n what has become a tradition, members of the Citrus Garden Club and VFW Post 4337 in Inverness gathered together on Tuesday, Nov. 10, 2020, for a joint cleanup of the historic Pine Hill Cemetery in Inverness

Veterans and garden club members worked side by side, trimming tree branches, raking leaves and sweeping pine needles from the graves.

We're also removing the old American flags and replacing them with new ones to get everything cleaned up for Veterans Day tomorrow," said Sandy Hume, Citrus Garden Club president.

It's something the club does before Memorial Day and Veterans Day each year.

The cemetery, established in 1890, was originally used for burying indigents and later became known as a "Black" cemetery. At one time it was maintained by Eli White from East Dampier Street Funeral Home.

For a number of years, the cemetery sat untouched.

In 1981, the city of Inverness took over the title to the adjacent Oak Ridge Cemetery. At the same time, the city offered to maintain Pine Hill Cemetery, but local black church leaders declined the offer and chose to maintain the cemetery through donations and volunteer hours from their congregations.

In 2001, the garden club adopted the county-owned cemetery and has regular cleanup days throughout the year.

VFW Post 4337 joined them in 2018 and the two groups have been combining cleanup forces ever since. Jan Ethier, an Air Force veteran and garden club member, paused her cleaning up duties to reminisce about her short time in the military.

"For me, it was about getting an education," she said.

She spent her three years serving in the transportation unit at Warren Air Force Base near Cheyenne, Wyoming, from 1976 to 1979.

"I still have my book from basic training," she said. Many of the 260-plus graves throughout the 1.8-acre cemetery are unmarked or the years have weathered away the names and dates on the limestone markers.

The oldest known grave, with a hand-carved marker, belongs to F.R. Kiye, who died April

Don't let storm, pandemic dampen spirit of Veterans Day

Staff writer

The Inverness Veteran's Day Parade has been canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

There's tension in the air because of a tropical system that may or may not affect Citrus County. The ramifications of a stressful presidential election continue to make people antsy.

And Veterans Day is Wednesday.

Robert Bendle, who served in the U.S. Marine Corps, and is treasurer of the Citrus County Veterans Coalition, said events swirling around right now, especially the loss of the parade, are unfortunate. But the spirit of Veterans Day should not be lost, he said, and it is up to families to seek other ways to honor those who gave all they had for their country.

"Make sure you fly your he moved to Inverness and flag," Bendle said.

Other options:

"Sit down and watch one of the veterans movies with the children and explain what it's all about." he said. "Maybe get to the (Florida National Cemetery) or any cemetery."

Many veterans are stuck at home due to the pandemic, so a simple phone call would be nice to brighten up their day, he said.

Bendle enlisted in the Marine Corps when he turned 18.

"In those days, it was our way out," he said. "I didn't have the money to go to college. It was the smartest thing I ever did.'

He stayed in the Corps four years and got a job immediately when he got out. He retired from the New York State Correctional Service the day he turned has been here ever since.

During that time, he's been involved in various local veterans groups, the latest being the Citrus County Veterans Coalition, a nonprofit volunteer group that helps veterans and their families in need.

"Some vets come in here living on next to nothing,' he said.

Among other things, Bendle plans to mark Veterans Day this year by attending small get-togethers with other vets, all the time maintaining social distancing to stay safe.

The parade cancellation is particularly jarring because it is so well-attended each year and "keeps the veterans in the forefront," he said.

But Bendle said no pandemic or storm can ever squelch the spirit of the day.

"That should never end,"

Thank You

Lt. Cdr. Charles N. Alexander (USN-Ret.), PO2 Lisa Ramsey (USN-Vet.), and all of our nation's veterans for their service. We honor you today and owe you a debt of gratitude every day.

We Salute You All!

The roles of the different branches of the U.S. military The United States military is one of the most comprehensive, effective and respected armed forces in the world. Without the tireless commitment of military personnel - from the soldiers on the ground to the support staff behind the scenes - America could not be the world power it is today. Each branch of the U.S. military has a unique mission, and here is a brief rundown of what those missions entail, courtesy of Military.com and the U.S. Department of Defense.

United States Army

The Army is one of the three military departments that reports directly to the Department of Defense. The Army conducts operational and institutional missions around the world, typically handling landbased missions. The Army also guards U.S. installations and properties throughout the world.

United States Navy

Serving to protect the freedom of the seas, the Navy is another branch of the military that reports directly to the Department of Defense. Among its many missions, the U.S. Navy serves to make the seas safe for travel and trade.

United States Air Force

The Air Force also reports directly to the Department of Defense and trains for and maintains global superiority in air space and cyberspace. Air Force personnel fly planes, helicopters and even satellites.

United States Marine Corps

The Marine Corps is a component of the Department of the Navy. It carries out global missions on both sea and shore, and serves as an expeditionary force. Marines are a rapid-reaction team and are usually the first boots on the ground in a conflict.

United States Coast Guard

The Coast Guard safeguards maritime interests through both civil and military missions. The Coast Guard operates around the world and in domestic waterways and ports.

United States Army National Guard

The oldest branch of the U.S. military, the National Guard serves as a complementary force to active duty. Those in the National Guard are trained to be versatile, providing for humanitarian aid, domestic emergencies, combat missions, and homeland security operations.

The Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, Army Reserve, Coast Guard Reserve, and Navv Reserves are the other branches made up of servicemen and servicewomen who primarily work civilian jobs but may be called to full-time military duty if necessary.

The U.S. Armed Forces are headed by the President of the United States. The Secretary of the Department of Defense reports directly to the Commander-in-Chief. The DOD controls each military branch, except for the Coast Guard, which is overseen by the Department of Homeland Security.

