Proposed Baker Act facility gets OK, but animal shelter gets cold shoulder

MIKE WRIGHT
Staff writer

Good news for backers of a Baker Act facility in Citrus County. Not so good news for backers of a new animal shelter. County commissioners on Tuesday unanimously backed a conceptual plan to provide up to 10 acres of land near the county jail for LifeStream Behavioral Center to build a mental health and addiction treatment campus. But they balked at Commissioner Jeff Kinnard's original recommendation that the county set aside a total of 16 acres for LifeStream and relocating the animal shelter from Inverness. Commissioners said they were on board with the LifeStream plan, but were not ready to make any commitment toward the future of the animal shelter. "I have looked at a lot of animal shelters in this state and it's not going to be cheap," board Chairman Scott Carnahan said. He said taxpayers "don't have the stomach" to support spending millions of dollars on an animal shelter. Commissioner Ruthie Davis Schlabach said the county needs a new animal shelter and she is committed to making that happen. "We do not have a perfectly fine animal shelter," she said. "I am going to shake every tree and call in every card."

COVID-19 crisis is test for Community Food Bank

NANCY KENNEDY
Staff writer

Hunger and food insecurity has always been a problem, and a percentage of the population in any community regularly depends on food pantry organizations to help feed their families. In 2020, local food pantries have seen an increase of between 300% and 400% of people coming to them for food. Of that increase, one-third has never needed food assistance in the past, but because of the economic impact of the coronavirus they are seeking help, said Barbara Sprague, Community Food Bank of Citrus County (CFBCC) executive director. "Where we usually distribute 2 million pounds of food a year through our 56 agencies, this year we're at 4 million pounds — we've doubled," she said. The week before Thanksgiving is designated National Hunger and Homelessness Awareness Week, and this year the Chronicle is spotlighting the Community Food Bank of Citrus County, the central agency responsible for feeding Citrus County. On a recent busy Friday morning, Sprague took time out to talk to the Chronicle about how the coronavirus has impacted this vital nonprofit organization. What has 2020 been like for you? "It's been a roller coaster," Sprague said. "Besides the people that regularly come to our agencies for food, now we've got an influx of new folks because of the coronavirus. They've had their hours cut or had to take a furlough, they've lost their job or their kids weren't getting free meals at school — a variety of different reasons." COVID-19 has also made fundraising for all nonprofits more challenging. "Thankfully, we had a lot of the different COVID grants and funding options earlier this year," Sprague said. "But we've been unable to have 'in-person' events like our annual dinner at Black Diamond, which is our biggest fundraiser. For that, we've asked our table hosts, which are our board members, to host their own smaller events ... so, we're still getting the word out." This year, Florida Commissioner of Agriculture Nikki Fried made a video in support of food banks to help draw attention to the vital work they do and the ongoing needs they have for financial support. CFBCC's annual budget is $500,000, covered by private donations and corporate sponsors. Where does the food come from? To feed the approximately 66,000 people in Citrus County and also parts of Hernando and Sumter counties through food pantries, soup kitchens and shelters, the CFBCC coordinates with a variety of food sources such as Feeding Tampa Bay, USDA, FEMA, Walmart, Publix, Winn-Dixie and Save-A-Lot. How has the coronavirus affected your food supply? Sprague said one good thing that came from the pandemic was the USDA

Simpson takes reins in Senate

MICHAEL D. BATES
Staff writer

Wilton Simpson was sworn in Tuesday as president of the Florida Senate and that means Citrus County residents now have a powerful force in the highest levels of state government going to bat for them.

Wilton Simpson

"Citrus County has been very good to me as a person and very supportive of me as their local senator," Simpson said. "What I will do in the next two years is do the best I can to continue to fund our priorities." But it won't be easy. The COVID-19 pandemic has cut deeply into state budget reserves and some priorities might be harder to get through going forward. He expects a state budget of $88-90 billion heading into next year, about $3-5 billion less than originally envisioned — all due to the economic upheaval from the pandemic. "Goal one is to right-size our government — to continue to have a booming economy and we have to do that with a balanced budget and replenish our reserves," he said. Simpson, 54, was elected to the Senate in 2012 and served as majority leader in 2016 and 2017. He succeeds President Bill Galvano, R-Bradenton, and takes on the coveted position of president for the next two years. The Chronicle interviewed Simpson just days

Jim Sanders believed in hard work, faith and food

NANCY KENNEDY
Staff writer

When Chas Sanders was a boy, his grandpa would drive him around Sugarmill Woods, the golf course housing development in Homosassa. "He'd say, 'This all used to be cow pasture.' He'd take me out to the golf course — his house was right on the golf course — and I'd catch minnows in the pond," Chas said. "As I got older, he'd say, 'Wash my truck,' or 'Wax my car; I'll pay you, but I want it looking good,' and then when I was done, we'd drive around Sugarmill Woods. He'd say, 'This is where I used to work,' and it was really awesome riding around with him, seeing all that he had done," Chas said. Chas Sanders' grandpa, James T. "Jim" Sanders, the developer of Sugarmill Woods and World Woods Golf Club, died Oct. 28, 2020. He was 89. A native Floridian from Jacksonville, Jim Sanders grew up on a farm. "His father was severely injured in an accident, so he had to help out, and that's where he developed his sense of discipline," Chas Sanders said. "He was a role model for me. He was known as a tough guy; he was a straight shooter, but he also showed grace. When I was in college, he used to tell me to stay focused, don't get distracted. Back then, I did get distracted. I didn't listen to him, but even then he had such patience and love for me. "He taught me what a man is, to be firm and have standards, but show affection. It took me a while to understand that graceful balance and to appreciate his well-roundedness, the combination of straight shooter and affection," he said. "He was a graceful man."

When Jim Sanders first came to Citrus County in 1973, he saw a 15,000-acre section of land in Homosassa and envisioned the area's first large-scale housing development, which would become Sugarmill Woods. His vision wasn't of just a housing development, but of a community that would embrace, not replace, the beauty of nature. So, along with building houses, Sanders also planted more than 1 million trees on what had

County: Unexpected timeline hurt us

Local officials, commissioners discuss CARES Act funding

MIKE WRIGHT
Staff writer

Bad timing, not bad policy, is the reason why Citrus County has millions of dollars in CARES Act funding and nowhere to distribute it, officials and commissioners said Tuesday.

The county has about $4.7 million in CARES funds left over after spending what it could to assist local businesses and individuals while still meeting the Monday, Nov. 16, deadline the state set to have the funds accounted for.

County Administrator Randy Oliver said the money will go into the general fund to reimburse the county for sheriff's deputies' payroll, which is an allowable use of CARES funds.

The county potentially could receive another $14.4 million in CARES funds as a reimbursement for deputy pay from mid-March through Dec. 30, 2020.

Oliver and commissioners said they provided CARES grants to more than 500 businesses, plus making rent, mortgage and utility payments for individuals facing economic hardships due to COVID-19.

Monday, Nov. 16, was the state-imposed deadline for the county to spend the $11.7 million it received from the U.S. Treasury through the state. Until two weeks ago, the county thought it had until Dec. 30.

County officials say the deadline change meant ending the grant program before all the funds were distributed.

"They moved the goal posts on us," Commissioner Holly Davis said.

Commissioner Ron Kitchen Jr. noted that, despite the county sending postcards to all eligible businesses, it did not receive the interest expected.

"We can't make you apply," Kitchen said. "If you don't apply, sorry."

A legal opinion sought by the county states CARES funds that reimburse the county budget for payroll can be used for economic development. The county may make direct distributions of public funds to businesses if they're adding jobs or expanding, the opinion states, but not to pay bills brought on by a loss of business due to COVID-19.

Still, Commissioner Jeff Kinnard said if the county cannot convince the state to extend the deadline, the county should use the money for its intended purpose — helping businesses and individuals suffering from COVID-19 economic fallout.

"This is not done," Kinnard said. "We just don't know what it looks like going forward."

Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance community challenge at halfway mark

Special to the Chronicle

As $20,000 worth of donated nonperishable food is being unloaded from the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, last week's $5,000 challenge to the community by the Black Diamond Foundation has reached the halfway mark.

The Foundation challenged the community to donate $5,000 to purchase turkeys for the Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance and the Foundation would match that amount.

As of Tuesday, the community has donated $2,675.

The donated nonperishable food in the picture will be used to fill the boxes of fixings that will be given out to the qualified needy family recipients along with a turkey at the 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 21, Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance (TGFA).

Once the challenge is met the money will be used to purchase the turkeys that have been ordered from Publix that each prequalified family in need will use to prepare a traditional Thanksgiving Dinner.

Publix has agreed to donate a $1,000 store credit in order to make the purchase of the turkeys easier for the TGFA.

That donation does not go toward the $5,000 challenge since it is a store credit rather than a cash donation from

Special to the Chronicle

A crew of Publix employees and volunteers from the Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance unloaded and organized the 16 pallets of nonperishable food to be individually boxed for distribution. the community.

Monetary donations can be made one of three ways:

■ Checks made out to "Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance" can be given to any Brannen Bank drive-up tellers at any of the 11 Brannen Bank locations in Citrus County.

■ Checks, again made out to "Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance," may also be mailed to Brannen Bank, P.O. Box 1929

Inverness, FL 34451.

■ Credit card donations can be made by going to www.pathofcitrus.org. Be sure to put "Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance" in the comments box. The Path Rescue Shelter has agreed to allow the Alliance to use its credit card donation system. It is one of the more than 30 nonprofit and for-profit organizations, including many area churches, that have banded together as the Thanksgiving Feeding Alliance since 2007 to make sure every Citrus County family in need, who qualified in October under the Salvation Army Guidelines as needy, can have a traditional Thanksgiving turkey dinner.

