea of Cornhusker fans erupted in cheers.

"The next thing you know, I turn my head looking to get the next play from Larry Coker, and (Sanders) is running down the sideline," Nutt said. "I really didn't see it until the next day and I say, 'Oh my gosh. This guy took a full collision in the mouth, comes out of it, makes another guy miss, and then runs for about 18.'"

Even though Sanders was already in the midst of history by that point in the season, that's when Nutt realized he was setting the bar a level higher than anyone else had ever dreamed.

The Campaign Trail

Steve Buzzard

An OSU sports information director from 1983-2006.

Like Nutt, Steve Buzzard knew Sanders was a rare talent, but he had no idea how rare.

It didn't take long for that notion — and Buzzard's job as a public relations official — to change dramatically.

Buzzard and the athletic department faced the challenge of a Heisman movement, and it started with simple posters and brochures.

Halfway through the season, OSU sent a packet with Sanders' numbers and quotes from opposing coaches to Heisman voters.

But the Trophy was never a guarantee from Buzzard's perspective. UCLA's Troy Aikman and USC's Rodney Peete were also finalists. Hoping to sway the West Coast vote, OSU made a 10-minute highlight video and pushed it to all Heisman voters.

OSU was playing Texas Tech in Tokyo when Buzzard said Sanders and his offensive line piled into a limo and headed to the CBS Bureau to watch the Heisman ceremony at roughly 4 a.m. Tokyo time.

The final result: Sanders won the Heisman with 559 first-place votes. The next closest was Peete with 70.

"I was never one to feel like you could buy a Heisman," Buzzard said.

"Of course he won by a fairly big margin."

UNIVERSITY, PICKENS LAUDED BY NONPROFIT

On hand to receive the 2013 Achievement in Education Award on behalf of Oklahoma State University were, from left, 4-H Curriculum Coordinator Cathy Allen, First Cowgirl Ann Hargis, 4-H and Family Consumer Science Educator Lynn Null and OSU President Burns Hargis. In addition, OSU Alumnus Boone Pickens received the 2013 Lifetime Achievement Award from the Community for Education Foundation.

Extension educators from 20 counties were introduced to the curriculum this spring and have been building local networks to implement the program.

Boone Pickens, chairman of BP Capital Management, received the 2013 Lifetime Achievement Award. Pickens has made a significant impact around the world, donating more than $1 billion to charitable causes, including more than $500 million to OSU.

Community for Education Foundation is a nonprofit education reform organization founded in 1992 to ensure that all students learn the communication, decision-making, and goal-setting skills they need to be successful in life.

The Overcoming Obstacles Life Skills Program provides educators with the curriculum materials, teacher training and ongoing support they need to teach students the skills relevant to their academic and social success. Overcoming Obstacles has positively influenced nearly 3 million students across the country.

The nonprofit Community for Education Foundation honored Oklahoma State University and its alumnus Boone Pickens at its annual Overcoming Obstacles Achievement Awards in New York City.

On Oct. 24, OSU President Burns Hargis accepted the Achievement in Education Award for the university's partnership with the Community for Education Foundation to bring the Overcoming Obstacles Life Skills Program to Oklahoma classrooms.

"OSU is honored to receive this wonderful award," Hargis said. "We owe special thanks to 4-H employees Lynn Null and Cathy Allen, who worked hard to bring the Overcoming Obstacles program to Oklahoma youth. OSU is proud of its heritage as a land-grant university, and this is another way we serve the people of our state."

OSU is delivering the youth-skills program to about 4,500 students through the Oklahoma Cooperative Extension Service's 4-H program. OSU's involvement with the organization started with Null, a 4-H and family consumer science educator, who introduced it to Jackson County schools.

Overcoming Obstacles is aimed at middle and high school students and is compatible with what 4-H and OSU Extension have been doing for 100 years.

OSU COLLEGES AND PROGRAM RECEIVE NATIONAL RECOGNITIONS AND RANKINGS

Several OSU colleges and programs are routinely ranked for excellence and affordability. Since July, the following have received national recognition:

Environmental Science

The College Database listed OSU No. 15 among 39 U.S. "Colleges Where Environmental Science Matters," based on the number of green-degree programs offered. OSU's programs include bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in environmental science; a post-master's degree in environmental engineering; and bachelor's and master's degrees in housing and human environments.

