County: Apply now for CARES funds

Housing Services urges public to avoid foreclosure, eviction with federal assistance

MIKE WRIGHT Staff writer

COVID-19 has put rent and mortgage payments on hold, but eventually the bill will come due.

And Citrus County Housing Services has help in the form of federally funded financial assistance, but officials are urging participants to apply now instead of waiting.

The county has $440,000 in CARES Act funds to help residents whose jobs were lost or scaled back due to the pandemic. The grants, which do not have to be repaid, are to avoid eviction or foreclosure.

While its residents apply for the grant funds, payments are made directly to landlords and mortgage companies.

Gov. Ron DeSantis extended through Oct. 1 a moratorium on court-ordered foreclosure and evictions. While that may help those caught in the pandemic quagmire for now, residents may face thousands of dollars in unpaid housing bills when the moratorium is lifted.

"You are paying every dime you missed," Citrus County Housing Director Tammy Harris said. "People don't realize they have to pay all that back."

Harris said affected residents

n 2019, an estimated 268,600 women with invasive breast cancer looked in ■ the mirror and did not see themselves, but rather the ruin left behind by the disease's treatment.

Erika Henderer, 63, of Citrus Hills, was one of those women after five months of chemotherapy last year and after the drugs made her hair fall out in clumps.

'This is what my hair looks like now,'' she said, as she bent her head toward her chest and slid off her wig to reveal her hair a couple of inches long and the color

She smiled sheepishly as if without the wig she was not the women she had been before the disease.

She stroked the wig's synthetic, highlighted brown strands that she said resembled how her hair looked before the doctors diagnosed the growth in her right breast as cancer.

The two wigs she bought helped her keep her identity: the way she saw herself when she was still healthy and before the treatment began and ravaged her appearance, Henderer said.

When she began her chemotherapy treatment, the doctors warned that hair would most likely start falling out in two

"And it started falling out in clumps just like they said in two weeks," she said.

It kept falling out and fast.

"(Soon) I was looking at myself in the mirror and I was completely bald and didn't recognize myself," she said, shaking her head at the memory. "(My reflection) was like a stranger. It was drastic.'

When her hair gets long enough, she said she will donate her two wigs to the Robert Boissoneault Oncology Institute in Lecanto. It is where she received her radiation treatment until January, but still goes for follow up care.

The RBOI offers wigs, hats, and blankets for free to any Citrus County resident undergoing cancer treatment, regardless of where they are getting their care.

ST. PETERSBURG — Tropical Storm Sally slowed down Sunday as it churned northward toward the U.S. Gulf Coast, increasing the risk of heavy rain and dangerous storm surge before an expected strike as a Category 2 hurricane in southern Louisiana.

State officials "failed countless small business owners, their employees, and their patrons, by failing to properly regulate," Weil added.

About 65% of people undergoing chemotherapy experience chemotherapy-induced hair loss, according in to a study published in Seminars in Cutaneous Medicine and Surgery in 2009.

Every year in the United States, about 650,000 cancer patients are treated with chemotherapy in an outpatient setting, according to the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Why does chemotherapy cause hair loss?

Chemotherapy drugs attack rapidly growing cancer cells. Unfortunately, these drugs also attack other rapidly growing cells in your body, which normally replicate quickly such as those cells in hair roots and the lining of your stomach. Key votes for the week ending Sept. 11, 2020 by Voterama in Congress

■ BLOCKING GOP CORONAVIRUS PACKAGE:

Voting 52 for and 47 against, the Senate on Sept. 10 failed to reach 60 votes needed to advance a Republicansponsored coronavirus relief package. Consisting of $300 billion in new spending and $350 billion in recycled funds, the bill (S 178).stopped well short of a competing $3.4 trillion measure passed by House Democrats in May. The Senate bill would fund supplemental unemployment benefits of $300 per week through the end of 2020 and a second round of Paycheck Protection Program forgivable loans for small businesses, while erecting a shield against lawsuits for businesses taking reasonable steps to protect against Covid-19 exposure. The bill omitted aid passed by the House such as $1 trillion to help states and localities avert layoffs, $200 billion in hazard pay for essential workers and $100 billion to help tenants pay rent. In part, the Senate bill would provide $70 billion for K-12 education including tax credits for private-school tuition; $31 billion for developing Covid-19 vaccines and therapeutics; $29.4 billion for the U.S. military; $29 billion for colleges and universities; $25 billion for public health services; $20 billion for farmers and ranchers; $15.5 billion for the National Institutes of Health; $10 billion for the U.S. Postal Service and $5 billion in aid to childcare centers.

