Memorial golf tourney proceeds fund $1,500 scholarships for local seniors

Over 140 golfers teed off at an annual tribute for a Citrus County alum and to provide scholarships for nine local seniors.

Proceeds from the family-run 2021 Marty Wilson Memorial Golf Tournament on March 27 at the Citrus Hills Golf & Country Club helped fund $1,500 scholarships for:

Lecanto High School's Kaliegh Thomas, Payton Engleken and Sydney Danridge; Crystal River High's Coutney Davis, Jaiden Green and Kavla Brenton: and Citrus High's Christopher Rosato, Jarimyah Cook and Ashton Lewis. 'The tournament was hugely successful thanks to sponsors, golfers and volunteers," said Kelly Wilson, Marty Wilson's sister-in-law and tournament co-host.

Wilson said 144 golfers packed the Oaks Course to help break last year's record of fundraising efforts from the inaugural tournament, allowing the nonprofit Marty Wilson Memorial Scholarship Fund to endow three graduates from each county high school, instead of two.

Richard Marsan also shot a hole-in-one on the fifth hole, winning a trip to Texas and a set of irons.

John "Marty" Wilson died Sun-day, Feb. 17, 2019, before the seventh-generation Citrus County native was about to turn 49 years old.

Wilson graduated from Crystal River in 1988 before he joined the U.S. Coast Guard and then became a firefighter for the North Charleston Fire Department in South Carolina.

He and his family returned to Crystal River in 2010, when Wilson volunteered with the city's fire department and worked at the Citrus County Detention Facility in Lecanto until his death.

Martino used to be an ironworker in Texas, so she's no stranger to metallurgy. "I was the only female in the whole company," she explained.

"I was in health care for years," Watson added. One day, she noticed that her horse trailer needed fixing. Rather than paying to get it fixed, she thought to herself, "I could do this.'

Before enrolling, she was asked, "Are you afraid of getting shocked or caught on fire?

Watson simply replied, "Put me in class."

Most recently, the welding department attended and made a table for the auction at the WTC Made 4 Trades event.

"The goal for them was to network," Gloria Bishop, WTC director, said.

Martino already has a job lined up with North American Mining. She graduates on May 24 and begins her job as a welder on May 27. Straub and Watson also have potential jobs lined up.

Stocks closed lower on among others. Energy Wall Street Tuesday as a late-afternoon sell-off in technology companies helped nudge stock indexes into the red for the second straight day.

The S&P 500 lost 0.9%, with most of the pullback coming in the last hour of trading. Apple, Facebook and Google's parent company all lost 1% or more as technology stocks fell broadly. While they powered the market rebound last year, tech stocks are up only 2.6% this year, the lowest gain among the S&P 500's 11 sectors.

"So we're looking at that very, very seriously. All I'd say is: Stay tuned.'

Former White House Chief of Staff Mark Meadows offered more details in a recent interview with Fox Business. Asked specifically whether, if Trump decides to run for president, he would announce before the 2022 midterms, Meadows said, "If I had to lay a wager on whether he announces for president before 2022, I would place money on that bet," Meadows said. "And I can tell you based on my conversations with him, he would be an overwhelming success to make sure that he cleared the field where there would be no legitimate primary.

One thing is certain: Trump-World is hitting on all cylinders when it comes to teasing a 2024 "I look forward to doing an an- run. But stay skeptical. The former president is a showman est in his political plans high does not mean that he will actually pull the trigger and run for the White House again.

For one thing, Trump will be 78 years old in 2024. If you think Joe Biden, who is 78 now, is too old to begin a presidential term that will not end until he is 82 - then the same will apply to Trump.

For another thing, there is a robust field of Republicans preparing to run. Ron DeSantis, Mike Pompeo, Mike Pence, Nikki Haley, Tom Cotton, Josh Hawley, Kristi Noem and several other possible candidates - put them together and that is a strong group of contenders, all of whom will run on some theme of incorporating Trump's achievements into a new kind of Republican platform.

Meadows' remark that Trump will "make sure that he cleared the field" to prevent any sort of "legitimate primary" indicates that Trump believes he has to scare all those candidates out of running. But not all will be easily scared. Many will suspect Trump is bluffing to keep inter-Finally, Axios reported that est in himself — and donations "sources who've spoken to the to his political organization former president in recent sky-high. > Finally — and most important there are the voters. It's guaranteed that Trump will lead all polls of the GOP field. He's the most famous Republican on the planet. But the Republican Party will be divided between those voters who will support Trump under absolutely any circumstances and those voters who appreciate Trump's accomplishments in office and the changes he brought to the GOP, but at the same time believe it is time for something new. (The NeverTrump faction inside the GOP will, as usual, attract an inordinate share of media attention but remain tiny.)

Time moves on. By and large, voters don't want to return to a candidate who lost the election the last time. Indeed, that is one of the reasons Trump continues to push the notion that he did not lose the election — because why should the party re-nominate a candidate who lost? But with the Biden administration in office, the political ground has already shifted. Republican leaders are pouring their energy into opposing the Democratic president. They'll focus their attention on midterm elections in 2022 and then choosing a new presidential nominee in 2024. That's how the system works.

