COVID-19 side effect: Recycling?

BY ELI WITEN
ew@beaconconlines.com

After a very tough couple of years, some recycling is out of the red, due to an increased need for paper products, an increased need for paper products, and might be HIV-positive.

The Cloisters! Residents, guests and employees took the first step in unburdening and finding a way forward. This is a move to treat the effect of the pandemic on the workforce. Each employee is encouraged to take the first step in finding a way forward. The Cloisters, a supported living facility for people with disabilities, opened its doors to the community in 2005. Life simplified.

Finding HIV, preventing AIDS - one person at a time

RAAO aims to reach those who won’t go elsewhere

RAAO aims to reach those who won’t go elsewhere

BY NOAH HERTZ
noah@beaconconlines.com

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, more than 1.2 million people in the United States have HIV, the human immunodeficiency virus that can be a precursor to AIDS. One in seven HIV-positive people don’t know they have it, the CDC says. If you don’t know you have HIV, you don’t take steps to prevent giving it to others. That’s why Rising Against All Odds, a nonprofit organization operating at 338 S. Woodland Blvd. in DeLand, is focused on targeting people who tend to fall through the cracks of the health care system and might be HIV-positive.

Please see RAAO, 6A

Visit us online for even more news and features at www.beaconconlines.com