

Are professor salaries related to class GPA?

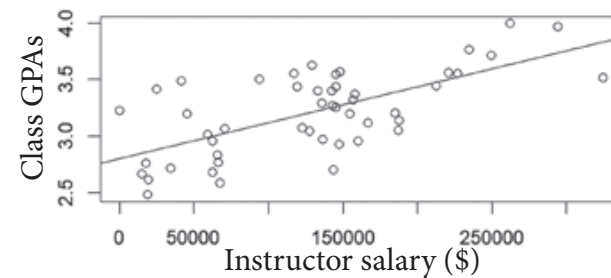

See the full story on Page 1 of the main edition

CARL LYONS | ART AND DESIGN EDITOR

There was no correlation between class average GPA and instructor salary when a linear regression analysis was performed on all instructors represented in both Boiler Grade, the website and the salary guide.

GPA vs. instructor salary for statistics department

CARL LYONS | ART AND DESIGN EDITOR

There appears to be a relationship between class average GPA and salary when a smaller group is examined, but this could be the result of random error due to the number of departments examined.

The Elmore Family School of Electrical and Computer Engineering is responsible for the largest total salary payout across all schools at a grand total of $19,028,683 and the largest number of salaried individuals at 92.

Kaushik Roy, a distinguished professor of electrical and computer engineering, is the highest paid member in the school with a salary of $459,449. Roy joined Purdue in 1993 as an assistant professor of electrical engineering before being named the Edward G. Tiedemann, Jr. Distinguished Professor in 2012.

The College of Engineering dominates the list of total salary payouts, with engineering schools filling five of the spots in the top 10 salary payouts. The College of Science is right behind it with four entries of its own.

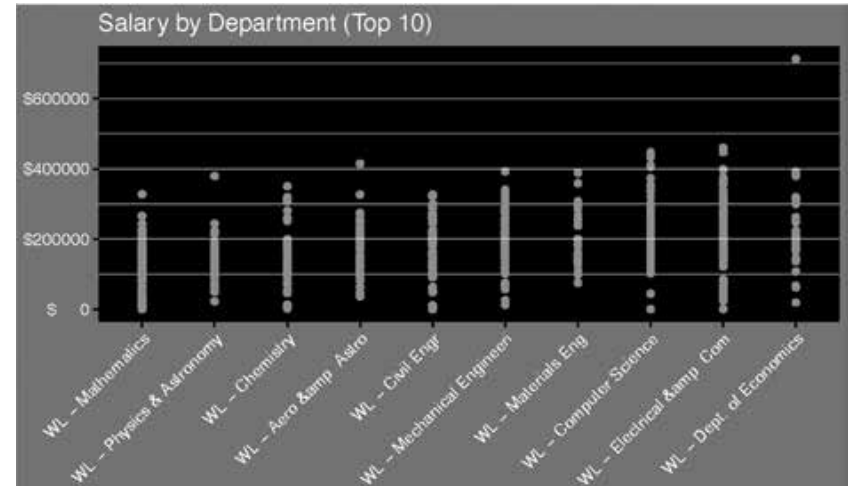

With a total of 83 salaried faculty members, the School of Mechanical Engineering is second on the list with a payout totaling $15,688,009.

The highest paid faculty member in the department is distinguished professor Ajay Malshe with a salary of $393,076. Malshe, who joined Purdue at the start of 2020, was appointed as a President's Fellow last year and serves on the University Senate as part of the engineering faculty.

The highest non-engineering school to make the list is the Department of Computer Science in the third spot with a total salary payout of $12,441,392.

Ananth Grama, the Samuel D. Conte Professor of Computer Science, is the biggest earner out of the department's 61 faculty, with a salary of $446,382. Grama joined the department in 1996 after receiving his doctorate in CS from the University of Minnesota.

The Department of Mathematics is right behind in fourth with a total sal-

The salaries of faculty in each Purdue department were summed, with the top-10 departments shown. The School of Electrical and Computer Engineering had the highest sum of salaries at $19,028,683. The Department of Economics had the highest paid faculty member of professor David Hummels at $712,526.

ary payout of $11,074,417.