Former President Trump, out of office, is likely to remain influential, but also likely to stay on the sidelines. There are some political realities that even Donald Trump can't change.

Commissioner Schlabach.

The level of trust among the commissioners is diminishing for good reasons and, I can understand why. Both commissioners Kitchen and Carnahan, have repeatedly asked how this project will be financed. Both have made it clear repeatedly, that they will not support borrowing such a large sum to construct a new animal shelter. Commissioner Kitchen also stated that he finds it troubling when things get decided by the board one day and, then gets ignored by some when they leave the chamber. This has happened before. Commissioner Schlabach responded that she "has done her due diligence" and has spent years(?) researching this issue. Unfortunately, she has shared very little, nor nothing convincingly meaningful, to gain the support of both commissioners. The motion to finance the shelter passed 3-2.

This decision comes without conducting any cost analysis, formal plan, risk assessment considerations, marginal analysis, nor alternative considerations. Let's just borrow $8-9 million and put it on the back of taxpayers and be done with it.

Most economic research shows that government spending during economic expansions is wasteful and unproductive. Spending must be financed by taxes or by issuing government debt, both reduce funds available for private investment projects. When constituents have to pay higher taxes, they have less to spend elsewhere. There are checks and balances that should never be ignored. We have limited revenue to cover expenditures as is. If trade-offs are not an option, then we probably should start preparing for higher taxes.

I'm calling in about a call-in to your Sound Off line on the Chronicle today (Sunday, May 2, Page C4, titled "Citrus needs a beach resort"). Someone said what we need in Citrus County are beaches like in Clearwater and stuff, that we need something like that here. Well, we don't have beaches like that here. We're in the saw grass and the marshlands in Crystal River. We have some springs and we have a nice river, but we don't have sandy beaches like Clearwater, St. Pete Beach, Treasure Island and Daytona Beach. We don't have that here. So if you're not satisfied with our marshlands and the springs we have and the bay and what's around, then you need to move somewhere where they've got some, because we don't have them in Citrus County and if we don't have them, then we can't have them.

Palestinians protest

Gaza violence prompts rare collective action

FARES AKRAM AND RAVI NESSMAN Associated Press

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip Palestinians across Israel and the occupied territories went on strike in a rare collective protest Tuesday as Israeli missiles toppled a building in Gaza and militants in the Hamas-ruled territory fired dozens of rockets that killed two people.

The demonstrations and ongoing violence came as moves toward a cease-fire appeared to be gaining more traction.

U.S. officials said the Biden administration was privately encouraging Israel to wind down its bombardment of Gaza. Egyptian negotiators also were working to halt the fighting, and while they have not made progress with Israel, they were optimistic international pressure would force it to the table, according to an Egyptian diplomat who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was discussing diplomatic efforts.

The general strike was a sign that the war could widen again after a spasm of communal violence in Israel and protests across the occupied West Bank last week. Although the strike was peaceful in many places, with shops in Jerusalem's usually bustling Old City markets shuttered, violence erupted in cities in the West Bank. Hundreds of Palestinians burned tires in Ramallah and hurled stones at an Israeli military checkpoint. Troops fired tear gas, and protesters picked up some of the canisters and threw them back. Three protesters were killed and more than 140 wounded in clashes with Israeli troops in Ramallah, Bethlehem, Hebron and other cities, according to the Palestinian Health Ministry. The Israeli army said two soldiers were wounded by gunshots to the leg. The general strike was an uncommon show of unity by Palestinian citizens of Israel, who make up 20% of its population, an unusual outbreak of viand those in the territories Israel seized in 1967 that the Palestinians have long sought for a future state. The strike was intended to protest the war and Israeli policies that many activists and some rights groups say constitute an overarching system of apartheid that denies Palestinians rights afforded to Jews. Israel rejects that characterization, saying its citizens have equal rights. It blames the war on Hamas, the Islamic militant group that controls Gaza, and accuses it of inciting violence. Israel, Gaza violence overshadows Biden's plans

DEARBORN, Mich. -President Joe Biden's efforts to spotlight his big infrastructure plans are suddenly being overshadowed by the escalating violence between Israel and the Palestinians, the conflict sparking protests during his visit to a Ford electric vehicle center in Michigan on Tuesday as the White House faced growing pressure to intervene.

Biden, who planned to use the two week-stretch before Memorial Day to build Republican support for his $2.3 trillion package, visited a Ford plant in Dearborn to make his case that his plans could help steer the country toward a bright electric-car future.

But any presidential script is subject to real-world rewrites, and Biden faces rising pressure to weigh in more forcefully to stop the Middle East violence — as, by a scheduling quirk, he visited a city that is almost half Arab American.

animated conversation. Tlaib has publicly pressed Biden to get behind a U.N. Security Council resolution calling for a cease-fire - a measure that the U.S. has blocked from moving forward.