Tarantino has deal for 2 books on films

NEW YORK — Quentin Tarantino's next work of imagination will be in book form. The Oscar-winning director has a two-book deal with Harper, beginning with a novelization of "Once Upon a Time ... In Hollywood" that is scheduled for next summer. "Once Upon a Time" will be a true Tarantino production: The book will come out first as a mass market paperback, like the old pulp novels the filmmaker loves, and will offer "a fresh, playful and shocking departure from the film," according to Harper.

The film version of "Once Upon a Time ... In Hollywood" was released in 2019 and stars Leonardo DiCaprio as an actor and Brad Pitt as his stunt double. Nominated for 10 Academy Awards and winner of two, the movie is set in Los Angeles in 1969, around the time of the killings by Charles Manson's followers.

"In the '70s movie novelizations were the first adult books I grew up reading," Tarantino said in a statement Tuesday. "And to this day I have a tremendous amount of affection for the genre. So as a movie-novelization aficionado, I'm proud to announce 'Once Upon a Time ... In Hollywood' as my contribution to this often marginalized, yet beloved sub-genre in literature. I'm also thrilled to further explore my characters and their world in a literary endeavor that can (hopefully) sit alongside its cinematic counterpart."

Tarantino's second book will be the nonfiction "Cinema Speculation," which Harper is calling "a deep dive into the movies of the 1970's" that draws in part on the director's admiration for the late New Yorker critic Pauline Kael. A release date has not been determined.

"The book will be a rich mix of essays, reviews, personal writing, and tantalizing "what ifs," from one of cinema's most celebrated filmmakers, and its most devoted fan," according to Harper, an imprint of Harper Collins Publishers.

Several directors have written fiction in recent years, including Brian De Palma, David Cronenberg and Guillermo del Toro, and Michael Mann has been working on a prequel to his crime classic "Heat." Tarantino, 57, may well have more time in the future for books.

He has said that he will retire from filmmaking after he completes 10 movies: "Once Upon a Time ... In Hollywood" was his 9th. Tarantino had not turned 30 when he made his first feature-length film, "Reservoir Dogs," and he has claimed most directors lose their edge in their later years. Writing has long been part of his transition plans.

"I think when it comes to theatrical movies, I've come to the end of the road," Tarantino told GQ Australia last year.

Obituaries

Lucia Hoefler, 93
CRYSTAL RIVER

Lucia Hoefler passed away on October 18, 2020, five days after her 93rd birthday. Venera Lucia Scionti was born in Messina, Sicily, Italy. She was the second oldest of four children of Antonino and Filomena “Carmela” (nee Scio) Scionti.

Lucia endured an impoverished childhood and when she was just 12 years old her mother died. This event resulted in her becoming caretaker for her two younger siblings and her father, who had lost both hands in a fireworks accident soon after the death of Lucia’s mother.

When WWII came to an end, Lucia left Messina and moved north to Livorno where she met Maximillian Carl Hoefler, an MP for the US Army. After a short courtship, and only one day prior to her 20th birthday, Lucia married Max on October 12, 1947.

The “war bride” immigrated to the US on November 5, 1947 with a very limited knowledge of the English language. However, Max’s penchant for learning and perfecting new languages helped Lucia to quickly become fluent in English. In spite of only having a formal education to the age of 10, Lucia passed both the citizenship test, and later, the New York State GED with ease.

In 1976 Max and Lucia moved from Islip Terrace NY, the place they had called home and raised their two children for the past 18 years, to Crystal River FL. Together they enjoyed the warm weather and abundant sunshine while boating and fishing near their home. After Max’s passing in 1989, Lucia involved herself in the community by volunteering with various organizations including, the Art Center of Citrus County, Crystal River Primary School, Citrus Springs Elementary School, Crystal River Women’s Club, St. Benedict’s Food Bank, and Playhouse 19. Lucia was also a member of St. Benedict’s Church and, after moving to Lecanto in 2000, Our Lady of Grace Church.

During these years Lucia also traveled to many parts of the world, Brazil, Singapore, China, Greece, Australia to name a few, with her best friend Terry Grieco. Lucia also loved hosting dinner for her family and friends, and was particularly proud of her abilities in the kitchen especially as they pertained to authentic Italian and German dishes. Another point of pride for her was her garden, in which she grew everything from fig trees to orchids. She would have told you that she had a green thumb, or in her thick Italian accent, “tun”.

Lucia was predeceased by her sister Mela, husband Max, grandson Brian, brother Nino, and niece Melina.

In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation to one of the organizations for which she volunteered.

Special thanks to the staffs of Grand Living, Superior Residences of Lecanto, Cypress Cove, Citrus Memorial Hospital, 7 Rivers Hospital, and the Nature Coast Emergency squads for their compassionate care over the last three years.

David Jones, 69
SPRING HILL

David Carlton Jones, age 69 of Spring Hill, Florida, died Wednesday, November 4, 2020 in Lecanto, FL where he was in hospice following an accident while driving a school bus for Silver River Mentoring and Instruction (SRMI). Thankfully, none of the kids on board the bus were hurt or injured.

He was born September 17, 1951 in Oakland, CA, son of Everett and Dorothy (Deike) Jones. He was a Vietnam Era veteran of the USMC.

He retired for the Ford Motor Assembly plant in St. Paul MN when it closed its doors in 2009 after 23 years of service.

Even though he was retired, he continued to seek employment driving school bus for Rogers and Elk River schools, and MTI of Golden Valley MN.

In 2016 he and his wife relocated to Florida, where he drove school bus again for both Hernando and Citrus County school system. Moving to Florida was the perfect opportunity for Dave to display his wide collection of Hawaiian shirts and baseball hats. Winters in Minnesota and Hawaiian shirts always made him appear to be a tourist, and garnered comments from strangers all the time. But this would always bring a smile and a pleasant conversation.

Dave loved WWE Wrestling, College and Pro Football and had become an ardent fan of all Florida football teams. He was at his happiest watching weekend football with a Bud Light Lime and his best buddy...his dog Herbie.

Dave was a kind and gentle man, who always had a smile and friendly word for anyone he met. He loved his wife, and never failed to tell her every day. He loved driving bus and the kids that rode with him.

Although he had some hearing loss and wore hearing aids, this hearing loss did make for some very interesting conversations, and brought on laughter at times that he was quick to participate in.

I am sure that if there is a Tommy Bahama Hawaiian shirt shop in heaven... my Dave will be their best customer.

He is survived by his loving and devoted wife Patricia. His children not by blood, but most certainly by his heart, Nikki Stansbury and her daughters Victoria Brain and Sydney Stansbury, and his son Jarrod (Jenn) Zaruba and their daughter Kennedy Rose.

Survived also by his son Nathan (Kristal) Jones and their children Cameron and Della; his daughter Jenny Jones and her daughter Emily Rose; and his son Erik Jones.

No service will be conducted, as his ashes will be returned home with his family. Condolences may be sent to the family at www.HooperFuneralHome.com. Arrangements by the Inverness Chapel of Hooper Funeral Homes & Crematory.

Farmers to Families Food Box program that provided stimulus money to allow farmers and food distributors to redirect gluts of their unsold produce, dairy and meat to food banks.

However, that ended in October.

In the past, the CFBCC has also relied on the twice-a-year food drives sponsored by the local post offices. In October 2019, Citrus County residents donated 33,647 pounds of food, which postal carriers collected while on their routes.

This year, Sprague said, both food drives were canceled.

“Also because of COVID, there’s been a few weird hiccups in the food chain,” she said. “Right now there’s a shortage of canned goods.”

She said she’s not sure if it’s the cans, the aluminum they’re made from or maybe shipping has been affected.

► “It is only when we take chances, when our lives improve. The initial and the most difficult risk that we need to take is to become honest.”

PAVING PLANS

Inverness considers road repair analysis

Inverness has the right idea: Gather the data, analyze it, make a plan that includes tasks, timelines and costs, then execute the plan. Plan the work, work the plan — a basic management concept.

It’s especially important when the subject is road repair and maintenance, which has become such a hot topic elsewhere in the county. As City Manager Eric Williams told council members, the city lacks a true picture of conditions in its network of 73 miles of paved roads.

His proposal, which the council approved, is to hire a consultant the city previously worked with to complete an assessment, along with producing recommendations on maintenance and rehabilitation work, for all the city’s roads.

Until now, Williams said, the city has relied on “reactionary need and institutional knowledge of known issues as the previous guiding principle for road resurfacing/improvement.” That’s not workable going forward, and not the best way to maximize the city’s assets.

We congratulate Inverness for deciding to plan the work instead of just reacting to citizen complaints. Everyone can see and discuss the plan, and be confident in the process that things are being done, and done the right way. Keeping roads in repair will please current residents, but it also sets the table for businesses interested in coming to Inverness, as well as for new residents and visitors. The city’s efforts at marketing itself as a “small town done right” will go up in smoke if people can’t get around easily.

Other local governments should take note of what the city of Inverness is doing. It puts the horse on the proper side of the cart, and it just makes good sense.

THE ISSUE:

Inverness council to assess and plan road maintenance/repair.

OUR OPINION:

This is the right way to do it.

