OROVILLE, Calif. (February 14, 2024) - Oroville Hospital values and appreciates the hard work and contributions made by our registered nurses every day. We understand the importance of fair wages and believe we have always been able to provide competitive wages to our entire staff.

Although we are negotiating an increase in wages for our registered nurses, it may not be at the level requested. As a non-profit, rural, community hospital, when determining wage increases we must take into consideration the financial framework in which the hospital operates in, including the consideration of wages of other hospital employees. Registered Nurses are one of the top paid positions at the hospital, making well over six figures a year.

“We understand the significance of fair wages and continue to work diligently to come to a mutual agreement with the California Nurses Association,” said Robert J. Wentz, President and CEO. “Nurses play a vital role at the hospital and we hope that the decision for a raise provides evidence to the values placed on them in our organization.”

As we continue to work towards an agreement, we want to again, express with gratitude and recognize nurse’s invaluable dedication to healthcare. We are committed to the well-being of our hospital while ensuring that our employees remain fairly compensated and remain competitive in the market.
