Biden administration imposing sweeping vaccine mandates affecting 100 million Americans

President Joe Biden

ZEKE MILLER Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In his most forceful pandemic actions and words, President Joe Biden on Thursday ordered sweeping new federal vaccine requirements for as many as 100 million Americans in an all-out effort to increase COVID-19 vaccinations and curb the surging delta variant.

Speaking at the White House, Biden sharply criticized the tens of millions of Americans who are not yet vaccinated, despite months of availability and incentives.

"We've been patient. But our patience is wearing thin, and your refusal has cost all of us," he said, all but biting off his words. The unvaccinated minority "can cause a lot of damage, and they are."

Republican leaders and some union chiefs, too - said Biden was going too far in trying to muscle private companies and workers, a certain sign of legal challenges to come.

Gov. Henry McMaster of South Carolina said in a statement that "Biden and the radical Democrats (have) thumbed their noses at the Constitution," while American Federation of Government Employees National President Everett Kelley insisted that "changes like this should be negotiated with our bargaining units where appropriate.'

NEWS BRIEF

Deputies seeking info in suspicious death

The Citrus County Sheriff's Office is investigating a suspicious death after being called to a vehicle wreck in the early morning hours of Thursday, Sept. 9, according to a CCSO news release issued Thursday afternoon.

Deputies responded to the reported vehicle accident off North Alabaster Drive and East Dearborn Drive in Hernando. Upon arrival, the sheriff's office said in a news release, deputies found a white pickup truck in the woods with an unconscious, Black male inside who appeared to have heavy trauma and injuries from the crash.

As deputies attempted to render first aid to the male, they noticed that his trauma was not consistent with a vehicle accident. Instead, the report stated, they determined his injuries to be from a possible gunshot wound.

Additional first responders from Citrus County Fire Rescue arrived on scene and pronounced the individual deceased. An official cause of death is pending, per the Medical Examiner's Office autopsy, the release stated.

The sheriff's office did not release the name of the victim, pending nextof-kin notification, said CCSO spokeswoman Brittney Carman.

Detectives from our Major Crimes Unit are investigating this suspicious death as a possible homicide. From the preliminary information and evidence gathered at the scene, authorities believe this to be an isolated incident.

The investigation into this case remains active and no additional details are unavailable at this

Anyone with information regarding this incident is asked to call the Citrus County Sheriff's Office at 352-249-2790, or to remain anonymous please call Citrus County Crime Stoppers at 1-888-ANY-TIPS.

Carlos Hallowell listens to Assistant Public Defender Ed Spaight Thursday, Sept. 9, as the lawyer objects to a piece of evidence presented by the prosecution. Hallowell, who was convicted of murdering his mother while a teenager, is in the process of being sentenced by Circuit Court Judge Richard "Ric" Howard for the crime.

Carlos Hallowell called a friend of his three weeks after a jury convicted him of plunging an axe into Denise Hallowell's head.

He said he was ready to stay alive in prison, like he's done at the Citrus County jail after his arrest a few months after killing his 57-year-old adoptive mother July 13, inside Inverness-area home.

"Of course I'm going to

Citrus County Circuit Judge Richard "Ric" Howard could sentence the 19-year-old to spend the rest of his life incarcerated for Denise Hallowell's first-degree murder, which jurors found Hallowell guilty of July 9 after his three-day trial.

Hallowell is not eligible for the death penalty because he was a 17-yearold minor during the offense. Howard has to sentence Hallowell to at least 40 years in prison, but the judge has to consider a number of factors focused on Hallowell's mentality to determine if a life sentence is warranted.

Program offers assistance to renters

It's been more than a year since COVID-19 hit America, but many residents are past due on rent payments and utilities bills. In order to fully recover, some Floridians need additional assistance to get back on track with their rent and utility bills.

There is a program to help recover. OUR Florida - which stands for Opportunities for Utilities and Rental assistance — provides relief to renters who are behind or at risk of falling behind on payments. The program will give relief to residents and businesses, empowering them to fully recover and rebound.

OUR Florida aims to help Florida families remain safely in their rented homes while pursuing pathways to economic self-sufficiency. OUR Florida also supports property owners with relief for lost rental income to support their continued recovery.

The program is funded by federal dollars for emergency rental assistance and administered by the Florida Department of Children and Families. Eligible Floridians can apply now online at OURFlorida.com. The online portal is the most efficient way for applicants to supply documentation, receive verification and obtain relief.

For applicants who qualify, the payments will be made directly to the business, landlord or utility. Qualified applicants may receive up to 15 months of rent payments. This includes 12 months of pastdue rent and utilities, and three potential months of forward-looking rent payments.

Visit OURFlorida.com to check your eligibility and start your application.

A true team effort

New Florida motorcycle license plate honors Purple Heart recipients

n a recent Friday morning, members of the local chapter of the Military Order of the Purple Heart picked up Glenn Beaulieu's new motorcycle license plate for him at the Citrus County Tax Collector's Office in Crystal River. But this was no routine errand.

The plate is the first motorcycle Purple Heart license plate the office issued. And Beaulieu is the veteran responsible for the creation of the plate.

Beaulieu's colleagues are mailing the plate, 1 PVT, to Beaulieu's summer home in Calais, Maine, near the Canadian border. Beaulieu, a permanent resident of Homosassa, considers himself a reverse snowbird. True, he heads north for cool summers, but Florida is his home now.

A native of Maine who spent much of his adult life working in Connecticut, Beaulieu served in Vietnam as an E-4 in the Army's 101st Airborne Division and was responsible for a squad of soldiers.

He was scheduled to return to the United States in October 1969, but in September, he set off a tripwire that triggered an explosion and Beaulieu's right arm was ripped apart. Another soldier also was wounded.

"It took me out of the jungle and to a hospital and eventually home," Beaulieu said. It would take several more years or rehabilitation before he could use his

He received a Purple Heart for being wounded in combat. And he's proud of that. But he discovered that although he had a Purple Heart specialty license plate for his four-wheeled vehicle, there were no specialty license plates for motorcycles in Florida. And he wanted one.