John Thune, R-S.D., said: "We may need to spend more" for coronavirus relief in the future. "This bill is simply an attempt to direct relief funds to some of the biggest priorities right now, like helping the hardest hit small businesses weather this crisis and providing more resources for testing, treatment and vaccines. These are areas we should all agree on."

Minority Leader Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., said the bill "does not help renters keep a roof over their heads or American families put food on the table. It shortchanges health care and education. It does not provide a dime to protect essential state and local services. It is laden with poison pills ... to guarantee the bill's failure. The truth of the matter is, Republicans ... don't want to pass a bill."

Taylor Swift returns to ACM Awards for "Folklore" premiere

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -Country-turned-pop star Taylor Swift is coming back to her roots with a performance at this year's Academy of Country Music Awards.

The nine-time ACM award winner will perform from the Grand Ole Opry House in Nashville, Tennessee, where the awards show will be broadcast Wednesday on CBS.

Swift will perform "betty" from her new album "Folklore," which has held the top spot on for six weeks on the Billboard 200 Albums chart. The song, which is being played on country radio stations, has reached No. 6 on Billboard's Hot Country song chart.

This marks the first time in seven years that the two-time ACM entertainer of the year has performed at this awards show and will be her world premiere performance for any song from her "Folklore" album.

Other performers scheduled for the show include Miranda Lambert, Eric Church, Luke Bryan, Maren Morris, Blake Shelton with Gwen Stefani, Carrie Underwood and Dan + Shay

North American box office muted; 'Mulan' fizzles in China

Moviegoing audiences in North America are not rushing back to the theater just yet and "Mulan" is also faltering in its China release as the global box office slowly comes back online in the COVID-19 era.

In the second major weekend for U.S. and Canadian movie theaters, Christopher Nolan's "Tenet" earned only $6.7 million from 2,910 locations, according to studio estimates Sunday. Warner Bros' sci-fi thriller was viewed as the main litmus test for whether audiences were ready to embrace the theatrical experience again, after nearly six months of shuttered theaters due to the pandemic.

Although it was enough to top the scattershot domestic releases, it also isn't enough to jumpstart the struggling exhibition industry. Warner Bros. has already pushed back its next major release, "Wonder Woman 1984," even further.

The weekend's only major new opener was Sonv's PG-13 romcom "The Broken Hearts Gallery," which earned an estimated $1.1 million from 2,204 North American locations. The film, from first-time writer director Natalie Krinsky and executive produced by Selena Gomez, is about a 20-something gallerist played by Geraldine Viswanathan who creates an art exhibit with souvenirs from her past relationships.

The studio is optimistic about its performance and potential.

"The early numbers are really encouraging," said Adrian Smith, the president of president of Sony Pictures domestic distribution.

Smith noted that the film will have a slow roll out as more theaters continue to open in the U.S.

Roughly two-thirds of the domestic market is open and theaters are operating at limited capacity and with limited showtimes. Two of the country's biggest markets, New York and Los Angeles, remain closed. Other still-closed markets include North Carolina, Michigan, New Mexico and the cities of Seattle and Portland.

Other notable domestic weekend numbers include Disney's 'The New Mutants," which added $2.1 million from 2,704 locations in its third weekend and Solstice's Russell Crowe pic "Unhinged," which earned an additional $1.5 million in week four.

Today in HISTORY

Today is Monday, Sept. 14, the 258th day of 2020. There are 108 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On Sept. 14, 1901, President William McKinley died in Buffalo, New York, of gunshot wounds inflicted by an assassin; Vice President Theodore Roosevelt succeeded him. On this date:

In 1814, Francis Scott Key was inspired to write the poem "Defence of Fort McHenry" (later "The Star-Spangled Banner") after witnessing the American flag flying over the Maryland fort following a night of British naval bombardment during the War of 1812.

In 1963, Mary Ann Fischer of Aberdeen, S.D., gave birth to four girls and a boy, the first known surviving quintuplets in the United States.

In 1982, Princess Grace of Monaco, formerly film star Grace Kelly, died at age 52 of injuries from a car crash the day before.

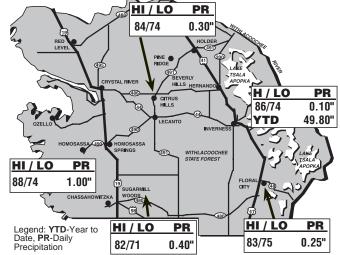

Ten years ago: Reggie Bush announced he was forfeiting his 2005 Heisman title, citing a scandal over improper benefits while he was a star running back at Southern California; it was the first time college football's top award had been relinquished by a recipient.