Boats destroying quality of life

My husband and myself were thrilled five years ago to find a small home in Lake Park Subdivision off of State Road 200 in Hernando. Our dream to get out of the cold weather had come true, we became permanent residents of the beautiful state of Florida. We love living here; the people are warm and gracious, very hospitable, a night and day difference from living outside of Washington D.C.

Imagine after a long day, you lay your head on your pillow, only to hear from the lake across the street the sound of airboats, powerboats, gunshots, and only the Lord knows what else is going on. We are well aware there is a curfew on boats after 11 p.m. We look forward to that time, thinking the boats will get off the water. We have made numerous phone calls and pleas to different authorities. And yet, when the weekend arrives (and on holidays), the boats may be quiet right after 11ish. But, soon the sound of engines roaring begins again and God is my witness, I am not lying, the boats roar around sometimes until 3 a.m. When we were attending church (pre-COVID) we could hardly keep our eyes open in the service, after having been awake until 1 a.m., 2 a.m., 3 a.m., forced to listen as the boaters flew around in the dark.

One Citrus County department head hit the nail on the head when listening to my complaint, “Your quality of life is being compromised.” Quality of life? We have gone through all the proper complaint channels, and still last night, there were at least two power boats on Lake Tsala Apopka until 2:30 a.m. My question: Who is in charge so we can get our quality of life returned to us?

Manatees alive and well in Homosassa

Year after year the Chronicle does a big splash announcing the beginning of manatee season and its effects on the economy. I see only one discrepancy; where is Homosassa? Why is it always about Crystal River? I can personally vouch, as a local captain who entertains many guests each winter, that the manatee season is alive and well in Homosassa. And it appears that the claim that Crystal River “is the only place that you are allowed to interact with manatees” might be an inaccurate statement.

Trump lost fair and square

In a letter to the Chronicle, “What’s the big rush?” Jim Bobay criticizes those who are calling on Trump to concede two weeks after Election Day, writing, “Donald Trump was winning in several states when counting stopped on Tuesday night, and Wednesday afternoon he was losing in almost every one of them. Doesn’t that make you wonder just a little bit?”

Trump and his state-level Republican enablers orchestrated a “red mirage” strategy and telegraphed it for weeks before the election. It unfolded exactly as planned: Trump falsely claimed that mail-in ballots were subject to fraud and encouraged his supporters to vote in person, knowing that in-person votes are tabulated first in most states; Republicans who control state Houses in several swing states forbade poll workers from starting to count mail-in ballots until Election Day — Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Michigan — virtually guaranteeing that Trump would be ahead when the polls closed; Trump claimed repeatedly — without basis in law or precedent — that the election must be called on Nov. 3, knowing he would likely be ahead before the mail-in votes were counted.

So no, Mr. Bobay, it does not make me wonder, not even a little bit. Trump lost fair and square. It’s regrettable that so many fell for a gaslighting scheme that wasn’t at all secret or sophisticated.

As for Trump’s accomplishments, I credit him with giving us a ballpark figure to associate with President Lincoln’s famous maxim by demonstrating precisely how many of the people you can fool all of the time — about 73 million. Fortunately, approximately 79 million were not fooled.

Both parties need to chill a bit

Well, that was interesting! While the election may not be completely over, due to lawsuits and other bumps in the road, the results, most of them, are known. We do know who the next president is going to be and who most of the congressmen and women are going to be. Except for a couple of senators, we know all the re-elected and newly elected players. It seems Republicans won some new seats in the House of Representatives, maintained the majority in the Senate (maybe and probably) and kept the majority of state governments in the GOP.

Republicans’ biggest loss was the presidency to Joe Biden. That is surely a big deal, but Biden’s presidency will not be the end of the world as many predicted. Biden is not going to all of a sudden go socialist. He is a patriot with a long history of political inside knowledge. He has a lot of baggage to be sure, but he is basically a good guy with warts, just like many other politicians.

While President Trump may not ever concede as he stridently moves to show a flawed election process, he is probably seeking a way to come out a winner in some way. He will likely claim that the GOP’s success in the House is to his credit, and that may be somewhat true. If the two Senate seats now in limbo do go Republican in January’s runoff, he will likely take credit for that too.

The main takeaway from the election is that Trump lost and Biden won. And most importantly, despite the hype, Biden will not and cannot significantly change our form of government to socialism. So, Republicans, chill a bit. And Democrats, enjoy your semi-victory and also chill a bit. Remember, in four years we get to do this again!

Thanks for paying for my groceries

Just wanting to shout out as loud as I can and say thank you to the gentleman with the bottle of wine who paid for my groceries at the grocery store. In this day of everyone seeming so upset and so confused and not knowing what’s going on, that was a very pleasant surprise and I want to thank you very much. God bless.

There’s a Panera in Inverness

Referring to the (Saturday, Nov. 7, 2020) Sound Off statement, “Enough fast foods”: The person in Sugarmill Woods is complaining about them putting in a Taco Bell and a Wendy’s. Well, for your information, there is Panera Bread in Inverness. Why don’t you enjoy the ride from Sugarmill Woods to Inverness and go and enjoy Panera Bread?

Think about sign’s message

Just one more call about the “Eternity in hell” sign, please: Where you will spend eternity is the most important decision you will ever make. Think about it. You all stay safe.

Wear a mask, lock your car

Stat Cop here...The key words today again are, “Don’t become a victim.” Check your house. Make sure all your locks are locked and your cars are locked up so no one can go through them. Politics is finally over for a little bit, it seems like. All of us need to get with the program now and take care of business. Everybody wear their mask and let’s beat this thing. Everybody have a good day. God bless.

Think about sign’s message

This is for everyone who is calling in about the “Eternity in hell” sign, that it’s too negative and it’s cruel. Seriously? You’re offended by that sign because it’s true. You don’t want to face your own demise and you think you can do it on your own. Well, you can’t. That sign is true and it’s offensive because you don’t like it. There’s a message in there. Think about it.

Improvements don’t impress me

I attended the annual Festival of the Arts at Liberty Park in Inverness yesterday around 4 p.m.

Not much going on there, not a whole lot of tents, not many customers — kind of disappointing. I miss it being around the Old Courthouse because then you’re right by Coach’s and Stumpknockers and that would be better for the downtown merchants. Maybe it was held in Liberty Park because the courthouse would be more bunched together. And of course with the virus, that’s not good. ... As far as Liberty Park itself, if I could snap my fingers, I’d go back two years ago before the $12 million improvement. I don’t like it. There’s too many walls and plants and bushes separating the Depot from the green park itself. ... Except for having the bathrooms, I’m not impressed. I like it the way it was. I wish the playground was way on the other side, but I suppose you want the kids close to parents as they shop at the open market. OK, I know I’m old, cranky and complaining...

Beware of the grandson scam

I just want to warn everyone there is a new — maybe it’s an old — scam going around. I have received two phone calls today from a gentleman claiming to be my grandson. When I asked his name and then for a password, he immediately hung up. So if you don’t have grandkids, double-check. Make sure before you talk, because it could be a scam and somebody just wanting your money. Take care, good luck, stay safe and wear your mask.

Signal can prevent deaths

I’ve called a couple of times about issues to Sound Off, one being the intersection of (County Road) 491 and (State Road) 200, and I see in Friday’s paper (Nov. 6, 2020), there was this woman tragically killed at that intersection. I also know from the newspaper that the state, I guess, has agreed to put a light at that intersection. You can tell your county commissioners who were against it that the young lady would still be alive, and her 5-year-old child was with her when she was killed. Fortunately, the child lived through it, but it’s just a tragedy that the intersection has been that way so long. I’ve been involved in an accident there and I can see how it happens.

More columns from the sheriff

This was an excellent article on Sunday, Nov. 15, by Sheriff Mike Prendergast (Page C3’s guest column titled, “Sheriff’s office tackles behavioral health issues”). We need more of it to keep us informed and for the public to become engaged and cooperative. Thank you very much.

Trump fires top cybersecurity agent

Krebs vouched for 2020 vote security

BEN FOX
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Donald Trump on Tuesday fired the director of the federal agency that vouched for the reliability of the 2020 election.

Trump fired Christopher Krebs in a tweet, saying his recent statement defending the security of the election was “highly inaccurate.”

The firing of Krebs, a Trump appointee and director of the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency, comes as Trump is refusing to recognize the victory of Democratic President-elect Joe Biden and removing high-level officials seen as insufficiently loyal. He fired Defense Secretary Mark Esper on Nov. 9, part of a broader shakeup that put Trump loyalists in senior Pentagon positions.

Krebs, a former Microsoft executive, ran the agency, known as CISA, from its creation in the wake of Russian interference with the 2016 election through the November election. He won bipartisan praise as CISA coordinated federal state and local efforts to defend electoral systems from foreign or domestic interference.

In recent days, Krebs has repeatedly pushed back against false claims that the election was tainted. Earlier Tuesday, he tweeted out a report citing 59 election security experts saying there is no credible evidence of computer fraud in the 2020 election outcome.

Trump fired back on Twitter later in the day. He repeated unsubstantiated claims about the vote and wrote “effective immediately, Chris Krebs has been terminated as Director of the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency.”

Krebs kept a low profile even as he voiced confidence ahead of the November vote and, afterward, knocked down allegations that the count was tainted by fraud. At times, he seemed to be directly repudiating Trump, a surprising move from a component of DHS, an agency that has drawn criticism for seeming to be too closely allied with the president’s political goals.

CISA issued statements dismissing claims that large numbers of dead people could vote or that someone could change results without detection.

It also distributed a statement from a coalition of federal and state officials concluding there was no evidence that votes were compromised or altered in the Nov. 3 election and that the vote was the most secure in American history.