The effort begins

So. Beaulieu got busy. Starting in February 2016, he contacted everyone he could think of to try to help him get a Purple Heart license plate for his motorcycle. Among the people he contacted was Curt Ebitz, adjutant with the Aaron A. Weaver Chapter 776 Military Order of the Purple Heart, a group based in Lecanto, of which Beaulieu is a member.

Ebitz said about Beaulieu, "Most people would give up, but he never did. He was persistent. Our chapter got involved when he ran into obstacles. And we were able to weigh in by contacting people we knew in state government and in the Florida Department of Veterans Affairs."

Beaulieu first started working with

Glenn Beaulieu will put his new license plate on his Harley-Davidson Road Glide 2008. His dog, Abby, is his constant companion, he former state Rep. Jimmie T. Smith, who was succeeded by state Rep. Dr. Ralph Massullo, R-Lecanto.

After many stops and starts, Massullo successfully shepherded through the state Legislature a bill authorizing specialty license plates for motorcycles, as well as many other items. State Sen. Wilton Simpson, a Republican who also represents Citrus County, was instrumental,

Gov. Rick DeSantis signed the bill in October, and it's taken this long for the Purple Heart plates to be manufactured and distributed to such outlets as the Citrus County Tax Collector's Office.

Massullo said recognizing Purple Heart recipients with a specialty motorcycle plate is a worthy effort because many veterans ride motorcycles in Florida and many have been injured in combat.

He said of veterans who receive a Purple Heart, "There is no greater sacrifice."

Massullo said he wasn't surprised there previously had been no specialty license plates for motorcycles, because the state is trying to rein in the number of specialty plates. Some are difficult for electronic scanners along tollways to read, and many of the specialty plates give part of the proceeds to charities. This means more staff are required to process plate applications, according to Massullo.

But he was pleased to support Beaulieu's cause.

Beaulieu said the bill also authorized specialty motorcycle license plates for veterans and female veterans, as well as a specialty auto license plate for recipients of the Bronze Star.

He said one of the most important things is to "express my thanks to everyone who helped. They need to be recognized. This was not a one-person endeavor."

Purple Heart recognition

However, Ebitz, of the local Purple Heart Chapter, sees things a bit differently.

Ebitz, himself, received two Purple Hearts during the Vietnam War.

In 2004, upon his return from a veteran's meeting in Tallahassee, Ebitz said he decided to found the local Purple Heart chapter, which has about 130 members on its roster, of which about 90 are local.

Former Florida Gov. Jeb Bush had appointed Ebitz to the state's Veterans Affairs Commission. Ebitz had arisen early one morning to drive to the state capital for a reception the legislators were hosting for veterans organizations.

On his drive back to Citrus County, Ebitz said he was getting groggy and stopped for a quick cup of coffee. A young woman behind the register noticed the tie he was wearing, upon which there was an image of a Purple Heart.

She inquired what was on his tie. He said it was a Purple Heart and explained what it meant.

She said she never had seen one before, and then she started crying.

She explained that she thought her grandfather had had one, but he had passed away six months previously, and she had never known what a Purple Heart award is and never had had a chance to ask her grandfather about it.

It was then that Ebitz knew he needed to found a local Purple Heart chapter. But like Beaulieu, Ebitz is modest about his Purple Heart awards. He said most of the members of the chapter "don't talk much about it.'

"Glenn is a very humble person," Ebitz said. "His view is that this is not his success; it's the chapter's success." But Ebitz said the chapter didn't do nearly as much work as Beaulieu did.

Mostly, "The whole effort was on his part," Ebitz said. But then, Ebitz paused and amended his statement.

"It's the effort of every wounded combat veteran," Ebitz said. "It should be shared.'

Judge Judy returning to TV in November. with granddaughter

NEW YORK — Judge Judy Sheindlin is returning to television on Nov. 1 with a new red robe, a granddaughter in tow and the challenge of competing with herself.

She announced on Thursday the start date and name of her new show, "Judy Justice," which will be available weekdays on the little-known IMDb TV, a free streaming service offered by Amazon.

Sheindlin, 79, moved to the new show when her syndication deal with CBS Media Ventures ended with some acrimony after 25 years. For more than a decade, "Judge Judy" has been syndication's most popular show with the tart-talking New Yorker arbitrating small claims cases.

CBS promptly cut a deal to keep "Judge Judy" reruns on the

The CMA Awards will air on Nov. 10 on ABC.

Gabby Barrett had another good year with the success of the No. 1 hit country song, "The Good Ones" and she earned four nominations for female artist of the year, new artist, single and song of the year.

Disgraced country star Morgan Wallen, who was caught

The CMA Board of Directors announced earlier that Wallen would be disqualified for individual awards, but he would be eligible for awards that honor an artistic work. Wallen's "Dangerous: The Double Album" spent 10 consecutive weeks on the top of the all-genre Billboard 200 chart, making it one of the best selling albums of 2021.

Carly Pearce is the lone female artist in the album category with her record "29." The first part of Church's trilogy called "Heart" was nominated in album category and "Skeletons" by Brothers Osborne also earned an album nod.

On the other hand, there were strong words of praise for Biden's efforts to get the nation vaccinated from the American Medical Association, the National Association of Manufacturers and the Business Roundtable — though no direct mention of his mandate for private companies.

The expansive rules mandate that all employers with more than 100 workers require them to be vaccinated or test for the virus weekly, affecting about 80 million Americans. And the roughly 17 million workers at health facilities that receive federal Medicare or Medicaid also will have to be fully vaccinated.

Biden is also requiring vaccination for employees of the executive branch and contractors who do business with the federal government — with no option to test out. That covers several million more

Biden announced the new requirements in a Thursday afternoon address from the White House as part of a new coronavirus cases and the stagnating pace of COVID-19 shots.

Just two months ago Biden prematurely declared the nation's "independence" from the virus. Now, despite more than 208 million Americans having at least one dose of the vaccines, the U.S. is seeing about 300% more new COVID-19 infections a day, about two-and-a-half times more hospitalizations, and nearly twice the number of deaths compared to the same time last year. Some 80 million people remain unvaccinated.