Five years ago: Fred Deluca, 67, the Subway co-founder who turned a sandwich shop he started as a teenager into the world's largest fast-food chain, died in New York.

One year ago: The White House announced that Hamza bin Laden, a son of the late al-Qaida leader, had been killed in a U.S. counterterrorism operation in the Afghanistan-Pakistan region; he'd become an increasingly prominent figure in al-Qaida. Drone attacks on the world's largest oil processing facility in Saudi Arabia and a major oil field sparked huge fires and halted about half the supplies from the world's largest exporter of oil; the Trump administration blamed Iran for the attacks.

Today's Birthdays: Actor Walter Koenig is 84. Rock musician Steve Berlin (Los Lobos) is 65. Actor Jessica Brown Findlay is 33.

Hot Corner: VIRUS

- Our state and local government acts like the virus doesn't exist. Due to that, I think we should change our state motto to "The State of Denial."
- Are the people of Citrus County crazy? We have 64 dead from the coronavirus since the start of the event in March. We have a population of 150,000, give or take a few. That's less than 1/10 or 1% and we're shutting the world down, wearing masks,
- social distancing, washing our hands at every turn, and still in a panic. Get a life, people. It's more dangerous to cross a busy street.
- Here in Sugarmill Woods, folks are already talking about the importance of celebrating Halloween. Since the average age here is just shy of 100 years old, should you really be sending your kids from door to door while the virus is still running out of control?

Time for GOP to

During the 1950s, two students pursuing their law degrees at Auburn University and the University of Alabama were Morris Dees and Millard Fuller. During this time, they became millionaires. They sold the businesses and went separate ways, Morris Dees established the SPLC — Southern Poverty Law Center — and Millard Fuller established Habitat for Humanity. Both are nonprofit 501(c)(3) organizations.

rebuke president

The SPLC's law offices set up in Montgomery, Alabama, to take on the hate groups by taking them to civil court, and representing those people who were suppressed by whatever hate group such as neo-Nazis, skinheads, KKK, etc. Typically a court judgment would require that the hate group pay the claimant for damages in a manner that depleted the hate group's bank account, thus putting them out of business.

These hate organizations include the following and more: Invisible Empire (KKK), United Clans of America, Aryan Nations, Imperial Clans of America, Andrew Anglin and The Daily Stormer, Christian Knights of the KKK, Carolina Knights of the Klu Klux Klan, and Church of the

Over the past 50-plus years, the information developed by the SPLC has been utilized by the FBI and other law enforcement organizations to keep track of the various hate groups.

Donald Trump's lack of appropriate response to the Charlottesville, Virginia, episode and other incidents has emboldened these hate groups nationwide. Now we have the Republican leadership at the 2020 Republican National Convention defining the SPLC as a "radical organization.'

Well folks, I am sorry to have to enlighten you to the real world. The SPLC is not a political organization. Their whole mission is to identify and take on the hate groups in America — something Donald Trump will not do.

It's time for real American Republican voters to rebuke Donald Trump.

Teaching a lesson on interpretation

This past weekend, I spent 24 hours of Zoom classes with a brand-new cohort of doctoral students for the university where I teach. This is the seventh cohort to go through the doctoral program. Like many cohorts before them, this group has a lot of top-quality people. Among them is one student who already possesses a Ph.D. in English, and another who has 48 years experience as a both a prosecutor and a defense

One of the most important lessons that first-term doctoral students can learn has to do with interpretation of research data and a willingness to change one's mind when confronted with findings that go contrary to one's expectations and deeply held beliefs.

On the final day of class, I told the students that I would be conducting a three-phase live poll in which they would be asked a simple question: Which U.S. state has been hit the worst by COVID-19, Florida or New York?

The first round was to establish a baseline of the students' opinions. I deliberately phrased the question vaguely. The results of the first round indicated 65% of the students thought Florida was the worst.

Then I showed them two short video clips. The first with CNN anchor Chris Cuomo lambasting Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis for his handling of the COVID-19 response. The second video showed Fox News anchor Tucker Carlson speaking about the nursing home deaths in New York state. I then polled the students with the exact same question. This time, only a slight majority – 56% — indicated that Florida was hit worse by COVID.

Lastly, I showed them some hard data indicating that 32,865 had died from COV New York, and 9,932 had died in Florida (NPR.org). That descriptive statistic by itself does not completely tell the story. Then I showed them an apples to apples comparison of COVID deaths per 100,000 population which showed 169 for New York and only 45 for Florida. I then polled them a third time. Not surprisingly, only 24% of the students considered Florida to have been hit hardest by COVID.

