Quote of the Week
"This is an experiment for us, to see if we can do something where people will be respectful of the space, that we will be able to get the crowd that we are hoping for and at the same time just kind of start getting an idea of what future events could look like in this time of COVID.
If it's enough of a success.
This is something that could continue after COVID."

A new, novel Fourth

BV Heritage
hosts memories
at Turner Farm,

Turner Farm and Apple Orchard opened its gates to a small gathering for some Independence Day pickin' on the porch.

Though there weren't as many visitors as Turner Farm has seen in days past such as Apple Fest, there were still plenty of feet to tap and hands to clap for local guitarist Gene Farrar.

Four new Chaffee cases

By Mountain Mail staff

Chaffee County Public Health reported COVID-19 cases may be on the uptick with four new cases in the county.

Public health received confirmation Saturday of four new positive COVID-19 cases of Chaffee County residents, bringing the total number of Chaffee County cases to 80.

The ages and genders of the newest positive cases are:

- Pediatric positive case
- 24-year-old male
- 26-year-old male
- 53-year-old male

The positive cases and their family members are in isolation. Contact tracing and exposure notification has begun.

All close contacts of the positive cases will receive a phone call from a public health nurse and be asked to follow isolation and quarantine guidelines.

Old-fashioned Fourth campaign stumps in the rain

Ron Hanks, the Republican candidate for House District 60 in the Colorado General Assembly, takes his turn at the mic during the Buena Vista Event Cooperative's Fourth of July candidate forum. Seated behind Hanks are Republican Chaffee County Commission candidate Hannah Hannah, Libertarian commission candidate Bonnie Davis, interim District Attorney Kaitlin Turner running as a Democrat to be elected into that role in November, Commissioner Keith Baker, running as a Democrat for re-election and Lori Boydston, running as a Democrat for House District 60.