To this point in Biden's young term, foreign policy has taken a back seat. The president has stressed the need to first focus on domestic matters — taming the COVID-19 pandemic and reshaping the economy - to prove that democracies can still compete with global autocracies, namely China.

But the intractable conflict in Gaza has derailed that narrative Aboard Air Force One for the flight to Michigan, White House press secretary Jen Psaki was peppered with questions about the administration's response to the violence before she was asked about electric cars. She defended Biden's cautious approach to this point.

"He's been doing this long enough to know that the best way to end an international conflict is typically not to debate it in public," she said.

Lawmakers quiz Boeing, FAA about recent issues with planes

WASHINGTON - Two key members of Congress are seeking records from Boeing and the Federal Aviation Administration about production problems with two of the company's most popular airliners. The lawmakers are focusing on the Boeing 737 Max and a larger plane, the 787, which Boeing calls the Dreamliner.

House Transportation Committee Chairman Peter DeFazio, D-Ore., said Tuesday there are "new and ongoing issues (at Boeing) that point to problems in maintaining quality control and appropriate FAA oversight of production issues."

DeFazio was joined in the records request by Rick Larsen, D-Wash., chairman of the committee's aviation subcommittee.

Chicago-based Boeing and the FAA said they were reviewing the request. About 100 Max jets were idled last month because of improper electrical grounding that affected cockpit instruments. Last week the FAA approved a Boeing fix for the planes.

Washington governor signs sweeping police reform measures

SEATTLE - Washington Gov. Jay Inslee on Tuesday signed one of the nation's most ambitious packages of police accountability legislation, prompted by last year's outcry for racial justice following the deaths of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor and other Black people at the hands of police.

The dozen bills Inslee signed include outright bans on police use of chokeholds, neck restraints and no-knock warrants such as the one that helped lead to Taylor's killing in Louisville, Kentucky.

They require officers to intervene if their colleagues engage in excessive force --a demand inspired by the officers who stood by while Minneapolis officer Derek Chauvin pressed a knee to Floyd's neck for more than nine minutes.

The bills also create an independent office to review the use of deadly force by police, make it easier to decertify police for bad acts, and require officers to use "reasonable care," including exhausting de-escalation tactics, in carrying out their duties. The use of tear gas and car chases are restricted and it's easier to sue officers when they inflict injury.

Prosecutor finds deputies justified in shooting of Black man

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. -A North Carolina prosecutor said Tuesday that sheriff's deputies were justified in fatally shooting Andrew Brown Jr. because the Black man struck a deputy with his car and nearly ran him over while ignoring commands to show his hands and get out of the vehicle.

District Attorney Andrew Womble said at a news conference that Brown used his car as a "deadly weapon," causing Pasquotank County deputies to believe it was necessary to use deadly force.

Irish health system struggling to recover from cyberattack

LONDON - Ireland's health system was still struggling to restore its computers and treat patients on Tuesday, four days after it shut down its entire IT system in response to a cyberattack.

Thousands of diagnostic appointments, cancer treatment clinics and surgeries have been canceled or delayed since a ransomware attack on Friday. Authorities said hundreds of people have been deployed to tackle the attack, but it could be weeks before the health service can return to normal.

Irish Prime Minister Micheal Martin said Tuesday that the attack was a "heinous" one that targeted patients and "the Irish public." Health Service Executive chief clinical officer Colm Henry said the attack had had "a profound impact on our ability to deliver care," and that the disruptions would undoubtedly "mount in the coming days and weeks."

More than 2,000 patient-facing IT systems are affected, with around 80,000 devices linked to such systems throughout the health service, Henry told Irish broadcaster RTE. Authorities are prioritizing systems involving direct patient care diagnostics, such as radiology, radiotherapy and maternity and newborn services.

"That's what our experts are focusing on this week, with external help, to ensure those services are not reliant on manual exchange of information," he said.

In a speech at the plant, Biden made only passing mention of the conflict, warmly addressing Democratic Rep. Rashida Tlaib of Michigan as she sat in the audience, saying he would pray that her grandmother and other relatives were well in the West Bank.

"I promise you I'm going to do everything to see that they are," Biden said.

Biden also met Tlaib and fellow Michigan Democratic Rep. Debbie Dingell earlier at the Detroit airport, where all three huddled on the tarmac for several minutes in what appeared to be an Strike organizer Muhammad Barakeh said Palestinians are standing against Israeli "aggression" in Gaza and Jerusalem, as well as "brutal repression" by police.

The war has also seen olence in Israel, with groups of Jewish and Palestinian citizens fighting in the streets and torching vehicles and buildings. In both Israel and the West Bank, Palestinian protesters have clashed with Israeli forces. Scores have been injured, including a Jewish man who died Monday after being attacked last week by a group of Arabs in the central city of Lod.

During his tour of the Dearborn facilities, Biden kept the focus on jobs. The president, a car enthusiast, marveled at the new technology - he even took a truck for a quick test drive while stressing the importance of his infrastructure plan.

"The future of the auto industry is electric. There's no turning back," Biden said. "The real question is whether we'll lead or we'll fall behind in the race to the future."