"We are in the tough stretch and it could last for a while," Biden said.

After months of using promotions to drive the vaccination rate, Biden is taking a much firmer hand, as he blames people who have not yet received shots for the sharp rise in cases killing more than 1,000 people per day and imperiling a fragile economic rebound.

In addition to the vaccination requirements, Biden moved to double federal fines for airline passengers who refuse to wear masks on flights or to maintain face covering requirements on federal property in accordance with Centers for Disease Control and Prevention guidelines.

He announced that the government will work to increase the supply of virus tests, and that the White House has secured concessions from retailers including Walmart, Amazon, and Kroger to sell at-home testing kits at cost beginning this week.

The administration is also sending additional federal support to assist schools in safely operating, including additional funding for testing. And Biden called for large entertainment venues and arenas to require vaccinations or proof of a negative test for entry.

mandate vaccinations or weekly testing for employees will be enacted through a forthcoming rule from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration that carries penalties of $14,000 per violation, an administration official said.

The rule will require that large companies provide paid time off for vaccination.

Meanwhile, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services will extend a vaccination requirement issued earlier this summer — for nursing home staff — to other healthcare settings including hospitals, home-health agencies and dialysis

Separately, the Department of Health and Human Services will require vaccinations in Head Start Programs, as well as schools run by the Department of Defense and Bureau of Indian Education, affecting about 300,000 employees.

Biden's order for executive branch workers and contractors includes exceptions for workers seeking religious or medical exemptions from vaccination, according to press secretary Jen Psaki. Federal workers who don't comply will be referred to their agencies' human resources departments for counseling and "action plan" to address the latest rise in discipline,to include potential termination.

An AP-NORC poll conducted in August found 55% of Americans in favor of requiring government workers to be fully vaccinated, compared with 21% opposed. Similar majorities also backed vaccine mandates for health care workers, teachers working at K-12 schools and workers who interact with the public, as at restaurants and stores.

Biden has encouraged COVID-19 vaccine requirements in settings like schools, workplaces and university campuses. On Thursday, the Los Angeles Board of Education v oted to require all students 12 and older to be fully vaccinated in the the nation's second-largest school district.

Walmart, the nation's largest private employer, said in late July it was requiring that all workers at its headquarters in Bentonville, Arkansas, as well as its managers who travel within the U.S. be vaccinated against COVID-19 by Oct. 4. But the company had stopped short of requiring shots for its frontline workers.

CVS Health said in late August it would require certain employees who interact with patients to be fully vaccinated by the end of October. That includes nurses, care managers and pharmacists.

In the government, several federal agencies have previously announced vaccine requirements for much of their staffs, particularly those in healthcare roles like the Department of Veterans Affairs, and the Pentagon moved last month to require all servicemembers to get vaccinated. Combined, the White House estimates those requirements cover 2.5 million Americans. Thursday's order is expected to impact nearly 2 million more The requirement for large companies to federal workers and potentially millions

To help Howard in his decision, prosecutors and Hallowell's public defenders began presenting evidence Thursday, Sept. 9, to either stress or lessen the aggravators of Hallowell's crime. Assistant State Attorney Blake Shore played a series of phone calls Hallowell made July 30 and Aug. 9 from the county jail, where Hallowell has resided since his 18th birthday. Hallowell spoke in July about a recent meeting he had with a psychiatrist hired by the prosecution to evaluate Hallowell for testimony his at

During his phone call from August, Hallowell said he was drunk.

Buxman inferred with his questioning Hallowcould be a sign of "criminal maturity."

Heide said Hallowell's personality stems back to trauma he suffered from due to his biological mother giving him up for adoption to Denise Hallowell when he was 4 years

Heide said Denise Hallowell's strict and excesparenting over-burdened and embarrassed Hallowell, causing him to lash out.

Hallowell told detectives he was asleep when the murder happened, but a monthslong investigation led to Hallowell's September arrest and October indictment for premeditated murder. Heide said the murder and Hallowell's hurried attempt to cover it up were impulsive because of Hallowell's premature mentality and lack of planning. "He's not thinking about whatever choices he has ... and doesn't understand the seriousness of situation," she said. "I don't think Carlos was even thinking about it." Heide said there's a chance Hallowell could be rehabilitated if there's a strong support system involved, but said his statements about his lifestyle in custody don't "bode well" for his success.

Stocks drop as investors mu

Associated Press

Stocks on Wall Street lost more ground Thursday after a small early gain faded, keeping the S&P 500 and the Nasdaq headed for their first weekly decline in three weeks.

The S&P 500 fell 0.5%, its fourth straight drop. Health care and technology companies were the biggest weights on the benchmark index, offsetting gains by banks and energy stocks.

The latest pullback came as investors continue to assess the pace of economic growth amid worries that the rapid spread of the coronavirus delta variant will dampen consumer confidence and spending.

"The economy seems to be slowing down a little bit and it's hard to know how much is temporary because of the delta variant and how much is the new normal," said Chris Zaccarelli, chief investment officer for Independent Advisor Alliance.

The S&P 500 dropped 20.79 points to 4,493.28. The index is now within 1% of the all-time high it set last Thursday. The Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 151.69 points, or 0.4%, to 34.879.38 and the Nasdag composite slid 38.38 points, or 0.3%, to 15,248.25.

Small company stocks business fared better than the dubbed the "Beige Book," broader market. The Russell 2000 index gave up 0.60 points, or less than 0.1%, to 2,249.13.

Bond yields mostly fell. The yield on the 10-year Treasury note slipped to 1.30% from 1.33% late Wednesday.

The holiday-shortened week has given investors several reports, some conflicting, to review for clues on the direction of the economy.

The Labor Department said Thursday that the number of Americans seeking unemployment benefits fell last week to 310,000. At their current pace, weekly applications for benefits are edging toward their pre-pandemic figure of roughly 225,000.

