Your Dental Health

by Keith E. Abrahamson, D.D.S.

GETTING TO GUM DISEASE'S ROOT CAUSE

If left untreated, gingivitis (the mildest form of gum disease) can progress to periodontitis. In such cases, plaque spreads below the gum line where toxins produced by bacteria irritate the gums. This produces a chronic inflammatory response in which gums separate from the teeth and tooth-supporting bones and tissues degenerate. Eventually, teeth may become loose. To avoid these problems, the dentist must take a fairly aggressive approach to treating periodontitis. Root planing and scaling is a process by which the dentist will usually treat one-quarter of the teeth at one time using local anesthetic. This treatment is very effective and causes little discomfort.

Although gum disease is the major cause of tooth loss in adults, in many cases it is avoidable. We work with our patients so they can achieve and maintain a beautiful smile and healthier gums and teeth. We take the time with our patients to explain their treatment options and inform them of additional preventative care. Most adults with gum disease are unaware that they have it. Periodontal disease is usually a slow, painless, progressive disease. You need not lose your teeth to gum disease. If diagnosed early, the teeth can be saved. We're located at 436 Pond Promenade, Chanhassen, where we are currently accepting new patients. Please call 952.906.0200 to schedule an appointment.