- From wire reports

At least 217 Palestinians have been killed in airstrikes, including 63 children, with more than 1,500 people wounded, according to the Gaza Health Ministry, which does not break the numbers down into fighters and civilians. Hamas and Islamic Jihad say at least 20 of their fighters have been killed, while Israel says the number is at least 130.

Twelve people in Israel, including a 5-year-old boy, have been killed in rocket attacks.

Tuesday's rocket attack from Gaza hit a packaging plant in a region bordering the territory, killing two Thai workers. Israel's Magen David Adom rescue service said it took another seven to the hospital. Thai Foreign Ministry spokesman Tanee Sangrat said the wounded were also Thai.

The Israeli military said the Erez pedestrian crossing and at the Kerem Shacrossing, where lom being brought into Gaza, said a soldier was slightly wounded at Erez.

The Nature Coast Community Band (NCCB) is pleased to announce the recipients of the 2021 Cynthia L. Hazzard Scholarships. This year's $500 scholarships were awarded to Olivia D'Agati, Taylor Crompton and Emma Gill.

Olivia plays alto saxophone and joined NCCB in 2019. She will graduate from Lecanto High School this spring, and will attend the University of Florida in the fall with plans to audition for the Gator Marching Band.

In her application, Olivia states, "I have always had a passion for music, but I wanted a higher level of experience as opposed to only my high school band. I appreciate the fact that all of the music is fairly difficult and that I can be surrounded by so many people who enjoy music just as much as I do.

In her application Taylor states, "Playing with this group has challenged me in the best and most rewarding way possible. I have met so many talented musicians and it amazes me that I was given this opportunity to perform alongside them. My experience with this band has improved my playing abilities and given me a greater sense of musical comprehension."

Emma plays harp and flute and joined NCCB in 2016. She graduated from Seven Rivers Christian School in 2018, and currently attends the College of Central Florida.

In her application Emma comments that she's listened to NCCB rehearsals and concerts since elementary school because of her mom, NCCB musician Jenny Gill. Early on, she set herself a goal of successfully playing to the high level of music NCCB plays.

generations, the NCCB provides education to promising local high school and college students. Cynthia L. Hazzard Scholarships are awarded annually to college-bound high school senior band members and to band members currently enrolled in postsecondary education.

Applicants must be members in good standing of the Nature Coast Community Band for at least 12 months through attendance at rehearsals, concerts and special events. In addition, the applicant must have demonstrated a willingness to improve musical skills, as well as assist in band activities.

The Cynthia L. Hazzard Scholarships are made possible through donations of the Friends of NCCB. NCCB greatly appreciates the generosity of our patrons, giving us the ability to encourage and nurture future musicians from the Nature Coast.

If you would like to be a part of this wonderful opportunity the NCCB provides for our high school seniors and college student members you can send a donation to the NCCB. Florida-friendly landscaping class Citrus County Utilities' Florida-friendly Landscaping program will offer a free gardening workshop from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, May 20, and from 2 to 3:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 25. Both classes will be conducted online.

The University of Florida developed the nine basic principles to establish a set of gardening practices which aid gardeners in creating sustainable and successful ornamental gardens. These practices allow gardeners to create beautiful landscapes while generating little or no impact on water resources. Selection of the right plant for the right location, efficient irrigation, appropriate fertilization and responsible pest management are several of the topics discussed during this workshop.

Register at ccufflprogram. eventbrite.com to participate in the workshop. Contact Steven Davis at 352-527-5708 for additional information.

year. Tampa Bay is a season-high five games over .500 at 24-19.

Baltimore has lost eight of its last 10 and fell to a majors-worst 6-16 at home. It was the first of 19 meetings this season between the AL East rivals, all crammed between May 18 and Aug. 29.

The Rays tagged Matt Harvey (3-4) in the second. They opened the inning with consecutive singles, and an out later Phillips hit Harvey's fastball to right for his second homer.

Tampa Bay's Willy Adames poked a double off the third base bag, and Randy Arozarena reached on an infield single before Meadows drilled his ninth homer of the season to make it 6-0.

Harvey yielded six runs on seven hits in 1 2/3 innings. It was Harvey's nings with 15 strikeouts and no shortest start since was chased in the middle of Baltimore's three-run fourth. He went 3 1/3 innings, vielding four runs on six hits while striking out six.

Andrew Kittredge (4-0) pitched 1 2/3 scoreless innings in relief for the Rays.

Baltimore's Cedric Mullins extended his hitting streak to 11 games with a third-inning single.

Orioles: LHP John Means (4-0, 1.21) has pitched 15 scoreless ina walks over his last two starts.

THIS DATE IN BASEBALL

1910 — Cy Young won the 500th game of his career as the Cleveland Indians beat the Washington Senators, 5-4, in 11 innings.

1910 — Boston beat the Pirates 6-3 for the first time in 26 tries.

1942 — Paul Waner of the Boston Braves got his 3,000th career hit off Pittsburgh's Rip Sewell in a 7-6, 11-inning loss to the Pirates.

1956 — Pittsburgh's Dale Long hit a ninth-inning homer against the Chicago Cubs. It was Long's first of eight straight games with a homer.