The upbeat report follows others that show the jobs market is still struggling to recover. The Labor Department's jobs survey for August was far weaker than economists expected, but the agency has also reported that employers are posting record openings.

"The big question is whether the job market will get a lot stronger toward the end of this year into next year," Zaccarelli said.

The Federal Reserve said Wednesday that its latest survey of the nation's showed U.S. economic activity "downshifted" in July and August.

The central bank said the slowdown was largely attributable to a pullback in dining out, travel and tourism in most parts of the country, reflecting concerns about the spread of the highly contagious delta variant. Fed officials have indicated they expect to dial back on stimulus measures by year's end, and Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen has warned Congress that she will run out of maneuvering room to prevent the U.S. from breaching the government's borrowing limit in October unless the debt ceiling is raised.

Biogen slid 6.7% for the biggest loss in the S&P 500 Thursday, followed by Eli Lilly, which fell 5.8%. Among tech stocks, Microsoft fell 1%. Banks and energy companies bucked the broader pullback. Wells Fargo & Co. rose 1.2%, while Marathon Oil gained 1.4%.

Traders also had their eye on some company earnings reports. Lululemon rose 10.5% after the athletic apparel seller's quarterly results came in well above analysts' expectations.

Common sense took a holiday

Common sense took a holiday. Just like smallpox and polio vaccines from days of old, the new COVID vaccines, severe disease would allay. Instead, due to social media, common sense took a holiday. And for the unvaccinated, hospital bills and funeral expenses they might possibly be forced to pay vs. getting protection of a COVID vaccine offered at no cost today. Instead, common sense took a holiday.

It is obvious and fair to say that many — not all — do not now appreciate or are unaware of the significance of these horrific attacks. Rather, some seem to be preoccupied with establishing new norms and the mindless obliteration of a variety of historically relevant mon-

Some COVID-19 statistics

I read a lot of letters to the editor about masking. To mask or not to mask, that is the question for adults and children.

For those interested, as of last Saturday, the case fatality rate of COVID-19 sat at .092% - 0.12% higher than it was last Monday. Last Monday, the CDC reported that there has been a case-fatality rate drop. The moving-average case fatality rate in the US was 0.8%, with the seven-day-averageper-million of 453 cases and 3.1 deaths. These numbers are important. Keep in mind, the case fatality rate is for all individuals who test positive for COVID-19.

That being said, statistics don't show the impact on the families and friends whose loved ones passed away due to COVID-19 or from comorbidities from contracting the virus. How many fatalities occurred among people who wore masks versus those who didn't? Unfortunately, we don't have those statistics. It would be helpful to know to resolve the masking question. We do know people who didn't get vaccinated are more susceptible to getting COVID-19 than those who are vaccinated. More work is needed.

Here's an important number: 385. According to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention data as of last Wednesday (Aug. 25), that's the number of confirmed COVID-19 fatalities in the U.S. involving individuals between the ages of 0-17 since the start of the pandemic. That represents 0.006% of all COVID-19 deaths. These are official CDC numbers.

A concern for parents can be the long-term developmental and mental health side effects their children might suffer by wearing masks in school despite the low risk of contracting the disease and dying from it. Earlier this month, our country's COVID czar, Dr. Anthony Fauci, said "hopefully, this will be a temporary thing (developmental and mental health side effects), temporary enough that it doesn't have any lasting negative impact on them," as reported in the National Review.

Perhaps one way to avoid finding out if the effects of wearing a mask won't "have a lasting negatives impact" on children is by not imposing mask mandates where there's demonstrably no need.

Development not right for area

This in regards to the previous letter to the editor I submitted concerning the proposed change of ordinance to two properties of approximately 118 acres adjacent to an existing salvage yard, specifically 4368 and 4374 W. Norvell Bryant Highway, from low density residential to auto/salvage yard. These properties are just west of the YMCA. According to an email I received from Joanne L. Coutu, the Planning and Development Commission will be addressing this project on Sept. 16 at 9 a.m. in the Lecanto Government Building, Room 166, 3600 W. Sovereign Path, Lecanto. The Board of County Commissioners has not yet scheduled a hearing. Ms. Coutu wrote that my email would be included in the proposed packet for CPA/ AA/PUD-21-11 Stillwell for Damron Family Trust. I would encourage as many emails as possible be sent to the BOCC showing a stand against this type of development in this area before this proposal gets past the Planning and Development Commission.

Feds sue Texas over abortion law

BALSAMO AND PAUL WEBER Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas — The Justice Department on Thursday sued Texas over a new state law that bans most abortions, arguing that it was enacted "in open defiance of the Constitution."

The lawsuit, filed in fedfederal judge to declare that the law is invalid, "to enjoin its enforcement, and to protect the rights that Texas has violated."

"The act is clearly unconstitutional under long-standing Supreme Court precedent," Attorney General Merrick Garland said at a news conference announcing the suit.

The Justice Department argues the law unlawfully infringes on the constitutional rights of women and violates the Supremacy Clause of the Constitution, which says federal law supersedes state law. Federal officials are also concerned other states could enact similar laws that would "deprive their citizens of their constitutional rights," he said. "It is settled constitutional law that 'a State may not prohibit any ultimate decision to terminate her pregnancy before viability," the lawsuit reads. "But Texas has done just that."

the White House — President Joe Biden has said the law is "almost un-American" — but also from Democrats in Congress, who wanted Garland to take action. Earlier this week, Garland vowed the Justice Department would step in to enforce a federal law known as the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances Act.

That law, commonly eral court in Texas, asks a known as the FACE Act, normally prohibits physically obstructing access to abortion clinics by blocking entrances or threatening to use force to intimidate or interfere with someone. It also prohibits damaging property at abortion clinics and other reproductive health centers.

The lawsuit filed on Thursday seeks an immediate injunction to prohibit enforcing the law in Texas. Under the statute, someone could bring a lawsuit — even if they have no connection to the woman getting an abortion and could be entitled to at least $10,000 in damages if they prevail in court.