Afterward, one student said. "I can't believe that 24% still believe that Florida is worse than New York." In my mind, I agreed, but I didn't say anything out loud because I did not want to embarrass those students who did not change their minds after seeing the overwhelming evidence.

Increase educational requirements

One way we can measure the value of the police force is to think of how we would survive as a society without their presence. Their responsibilities are complex and multifaceted and incorporate the application of multiple disciplines. They must have the communication and interpersonal skills of a politician. They must have the racial, ethnic and cultural sensitivities of a social worker. They must deal with people in varying emotional, mental and drug states that require the skills of a psychologist. They must have the medical assessment skills of a nurse or physician in order to do address medical crises and the counseling abilities of a minister. Their multiple responsibilities involve quick assessment and problem solving while maintaining calmness and critical thinking and without allowing emotion or bias to interfere.

In Florida and most of the country, educational requirements for a psychologist are eight years, up to eight years for a nurse or doctor, four years or more to educate a social worker, four to eight years for a teacher, four years to educate an addiction professional and a correctional probation officer. In addition to bachelor's, master's or doctorate degrees, these professions require internships and certifications.

And they are only learning one profession.

We ask our police force to incorporate all of these disciplines and more and how much education do we require from them in Florida and throughout most of the country?

A high school diploma, and if they attend the police academy, 22 weeks of training or 770 hours.

We wouldn't accept our teachers, nurses, doctors, social workers and psychologists with a high school diploma and 22 weeks of training. Why do we accept this as adequate training for our police force? Why aren't we providing them all of the tools that they need to function optimally for our protection?

Could it be that one of the causes of the violence we see among some police against a victim is a result of the inability to know how to handle certain stressful situations? Isaac Asimov wrote that "Violence is the last refuge of the incompetent."

Could it be that the violence we witness at the hands of some police is the result of incompetence due to inadequate education? Rather than defunding, why not think in terms of increased educational requirements to improve competence to perform the exceptional job we ask of

Get code enforcement out here

My wife and I have lived in Citrus Springs for over 30 years. We keep a beautiful home and work hard every day to do that. We have noticed a lot of houses in Citrus Springs have really gone down the tubes. Where is code enforcement? There are broken-down cars. ... One of them doesn't even have a hood on it and the motor's exposed and the grass is growing around it. Why doesn't code enforcement send these people a letter to code them on all these homes? ... I'm responding to Sound Off (about the Saturday, Aug. 22, 2020, Page A3, Around the State brief), "Beverly Hills Advisory Council seeks applicants." ... It says, "The purpose of the board is to provide street lighting and landscaping services for the Beverly Hills area." Really? Well, there's enough streetlights. I don't know what you're going to do with streetlights or how you're going to install the streetlights. Landscaping, you hire a company from. My main concern, living within a certain part of Beverly Hills, would be controlling the drugs and getting the drugs dealers out of there and making a better community. That would be my No. 1 priority. But street (lighting)? That's pathetic.

Rude person cut me off

I have a complaint tonight about a very rude individual in a Kia Sorento, grey, in the drive-thru window at Wendy's in Crystal River. And I can be very rude and give out her license plate number, but that wouldn't be very kind on my part, but she'll know who she is. She cut me off in the takeout line. Were you that hungry? Well, listen to me, sweetheart: I did nine hours of work. So, trust me, I was more hungry than you were and I didn't appreciate you cutting me off the way you did, considering there was four people in front of us. I don't care if you print this or if you don't print it. It's the Sound Off line, so it gave me a chance to get it off my chest. For the past 10 years, that's been the mission of the Mended Hearts program at Citrus Memorial Hospital.

"I don't look like someone who has died six times – I was on life support at CMH," said Pattie Schott, Mended Hearts visitors chairwoman. "So for me to come in and see someone who has just had openheart surgery and say, 'Look at me — you're going to get better, too,' they brighten up and their family is so grateful to see someone who's alive."

For 10 years, the Mended Hearts volunteers were able to go in and out of the hospital visiting people on the post-surgical floor, talking to them, answering their questions, letting them know that what they're experiencing is normal, being in-the-flesh models of hope — and then the coronavirus pandemic brought everything to a screeching halt.

"Once the hospitals banned visitors, we nurses are great and so last year — my cardiolocouldn't do what we normally do," said Gail and they tell the patients chips and I love my cardi-Granger, Mended Hearts president.