Krebs avoided ever directly criticizing the president and tried to stay above the political fray, even as he worked to

States tighten restrictions

Virus cases surge

IOWA CITY, Iowa — The deadly rise in COVID-19 cases across the U.S. is forcing state and local officials to adjust their blueprints for fighting the virus, with Republican governors adopting mask mandates — skeptically, in at least one case — and schools scrapping plans to reopen classrooms.

The steps face blowback from those who question the science behind mask wearing and social distancing and fear the new restrictions will kill off more jobs and trample on their civil liberties.

In Iowa, Gov. Kim Reynolds had pushed back against a mask mandate for months but imposed a limited one Tuesday, becoming the latest GOP holdout to change course on face coverings. At the same time, she claimed “there’s science on both sides” about whether masks reduce the spread of the coronavirus.

With Thanksgiving coming up next week, public health officials are bracing for a holiday-fueled surge. Doctors are urging families to stick to small gatherings.

Governors in Ohio, Maryland and Illinois imposed restrictions on business hours and crowd sizes Tuesday, and their counterparts in Wisconsin and Colorado proposed economic relief packages.

DEADLY SURGE

The key measures of the country’s effectiveness in managing the pandemic are all heading in the wrong direction. Hospitalizations, deaths and cases are all skyrocketing in the U.S.

More than 73,000 people — an all-time high — were hospitalized with the virus in the U.S. as of Monday, an increase of over 3,000 from just a day earlier, according to the COVID Tracking Project. Hospitals are running out of space, and nurses and doctors in Kansas are converting waiting areas to patient rooms and spending upwards of eight hours on the phone trying to secure beds at other hospitals.

More than 166,000 newly confirmed infections were reported on Monday, according to Johns Hopkins University. The average number of new cases per day has more than doubled over the past few weeks.

The virus is blamed for more than 1.3 million deaths worldwide, including over 247,000 in the U.S. Deaths per day in the U.S. have climbed to an average of 1,145, up from 828 two weeks ago.

The national death toll is on pace to keep climbing in the coming days as states set new records. Wisconsin reported 92 new deaths Tuesday, shattering its daily record of 66 set last week.

MORE MASK MANDATES

Since the election, Republican governors in hard-hit Iowa, North Dakota and Utah have reversed course and put in place requirements on masks, and others have extended or expanded earlier orders.

Plenty of other elected officials and residents are balking at such requirements despite the surge. And some local law enforcement authorities have refused to enforce mask requirements.

In Utah, dozens of people opposed to a statewide mask mandate protested outside the home of Gov. Gary Herbert. In South Dakota, the state with the highest rate of COVID-19 deaths per capita in November, Republican Gov. Kristi Noem has no plans to issue mask requirements.

In Iowa, Reynolds cast some doubt on the science behind masks even as she imposed a limited mask rule. She noted that neighboring states with mask mandates, like Illinois and Minnesota, have seen rising numbers of cases, although not as severely as Iowa.

“Oh, there’s science on both sides and you know that. If you look, you can find whatever you want to support wherever you are at,” she said.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says masks can help protect you and those around you.

A more stringent mask mandate took effect on Tuesday in California, where Democratic Gov. Gavin Newsom said residents will be required to cover up outdoors, with limited exceptions.

And in New Orleans, officials took the drastic step of canceling the beloved, but traditionally packed Mardi Gras and Carnival parades that draw visitors from around the world because the city has a 250-person cap on outdoor crowds to limit the virus’s spread. The next Mardi Gras is Feb. 16; the parades usually run for about two weeks.

“You can’t have traditional parades with that small a group,” city spokesman Beau Tidwell said Tuesday.

SCHOOL SHUTDOWNS

The rising infection rates are prompting some school districts to revert to remote learning or postpone a return to classroom instruction.

In South Dakota, the Rapid City-area school system plans to close all schools and move to virtual instruction on Wednesday.

The district’s latest data showed 94 students and 47 staff with an active case of COVID-19, while 105 staff and 676 students were in quarantine following exposure.

In metro Las Vegas, the Clark County school district postponed plans to resume partial in-class instruction and will continue with remote learning through at least the end of the calendar year.

West Virginia’s largest teachers organization urged Republican Gov. Jim Justice to make public schools online-only. The state recorded more than 4,400 cases during the week ending Sunday, a 63% increase from the previous week.

The governor already has barred in-person instruction from Thanksgiving through Dec. 3 to avoid outbreaks from holiday travel.

VACCINE VOLUNTEERS

The world received welcome news in the past week with positive preliminary results on two COVID-19 vaccines from Pfizer and Moderna, but scientists are worried that volunteers will stop coming forward take part in studies of other vaccines under development. Thousands are still needed.

Pentagon to cut troop levels to 2,500 in Iraq, Afghanistan

WASHINGTON — Acting Defense Secretary Christopher Miller said Tuesday the U.S. will reduce troop levels in Iraq and Afghanistan by mid-January, asserting that the decision fulfills President Donald Trump’s pledge to bring forces home from America’s long wars even as Republicans and U.S. allies warn of the dangers of withdrawing before conditions are right.

The plan will accelerate troop withdrawals from Iraq and Afghanistan in Trump’s final days in office, despite arguments from senior military officials in favor of a slower, more methodical pullout to preserve hard-fought gains.

Miller, who refused to take questions from reporters after reading a prepared statement before TV cameras at the Pentagon, said the U.S. will reduce troop levels in Afghanistan from more than 4,500 to 2,500, and in Iraq from about 3,000 to 2,500.

Stocks fall as virus worries force big rally to take a pause

NEW YORK — Worries about the worsening pandemic pushed Wall Street to tap the brakes Tuesday on its big November rally, which had vaulted stocks back to record heights.

Treasury yields also dipped after a report showed U.S. shoppers spent less at retailers last month than economists expected. The numbers underscore how the coronavirus pandemic is worsening and threatens to drag the economy lower, at least in the near term.

Stocks that stormed higher this month on hopes that a vaccine or two may get the global economy back to normal next year receded amid the worries.

The S&P 500 fell 17.38 points, or 0.5%, from its record to close at 3,609.53. It was the first loss for the index in three days. The Dow Jones Industrial Average also fell from a record, down 167.09, or 0.6%, to 29,783.35. The Nasdaq composite slipped 24.79, or 0.2%, to 11,899.34.

Iota roars onto Nicaragua as second blow in two weeks

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — Hurricane Iota battered Nicaragua with screeching winds and pounding surf Tuesday, chasing tens of thousands of people from their homes along the same stretch of the Caribbean coast that was devastated by an equally powerful hurricane just two weeks ago.

The extent of the damage was unclear because much of the affected region was without electricity and phone and internet service, and strong winds hampered radio transmissions.

A day earlier, Iota intensified into a Category 5 storm, but it weakened as it neared the coast and made landfall with maximum sustained winds of 155 mph. The system came ashore as a Category 4 hurricane about 30 miles south of the Nicaraguan city of Puerto Cabezas. That was just 15 miles south of where Hurricane Eta made landfall Nov. 3, also as a Category 4 storm.

been barren farmland to make Sugarmill Woods a “greenbelt” community, creating a “home in the woods” feel for homeowners.

He also built one of the first solar-powered homes in the area.

Jim's son, Chuck Sanders, remembers his dad as someone who loved to work.

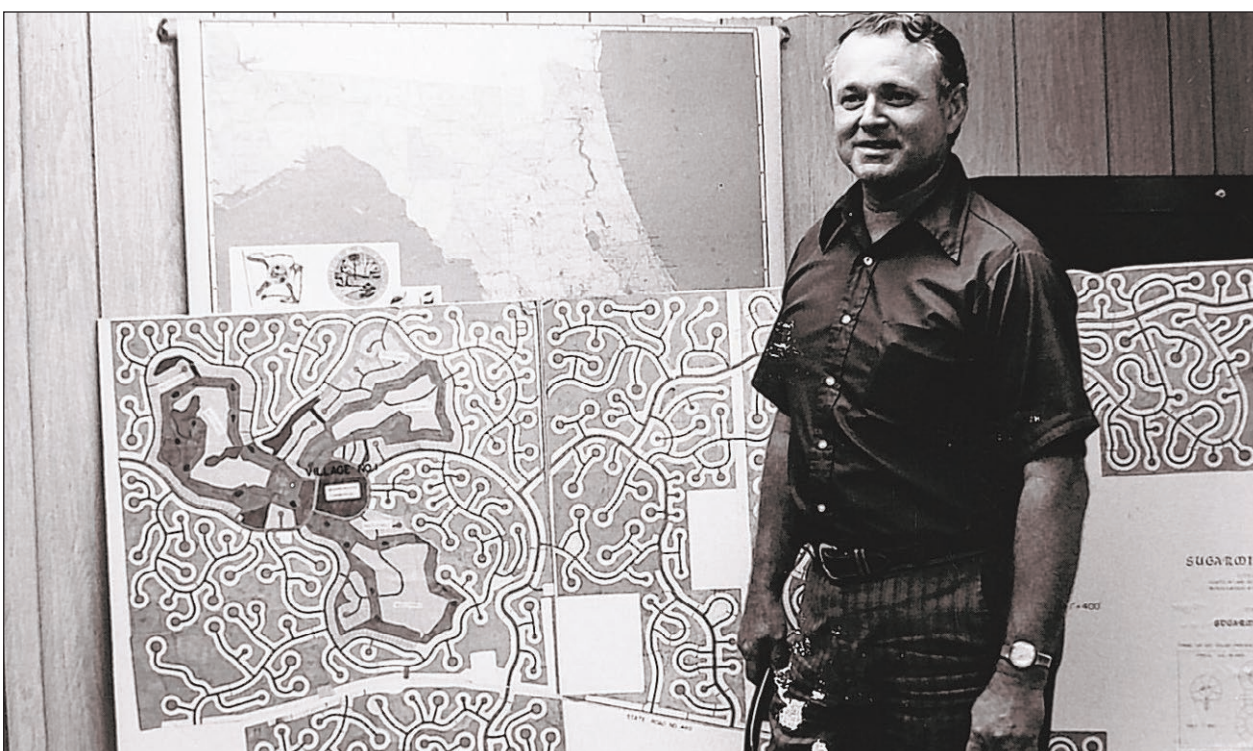

“From him I learned hard work, a dedication to a cause, never giving up no matter what others or the economy says and keep focused on your mission and God will see you through,” he said. “Also, Mom and Dad loved the Lord Jesus, and at a very young age my brother and I both came to trust in our savior Jesus Christ — this may just be the greatest single thing that Mom and Dad taught us.”

