Boilermakers deserve better internet. No usage limit. No contracts or hidden fees. No hassle.

Look at it, Boilermakers. You’re this close to spring break! All of us at Wintek hope you’re a bit more motivated and engaged. Whether you’re vacationing, staying in or headed back home for spring vacation, there are plenty of apps to help you to organize, save money, find fun and enjoy your stay.

BEFORE YOU LEAVE * Trip (Packing List) *

Let’s face it: From the best kept inoks sometimes becomes a beginning. Don’t lose important info on flight, hotels, and each available online tools to build a master itinerary of everything in one place — with sync, share and offline-search capabilities. Upload PDFs, photos, boarding passes, flight confirmation, even your neighborhood safety scores, and more (paid version also available).

Protecting your vehicle for a road trip can be a bit daunting. But foggy lenses don’t mandate an annual pilgrimage to places not local — also known as spring break — is upon us. Follow these tips to stay safe.

* Avoid theft. Spring break draws big crowds every year. Keep your belongings and safely away from any coastal takeaways or salt stains leftover from winter.

* Tighten things up. Most road trips require more than just a healthy tire tread before you hit the road. Check for loose or missing parts, such as loose hinges or rattling license plates, and interior trim panels, can create rattles and vibration under the car is ready to tackle the open road.

* Check the battery. Over time, battery terminals and cables will start to corrode, which can prevent the car from starting. Always check your battery terminals for corrosion after your drive.

* Check the oil. If your tire pressure is low or uneven, it could be a sign that you have a slow leak or that your tires are underinflated, making for expensive repairs later.

* Fix foggy headlight lenses. Many spring and summer road trippers travel at night or at dusk, leading to poor illumination behind the wheel.

* Check the oil. If your tire pressure is low or uneven, it could be a sign that you have a slow leak or that your tires are underinflated, making for expensive repairs later.

* Keep your belongings and money safe by always locking doors and windows when leaving the hotel. Try to go to the ATM machine with friends in groups during daylight hours and always be aware of your surroundings while withdrawing cash.

While En Route *

During the time on the road, it’s important to realize that not all of the rules and regulations you’re used to will be the same. Some countries have very strict drug and alcohol laws, and zero tolerance for smuggling. Don’t let your spring break trip turn into a legal nightmare by doing something foolish. Also, do your homework before traveling to any foreign destination. Be aware that there are also native residents who know vacationers can be easy scam targets.

* Be especially careful abroad. When traveling overseas, it’s important to understand that not all of the rules and regulations you’re used to will be the same. Some countries have very strict drug and alcohol laws, and zero tolerance for smuggling. Don’t let your spring break trip turn into a legal nightmare by doing something foolish. Also, do your homework before traveling to any foreign destination. Be aware that there are also native residents who know vacationers can be easy scam targets.

Spring break has the potential to make positive memories that last a lifetime if revelers act responsibly. Spring break draws big crowds every year. Keep your belongings and safely away from any coastal takeaways or salt stains leftover from winter.

Be especially careful abroad. When traveling overseas, it’s important to understand that not all of the rules and regulations you’re used to will be the same. Some countries have very strict drug and alcohol laws, and zero tolerance for smuggling. Don’t let your spring break trip turn into a legal nightmare by doing something foolish. Also, do your homework before traveling to any foreign destination. Be aware that there are also native residents who know vacationers can be easy scam targets.

* Be especially careful abroad. When traveling overseas, it’s important to understand that not all of the rules and regulations you’re used to will be the same. Some countries have very strict drug and alcohol laws, and zero tolerance for smuggling. Don’t let your spring break trip turn into a legal nightmare by doing something foolish. Also, do your homework before traveling to any foreign destination. Be aware that there are also native residents who know vacationers can be easy scam targets.

* Always have a buddy system. You can collectively watch out for one another and make sure no trouble ensues.

* Recognize not everyone is overindulging. The annual pilgrimage to places not local – also known as spring break – is upon us. Follow these tips to stay safe.

* Avoid theft. Spring break draws big crowds every year. Keep your belongings and safely away from any coastal takeaways or salt stains leftover from winter.

* Tighten things up. Most road trips require more than just a healthy tire tread before you hit the road. Check for loose or missing parts, such as loose hinges or rattling license plates, and interior trim panels, can create rattles and vibration under the car is ready to tackle the open road.

* Check the battery. Over time, battery terminals and cables will start to corrode, which can prevent the car from starting. Always check your battery terminals for corrosion after your drive.

* Check the oil. If your tire pressure is low or uneven, it could be a sign that you have a slow leak or that your tires are underinflated, making for expensive repairs later.

* Fix foggy headlight lenses. Many spring and summer road trippers travel at night or at dusk, leading to poor illumination behind the wheel.

* Check the oil. If your tire pressure is low or uneven, it could be a sign that you have a slow leak or that your tires are underinflated, making for expensive repairs later.

* Keep your belongings and money safe by always locking doors and windows when leaving the hotel. Try to go to the ATM machine with friends in groups during daylight hours and always be aware of your surroundings while withdrawing cash.

* Address windshields nicks and bullseyes. Nicks and chips in the windshield are a common problem regardless of the weather. But such damage is most prevalent in the winter because of the extra detours that’s on the road. These nicks and cracks need to get fixed as soon as possible to prevent them from spreading and resulting in the need for a windshield replacement. Meanwhile, motorists can address nicks and bullseyes in their own driveways in a matter of minutes. For example, the Permatex Windshield Repair kit is tailor made for do-it-yourselfers, requiring no heating or mixing while ensuring each repair is virtually undetectable.

* Check oil change if needed. Driving with dirty and oil filters can damage your car and cause it to break down, making for expensive repairs later.

* Check tires. If your tire pressure is low or uneven, it could be a sign that you have a slow leak or that your tires are ready to be flat. Make sure tires have a healthy pressure and tread before you hit the road. The annual pilgrimage to places not local — also known as spring break — is upon us. Follow these tips to stay safe.

* Avoid theft. Spring break draws big crowds every year. Keep your belongings and safely away from any coastal takeaways or salt stains leftover from winter.