1962 - Stan Musial of St. Louis became the NL career hits leader. The 41-year-old got a ninth inning single for his 3,431st hit and moved past Honus Wagner. The Cardinals beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 8-1.

1968 — After hitting 10 home runs in six games, Frank Howard of the Washington Senators was stopped by pitcher Earl Wilson of Detroit, which won the game 5-4.

1981 — Pittsburgh's Jim Bibby gave up a leadoff single to Terry Harper of the Atlanta Braves, then retired the next 27 batters for a 5-0 one-hitter. Bibby also hit two doubles.

1998 — Mark McGwire hit three tworun homers against Philadelphia. It was the second time this season and fourth time in his career McGwire hit three homers in a game. McGwire became the 12th player to have two threehomer games in a season.

2000 — Jason Kendall hit for the cycle and drove in a career-high five runs, leading Pittsburgh to a 13-1 rout of St. Louis. Kendall had a two-run homer in the first inning, an RBI single in the second, a double in the third and a two-run triple in the eighth.

2004 — Atlanta's 45-year-old Julio Franco broke his own record for the oldest player to hit a pinch-hit homer. Franco, who had a pinch-hit homer two weeks earlier against San Diego, hit a two-out, two-run homer to tie the game at 4 in the eighth. The Braves lost 6-4 in 11 innings to the Diamondbacks.

2008 — Boston's Jon Lester shut down Kansas City 7-0 for the first no-hitter in the majors this season. The 24-year-old lefty, who survived cancer to pitch the World Series clincher for the Red Sox last fall, allowed two baserunners, walking Billy Butler in the second inning and Esteban German to open the ninth.

2009 — Washington became the fourth team in major league history to score at least five runs in each game of a six-game losing streak. The Nationals lost 8-5 in 10 innings to Pittsburgh after they rallied to tie the game with a run in the ninth, but another letdown from a bullpen with a collective 1-14 record allowed them to join the 1929 Pirates, 2004 Cincinnati Reds and 2005 Texas Rangers.

SCOREBOARD

during the first period in Game 2 of the team's NHL Stanley Cup first-round playoff series against the Florida Panthers in Sunrise. The Lightning won 3-1.

Vasilevskiy stops 32, Bolts top Panthers 3-1

Associated Press

SUNRISE — Andrei Vasilevskiy stopped 32 shots, Steven Stamkos and Ondrej Palat had first-period goals and the Tampa Bay Lightning beat the Florida Panthers 3-1 on Tuesday night to take a 2-0 lead in their Central Division first-round playoff series.

It's the seventh time that the Lightning have won the first two games of a series, the third time doing so on the road. They've never lost one of those matchups, and will look to put Florida on the brink of elimination when the series shifts to Tampa on Thursday night.

Yanni Gourde added an emptynetter off a giveaway with 1:25 remaining for the Lightning.

Mason Marchment had the goal for Florida, which dropped consecutive games on home ice for only the second time this season. The Panthers have never won a series after dropping the first two games, falling on three previous occasions — and now need to win four out of five against the reigning Stanley Cup champions if this will be the season in which it ends a 25-year postseason series win drought.

Florida went with Chris Driedger in net after playing Sergei Bobrovsky in Sunday's series-opening 5-4 loss. Driedger, on his 27th birthday, was appearing in his first postseason game since 2014 when he was in major junior hockey, playing for the Calgary Hitmen of the Western Hockey League. He stopped 26 shots, getting pulled with about 2 minutes remaining. The Lightning are 28-0-0 this season including both games of this series - when leading after two periods, and have won 41 such games going back to last season and their run to the Stanley Cup. A couple of bounces — one off a Panther, the other off a post — staked Tampa Bay to a 2-0 lead in the opening period. Stamkos, who missed the final 16 games of the regular season, got his third point of the series and first goal since April 8 when he was credited with the opening score. Tampa Bay broke out on a play where Florida's Markus Nutivaara fell down, and Stamkos wound up being part of a 2-on-1 in front of the Panthers net.

Alex Killorn fed a pass across the slot to Stamkos, Driedger slid to his right, and Stamkos tried to send the puck back to Killorn. It never got there, nor did it have to; sliding Florida defenseman Anton Stralman deflected the puck into the net for a 1-0 Lightning lead.

Palat made it 2-0 later in the first, the lucky recipient of a puck that just happened to come his way. Brayden Point tried to beat Driedger over the left shoulder; his shot hit the post and caromed to Palat, who had open twine to shoot at for the second goal.

Marchment got free in the slot and tipped home a pass from Carter Verhaeghe to get Florida on the board with 5:39 left in the second.

But the Panthers never got the equalizer, and Gourde's easy one sealed matters for the Lightning.

LOOKING AHEAD

Tampa Bay was 21-7-0 at home this season, but Florida was the only team to beat the Lightning twice in their rink.

Sabonis leads Pacers past Hornets 144-117 in NBA play-in opener

INDIANAPOLIS — Domantas Sabonis had 14 points, 21 rebounds and nine assists, and the short-handed Indiana Pacers routed the Charlotte Hornets 144-117 in the Eastern Conference's first play-in game Tuesday night.