Jim and his late wife, Jenny Sanders, who died in 2006, were both active members of Grace Bible Church in Homosassa.

As much as Jim Sanders loved to work, he also loved hunting quail.

"Dad was an expert quail hunter and most every Saturday — and sometimes weekdays when conditions were right — Dad would thoroughly enjoy loading up his bird dogs, mostly English Pointers, with his close friends and sons and ride through the Sugarmill Woods land, which is now part of the Citrus Withlacoochee Wildlife tract that was planned to be Palm and Pine Villages.

"He knew about where every bird covey was," Sanders said.

James T. “Jim” Sanders, the developer of Sugarmill Woods and World Woods Golf Club, died Oct. 28, 2020. He was 89.

Jim Sanders also built a kennel for his bird dogs by the Sugarmill Woods private sewer plant.

"I think that may have been the only dog kennel around here that's waste was treated by a sewer plant. He really had a first class operation there," Chuck Sanders said.

In 2002, Jim Sanders went into business with his son, Chuck, and formed

SanderSon Bay Fine
Homes in Citrus Hills.

"When I was president of Citrus Hills Construction from 1990 to 2002, Dad was always curious about Citrus Hills development, as he knew Mr. Sam Tamposi and respected him greatly as a fellow developer," Sanders said. "He wanted me to be happy and follow my dreams, and he sorta knew that one day I would like to run my own building business like my older brother was doing in Punta Gorda. So one day Dad, Bob Henigar and I met and discussed the concept of SanderSon Bay Fine Homes.

“Dad and Bob remained partners until a bit after the real estate bust of 2008 when my wife and I bought them out and continued on with their legacy. Now we will continue to build quality homes in Dad's honor. What a joy it has been to provide quality shelter for new and existing Citrus County residents," he said.

A story about Jim Sanders can't end without telling of one of the grand passions of his life — food.

That man could eat.

Smoked ribs and sausages, raw oysters, oyster dressing, followed by his wife's famous coconut cake.

Stone crab claws, however, were his number one favorite delicacy in all of creation.

"He'd start thinking about them in early October, and then in early November he'd start calling my dad," Chas Sanders said.

‘He’d say, ‘Hey, Chuck. Thanksgiving and Christmas are coming up, and we need the BEST deal on stone crabs. We need a lot of them this year.’ Then the night before Thanksgiving, it was our tradition to put newspaper out on the table, boil and then crack open all those stone crabs and eat them all.

"Papa was an eater, that's for sure," Chas said, adding, "He forever touched Citrus County, and he leaves quite a legacy ... he was an overall amazing man."

NCAA Basketball SEASON PREVIEWS

FSU looking to contend

Seminoles expect to be in the mix for ACC title

BOB FERRANTE
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Leonard Hamilton is known for taking on a fixer upper, rebuilding programs at Oklahoma State, Miami and now Florida State. He is in his 19th season at Florida State and enjoying sustained excellence.

But with a new roster, Leonard and the No. 21 Seminoles face a stiff challenge to once again claim the top spot in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It's a familiar situation for players and coaches who have stated the Seminoles can't compete with the decades of tradition of the "blue bloods" of college basketball, and that Florida State is instead the "new bloods."

Hamilton has guided the Seminoles to three straight NCAA Tournament appearances and an Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season title in 2019-20 as part of a 26-5 season. Florida State had hoped to show off its athleticism and depth in March before the pandemic halted the college basketball season. ESPN analyst Dick Vitale picked Florida State as the national champion in his what-if book, "The Lost Season," on the 2020 NCAA Tournament.

"This team had potential to make a lot of noise," Vitale said. "They won a very difficult ACC regular season. It wasn't a team that just got hot for two or three games in the tournament. They had been tested all year long. Leonard had them performing all year long. Against really special, special teams."

Florida State coaches look for length, athleticism and players who are dedicated to learning Hamilton's defensive principles. Assistant coach Charlton Young describes them as "high character gym rats." The staff focuses on building deep rosters by recruiting unselfish players but also those with the right skill set and fit.

"I've got three things we require, that are non-negotiable: You have to play hard, defend and play unselfish," Hamilton said. "If we're doing it on a consistent basis, we'll give ourselves a chance."

Some other things to watch with Florida State this season:

Reduce the noise

Florida head coach Mike White gives instructions against North Florida during the first half of an NCAA college basketball game Tuesday, Nov. 5, 2019, in Gainesville. Unlike a year ago, Florida begins the season unranked and won't have nearly as much hype.

Coach White, Gators want to improve culture of the program

MARK LONG
AP sports writer

GAINESVILLE — Florida coach Mike White's motto for this season: reduce the noise.

It's White's way of trying to keep his players better focused and more grounded after a year in which they struggled to handle a top-10 preseason ranking and lofty expectations that had some college basketball pundits picking the Gators to reach the Final Four.

Players seemed more concerned with points, minutes and NBA draft stock than passing, rebounding and defending. Florida was talented enough to overcome some of its culture and chemistry issues and go 19-12 (11-7 Southeastern Conference) before the coronavirus pandemic halted postseason play.

White wasted little time in hitting the reset button and went to work trying to build "a championship-level culture."

"We're fighting every day for our culture because it means a lot," White said. "It's worth a lot in the win-loss column and the development of your team throughout the season."

The Gators open Nov. 25 against Maine at a resort casino on tribal land in Connecticut. They face No. 4 Virginia two days later and have early season road games scheduled against Oklahoma (Dec. 2) and 21st-ranked Florida State (Dec. 12).

Unlike a year ago, Florida begins the season unranked and won't have nearly as much hype even though they return seven of their top nine scorers and add four transfers: Tyree Appleby (Cleveland State), Colin Castleton (Michigan), Anthony Duruji (Louisiana Tech) and Osayi Osifo (Eastern Florida).

"We can't let nobody from outside tell us what we are capable of," center Omar Payne said.

Point guard Andrew Nembhard and center Kerry Blackshear Jr., two of the slowest guys on the roster, are gone. Their departures allowed White to install a more up-tempo offense and a full-court, pressing defense — looking for easy buckets on one end and difficult shots on the other.

As important as finding the perfect style fit for his team, White believes getting the locker room in order could have an even bigger impact.

He started giving weekly "culture quizzes" this summer, with each player needing to get a perfect score to get a practice jersey. Gratitude, loyalty and truth are among the words the Gators have to know inside and out.

"We're in a better place in that regard right now," White said. "But we all know

'Canes expect to rebound
After two losing seasons in a row

MIAMI — Coach Jim Larranaga is coming off back-to-back losing seasons for the first time since 1991-93, and he knows why.

His Miami Hurricanes have had trouble guarding their opponents, especially in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"We have been perhaps the worst team in the ACC defensively the past two seasons," Larranaga said. "Some of it has to do with our lack of depth, some of it has to do with not being quite as big and talented as in my previous seasons."

This season the Hurricanes are taller and deeper, and they hope to be better. Five of their top six scorers return from a team that went 15-16 last season, and at least three newcomers are expected to have significant roles.

BETTER D?

One of Miami's newcomers is 7-foot senior Nysier Brooks, a transfer who blocked 51 shots for Cincinnati a year ago and is eager to upgrade Miami's interior defense.

"I know a lot more people at this level intend to try me, so I'm going to focus on going vertical," Brooks said. "A lot of people aren't going through me to finish, but there will be a lot of people that have athletic abilities, so I'm just waiting for them to come see. I'm planning on trying to get defensive player of the year in this conference."

Regarding perimeter defense, senior guard Chris Lykes says several of his teammates are versatile enough for the Hurricanes to mix and match.

"It will be a different team defensively, and better, too," Lykes said. "We have solid rim protection. We've also got guys who can guard a number of different positions. We have been picking up full court in practice, and I think we have the speed and agility to do that."

ENTRENCHED

Larranaga, 71, is heading into his 35th year as a head coach and his 10th at Miami. He's under contract through 2023-24 and says he has no plans to retire, but acknowledged the past two seasons have been trying.

There was more frustration when forward Sam

A year like no other in golf’s big events

Majors summed up by the young, the bold, the best

DOUG FERGUSON

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Lowest score in Masters history. Fewest bogeys for the tournament. First player to reach 20-under par. Dustin Johnson can add one more distinction to his historic week at Augusta National, even if this one won't show up in the record book.

He only gets to keep the green jacket with him for 141 days.