'The statute deputizes all private citizens, without any showing of personal connection or injury, to serve as bounty hunters authorized to recover at least $10,000 per claim from individuals who fawoman from making the cilitate a woman's exercise of her constitutional rights," Garland said. LA to require vaccine for all students 12 and up

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles board of education voted Thursday to require students 12 and older to be vaccinated against the coronavirus to attend in-person classes in the nation's second-largest school district.

The move makes Los Angeles by far the largest of a very small number of districts with a vaccine requirement. Nearby Culver City imposed a similar policy last month for its 7,000 students.

The Los Angeles Unified School District, which has more than 600,000 mostly Latino students, already tests all students and employees every week, requires masking indoors and outdoors and has ordered employees to be vaccinated. Under the vaccination plan, students 12 and up who participate in sports and other extracurricular activities need to get their twoshot sequence completed by the end of October. Others have until Dec. 19.

"It is easy to wait for someone to tell us what to do. LA Unified is leading because we must. Our communities cannot wait," Mónica García, a board member, said before the overwhelming vote in favor of the move.

Ky. lawmakers scrap school mask mandate

FRANKFORT, Ky. - Kentucky lawmakers, many not wearing masks, voted Thursday to scrap a statewide mask mandate in public schools and shifted masking decisions to local school boards, acting in a special session as the state's worst COVID-19 surge threatens to overwhelm hospitals. The GOP-dominated legislature set education policies in response to disruptions caused by the virus, which has forced dozens of districts to close classrooms. The masking mandate sparked emotional debate on the third day of the special session called by the Democratic governor to address the pandemic.

Portraits of heroes

Chalk artist Erica LuBer, from Allentown, Pa., works on a chalk portrait of Colleen Fraser, from Elizabeth, N.J., who was one of the 40 passengers and crew who perished on Flight 93, outside the Flight 93 National Memorial on Thursday, Sept. 9, in Shanksville, Pa., as the nation prepares to mark the 20th anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks on Saturday. A group of 11 chalk artists from around the country worked on the forty portraits for two days outside the Flight 93 National Memorial.

The bill now goes to Gov. Andy Beshear, who previously issued statewide mask mandates to slow the spread of COVID-19 and recently said he thought another mask order was needed to confront the current surge. Republicans have enough votes to override any Beshear veto.

The special session marked a power shift in the state's response to the virus. Throughout the pandemic, Beshear acted unilaterally in setting statewide virus policies. Republicans criticized him for what they branded as overly broad and stringent restrictions.

The special session also comes as Kentucky's hospitals struggle with a record influx of virus cases. Beshear warned Thursday that only 90 adult intensive care beds were available statewide the lowest number of the pandemic. He noted nearly two-thirds of Kentucky's hospitals face critical staffing shortages, and more than 300 Kentucky National Guard members will be headed to 21 hospitals to assist overworked health care workers.

FDA delays decision on e-cigarettes

WASHINGTON — Federal health officials on Thursday delayed a high-stakes decision on whether to permit bestselling vaping brand Juul to stay on the market, while banning the sale of thousands of other electronic cigarettes.

The Food and Drug Administration said it rejected applications for nearly 950,000 e-cigarettes and related products, mainly due to their potential appeal to underage teens. Some of the products are currently being sold while many others were only proposed by manufacturers. But the agency didn't rule on Juul, the most popular brand with adult smokers and many teens.

Mindy dumps rain on SC and GA coast

VALDOSTA, Ga. — Tropical depression Mindy dumped rain along the Georgia and South Carolina seacoasts Thursday during a trek across land before moving well out over the Atlantic Ocean.

Mindy was a brief-lived tropical storm that had formed Wednesday in the northeastern Gulf of Mexico. The storm made landfall Wednesday night in St. Vincent Island, Florida and then was downgraded to a depression that dumped rain across the Florida Panhandle and into south Georgia and South Carolina.

The storm was in the Atlantic on Thursday evening about 110 miles eastsoutheast of Charleston, South Carolina, and moving east-northeast at 23 mph with top sustained winds of 35 mph, forecasters said.

Nigeria says Boko Haram leader arrested

LAGOS, Nigeria — The Nigerian army said Thursday that its troops have arrested a high-profile member of the Boko Haram extremist group in northern Borno State, where the rebels' 12-year insurgency is concentrated.

Army spokesman Onyema Nwachukwu said Yawi Modu was detained along the Damboa-Wajiroko road, a notorious route where both the extremists and Nigerian troops have recorded casualties over the years.

Nwachukwu said the army also raided two locations in Borno and a neighboring area where improvised explosive devices materials were made. The sites were believed to have been used by Boko Haram and its breakaway faction Islamic State in West Africa Province (ISWAP).

Spain arrests Venezuelan spymaster

MADRID - Police in Madrid on Thursday arrested a former Venezuelan spymaster wanted on U.S. narcoterrorism charges, capturing him in a hideout apartment nearly two years after he defied a Spanish extradition order and disappeared.

Gen. Hugo Carvajal, who for over a decade was late Venezuelan leader Hugo Chavez's eyes and ears in the Venezuelan military, was arrested in the small apartment in which he had been holed up.

Spain's leftist government last year approved Carvajal's extradition to the U.S., where he faces federal charges for allegedly working with guerrillas from the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia to "flood" the U.S. with cocaine.

The extradition order followed a back-and-forth legal battle in which Spain's National Court reversed an earlier ruling by a high court magistrate throwing out the U.S. warrant for being politically motivated.

Veldwijk running toward goals

Lecanto runner wants second shot at state meet

The number 19 looms large in the mind of Catalina Veldwijk every time she steps on a cross country course this season.

"She's grown leaps and bounds from last year," Lecanto girls cross country coach Ben Simmons said. "Last year her goals were always centered around running her personal best. This year it's about running 19s.'

Right now, her personal best and a time in the 19-minute range are one and the same. But like her coach said, it's the goal she's aiming for as the 2021 campaign has gotten underway.

Last Saturday, Lecanto participated in the highly competitive in Ocala. Veldwijk placed a respectable 30th, improving her time to 20:44.90.