Led by Sabonis and Doug McDermott, who scored 16 of his 21 points in the first quarter, the ninth-seeded Pacers snapped a franchise-worst nine-game losing streak in the postseason. They also moved within one victory of making a sixth consecutive playoff appearance.

Indiana will visit the loser of Tuesday's other play-in game, No. 7 Boston against No. 8 Washington, on Thursday.

It was Indiana's first postseason win since a blowout victory against Cleveland in April 2018. And the Pacers won this one despite losing forward Caris LeVert to the league's health and safety protocol.

Charlotte was led by Miles Bridges with 18 points and former Indiana University star Cody Zeller with 17. The Hornets finished the season with six straight losses.

Bama-Miami; Clemson-Georgia highlight ESPN's opening weekend

ESPN's opening weekend of college football features defending national champion Alabama facing Miami in Atlanta and Clemson vs. Georgia in Charlotte. North Carolina.

The network also announced a six-year agreement with the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference and Southwestern Athletic Conference to continue broadcasting the MEAC/SWAC Challenge Kickoff and the Celebration Bowl matching both league's champions. Both games take place in Atlanta.

In anticipation of a return to normal this season, ESPN announced Tuesday its featured matchups for Labor Day weekend and the first three Saturday night games on ABC.

The COVID-19 pandemic caused most nonconference games to be canceled last season, along with a delayed start to the season in the Power Five conferences.

This season is expected to start on time with the schedule intact and Sept. 4 as the first full Saturday of major college football games.

Alabama-Miami will kick off at 3:30 p.m and air on ABC, followed by Clemson-Georgia at 7:30 p.m.

Notre Dame will play at Florida State on Sunday, Sept. 5, kicking off at 7:30 p.m.

The Labor Day night game will be Louisville against Mississippi in Atlanta at 8 p.m. on ESPN.

The ABC Saturday night matchups for the next two weeks of the season will be Washington at Michigan on Sept. 11 and Auburn at Penn State on Sept. 18.

ESPN will also air Texas at Arkansas on Sept. 11 at 7 p.m.

The Red River Showdown between Texas and Oklahoma will air on one of the ESPN networks on Oct. 9 along with Notre Dame at Virginia Tech. Kickoff times are still to be determined.

Still hurting, Koepka can walk but not run

Two months removed from knee surgery BEN NUCKOLS AP sports writer

KIAWAH ISLAND, S.C. - Brooks Koepka's preparation for the PGA Championship included playing the AT&T Byron Nelson last week in Texas — just to see if he could walk 18 holes without pain in his surgically repaired right knee.

He missed the cut, but the walking wasn't a problem. Playing to the standard of a four-time major champion while doing 2 1/2 hours of rehab a day might be tougher.

"Every day's been a long day," Koepka said Tuesday.

Koepka is two months removed from surgery to repair a dislocated kneecap and ligament damage. He's in better shape than he was at the Masters, where he hobbled his way to a missed cut while struggling to bend his knee enough to read putts or retrieve the ball from the cup. But he's hardly at full strength.

"I can't run. I'm not where I want to be. But at the same time, it's what I've got to deal with, so just move on," Koepka said. "I still have days where it sucks, when my knee just doesn't feel good waking up and it's not going to feel good all day, but those are getting less and less.

Brooks Koepka chips to the green on the 15th hole Tuesday during a practice round at the PGA Championship on the Ocean Course in Kiawah Island, S.C.

Koepka won his most recent major and small portion of the field beating him. second PGA two years ago at Bethpage Black. At the time, he had also won backto-back U.S. Opens, and he swaggered into brawny Bethpage with a confidence bordering on arrogance, saying majors

Since then, injuries have taken big chunks out of his schedule and robbed him of opportunities to be competitive even when he has played.

"I mean, I can play. You're never 100%, were "the easiest" tournaments to win that's the thing. For two straight years it's because he only had to worry about a been left knee, right knee, herniated a disk in my neck," he said. "I can deal with the pain. That's not an issue. It's just a matter of being able to hit the shots that I want to hit and do things I want to do, and I'm starting to be able to do that. Even though I'm not 100%, I can still hit the shots.'

Koepka gave himself a chance at a third consecutive PGA Championship last year at Harding Park before fading with a final-round 74. He skipped the FedEx Cup playoffs but managed a tie for seventh at the Masters.

Since then he has five missed cuts in eight starts. He also has a victory and a tie for second, although those came before the surgery.

His doctors tell him he won't be fully healthy for six more months, although Koepka believes he can improve upon that timeline. For now, the Ocean Course at Kiawah Island at least presents a more manageable challenge than hilly Augusta National.

"I feel like I can hit every shot. It's not like Augusta where I'm trying to figure out what's the best line to walk," he said. "Now I can actually hit golf shots and understand what's going on.'