Among the 89 individuals, one salary stands above the rest. Trevor Wooley, distinguished professor in mathematics, made $327,580 in 2023, making him the highest paid member in the department. Wooley received his doctorate from the Imperial College of Science, Technology and Medicine in London and became the Andris A. Zoltners Professor of Excellence at Purdue in 2019.

The fifth spot goes to the Lyles School of Civil Engineering with an overall payout of $9,471,682 across its 53 employees.

Rao Govindaraju, distinguished professor and department head, was the highest paid member last year with a salary of $326,308. Govindaraju joined Purdue in the summer of 1997 and was promoted to head of the school in 2012.

The third-highest College of Science department on the list is the Department of Chemistry. It takes the sixth spot on the list with a total payout of $7,869,950.

Philip Low, Ralph C. Corley Distinguished Professor of Chemistry, was the highest earner among the 49 department faculty members at $350,607. The Presidential Scholar for Drug Discovery joined the department in the summer of 1976 and has co-founded various therapeutic and research organizations.

Only one school not part of the colleges of engineering and science made the list. The Department of Economics ranks No. 7 in total salary payout with $7,515,911 for its 32 members.

The distinguished professor of economics, David Hummels, was not only the highest paid faculty member in the department, but the university overall, with a salary of $712,526. Hummels previously served as the dean of the Mitchell E. Daniels, Jr. School of Business for a decade before stepping down last year.

The fourth and final department in the College of Science that made the list is the Department of Physics and Astronomy in the eighth spot, with a total payout of $7,047,998.

Coaches occupy the majority of the top spots in university salary earnings across the board, and head coaches lead their respective sports in terms of salary.

With a salary of $4,219,948, Purdue football head coach Ryan Walters is not only the that's highest paid coach, but the highest paid employee at Purdue.

In terms of aggregate salary spending, football spent a total of $12,581,360 — more than double the next sport. Walters' salary accounts for almost 25% of the department's total payout.

Athletics programs by highest aggregate salary spending

1 and No. 2, men's basketball takes the second spot with an aggregate spending of $5,081,782. Head coach Matt Painter's $3,315,328 salary takes a 65% chunk out of the total salary spending, the highest percentage of any Purdue Sports program.

Another massive dropoff occurs going from men's basketball to women's basketball as the latter's aggregate spending is a little over 25% of the former. The program spent $1,308,634 in salaries with head coach Katie Gerald as its biggest earner at $600,228.

The sports in spots four, five and six buck the trend of large disparities as their aggregate spendings vary from one spot to the next by around $50,000.

Fourth in line is the volleyball program with a total payout of $647,450. Continuing the trend of head coaches leading the pack, Dave Shondell makes up the majority of the aggregate with a salary of $315,121.

Rounding out the top five is baseball, with a total salary payout of $592,637, with head coach Greg Goff accounting for more than half of that amount at $299,824.

Track and field head coach Norbert Elliott's $239,042 salary makes up around 44% of the sport's payout of $541,694.

Programs beyond the top six had average aggregate salary spending between $400,000 and $500,000.

W. Overhauser Distinguished Professor of Physics and Astronomy, earned $379,812, making him the highest paid individual in the department.

The School of Aeronautics and Astronautics has the ninth-largest overall payout at $6,928,135.

Of the 39 faculty members, Hsu Lo Distinguished Professor of Aeronautics and Astronautics Kathleen Howell was the highest-salaried member, earning $414,567. In 2002, Howell was named one of the "50 Most Important Women in Science" by Discover Magazine.

Rounding out the top-10 total salary payouts is the School of Materials Engineering at $6,479,677 across 33 individuals.

Jan-Anders Mansson, distinguished professor of materials engineering and chemical engineering, earned $388,976, making him the highest-paid faculty member in the school.

Staff Photographer Kathleen Martinus supplied the statistical analysis for this article. Martinus and Lin worked together to interpret the data and compile the top-10 total salary payouts in addition to the top-paid individual in each salary.