Driver stabbed in German town, police probe motive

BERLIN - An assailant stabbed the driver of a car in western Germany early Sunday and investigators weren't ruling out an Islamic extremist motive for the attack, police said. Two men, including the suspect, were arrested.

Shortly after midnight, the attacker opened the door of a car that was driving slowly through Stolberg, near Aachen and close to the Belgian border, police said on Twitter. He stabbed the driver, who sustained wounds to the arm and later underwent an operation. Police said the injuries weren't life-threatening.

They said police in the regional hub of Cologne took over the case "because an Islamist background cannot be ruled out."

West Coast blazes continue to devastate

LINDSAY WHITEHURST AND ANDREW SELSKY Associated Press

SALEM, Ore. — Nearly all of the dozens of people reported missing after a devastating blaze in southern Oregon have been accounted for, authorities said, as crews continued to battle wildfires that have killed at least 33 victims from California to Washington state.

The flames have destroyed neighborhoods, leaving a barren, gray landscape in their wake, driven tens of thousands of people from their homes and cast a shroud of smoke over the region.

The crisis has come amid the coronavirus outbreak, the economic downturn and nationwide racial unrest that has led to protests in Portland for more than 100 days.

"What's next?" asked Danielle Oliver, who had to flee her home outside Portland. "You have the protests, coronavirus pandemic, now the wildfires. What else can go wrong?

Late Saturday, the Jackson County Sheriff's office said that four people had died in the wildfire that burned in the Ashland area. Authorities earlier this week said as many as 50 people could be missing from the blaze. But they said the number of people unaccounted for is now down to one.

At least 10 people have been killed in the past week throughout Oregon. Officials have said more people are missing from other blazes, and the number of fatalities is likely to rise. Twenty-two people have died in California, and one person has been killed in Washington state.

The dry, windy conditions that fed the flames in Oregon were probably a once-in-a-generation event, said Greg Jones, a professor and research climatologist at Linfield University in McMinnville. The

Cubs' Mills throws no-hitter MLB's 2nd no-no of season

RICH ROVITO Associated Press

MILWAUKEE - From college walk-on to major league starter, Chicago Cubs righthander Alec Mills had to earn most every break he got.

On the brink of big league history, he was happy to welcome this bit of luck: expecting to see two-time batting champion Christian Yelich in the on-deck circle, Mills looked over and saw his backup instead.

"That kind of surprised me," he said.

This one surprised just about everyone.

Mills cruised through baseball's second no-hitter this season in just the 15th start of his career, completing the gem in a 12-0 romp over the Milwaukee Brewers on Sunday.

Mills got Jace Peterson who replaced Yelich, the 2018 NL MVP, on defense late in the blowout — to hit a routine grounder to shortstop Javier Baez with two outs in the ninth. Baez completed the play, and the Cubs swarmed around Mills, tearing off his cap and pulling at the smiling right-hander's uniform after his first career complete game.

"It just hasn't really hit me yet," the 28-year-old said. "It's kind of crazy, I didn't even know how to celebrate. Just something that all came together today. Obviously a memory I'll have forever."

Mills (5-3) threw 114 pitches and hardly had any close calls in Chicago's 16th no-hitter. Avisail Garcia almost got to him twice, hitting a line drive to right in the first and nearly legging out an infield hit to shortstop in the sixth. Garcia crossed first and immediately called to the Brewers dugout for a review, but after a very brief stoppage, the Brewers opted not to challenge.

Mills would have faced Garcia again in the ninth, but Milwaukee manager Craig Counsell pulled the 2017 All-Star along with Yelich in the eighth with his team trailing big. Mills struck out Garcia's replacement, Tyrone Taylor, for the second out in the ninth.

"Taylor hitting there and then Peterson, I had no idea they were in the game," Mills

Mills struck out five and walked three. His five strikeouts are the fewest in a Cubs no-hitter since Ken Holtzman in 1969. He only induced five swings and misses, tied with Oakland's Dallas Braden during his perfect game in 2010 for fewest in a no-hitter since at least 1988, per Stats Inc.

"I can promise you it was not a slow heartbeat," Mills said. "I had to kind of take a seat and calm myself down. It was tough. I had to take a lot of deep breaths and get into a good mindset."

"I'd probably say I played awful," Brees said. "Certainly, we are used to playing at a much higher level offensively and especially in the passing game. So, we'll get that back on track."

Still, Brees found satisfaction in beating Brady's Bucs.

90-something percent winner in and so many great moments, historic moments."