"It's going pretty well," Veldwijk said. "I've been dealing with some performance anxiety. I've been feeling weak at the race, but it's been going pretty well."

She said the anxiety issues first cropped up during track and field season in the spring. She uses visualization and breathing methods to calm herself down before the race, an-

"She is easily one of the hardest workers I have," Simmons said. "I've never seen someone more committed to learning the sport. She's vocal about what The Panthers have run two she needs and what she thinks will make her better."

Her prep cross country career began while she was an eighthgrader at Seven Rivers Christian, after she joined the track team there as a seventh-grader.

Last year she moved on to the Florida Horse Park Invitational Lecanto squad and quickly made a name for herself. The freshman earned a Chronicle Runner of the Year nomination, after posting a first-place 20:58.94 at the district meet and qualifying for states with a seventh-place showing at regionals (20:05.20).

But after regionals, the reality of 2020 caught up to her. She came down with COVID-19 a week before the state meet and never got to compete.

NFL launches the 2021 slate to full stadiums as COVID-19 surges

TAMPA — Tom Brady calmly ran out from a smoke-filled tunnel, leading the defending Super Bowl champion Buccaneers onto the field Thursday night against the Dallas Cowboys in front of a full stadium for the first time since COVID-19 upended the world and changed the way sports were viewed.

The NFL kicked off its biggest season — teams are playing a 17-game schedule — with no capacity limitations as the league follows the NBA, NHL, MLB, NCAA and others in opening its doors to soldout stadiums.

While there were no restrictions in the preseason, stadiums weren't completely filled as many fans skip exhibiceremony. "There was one thing missing: All of you. Welcome back to Raymond James Stadium.'

Thousands of fans gathered outside the stadium before the game, eating, drinking and enjoying the atmosphere as they waited for gates to open. Once they did, the party moved inside.

Fans are returning as COVID-19 surges, with about 150,000 news cases daily. The delta variant is filling hospitals, children are getting sick, and some schools are abruptly switching back to remote learning because of outbreaks. The U.S. death toll stands at more than 650,000, with one major forecast model projecting it will top 750,000 by Dec. 1 deep into the NFL season.

"We and our clubs are in daily and regular conversations with local and state authorities, but as we sit here right now, we don't anticipate any reduction in capacity this year," Peter O'Reilly, NFL executive vice president of club business and events, said in the league's last briefing. "We really feel good about where we

As we sit here today, all 30 stadiums are able to be at full capacity and that's how we expect to go through the season in lockstep with those local and state authorities.'

NFL teams can have different stadium policies and protocols. The Seattle Seahawks, Las Vegas Raiders and New Orleans Saints are requiring fans to provide proof of vaccination to enter. Other teams may join them along the

Panthers, 'Canes meet seeking win CR also looks to shake rough start

Three weeks into the season and it hasn't looked pretty for the three Citrus County public school football programs.

Citrus, Crystal River and Lecanto are a combined 0-5 so far, an ominous though hardly insurmountable start. Still, all three would like to erase the zero in the win column and at least one of them will when a pair of county rivals face off on Friday night.

Lecanto at Citrus, 7 p.m.

Not that a county vs. county meeting needs extra juice, but the hunger both these teams share to get that first win should ratchet things up a few notches.

"It becomes a dogfight," Citrus head coach McKinley Franklin said. "The kids on both sides are amped up to play the game.'

"I expect both teams to play with a lot of intensity," Lecanto head coach Wyndell "Chop" Alexander said. "It's two teams that know each other. Kids usually play a lot harder when they know the opponent.'

The players may know one another, but these two teams are still getting to know themselves. The Panthers (0-2) have been outscored 72-17 in their games against The Villages and Tavares.

"Even though we're 0-2, we feel like we're still learning from a lot of the mistakes we've made and felt we've grown together and are trying to figure things out together," Alexander

Senior Luke Malmberg has been one bright spot with 178 yards on 35 carries, with a touchdown. Shwantez Simmons has taken most of the snaps at quarterback, and the junior has drawn praise from Alexander.

The Hurricanes (0-1) are coming off an early bye week that followed a Week 1 35-0 loss at Springstead.

Steelers, Watt agree to lucrative extension

PITTSBURGH — Ben Roethlisberger believes T.J. Watt is perhaps the best player in the NFL

The Pittsburgh Steelers have decided to pay the game-wrecking outside linebacker like it.

A person with knowledge of the agreement says the team and the two-time All-Pro have come to terms on a four-year extension worth $112 million that will make Watt the highest-paid defensive player in the league. The person spoke on the condition of anonymity because the financial terms were not publicly announced.

The deal was first reported by NFL Network.

Messi top South American international scorer

BUENOS AIRES — Argentine star Lionel Messi became the top international goal scorer in South American history on Thursday, overtaking Brazil's Pelé. The 34-year-old netted all the goals at Argentina's 3-0 win against Bolivia in World Cup qualifying, and now has 79 for the national team.

said Dr. Rand McLain, chief medical officer of Live Cell Research Health.

'You go back to where it started, hospitals were loading up and an inordinate amount of people were dying. We're past that now at least at this time, though we have the delta variant and the mu variant beating the vaccines. From there, being outside is a huge plus. You're not seeing the transmission when there's a breeze blowing."

The Buccaneers have relaxed several protocols. Fans will not be temperature screened and masks are not required, but are encouraged for indoor spaces, regardless of vaccination status. Few fans wore masks inside one of the stadium's club suites.

'We're vaccinated, we followed all the rules and we're not afraid," said Ford.

Bucs fan Terry Leonas, who snagged a pair of tickets last minute off a friend who couldn't make the game.

Another group of fans wore masks in the seats despite being outside.

"We're not taking any chances," said Carl Esperson, the lone Cowboys fan among six friends wearing their Bucs jerseys.

They lowered their masks for a photo and to sip their beers.

The Tampa Sports Authority is continuing with enhanced cleaning and disinfection of high-traffic areas. All restrooms have been retrofitted with touchless fixtures and all concession stands will have plexiglass dividers, with staff wearing masks. All parking lots and concessions will continue to be completely cashless this season.