Engineering

GetEducated.com named three engineering programs at OSU as best buys for engineering professionals pursuing master's degrees online. The programs are engineering and technology management (seventh), industrial engineering and management (tied 10th), and electrical and computer engineering (tied 10th).

Veterinary Sciences

The Veterinary Information Network's VIN Foundation ranked OSU's Center for Veterinary Health Sciences as the most affordable veterinary college for in-state students among the 31 such colleges in the U.S. and Caribbean. OSU is No. 1 for in-state and No. 6 for out-of-state residents seeking a doctorate of veterinary medicine.

Entrepreneurship

OSU's School of Entrepreneurship in the Spears School of Business is 22nd in the rankings of top 25 graduate entrepreneurship schools by The Princeton Review and Entrepreneur magazine.

FLASHBACK

The OSU Student Union has shown a tremendous ability to evolve and change according to students' needs. Since opening on Aug. 20, 1950, it has undergone numerous upgrades based on those needs. A recent $65 million Student Union renovation project, funded in large part by a student-fee gift, improved retail and dining spaces and made the Campus Life area and student lounge spaces more visible.

The upgrades helped the Student Union receive the No. 1 ranking for Most Amazing Campus Student Union by BestCollegeReview.org.

For more than 63 years, thousands of students, alumni, faculty and staff members have visited the Student Union every day. The building hosts a countless number of diverse programs and services as well as offers a wide selection of eateries and retail outlets.

For more information about the Student Union, visit union.okstate.edu. The Student Union also can be found on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and Pinterest.

'Everybody Held Their Breath'

JOE MARTIN

Graduated from OSU in 1975
and is a loyal Cowboy sports fan

For Oklahoma State fans, 1988 was a year unlike any other.

The Cowboys had been good before — reaching as high as No. 2 in the nation in 1984.

They had Heisman contenders in Bob Fenimore and Terry Miller.

The 1988 team went 10-2, but was as exciting to watch as any team in the nation.

And of course Sanders became the program's first and only Heisman winner, bringing a never-before seen level of national attention to the land-grant school.

Joe Martin graduated from OSU in 1975 and is a loyal Cowboy sports fan. For him, nothing compares to what Sanders did in 1988.

"Every time he touched the ball he could take it to the house," Martin said. "Everybody held their breath every time it was handed off to him.

"It was pretty electric. He did things that we'd never seen before."

'It Eclipses Everything'

PAT JONES

OSU's coach from 1984-94

Pat Jones was never shy about proclaiming Sanders as an all-time great, even then.

But for Jones, the most impressive aspect about that legendary season was the way Sanders handled it.

Sanders always had a reputation as being quiet and humble. When he scored, he would always simply hand or toss the ball to the official. He didn't dance, he didn't make a scene and he didn't glamorize himself to the media.

"He sets this kind of record with more class and dignity than you can imagine," Jones said.

"What you see is what you get with him, because there's really not a phony bone in his body."

Jones has also always been well aware of the magnitude of Sanders' accomplishments.

Sean Higgins/O'Collegian

And as it is for many around the Oklahoma State campus, 1988 is still in the forefront of Jones' memory.

"As time goes on, I think we all get to embellish things, but this one — you can't hardly embellish it enough," Jones said. "It gets to be more and more and more impressive.

"It eclipses decades. It eclipses anything."

Lasting Legacy

MIKE GUNDY

Current OSU coach and former quarterback

Current OSU coach and former quarterback Mike Gundy is the first to admit his job wasn't all that hard in 1988.

Gundy was a four-year starter for the Cowboys and finished as the Big Eight Conference's all-time leading passer. With Gundy throwing to Hart Lee Dykes, the Cowboys had a potent passing attack, but that team was built around Sanders.

And if that team played today's style of up-tempo offense, Gundy said Sanders' numbers could have been even more incredible.

"He's the best college football player to ever play the game," Gundy said. "If he's playing today, he runs up 75 touchdowns very easily and probably rushes for 4,000 yards in the blink of an eye."

But Sanders' impact goes beyond 1988. He went on to a 10-year career with the Detroit Lions, where he was arguably the league's best running back.

If he hadn't suddenly retired in 1999, he would likely be the NFL's career rushing leader.

"I think the best plays he made were when he was playing for the Lions and they never blocked anybody," Gundy said.