Few witnessed this latest bit of history in person, with government leaders and the Saints having agreed that no fans should attend the opener amid the coronavirus pandemic.

That turned the normally deafening 73,000-seat Superdome into more of an echo chamber. When Wil Lutz's field goal put New Orleans up 17-7, the squeaking of pulleys could be heard across the stadium as the net behind the goal post was lowered.

It sort of felt like we were at a Tampa Bay game," Saints defensive end Cameron Jordan

Brady compared the environment to "a scrimmage."

"But obviously, it counts," he added. "We've got to look each other in the eye and all work it's unique and I'd be lying to harder, put more urgency on the Tight end Jared Cook caught five passes for 80 yards for New Orleans, highlighted by a 46-yard reception down the left side that set up Sanders' TD.

Dominic Thiem, of Austria, holds up the championship trophy after defeating Alexander Zverev, of Germany, in the men's singles final of the US Open, Sunday, Sept. 13, 2020, in New York.

Thiem battles back in final

1st since 1949 to win after ceding 1st 2 sets

HOWARD FENDRICH AP tennis writer

NEW YORK — A U.S. Open unlike any other finished unlike any other with an unprecedented fifth-set tiebreaker as Dominic Thiem became the first man in 71 years to win the tournament final after dropping the opening two sets.

So close to defeat in a nearly empty Arthur Ashe Stadium — fans were banned because of the coronavirus pandemic — Thiem slowly but surely turned things around against a faltering Alexander Zverev and surged to a 2-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 7-6 (6) victory at Flushing Meadows to earn his first Grand Slam title.

When a backhand from Zverev landed wide on the third championship point, a weary Thiem dropped to his back way behind the baseline and covered his face with his hands. When he arose, he was met by Zverev, who walked around the net to clasp hands, then embrace his friend and foe, two sights rarely seen in this era of social distancing.

Thiem then rested his head on the shoulder of the taller Zverev, a 23-year-old from Germany who himself came within two points of what would have been his first major triumph.

"I wish we could have two winners today," Thiem said. "I think we both deserved it."

The 27-year-old from Austria is the first man to win the American Grand Slam tournament after trailing 2-0 in sets in the final since Pancho Gonzalez did it against Ted Schroeder in 1949 at an event then known as the U.S. Championships and held in Forest Hills.

The event never had been settled by a fifth-set tiebreaker; no major tournament ever had until Novak Djokovic edged Roger Federer that way at Wimbledon

"I wish you would have missed a little bit more so I could have held that trophy up," Zverev said, choking up when he mentioned his parents. "but here I am, giving the runner's-up speech.'

Because of the COVID-19 outbreak, Wimbledon was canceled for the first time since World War II, while the French Open was postponed from its originally scheduled May start and now will begin in two weeks.

Lightning go up 3-1 on Islanders

STEPHEN WHYNO AP hockey writer

EDMONTON, Alberta While the New York Islanders were celebrating Brock Nelson scoring the first goal of the game, Tampa Bay Lightning center Yanni Gourde was steaming about giving it up. Coach Jon Cooper decided to keep him on the ice for some redemption.

"I'm not really happy out there after that goal," Gourde said. "I'm like, 'Let's go back out there and try to have an O-zone shift where we can actually get momentum back.""

They did more than that. Gourde set up Blake Coleman to tie it 15 seconds after Nelson's goal, Ondrej Palat added another 12 seconds later and the quickstrike Lightning moved within a victory of the Stanley Cup Final with a 4-1 victory Sunday in Game 4 of the Eastern Conference Final.

"Getting scored on doesn't sit real well, but credit to Coop keeping us out there, giving us a shot to go get it back," Coleman said. "Any time you can respond quickly in a game, it's going to swing the momentum right back. Then obviously our big boys took over from there.'

Tampa Bay Lightning center Brayden Point (21) celebrates his goal against New York Islanders goalie Semyon Varlamov (40) during the third period of an NHL Eastern Conference final playoff game in Edmonton, Alberta, on Sunday, Sept. 13, 2020.

Those big boys were the Light- every minute of every Lightning ning's best players. Brayden Point scored in his return after missing Game 3 before leaving in the third with injury, fellow top liners Palat and Nikita Kucherov set him up for that goal, defenseman Victor Hedman played 29:12 and goaltender Andrei Vasilevskiy made 26 saves.

That combination has Tampa Bay the verge of its first Cup Final appearance since 2015.