Most of the time, anyway. In about one out of every 20 swings with the driver, he tries to push off his right leg only to discover he can't do it. No wonder all but one question he got at his pretournament news conference was injury-related. The only reprieve was a query about the tough par-3 17th hole.

"I haven't played it yet," Koepka said.

SUPER SHOT

On Wednesday, May 12, 2021, Peter Bockiaro, playing with the Citrus Hills Men's Golf Association, scored his greatest feat ever! On the par 5 hole No. 18, Peter hit a great drive into the fairway off the tee. He then hit a 7-iron for his second shot on a dogleg left up onto the plateau area. From there, he hit a 50-degree wedge 115 vards on a slight dogleg right over the lake onto the green where the ball rolled straight into the hole - an Eagle on a difficult par 5 hole. Congratulations, Peter. Nice going!

Volunteer spotlights

apturing our purpose through the ongoing experiences and phases of our life gives us cause to consider the possibility of transformation.

Of purpose, George Eliot wrote, "What do we live for is to make life less difficult for each other."

Actress Audrey Hepburn said it best: "Remember if you ever need a helping hand, you'll find one of the end of your arm. As you grow older, you will discover that you have two hands; one for helping yourself and one for helping others.'

Purpose is how serving others in volunteerism has purposely evolved over the course of time in our beloved Citrus County. Reaching out to those in need is our purpose.

The storms of the pandemic slowed our progress in our humanitarian efforts, but it was only temporary. Our challenges to our purpose are being resolved. Even our seemingly difficulties have purpose. When a particular challenge shows up, we can ask ourselves: "What is the best way to achieve our purpose?" "What can we learn from this?" Every experience on the volunteer path offers us a lesson or a gift. Our life has a purpose which we can fulfill lovingly. Nothing can keep us from finding and living our purpose.

The Garden Club of Crystal River was founded in May 1971. The club had their 50th installation of officers on May 10. More than 50 local women and men are members of the club.

The organization's goal is to provide the knowledge needed to succeed at gardening, how to protect native plants, birds and butterflies and learn the art of flower arranging.

The group recently awarded a $1,000 scholarship to a graduating senior from Crystal River High School, using funds from their annual yard sale.

One of the club's longstanding projects has been the maintenance of the Crystal River Blue Star Marker to honor veterans.

Due to road construction, the marker has been moved, refurbished and installed on the side of U.S. 19. A rededication ceremony of the marker is planned for June.

Additionally, members volunteer each month to clean the Crystal River Historic Cemetery.

Earth on Fire

On March 19, volcanoes at Geldingadalur (GEL-din-ga-DAH-loor) and Fagradalsfjall (fah-grah-dahls-fyahk) in southwest Iceland began to erupt after 6,000 years of being dormant, or quiet. (Fagradalsfjall means "beautiful valley mountain" in Icelandic; Geldingadalur means "gelding valley.")

The volcanoes are only about 25 miles away from the capital city of Revkjavik, but fortunately there are no homes or businesses nearby.

Let's learn more about these dramatic earthly eruptions.

What are volcanoes?

Volcanoes are places where magma and hot gases push through the Earth's surface. Volcanoes can erupt with violent explosions. Or the lava can spill out and flow quietly onto the surface.

The decay of radioactive elements within the Earth creates heat so high it partially melts rocks. Gases in this molten, or melted, rock build up pressure, like the pressure in a shaken can of carbonated soda. The pressure of the gas causes the molten rock to rise toward the Earth's surface.

Founded by Betty Debnam

Mini Fact:

Earthquakes starting in December 2019 alerted geologists that an eruption in Iceland might be coming.

Volcano sites

More than half of the active land volcanoes circle the Pacific Ocean in a "Ring of Fire." In this area, parts of the Earth are slowly colliding with each other.

The Earth's crust is broken into huge parts called plates. When one of these plates slides under another plate, they rub against each other. This is where rock melts to form magma.

Most active volcanoes border the edges of continents. Many are in or around the Mediterranean Sea. There are about 50 active volcanoes in the United States, in Hawaii, Alaska, Washington, Oregon and California.

The Kilauea (kee-lah-WAY-ah) volcano in Hawaii began erupting again on Dec. 20, 2020. It is one of the most active volcanoes in the world. "Kilauea" means spewing, or much spreading.

more magma and gas collect, pressure builds up and forces the magma up to the surface. Volcano destruction ...

Volcanoes can cause great damage. They can wipe out whole towns, killing thousands of people, plants and animals. When lava erupts, it is red-hot, measuring more than 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. An explosive eruption may throw out big rocks, known as bombs. These can weigh hundreds of pounds.

The magma and gases may collect in large underground chambers, or holding tanks. As Volcanic rocks can cause dangerous mudflows if they mix with water. These mudflows might reach speeds of 10 to 30 miles per hour.

Winds can carry volcanic ash around the world many times. In 2010, for example, another Icelandic volcano erupted, with ash covering large parts of Europe and shutting down some air travel.

... and construction

Volcanoes have played a big role in forming the surface of our planet. More than 80% of the Earth's surface was made by volcanoes, including much fertile soil. Many mountains and islands are really volcanoes that have built up layers of lava and ash.