"As we have stated all along, our top priority has been, and continues to be, the safety of all players, coaches, staff and fans at our games," said Buccaneers chief operating officer Brian especially the day of the race. I was so sad the whole day," Veldwijk said.

"It was awful. I felt terrible about it, but it motivated her more for track season," Simmons said. "If it had to happen, I'm glad it happened her freshman year. But it's good motivation to run even better this year. 'The sky is the limit. She is by far the most invested of any runner I've had in five years. She loves the sport so much. I think she'll get to the low 19s if not high 18s by her senior year."

There are aspirations to run for a goal of mine."

Division I college, but that's still off in the distance. For now she wants another shot to run at states, and she wants senior teammate Alex Garcia to also qualify so they can go together.

In the spring, she'll look to improve upon her freshman track season in which she was a district champion in the 3,200, and a regional qualifier in that race and the 1,600.

"I've ran many, many miles and it has set me up for success," Veldwijk said. "It's my second year, going into it I'm more knowledgeable I guess you could say.

Still, Alexander saw positives in his scouting of Citrus. Lecanto defeated the 'Canes 28-21 last year, breaking a four-game losing skid in the all-time series.

"I've seen that Citrus is a hardnosed team that gets after the football defensively," said Alexander, who was previously the 'Canes defensive coordinator prior to last season. "Their linebackers are extremely aggressive. Their secondary keeps the ball in front of them. The defensive line fights off blocks well. They play as a unit. "Their quarterback (Cason Williamson) is a phenomenal athlete. He runs the option to perfection. Their offensive line comes off the ball well and they move the ball well when everything is clicking.'

Neither team has clicked thus far, placing even more pressure on taking advantage of this opportunity.

'We're trying to build a coachable program," Franklin said. "Winning enjoyable. We need to get a 'W' this demeanor.' week."

Belleview at Crystal River, 7 p.m.

After tangling with Dunnellon and South Sumter the last two weeks, a meeting with the Rattlers seemed like a softer landing spot for the Pirates (0-2) on paper.

Yet Belleview, coming off a 2020 season in which it finished 0-7 and scored just 44 points, sits at 2-0 and has outscored Umatilla and Bronson by a combined 97-16. "They're coming in with a ton of confidence," Crystal River head coach Cliff Lohrey said. "They're averaging about 50 points per game and giving up around 8 points per game. Regardless of the quality of the opponents they've played and we've played, all they know is they're 2-0 and they come in with a ton of confidence.'

Junior Ernest Flythe has completed 23 of 35 passes (65.7%) for 325 yards and thrown for five touchdowns against one interception. He's also rushed eight times for 94 yards and two scores.

Another junior, Jaheem Shannon has totaled 242 yards on just 13 carries, an average of 18.6 yards, to go

Seven Rivers Christian at Oak Hall, 7 p.m.

One county team hasn't struggled, at least in terms of wins and losses. The Warriors are 2-0 and have won each game by comfortable margins.

However, Seven Rivers head coach Monty Vann couldn't mask his frustration after a sloppy, penalty-filled 28-6 victory over a severely overmatched Cornerstone Charter Academy squad last Friday.

'We've had a couple good days of practice," Vann said. "Mentally, they treated it like a loss and cleaned up some fundamentals things we did and just got back to basics.'

Oak Hall is likewise 2-0, beating First Academy-Leesburg (52-14) and Bishop Snyder (28-14). Vann was impressed with the Eagles' offensive front, starting with 350-pound sophomore center Adrian Taylor Jr.

'We're up against a lot of size. Their quarterback and running back run pretty well," Vann said. "It's a good test, a really good challenge. We're looking forward to it. It'll be fun.

Center Logan Alford should play for Seven Rivers as he has nursed a shoulder injury, but fellow offensive linemen Kamryn Johnson and along with three rushing touchdowns. Hayden Thomas remain out.

Fernandez reaches final

Howard FENDRICH AP tennis writer

NEW YORK — Levlah Fernandez's first major semifinal, at the U.S. Open just days after her 19th birthday, did not go her way at the start.

She recovered from dropping the initial three games to take a lead, before No. 2 seed Aryna Sabalenka pushed a match filled with momentum swings to a back-and-forth third set. No matter what, Fernandez did not worry. Didn't waver.

And why would she at this point? The Canadian's poise, it seems, is as limitless has her potential. And no foe, no matter how accomplished or highly ranked, poses an insurmountable problem. Speedy afoot and steady at crunch time, the unseeded Fernandez edged Sabalenka 7-6 (3), 4-6, 6-4 on Thursday night in Arthur Ashe Stadium, earning the right to play for a Grand Slam title.

It was the 73rd-ranked Fernandez's fourth consecutive three-set victory over a seeded opponent. First came No. 3 Naomi Osaka, the 2018 and 2020 U.S. Open champion. Then came No. 16 Angeli-Kerber, que the 2016 champ. That was followed by No. 5 Elina Svitolina and Sabalenka.

"That's years and years and years of hard work and tears and blood," said Fernandez, who could give Canada its second U.S. Open women's title in quick succession, following Bianca Andreescu's triumph in 2019. "Everything. On court, off court. Sacrifices."

Fernandez collapsed to the court and put her hands to her face.

Nearly 2 1/2 hours before that, it was Sabalenka who looked in control, claiming 12 of the first 14 points for a 3-0 lead. Just eight minutes had elapsed and most spectators were yet to reach their seats. Not until later did the 20,000-plus in the stands rally the fist-aloft Fernandez with chants of "Let's go, Leylah! Marriage farce coming to Art Center

Thespians to stage
'Will You Still
Love Me in the Morning' during September

Special to the Chronicle

A farcical look at bungling and inept attempts at marital infidelity opens at the Art Center Sept. 17 for a three-weekend run. "Will You Still Love Me in the Morning" by Brian Clemens and Dennis Spooner is the story of what happens when newlyweds Jeremy and Celia, come to their new home to spend a private honeymoon only to learn that the senior partners in Jeremy's law firm are already at the vacant house $for\ romantic\ trysts -- but\ each$ of them is with the wife of the other partner.