"I think Emmitt (Smith) is a great player, but he was running where people were blocking and Barry was running and making cuts in the backfield, 3 yards deep and making another cut at the line of scrimmage and making somebody miss 5 yards down the field."

Transcending Time

JOSH STEWART

Current OSU receiver

Reminders of Sanders' Herculean feats are still scattered throughout the OSU campus — from pictures of his remarkable 4-yard leap into the end zone against Colorado to breathtaking highlights played before OSU games.

Even in the Cowboys' locker room, players regard Sanders as something of a mythical figure.

"He's a legend," Cowboy receiver Josh

Stewart said. "I'm hoping I get to meet him sometime soon just to see this demeanor and to get some tips from him. That's special for him to be like he is in this program."

As OSU's top offensive weapon, Stewart is known for his shiftiness and moves in the open field.

But like anyone else, Stewart understands just how incredible a player Sanders was, or maybe, Sanders is — because like any worthy legend, his legacy transcends time.

"There's no getting to how Barry Sanders did his thing," Stewart said. "There will never be another Barry Sanders."

PATMON

VS.

TURZILLI

Facing his former team for the first time, Patmon will have a chance to line up across from Turzilli and the rest of Kansas' wideouts. Turzilli is expected to start for the first time since injuring his ankle on Oct. 12.

T. JOHNSON

VS.

HEAPS

Heaps is hovering at 50 percent completion rate under center for the Jayhawks. He won't have it easy against Johnson and the rest of the OSU defense. Johnson leads the Cowboys with four of the team's 15 sacks this season.

Did You Know?

OSU has scored 20 or more points in 47 consecutive games.

Kansas has beaten Oklahoma State only eight times in the last 33 years.

Oklahoma State cornerback Tyler Patmon was a three-year starter for Kansas before transferring.

The Cowboys have forced at least one turnover in 16 straight games.

A win would improve the Cowboys to 16-1 in their last 17 games in Boone Pickens Stadium.

To get the advantage, check the day's rating: 10 is the easiest day, 0 the most challenging.

Aries (March 21-April 19) -- Today is a 9 -- With Jupiter in retrograde, give extra care to communications and negotiations. Return calls and correspondence. You meet a key person at a social gathering. Begin to see what needs to be done.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) -- Today is a 8 -- Make new connections and discover new rewards. Scratch another person's back without expectations. Just do a good deed. Keeping your promises gives you the superpower of making things happen. Get ideas from home and family.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) -- Today is a 7 -- Encourage group unity. Travel compels but could get complex. Friends help you understand. Expand your customer base by figuring out what the opposition wants. Others find you charming.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) -- Today is a 9 -- They're saying nice things about you again. But don't fall asleep at the wheel; use those endorsements to generate new sales. Now's a great time to step on the accelerator. You provide the imagination.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) -- Today is a 8 -- Get rid of some of your surplus stuff. It's easier with the help of a friend who's not attached to your possessions. Work with a partner, and accept their coaching. Over the next four months, rejuvenate an old bond.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) -- Today is a 9 -- Turn your attention toward work. Find support and resources where you didn't see them before. Your family is willing to make a difference. Stay out of somebody else's argument.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) -- Today is an 8 -- Work's getting fun. Play with your tasks, and make fascinating discoveries. Take note of your ideas. Your patience is rewarded. A beautiful moment sneaks up on you. Love is contagious, and you have what another seeks.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) -- Today is a 9 -- Investigate ways to increase income and savings. A potential disruption can be avoided. Neatness counts double, especially at home. Work that you love pays very well. Hold out for the best deal.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) -- Today is a 9 -- You have an unusual advantage when you listen closely. You inspire others. Don't ignore a brilliant idea. Make love your top priority. Spread your love letters to the four corners.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) -- Today is a 7 -- You may notice temporary overwhelm and possible delays in career advancement, but don't worry. Focus on today, and use renewed confidence to make extra money. Talk about your dreams, and what you love.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) -- Today is an 8 -- Don't compare yourself to others. You do best focusing on your work. It's not a contest, anyway. Inspiration goes farther than being demanding. Pay back a favor. Good will builds from kindness freely given. Dream out loud.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) -- Today is a 9 -- The pressure is increasing. Only use what you need. Kindness is the most valuable gift. Find the good news among the rubble. Don't worry ineffectively. Collect an old debt. Blow off steam with someone you love.