"All the guys are pretty excited to play for the big prize, but we have business to do here," said Vasilevskiy, who has played bit, it's a different game.'

game this postseason. "We have to win the fourth one first. The Lightning won their third game of the series during the furious 27-second stretch with three goals. That's also where the Islanders lost it "You want to follow up a goal with a good shift and have a good response and kind of stay on it, and they had a better response than we did and got two quick ones," Nelson said. "That was the difference: really 30 seconds there. If you hang on there for a

8 sacks, rallies for win over Eagles

LANDOVER, Md. — Peyton Barber ran for two touchdowns and Dwayne Haskins rallied Washington from a 17-point deficit to beat the Philadelphia Eagles 27-17 in coach Ron Rivera's debut.

After falling behind 17-0 following a pair of touchdown passes by Carson Wentz, Washington relied on a punishing defense and opportunistic offense in its first game since owner Dan Snyder finally agreed to change the team's name and former employees alleged sexual harassment.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Nuggets do it again, taking Clippers to Game 7

LAKE BUENA VISTA - The never-savdie Nuggets pulled off another season-saving comeback — and, after rallying from 19 points down with 22 minutes remaining, they'll see the Los Angeles Clippers in Game 7 on Tuesday night for a berth in the Western Conference finals.

Nikola Jokic had 34 points, 14 rebounds and seven assists, and the Nuggets topped the Clippers 111-98 on Sunday to even their West semifinal series at three games apiece.

D'Antoni tells Rockets he's not coming back

LAKE BUENA VISTA - Mike D'Antoni has told the Houston Rockets that he will not be back as coach with them next season, essentially choosing free agency over a return to the club with whom he has spent the last four seasons.

D'Antoni told the Rockets on Sunday not even a full day after the team's season ended with a playoff loss to the Los Angeles Lakers — that he would seek coaching options elsewhere for next season and not return to Houston. Team owner Tilman Fertitta confirmed the move later Sunday.

ESPN first reported the 69-year-old coach's decision.

Bernal's bad day sets up battle in Tour de France

GRAND COLOMBIER, France — The Tour de France boiled down to a battle between its two star Slovenian riders Sunday as last year's winner Egan Bernal dropped out of realistic contention.

Tadei Pogacar beat vellow jersevholder Primoz Roglic in a dramatic mountaintop finish to Stage 15, though Roglic retains a 40-second advantage in the yellow jersey.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Level: Intermediate

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

four? What should North respond after his partner has opened one no-trump?

To answer that question first, North should raise straight to three no-trump.

It is unlikely that three no-trump will fail and five clubs will succeed. Even if you employ transfers into a minor, reserve them for hands that are weak; or slam-going; or at least game-going with a major-suit singleton (or void), which you show on round two.

At a Bridge Base Online duplicate, several Wests led a low spade, which gave South an easy 10 tricks.

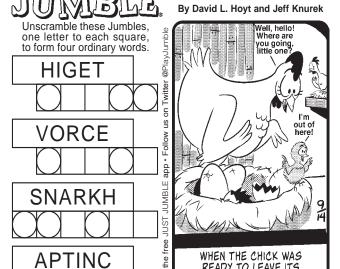

The diamond start was usually much more successful.

However, at two tables, after a diamond to the king and the diamond three back, when West cashed his second diamond honor, the Easts threw the nine. Then West took the last diamond trick with his seven. West wondered why he was still on lead. Surely the answer had to be because East held the spade king, so both Wests shifted to that suit. Since East had an ace, he should have kept his diamond nine for the fourth round of the suit and cashed his heart ace to defeat the contract.

Annie offers advice

ear Annie: I have a friend who is of Pentecostal faith while I'm of Catholic faith. She monopolizes the conversation on her religion and doesn't allow me to talk. I hate being preached to, and she has nothing else that interests her but reading her Bible and preaching.

She complains that no one calls her or visits her. It has been nine vears since she lost her b e s t friend, mother a n d brother, who was also her boss, which meant she lost her job as within a three-month period. She keeps bringing this up every time we talk. I suggested that she might be severely depressed and should consider getting professional help. She replied that she is not depressed and, if she were, she can't afford it.

Having been a care provider, I see that she is having issues iust doing the day-to-day duties and suggested she might find an assisted care facility that would help her. She claims to either have too much money for that or not enough money for that. She is going downhill but doesn't want help, won't move and complains that no one comes to see her. I suggested that she hold Bible study at her house, but she said she can't do it. I offer to bring her devotional readings, puzzles and a few other things to keep her busy, but she refuses it.