Complicating matters is the fact that neither partner knows the other one is there with their wife. Once Jeremy and his wife discover the wannabe adulters are in their house, Jeremy's challenge is to keep the couples apart while he and Celia prepare two separate multi-course dinners with wine and dessert. His future with the law firm rides on his success.

Further complicating the situation is the intrusion of the drunken, bumbling plumber Syd, who is trying to do Jeremy a favor by fixing a faucet leak but who only makes matters worse by flooding the basement.

Directed by Sharon Harris, the play features John Telschow as Jeremy Winthrop, Grace Cassens as Celia Winthrop, Lenny Klatt as Perry Ward, Cindy Buky as Sarah Ward, Rich Mesker as Humphrey Jessel, DiAnne Klatt as

Art Center slates one-man show

Special to the Chronicle

Artist and graphic designer Tom Rogers of Inverness is scheduled for a one-man show from Sept. 17 to 29 at the Art Center of Citrus County, 2644 N. Annapolis Drive in Hernando.

Rogers' work ranges from published cartoons to natural realism to fantastic otherworldly allegorical scenes reminiscent of the 16th-century Dutch artist Hieronymus Bosch. Many of these warn of the environmental consequences of society's obsession with production and consumption.

In addition to his personal works, Rogers provides original designs for many of his clients at Blue Heron Tees and Graphic Elite Printing, owned by Rogers and his wife, Debbie.

His upcoming exhibit at the art center has been curated by local artist Jaret Lubowiecki.

FRIDAY EVENING SEPTEMBER 10, 2021

First today, look only at the South hand. West passes, North opens one diamond, and East passes.

What should South do? James Callaghan, when prime minister of Great Britain, said, "Those who advocate devaluation (of pound sterling) are calling for a reduction in the wage levels and the real wage standards of every member of the working class.'

Devaluation has struck bidding.

In the old days, responder passed with fewer than 6 points. Now, though, if there is reason to believe that there is a fair chance of finding a better spot, he may bid with fewer than 6. (At 10 of the 16 tables at Bridge Base Online, South did pass. One responded two hearts,

North raised to four hearts, but South's declarer play didn't match his bidding, because he went down

True, bidding one heart doesn't guarantee a good result. Partner might — ugh! — rebid three diamonds. Or, as at one table, three clubs, which South passed!

Funnily enough, the weaker twoclub rebid worked better. Over two hearts, North had an easy raise to game.

Declarer took the first trick with dummy's club ace, shook his club loser on the second high diamond and played the spade king. East tried to cash the club king, but South ruffed, trumped a spade, ruffed a club, trumped a spade and ruffed another club.

West overruffed with the heart jack and led the spade queen, but declarer trumped with the heart ear Annie: My husband and I have been married for 34 years. We have two grown children, both of whom still live with us. They work and pay rent toward our mortgage.

Annie offers advice

I have no problem with their living at home, and I don't think my husband does either. The problem I have is that both my husband and my son are alcoholics. They both work hard, but when they are off, they e drunk, and my daughter and have a hard time dealing with all the issues.

ANNIE

My son is a closet alcoholic. He stays in his room and drinks, and when he comes out, he is very talkative and emotional, and he gets depressed. My husband can drink beer all day and spend his day doing yard work. In the afternoon, he takes a nap, and when he wakes up, he continues to drink.

They both know they need help, but neither one is making any effort to get that help. My son went to a detox center over a year ago. Unfortunately, since the pandemic hit just after he was released, he did not get follow-up counseling and ended up relapsing.

I spend a lot of time with my best friend, who I've known all my life. Once a year, we go on a small trip. The problem is my husband makes me feel guilty and gets angry at me for these trips. But I just need to get away and have someone to whom I can vent. It seems like my husband just expects me to stay home while he is out doing yard work. Should I be trying to do more to get them to quit drinking? Am I in the wrong here for spending time with friends? — Between a Rock and a Hard Place

Dear Between: No and no. It's up to your husband and son to get the help that they both clearly need. Spending time with your friends outside the house is a very healthy thing, a way of setting boundaries.

Unfortunately, your husband is rearing against those boundaries. It seems he's not content to just self-destruct; he wants to drag you down with him. If things continue this way, you may need to consider whether you can truly live under the same roof as him without it taking a toll on your mental

To gain some clarity and insight, I encourage you to make an appointment with a therapist who specializes in addiction. You may also find solace and strength in support groups such as Al-Anon (www.al-anon. org) or SMART Recovery Family and Friends (www.smart recovery.org/family).

Dear Annie: I've been in a relationship with "Wanda" for three years, living with her for eight months. She's cheated on me many times. When I found out, we'd already been dating for two years, so I figured I'd stay. However, I suspect it's still happening. On top of this, she hits me, spits on my face and calls me names.

I guess it's pretty clear that I need to walk away, but for some reason, I don't. I think it's because I'm 38 and have never had a serious relationship work out in the long term. Call me crazy, but I just can't seem to leave. What advice do you have for me? — Beleaguered Boyfriend

Dear Beleaguered: You deserve better. You owe it to yourself to get out of that house and out of that relationship. Please call the National Domestic Violence Hotline (800-799-7233) — which deals with all forms of domestic abuse for emotional support and assistance making an exit plan. Give yourself the chance to live the life you're meant to

How to Avoid a Fake Check Scam

• INSIST ON CASH

4. IF POSSIBLE, GO TO THE BANK WITH THE PERSON PAYING YOU.

- Don't accept a check for more than the selling price. You can bet it's a scam.
- Inform the Buyer that you'll wait two weeks before sending any merchandise.
- Never use money from a check to send gift cards, money orders, or wire money to strangers or someone you just met. Many scammers demand that you send money through money transfer services like Western Union or MoneyGram, or buy gift cards and send them the PIN numbers. Once you wire money, or give someone the gift card PINs, it is like giving someone cash. It's almost impossible to get it back.
- Toss offers that ask you to pay for a prize. If it's free, you shouldn't have to pay to get it.