Reminders of this year like no other because of the COVID-19 pandemic are never far away. Only the current champion is allowed to take his green jacket away from the club until the next Masters, which is five months away.

To that end, Johnson gets another footnote in history as the first major champion to have had the coronavirus. It's easy to overlook he was in self-isolation in a Las Vegas hotel just three weeks before the first of his 268 strokes at the Masters.

"I know 2020 has been a really strange year," Johnson said. "But it's been good to me."

It was good for golf, too.

Despite losing three months in the middle of the season, having the British Open canceled for the first time since World War II and the Ryder Cup postponed until next September in Wisconsin, it still delivered a schedule that will be uninterrupted for 24 weeks until Thanksgiving.

And even with some significant rearranging, three majors provided the perfect snapshot of golf with their winners.

The young. The bold. The best.

Collin Morikawa was 23 when he captured the PGA Championship in his first try with a shot that will rank among the best on the back nine of any major, a driver on the 294-yard 16th hole at Harding Park to 7 feet for an eagle. It was his 28th start as a pro. Jack Nicklaus and Tiger Woods won their first major in their 18th professional event.

Morikawa was the symbol of another youth movement, and this one could turn out to be as strong as the high school class of '11 group that included Jordan Spieth, Justin Thomas, Xander Schauffele and Daniel Berger.

Also in the mix that Sunday at Harding Park were 21-year-old Matthew Wolff and PGA Tour rookie Scottie Scheffler. As the year nears the end, five players under the age 25 are among the top 30 in the world.

The U.S. Open went to Bryson DeChambeau, and his brain won't get as much credit as his brawn. He went down another rabbit hole, as he likes to say, and emerged a major champion with a bold strategy that only looked dubious until it worked.

He posted the lowest 72-hole score at Winged Foot and won by six. And in a year when governing bodies seemed more determined than ever to curtail distance, DeChambeau showed there is no solution to athleticism. In his case, it's a body built to swing faster and hit the ball harder.

"Hitting it farther is definitely an easier way to play the game," DeChambeau said. "No matter what, athletics are always going to be the top of mind in sport, and no matter what sport you're in."

He wisely figured out at Winged Foot that with tight, turning fairways on firm turf, no one was going to hit many fairways even playing with shorter clubs they could control, so why not swing for the fences? It worked at Winged Foot, not so much at the Masters, but only because he didn't hit his irons or putt as well as he did at Winged Foot. That still matters.

DeChambeau will get another crack at reducing Augusta

National to a par 67 next April.

Oddly enough, Johnson averaged 67 a day at the Masters, though when asked at the start of the week what was his idea of realistic par at Augusta, Johnson replied, "The par is 72 when you add up the numbers on the holes."

Simple enough.

Even with two tournaments remaining, the Masters closed the curtain on an extraordinary year, and Johnson is a most extraordinary player. He now has 24 victories on the PGA Tour, at least one in every year except 2014. In his last seven starts, he has three victories, three runner-up finishes and a tie for sixth at the U.S. Open.

Whether it was making only four bogeys all week — back-to-back holes in his second and final rounds — or tying a record by hitting 60 greens in regulation, most impressive about his dominance was the crystal.

The Masters awards crystal highball glasses for anyone making an eagle. Johnson picked up two of those from the par-5 second hole, two putts measuring a combined 8 feet.

He also became the first player to win three crystal vases awarded to the low round each day — a 65 in the first and third rounds, a 68 on the final day. That's rare in any tournament, much less a major. J.H. Taylor in 1900 at St. Andrews is the only player to have the low score all four rounds.

In a year in which a record five players reached No. 1, Johnson will end the year there. And at this rate, it could be a while before anyone takes it back from him. Odds are he will bring that No. 1 ranking with him to the next Masters, along with his green jacket.

CITRUS HILLS

On Wednesday, Nov. 11, 2020, the Citrus Hills Men's Golf Association played this week's game on the Oaks course playing "2 Best Balls Plus." We started the day with heavy dampness in the air. As we played, more dampness intermittently fell from the clouds to keep us super-hydrated. Put jackets on; take jackets off; put jackets on; take jackets off; all morning long. We finally decided getting wet was a Florida thing and just endured the cooling moisture we got. Better than all summer with 90-degree-and-above temps with humidity to match! Scoring is done by taking the two lowest net scores on each hole compared to par. The "Plus" allows additional points to be added for all additional net birdies or better for each hole. Seven teams played. Game results gave the following places:

Don Morrison, Charlie Haire,

On Friday, Nov. 13, 2020, the Citrus Hills BGA (Bad Golfers Association) played its traditional annual "Turkey Day Classic" on the Oaks course. Friday the Thirteenth — I should have known better than to play that day! We began by awarding Jim Remler, the BGA's former Commissioner for 23 1/2 years with a plaque honoring him for his lengthy service to the BGA and our Citrus Hills community. Stories about Jim were published in the Chronicle on Sept. 23 and in the Pinnacle on Oct. 7. We started with nine teams and ended with nine teams. Nobody got lost (remember what day it was)! We played a game where scoring on the front 9 was 2 best balls (net) compared to par and 3 best balls (net) on the back 9. The "Plus" allows for any additional player who scores a net birdie or better to also add their score(s) to the team total. Scores were as follows:

First	-21
Scott Steffens, Dave Barber,
Sam Stecker
Second	-20
Mike Stefani, Charlie Haire,

schedule will feature a play-in tournament and an NBA Finals that could run all the way until July 22 — keeping some players from competing in the Olympics.

The league's 75th season, delayed and shortened because of the coronavirus pandemic, will begin Dec. 22 and look like none other. The NBA announced Tuesday how it will make up the 72-game schedule, which won't be entirely known until well after it's started.

Teams will play 42 intraconference games, with each club facing the other teams within its conference three times. Teams will play the remaining 30 games against the opposite conference — one at home and one on the road.

When that's finished, the play-in tournament, approved Tuesday by the board of governors on a one-year basis, follows involving the teams with the seventh through 10th-best records in each conference. They will play for the final two playoff spots in the East and the West.

If all goes according to plan, preseason games will be held Dec. 11-19. The first half of the season then runs Dec. 22 through March 4, followed by an All-Star break March 5-10 — though the All-Star Game in Indianapolis was scrapped.

with 4.0 assists per game. The Seminoles will likely lean on 6-4 senior RayQuan Evans and 6-6 redshirt junior Anthony Polite.

I don't think you've seen the real RayQuan Evans," Hamilton said. "He made major contributions to our team last year. He made big plays. He played with a tremendous amount of confidence. He played like he's ready."

SHARP SHOOTER

MJ Walker averaged 10.6 points per game last season and made 44 three-pointers, shooting 36.1% from beyond the arc. The 6-5 senior guard has consistently improved as a defender and just needs to be a consistent scoring threat.

UP FRONT

Florida State has some talented big men. Malik Osborne, a 6-9 forward, averaged 6.0 points and 4.9 rebounds per game and should see an expanded role.

"Malik Osborne has really, really made the biggest jump, I think, of all our kids," Hamilton said.

Balsa Koprivica (4.7 points, 2.4 rebounds) made a big step forward in his freshman season and the 7-1, 260-pound center has a variety of post moves.

TALENTED SIGNEES

The coaches landed five-star guard/forward Scottie Barnes, three-star guard Sardaar Calhoun, three-star center Quincy Ballard and transfer center Tanor Gnom from Ryerson University in Canada. (Gnom will be a senior.) Barnes was named the ACC's preseason freshman of the year.

"I really, really like Scottie Barnes and Sardaar Calhoun," Hamilton said. "Physically, I think we brought in some guys that can fit our system."

CHALLENGING SCHEDULE

Florida State will play host to No. 4 Virginia, No. 9 Duke and No. 16 North Carolina as part of a 25-game schedule, 15 of which will be in Tallahassee. Among the other home games will be December matchups with Florida and Indiana, both of which received votes in the preseason Top 25 poll.

in this thing, in this crazy sport, on November 25th we're going to name five starters. And how do six through 13, through 15, how do they respond? That following game on the 27th, who starts? The other guys, how do they respond?

"Five games in, our fourth-leading scorer, is he more concerned with being our first-leading or second-leading scorer, or how many minutes he's playing or whether or not he's doing everything he can do to help the Gators win? Those are all the things that we've got to do a better job of controlling if we're going to be a championship-level team."

Some other things to know as the Gators enter White's sixth season:

POPULAR DESTINATION

Florida has been a popular landing spot for transfers and has its biggest crop to date. Appleby, Castleton, Duruji and Osifo bring experience and give the Gators their most depth under White.

Appleby, Tre Mann and Ques Glover will share time at point guard. Duruji's athleticism should fit nicely in the up-tempo scheme. Castleton could McGusty said.

Along with Brooks, newcomers include freshman guard Earl Timberlake and freshman forward Matt Cross. Deng Gak, a 6-11 junior, returns after missing most of last season with a knee injury.

The 6-5 Timberlake is among the mostly highly ranked recruits in Miami history.

"He is more physically ready than most freshmen," Larranaga said. "He's strong and athletic and is going to be a major contributor from day one."

LYKES

Lykes led Miami with an average of 15.4 points a year ago, and he's the third-leading returning scorer in the ACC. Putting up points isn't his primary goal, however.

"I'm trying to win as many games as I can," Lykes said. "I feel like I've had a solid career here, but careers are always defined by winning. Unfortunately I haven't won much here."