She was on the phone with me yesterday for 2.5 hours, preaching to me 99% of the time. She is not open to change, and I don't want to be in contact with her, for I'm physically drained after we talk. She knows nothing about what's going on in my life, and doesn't care. What do you suggest I do? — Exhausted and Worried Friend

Dear Exhausted and Worried Friend: First things first: You must set boundaries with her. Two and a half hours of being preached at over the phone is way too much. It is not healthy for either of you. Conversation and friendship should be a two-way street. It sounds like your friend is depressed or has some type of mental decline, given that she is having trouble with day-today activities. You are right to be concerned and try to get her help. If she won't listen to you, perhaps you could reach out to one of her family members and express your concerns.

In the end, she has to want help. I know she is rejecting your efforts now, but once you get firm with her on your own boundaries, she might miss you as a friend and be more inclined to take you up on the puzzles or devotional readings. Dear Annie: Please tell Still Hurting and all your readers who are suffering emotional pain from child abuse, or any kind of abuse, that a therapist with Internal Family Systems training can coach them through the trauma to a happier place. I had a great deal of success with it.

Thank you for your compassionate caring! - Feeling Better

Dear Feeling Better: Thank you for your letter. I commend you for trying therapy and finding your happier place.

La.-Lafayette leads 10 new teams in poll the very top: Preseason ranked No. 23 and are the No. 1 Clemson received 60 of 61 first place-votes this week.

After all Division I teams were eligible to be voted on for the preseason Top 25, the panel of 61 voters was permitted to consider only the 60%of Football Bowl Subdivision teams scheduled to play in the fall now that the season has started.

That meant preseason No. 2 Ohio State, No. 7 Penn State and No. 9 Oregon, along with six other Big Ten and Pac-12 teams, dropped out of the rankings. The Big Ten, Pac-12, Mid-American Conference and Mountain West have delayed their seasons due to concerns about playing amid the coronavirus pandemic, but the Big Ten is taking some steps toward a possible mid-October start.

With those teams gone, Alabama moved up to No. 2. Oklahoma is No. 3, followed by No. 4 Georgia and No. 5 Florida. Defending champion LSU, with one first-place vote, is No. 6.

Lee wins stunner in playoff

Associated Press

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. -Mirim Lee ran toward the water for the winner's leap into Poppie's Pond, and there was no blue wall to stop her.

How she even got to that point as the ANA Inspiration champion was shocking even to Lee.

She chipped in twice to stay in the hunt for a major title that for the longest time looked as though it would come down to Nelly Korda or Brooke Henderson. And then after a 5-wood that caromed off a temporary blue wall behind the 18th green and kept it from going in the water, Lee chipped for eagle and a 5-under

That got her into a three-way playoff, and Lee ended it quickly.

She hit 5-wood just through the green — no help needed from the wall on that one — chipped to 5 feet and made the birdie putt. Korda missed the 18th fairway for the second time and made par, while Henderson's 7-foot birdie putt in the playoff stayed left of the hole.

"I must be a little crazy for winning," Lee said through a translator.

Asked on television off the 18th green if she was in disbelief. Lee was too busy wiping away tears to answer, so the translator finally offered, "Yes."

So was everyone.

Korda, the 22-year-old American going for her first major, had a twoshot lead with four holes to play and didn't have a good look at birdie the rest of the day and shot 69. Henderson, at 23 already with more LPGA victories (9) than any Canadian, also used the wall as a backstop to set up a birdie on the 18th to rally from a double bogey and join the playoff.

Lee never looked like a winner until she calmly poured in the birdie putt in the playoff, the first major championship for the 29-year-old South Korean ranked No. 94 in the

It was another wild finish in the LPGA major that moved from the first weekend of April to the African George Coetzee shot a 5-under 100-degree heat of September, and $\,$ 66 to win the Portugal Masters by two no one was more surprised than Lee.

"I think I had a bit of luck that helped me," she said.

Jimenez wins Champions event in South Dakota

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. — Miguel Angel Jimenez completed a wire-to-wire victory in the Sanford International, the PGA Tour Champions' first event with fans since returning from a break for the coronavirus pandemic.

How to Avoid a Fake Check Scam

INSIST ON CASH

Don't accept a check for more than the selling price. You · Inform the Buyer that you'll wait two weeks before sending any merchandise.

 Never use money from a check to send gift cards, money orders, or wire money to strangers or someone you just met. Many scammers demand that you send money through money transfer services like Western Union or MoneyGram, or buy gift cards and send them the PIN numbers. Once you wire money, or give someone the gift card PINs, it is like giving someone cash. It's almost impossible to get it back.

 Toss offers that ask you to pay for a prize. If it's free, you shouldn't have to pay to get it.