The first oceans and the Earth's atmosphere were created from the gases from volcanoes that erupted several billion years ago.

On April 9, La Soufriere,

a volcano on the Caribbean island of St. Vincent, had an "explosive eruption," officials there reported. A cloud of ash about 4 miles high spewed from the volcano, and glowing lava could be seen on the side of the mountain. Officials had asked residents in the danger zone to evacuate, or leave, in the days before the eruption. Cruise ships helped remove people from the area, and nearby islands offered to take in evacuees from St. Vincent.

Annie offers advice

Dear Annie: This is in response to the letter from "Outside the Bottle Looking In," whose wife is an alcoholic.

I will start by saying I am so trem e n d o u s l y sorry for the heartbreak you are experiencing, and I admire the unselfish have for your wife and your neverending desire to see her healthy. You mentioned that you hoped and prayed someone else will see themselves in your letter, and I felt compelled to inform you that I not only saw myself in your letter but also felt the pain that you, and my significant other, must experience on a daily basis at the hands of someone's self-serving addiction. I know I will have to take multiple breaks to "cry it out" throughout this letter, but getting the pain out of my system is part of the process.

love you

DEAR ANNIE

As is true for most alcoholics, I grew up with an alcoholic father, who, at 74, is now drinking himself to death on a daily basis. As much as I would like to help him, I can barely keep my own boat afloat most days, so jumping into his boat right now would simply drown us both. I have quit drinking in the past, due to health issues as severe as pancreatitis, but for the past five years, I have managed to drink just under what it takes to noticeably hurt myself. Needless to say, the damage I am knowingly doing to my body is nothing short of irrational and unnecessary.

Being a high-functioning alcoholic, I hold a full-time day job running a Christian school, where I get all the love I need from the kids, without judgment. They, however, deserve an adult in their lives who does not miss Mondays because Sunday was a bit too rough. My son is set to graduate from high school this year, and he deserves a mom who can masterfully plan his graduation party, attend commencement and not have to drink during the celebration because it might be a little too stressful. And my significant other needs to know that while he's busy caring for the family and tending to those things outside of the house that pay the bills, he need not worry that someone is home drinking the moment he leaves the house and taking advantage of his generosity and trust. In every situation, good and bad, people need to hear a message from someone else. Parents convey things to their children redundantly, but until the children hear it from the teacher, it doesn't stick. Today, you are my "someone else." Although I've only been sober for a month or so, since your letter was published in our local paper, it has been the greatest month of my life. Everyone finally got the REAL me back. That is the same amazing ME I've always been but spent years drowning in alcohol, so thank you for breathing life and hope back into my life. I hope God delivers the support your wife needs, just as you delivered the message I needed to help myself. God bless those who love and care for alcoholics, because until we choose to care for ourselves, we hurt so many. You are all priceless. — Finally Crawled Out of the Bottle Dear Finally Crawled Out of the Bottle: Thank you for sharing your letter and your beautiful story of courage and success. Alcoholics may be self-serving in their addiction, but the addiction itself is a disease. The choice for the sober alcoholic is whether to take that first drink. If he or she succumbs, all future drinks are manifestations of the disease. That's why they say that for an alcoholic, "One drink is too many, a thousand not enough." Millions of others share this disease, so you don't have to go on this journey alone. I hope you are going to Alcoholics Anonymous meetings for reinforcement, support and advice.

Mark Twain said, "Get your facts first, then you can distort them as you please."

The declarer can usually get some facts from the first trick, in particular the opening lead. He should always ask himself what the leader has in that suit.

In today's deal, South is in four spades after the given auction. (Yes, three no-trump is safer.)

What should he do after West leads the club three, and East wins with the ace and returns the club nine?

 "The Holiday" (2006 Romance-Comedy) Cameron

South did not like his diamond void, but he couldn't bid less than four spades.

East wanted to mention his excellent club suit a second time, but he decided four clubs was too adventurous.

If he had climbed that high, South would probably have still bid four spades, but four clubs doubled could have cost 1,100.

South starts with 10 top tricks: six spades, three hearts and the club king. However, he has to take care of that last winner.

Given East's overcall, West's club-two lead must be a singleton. (He would have led high from a doubleton.)

So, if declarer puts up the club king at trick two, West will ruff it, and the contract will go down one.

Instead, South must play a low club from his hand at trick two. East will probably lead a third club. Declarer plays low again, allowing West to ruff higher than the dummy.

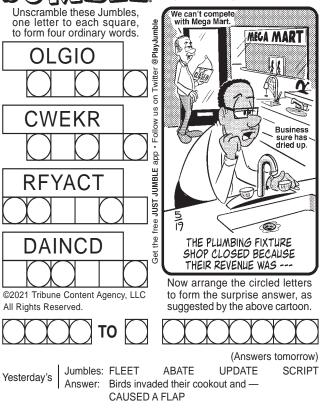

Then, though, South wins West's return, draws all of the trumps and takes those 10 winners, the club king still sitting snug and warm in his hand.

Read every lead, whether you are the declarer or a defender.