SCHEDULE

The opener against Stetson on Nov. 25 was postponed because of a COVID-19 case within the Hatters' program. Miami is now scheduled to play four non-conference games, beginning Nov. 29 at home against North Florida.

Because of the coronavirus, no fans will be permitted at home games through at least the end of December.

Waardenburg, Miami's leading rebounder a year ago, suffered a season-ending foot injury in practice last month.

"Before," Larranaga said, "when I was speaking to anyone from the media, I would say as long as we stay healthy, we should be in much better shape than we have been the last two seasons. But it a big blow to us to lose Sam."

Larranaga has coached four NCAA Tournament teams at Miami, but the Hurricanes went 14-18 in 2018-19 — his first losing record since 1997-98 at George Mason. Last season was only slightly better, and the Hurricanes have lost 17 consecutive games to ranked teams since February 2018.

Larranaga blames the Hurricanes' downturn on an FBI investigation into college basketball that raised questions about his program and hurt recruiting. No wrongdoing by Larranaga surfaced.

MORE DEPTH

Recruiting struggles and injuries meant the Hurricanes had only eight scholarship players for some games a year ago. This season the rotation could be 10 deep, even after the loss of Waardenburg.

tiebreakers again to get the better of Rafael Nadal, and defending champion Stefanos Tsitsipas also won Tuesday on Day 3 of the ATP Finals.

Thiem beat the 20-time Grand Slam champion in straight sets and secured his spot in the semifinals when Tsitsipas outlasted tournament newcomer Andrey Rublev in the evening match at an empty O2 Arena.

Thiem clinched a 7-6 (7), 7-6 (4) win on his fifth match point in his first meeting with Nadal since the Australian Open quarterfinals in January, when the Austrian player prevailed after winning three tiebreakers in a tight four-set match.

The U.S. Open champion opened group play in the season-ending event with a three-set victory over Tsitsipas on Sunday and qualified for the semifinals when Tsitsipas won 6-1, 4-6, 7-6 (6), handing Rublev his second defeat.

On Wednesday, top-ranked Novak Djokovic will play Daniil Medvedev — both players won their opening matches — and Alexander Zverev faces Diego Schwartzman, with both in search of their first victories.

Wichita State coach Marshall resigns after probe

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Wichita State coach Gregg Marshall resigned Tuesday following an investigation into allegations of verbal and physical abuse, ending a tenure that soared to the Final Four and crashed on the eve of the upcoming season.

The school said Marshall agreed to a settlement of $7.75 million to be paid over the next six years.

Athletic director Darron Boatright said "this decision is in the best interest of the university, its student athletes and the WSU community." Shockers assistant coach Isaac Brown will serve as the interim coach.

Marshall, who has long been known for his combustible sideline persona, came under scrutiny when former player Shaq Morris claimed he'd been struck twice by his coach during an October 2015 practice. Morris also claimed that he'd seen Marshall choke assistant coach Kyle Lindsted, who soon departed to become an assistant at Minnesota.

At long last, Wiseman is about to be on a team again. Delayed NBA draft finally comes today

Plans were put on hold due to virus

BRIAN MAHONEY
AP basketball writer

There was no dancing on the court after a March Madness victory. No bounding onto the stage in a spiffy suit to meet the commissioner in June.

The coronavirus pandemic wiped out the traditional end of a college career and the usual start of a pro one. Players such as Anthony Edwards, LaMelo Ball and James Wiseman should be about a month into their rookie seasons by now, but their plans were put on hold.

After multiple delays, the NBA draft finally arrives Wednesday. Like everyone else in 2020, this year's class of players has tried to make the best of their difficult circumstances.

"I feel like it was better for me," Edwards said. "I haven't complained, I haven't tripped about it at all. I just felt like it was better for me because more time for me to get better and get ready for the NBA."

The freshman guard from Georgia is one of the leading candidates to be picked first by the Minnesota Timberwolves. Ball, a guard who skipped college to play professionally overseas, and 7-foot-1 Memphis freshman center Wiseman are the other headliners in the class.

The draft is usually held in June in New York, where Adam Silver announces the first-round picks. The top players sit at tables in the front of the arena and when their names are called, put on a hat with the logo of the team that picked them and walk onto the stage for a handshake and a photo with the commissioner.

This time, Silver will be announcing the picks from the ESPN campus in Bristol, Connecticut. Players have been shipped boxes of hats for wherever they will be watching to choose the one they need when their name is called.

It's not the draft night they wanted, but the excitement of becoming a pro player won't diminish. Not when they've been waiting since March, when sports stopped just days before the selection of the NCAA Tournament field, to start playing ball again.

"I mean, playing in games, I missed it a lot. But at the same time, this extra time, it's only helping me," said forward Obi Toppin, the national college player of the year from Dayton.

"I feel like I'm more prepared and mentally prepared for when the time comes, and I feel like when I'm on the court and that jump ball goes up, I feel like I've been waiting so long that it's going to be an amazing feeling."

The Golden State Warriors have the No. 2 pick, a chance to add a top young player to a team that reached five straight NBA Finals before tumbling to the bottom of the league when Stephen Curry and Klay Thompson were injured. Charlotte picks third, followed by Chicago and Cleveland.

The teams lacked some resources to evaluate players, without the normal draft combine in Chicago or the ability to invite players to their facilities for meetings and workouts. Perhaps that's partly the reason there is no consensus No. 1 pick this year like Zion Williamson in 2019.

"I would say the analysis is fair. There is no guy that has separated himself from the pack, from public or external view," Timberwolves President Gersson Rosas said.

Edwards believes the lack of an NCAA Tournament hurt the players. They couldn't make a final collegiate statement like Ja Morant did when he turned in a triple-double in an upset victory for Murray State in the first round of the 2019 NCAA Tournament. That helped secure him as the No. 2 pick behind Williamson and he was a runaway winner of the Rookie of the Year award after nearly leading Memphis to the playoffs.

Wiseman wouldn't have had that chance anyway. He averaged 19.7 points and 10.7 rebounds in three games after arriving as the nation's No. 1 recruit, then was suspended by the NCAA for eligibility reasons and announced he was leaving the program to prepare for the draft.

"Of course I wanted to win a national championship, of course I wanted to establish that situation with my teammates," he said. "I love my teammates, I actually text them every day. But you know how life happens. Like, stuff hits you out of nowhere, but I feel that me just being there gave me a lot of mental toughness, gave me a lot of maturity as a person."

He worked out for only the Warriors and Hornets, suggesting the Wolves may be choosing between Edwards and Ball with 2015 No. 1 pick Karl-Anthony Towns entrenched as their man in the middle.

If it's Ball, he ends a run of 10 straight one-and-dones to be the No. 1 pick. Blake Griffin in 2009 is the last non-college freshman to be the top selection.

Ball didn't do college at all, playing professionally in Lithuania and Australia.

Epstein steps down after 9 seasons leading Cubs

ANDREW SELIGMAN
AP sports writer

CHICAGO — Theo Epstein, who transformed the long-suffering Chicago Cubs and helped bring home a drought-busting championship in 2016, is stepping down after nine seasons as the club's president of baseball operations.

The team announced Tuesday that Epstein is leaving the organization, and general manager Jed Hoyer is being promoted to take his place.

Epstein said after the season he anticipated remaining on the job for at least one more year, with his contract set to expire in 2021. He had said repeatedly he thinks executives have about a 10-year shelf life in a job, and next year would have marked a decade since he left the Boston Red Sox for Chicago.

Epstein said in a statement he will "cherish" his time with the Cubs and said it was simply time to make a change.

"The organization faces a number of decisions this winter that carry long-term consequences; those types of decisions are best made by someone who will be here for a long period rather than just one more year," he said. "Jed has earned this opportunity and is absolutely the right person to take over this baseball operation at such an important time."

Chairman Tom Ricketts said the Cubs are "grateful for everything he has given to this organization and this city."

The 46-year-old Epstein, who led Boston to World Series championships in 2004 and 2007, is one of five executives to lead multiple organizations to titles. He, Pat Gillick, John Schuerholz and Dave Dombrowski are the only ones to do so with teams in each league.

Epstein oversaw a massive rebuild when he came to Chicago following the 2011 season. He overhauled the farm system as well as the scouting and analytics operations, helping to produce one of the most successful stretches in the franchise's history.

The Cubs reached the NL championship series three times in Epstein's nine seasons and won the World Series in 2016, ending a drought dating to 1908.

The Cubs won the NL Central last season at 34-26 under rookie manager David Ross after missing the postseason the previous year. But they got swept by Miami in their wild-card series, scoring one run over two games.

With homegrown stars Kris Bryant and Javier Báez, shrewd trades for players such as Anthony Rizzo and Jake Arrieta, the signing of Jon Lester and the hiring of former manager Joe Maddon, the Cubs transformed into perennial contenders.

In 2016, they won 103 games to run away with the NL Central, beat San Francisco in their division series and took out the Los Angeles Dodgers in the NLCS for their first pennant since 1945.

The Cubs fell behind 3-1 to the Indians in the World Series. In Game 7 at Cleveland, they blew a three-run lead in the eighth, scored two in the 10th after a short rain delay and hung on for an 8-7 win when Mike Montgomery retired Michael Martínez on a soft grounder to third baseman Bryant, setting off a celebration more than a century in the making.

They are also planning a tentative book sale for February 2021, depending on the status of the pandemic. The Friends of the Homosassa Library have canceled both the Spring 2020 and Fall 2020 book sales due to the pandemic, making 2020 a very unique year for the group. Buy a calendar, support Rotary charitable causes

Like many during the pandemic, the Rotary Club of Central Citrus County was forced to cancel major fundraising events. One traditional annual event canceled was the Black Diamond Invitational Car Show, of which proceeds support several local nonprofit community organizations and students of Citrus County schools through scholarships. Due to this cancellation, the Central Citrus Rotary is asking the Citrus community to support the club and it's endeavors through its annual calendar program. For $35, donors will receive a 2021 calendar with 365 daily prizes throughout the year. One thousand calendars are individually numbered, and the calendar matching the daily midday Florida Cash 3 Lotto number receives the daily prize. It is never less than $35 and can vary from that amount to $50, $100 and up to $500 on New Year's Day. With 1,000 calendars and 365 chances to win, many people can enjoy supporting the club. Artwork for the 2021 calendar was done by local photographer Jessie Owens of Crystal River; one of the organizations the project will support this year is the Friends of Crystal River National Wildlife Refuge Complex. 'Be a Santa to a Senior' and purchase a heartfelt gift

At a time when it may be more important than ever, Home Instead's seasonal favorite, Be a Santa to a Senior, returns stronger than ever with new options for community participation.

Program coordinators evaluated the important holiday program and made adjustments with the safety of donors, seniors and volunteers in mind. With seniors in Citrus County more isolated than ever because of concerns due to the COVID-19 virus, this year, along with the traditional trees and gift-request ornaments, for the first time in the program's 17-year history, Home Instead will also collect monetary donations/gift cards to provide the same holiday cheer to local seniors while also prioritizing the safety and wellness of all who are involved. "The Be a Santa to a Senior program brings so much joy to seniors in our community," said Carolyn Quintanilla, owner of the Home Instead office serving Citrus County. "We've all felt isolated at some point during the pandemic, but seniors are

It can help with discipline, responsibility, social skills, and even math. Playing a musical instrument and participating in a group like the Citrus Youth Educational Symphonic Orchestra also teaches persistence and dedication, says Andrea McCray, the symphony's director of donor relations. "The gift of music is for life," says the group's Executive Director Martin Hoffman, who also is a pastor of Providence Baptist Church in Lecanto. Founded in 2011 when Homosassa resident Harold Seckinger formed a nonprofit group to help bring classical music and string instrument training to Citrus County, the orchestra today is bouncing back from a COVID-19 shutdown. To that end, the orchestra is sponsoring an open house/informational session for prospective students and their parents Jan. 19, 2021, from 4:15-5 p.m. at Cornerstone Baptist Church, 1100 W. Highland Ave., in Inverness. Conductor of the orchestra Stephen Lane said the group had performed its most ambitious concert yet in March 2020, just before it was forced to close because of the pandemic. Musical instrument classes resumed in September, but only for returning students. January will be the first time in a while that the orchestra will accept new students, according to McCray, Hoffman and Lane. By the way, Lane

Students are taught in small groups of similar instruments. The goal is for everyone to become proficient enough to play together in the orchestra class.

The cost is $250 a year for a family with several youth musicians, plus $50 per student. Financial assistance is available. Students ages 5-19 are accepted. Students don't need to be residents of Citrus County, and they can come from public or private schools or can be homeschooled.

The orchestra provides instruments, music stands and a book of sheet music to students.

The students play classical music, but also have delved into such pop tunes as an arrangement of "Take Me Out to the Ballgame," Conductor Lane said. Trained as a cellist before entering the seminary, Lane also teaches cello and arranges music for the group.

He said he became interested in the orchestra because there is no string instruction in schools, "and I saw a need for it."

McCray said her son, Mason Holly, 14, who's been playing piano since he was 3, wanted to play violin in an orchestra, "but it's not taught in school, so he picked up flute in sixth grade."

When Mason joined the orchestra, his sister, Tegan McCray, 10, chose to play trumpet, McCray said.

In September, when students returned to the

"Some had practiced faithfully and some hadn't," he said. "We're taking this semester to regroup and get them back up to par ... This is a restart," he said.

Back to work

On a recent Tuesday, parents and grandparents waited in a main hall while groups of students went with instructors to practice rooms to work on their fingerings, embouchures, and sightreading. The students seemed happy, the instructors seemed engaged, and the parents seemed grateful. Social distancing and mask-wearing were practiced as much as possible.

Nancy Linley-Harris' daughter, Mariah, is learning violin, and Linley-Harris said she (Linley-Harris) finds the symphony "perfect." Linley-Harris said, "With music, her ability to compute math is better. It teaches responsibility. She's learning to read music."

Sonny Walls, who provides security services for the orchestra, said for his granddaughter, Alyssa Bruce, 9, playing violin as part of the orchestra is about "the only thing that holds her attention." Now that she has a violin, "She gets right to it," Walls said.

As a nonprofit, the orchestra receives grants from Duke Energy and the Black Diamond Foundation, and sponsors have included Suncoast Credit Union, the Inverness Elks, and the Kings Bay Rotary.

The orchestra accepts donations of instruments. It also would welcome more board members, volunteers, and someone to maintain the website, Director of Donor Relations McCray said. Like McCray, Executive Director Hoffman and Conductor Lane are parents of student musicians.

All positions are volunteer, except for teachers, who are paid a small amount. And the group, of course, welcomes financial donations.

The group's website is www.cyeso.org. It also has a Facebook page.

The Mayflower 400

This painting of the signing of the Mayflower Compact was made in 1899 by Jean Leon Gerome Ferris.

This year marks the 400th anniversary of the Mayflower arriving in New England, on Nov. 11, 1620. The Pilgrims aboard the ship had been traveling for 66 days from Southampton, England. The ship sheltered in Cape Cod Bay until mid-December, when they moved to Plymouth Harbor and began to build their new settlement.

This week, The Mini Page learns more about who the Pilgrims were and their journey to North America.

Who were the Pilgrims?

In the 1600s in England, it was against the law to worship in any other church but the Church of England. But some people thought the Church of England was too much like the Roman Catholic Church and wanted to worship differently. They were called Separatists.

Some of the Separatists moved to Holland, where they could practice their faith more openly. But they were afraid of losing their English identity, and finding work was difficult. They decided to move to the Virginia Colony, which extended north to the Hudson River. They originally planned to settle near what is now New York City.

About 40 of the people aboard the Mayflower were not Separatists; the Pilgrims called them “strangers.”

Settling in

While the colonists built houses in Plymouth, they lived on the ship. Many of them became sick with scurvy (caused by not enough vitamin C) and pneumonia. About half the people who had set out from England on the Mayflower died within the first year.

The Mayflower Compact

When the Mayflower ended up in Massachusetts rather than in the Virginia Colony, the “strangers” didn’t think they needed to follow the rules that had been set out at the beginning of the journey. The Pilgrims believed they must establish some laws for the new settlement.

The Mayflower Compact said:

- colonists would remain loyal to King James.
- they would create and obey laws for the good of the colony.

Almost all of the adult male passengers of the Mayflower signed the document.

Give thanks

What are you giving thanks for this Thanksgiving? While 2020 has been an unusual year, with remote learning and mask-wearing, there is still a lot to be thankful for. Let’s look at a few ideas.

- Be thankful for school.

While “school” has been different and challenging this year, many millions of children around the world do not get to go to elementary school at all, according to the United Nations.

Many more girls than boys are never given the chance to learn to read and write.

- Be thankful for family and friends.

This year, time spent with loved ones has been a “silver lining” of the COVID-19 pandemic and the restrictions we’ve been following. Many families have enjoyed playing games, getting outside and doing projects together.

- Be thankful for technology.

Can you imagine trying to do school remotely without the internet, a computer or a tablet? While these tools help us every day, there are still plenty of people who can’t access the internet or afford to buy the gadgets.

Eco Note

A small number of Australia's iconic Tasmanian devils have been transplanted to a forest near Sydney in a test project to bring them back to the mainland. The devils died out there more than 3,000 years ago after dingos were likely brought to Australia by prehistoric immigrants from Indonesia. And about 90% have been wiped out in their only remaining habitats on Tasmania by a deadly tumor cancer since the 1990s.

PetsAUSTRALIAN SHEPHERD

Unfortunately I have to part ways with my Aus-sie shepherd puppy Mia. She is the sweetest most affectionate angel but I am having a difficult time with my asthma and allergies since she started shedding more. She is very good with other animals (I have 3 cats) and she's good with my 6 year old son. She would make a great addition to an active family. She loves to run around and play in the yard. She is mostly housebroken but she has her accidents here and there, she is just a puppy after all. She loves to chew on things so she need lots of chew toys. She is fixed and UTD on all of her shots and she's microchipped. She is pure bred but does not have papers (I have seen both of her parents). I am selling her for $800. I will interview many interested buyers to make sure the home she is going to is the right fit for her. I love her very much and I want her to be very happy where ever she ends up. I have her crate trained and the crate, her toys, her neater feeder food and water bowls, and her records will all be included. 352-400-8021 text or call

SCAM ALERT**

How to Avoid a Fake Check Scam*• INSIST ON CASH

• Don't accept a check for more than the selling price. You can bet it's a scam.

• Inform the Buyer that you'll wait two weeks before sending any merchandise.

• Never use money from a check to send gift cards, money orders, or wire money to strangers or someone you just met. Many scammers demand that you send money through money transfer services like Western Union or MoneyGram, or buy gift cards and send them the PIN numbers. Once you wire money, or give someone the gift card PINs, it is like giving someone cash. It's almost impossible to get it back.

• Toss offers that ask you to pay for a prize. If it's free, you shouldn't have to pay to get it.