Global rally fades, but investors' hopes remain

NEW YORK — Stocks downshifted on Tuesday, a day after their powerful worldwide rally, but optimism remained high that the global economy may still be headed for a return to normal.

It was the second straight day that rising hopes for a COVID-19 vaccine pushed investors to reorder which stocks they see winning and losing, and the continuing revamp left the majority of U.S. stocks higher but indexes mixed. Treasury yields and oil, meanwhile, held onto their big gains from a day earlier or added some more amid strengthened confidence in the economy.

The S&P 500 dipped 4.97 points, or 0.1%, to 3,545.53, after erasing most of an early loss. The relatively small movement, though, belied a lot of churning underneath. Nearly two out of three stocks in the index climbed, while losses for some of the largest and most influential technology stocks offset them.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average gained 262.95 points, or 0.9%, to 29,420.92, and the Nasdaq composite dropped 159.93, or 1.4%, to 11,553.86.

The flashpoint for all the moves was Monday's announcement from Pfizer that a potential COVID-19 vaccine it's developing with German partner BioNTech may be 90% effective, based on early but incomplete test results. Stocks of smaller U.S. companies, which tend to move more with expectations for the 2018. economy than their bigger counterparts, rallied again. The Russell 2000 index of small-cap stocks gained 31.97, or 1.9%, to 1,737.01 and finally climbed back above where it was in January. It's just 0.2% below its record high, which was set in

However, this Nov. 11, like the 1918 Armistice, Veterans Day will be a relatively silent tribute with the celebratory parades and patriotic observances muted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

Locally, marching bands, waving flags, trooping veterans, roaring engines, decorated floats and mounted horses will not be parading down West Main Street in our county seat of Inverness to applauding spectators for the first time in a generation because of COVID-19 social distancing precautions.

A little ahead of yourselves! But I can understand that this is what publications and network stations do to try to change a narrative. It's despicable, really.

No. Yet you have essentially called the race for Biden. This is unbelievable, but absolutely expected from a partisan rag.

We'll never be held accountable

For some time now, I have been fortunate enough to have some of my letters printed in the editorial section of the Chronicle. I usually end my comments with the question, "when will we, as a republic, be held accountable and take responsibility for our actions." Sadly, the answer is never.

Four years of Trump is enough

Starting with Jan. 20, 2021, I pray that the media will no longer give private citizen Trump any free publicity. Starting then I pray the media will reject anything Trump says or does unless it is truthful and relevant or that he is on his way to jail. After more than four years of continual lies, enough is enough!

A fix for dangerous drivers

I nearly rear-ended some dumb son-of-gun who illegally turned left into the Winn-Dixie parking lot in Beverly Hills. She crossed over the double line on County Road 491. Thought every licensed driver knew you never went over a double line! Shame on you! Someone will be killed or seriously injured.

Where is the sheriff or a deputy when you need one? It's an easy fix.

Remove all installed yellow stanchions. Install a "No Entrance" sign by the double line painted on the street. Add new yellow stanchions past the double line painted on the street. Install an "Entrance Only" sign. Paint a single broken line on the street.

Just do these simple tasks and remove current dangerous issues.

country who didn't vote for him. When asked about his failure to deal with the pandemic, he said, "If you take the blue states out, we're at a level I don't think anybody in the world would be at." As if the blue states didn't concern him.

Trump exaggerates the violence in urban areas of the United States as if he were not responsible for them. While most cities are not the war zones Trump describes, if his description was accurate, he should be apologizing for his failure to protect them and talking about what he was going to do to fix them. Instead, he's trying to blame any problems on Joe Biden and the Democrats. His solution is to cut off federal aid to these cities in order to punish the Democrats who lead them.

Trump likes campaigning but has no interest in doing the hard work of governing. He exaggerates the unrest of the cities because he wants to create fear in people who don't live there so they will vote for him. By why would anyone vote for him on his promise to restore order? He's already the president; if things are so bad, why doesn't he restore order now?

Good presidents put the country first. They are confident enough to surround themselves with knowledgeable, intelligent people who will challenge them if they are wrong, as Lincoln did with his team of rivals. And good leaders will admit when they were wrong. In contrast, Trump fires people who dare to bring him bad news. Not surprisingly, Trump's Cabinet tries to outdo themselves fawning over him. The result is the administration does not learn from its mistakes, and people who do know more than the president are unable to educate him. Since he thinks he already knows it all, what could he learn?

He also lost veterans because he dishonors them. This is not a party issue but patriotic.

Dictators and authoritarians don't care about the country, they care only about themselves. They create a cult of personality, where patriotism is loyalty to the leader. Biden/ Harris are true leaders.

It's free speech, sign should stay

I am responding to a Sound Off titled "Sign too negative.' What has made America great is not government but freedom. So long as the sign is not obstructing view or violating reasonable local code, the sign should stay. I do not trust government or temporary winds of opinion to censor free speech. So long as an opinion is not treasonous, pornographic, threatening, or violating reasonable local code, be free to proclaim it.

Calling the election is premature

I'm afraid that the media has prematurely made the call declaring Joe Biden as our president-elect. How can the media make such a claim when there happens to be a number of huge problems that remain unresolved? First and foremost their data is far from complete and is materially flawed, litigation of numerous lawsuits brought before the courts have not been resolved, none of the states have certified their vote total, required recounts have not begun, and the Electoral College hasn't sent the results over to Congress to be certified! Again the media and big tech are feeding us untruths, for Joe Biden presently is our presumed president-elect, nothing more/ nothing less!

Are we to believe a media that has for the past four years has been waging an allout war on President Trump? The same one that did everything it could to convince us that President Trump couldn't win the election, and that there was a blue tsunami about to descend upon us? It's clear that the media, big tech, and the pollsters were lying to themselves and to us! I ask you, how can we believe anything that we see/hear that's presented to us by the media?

Has the media reported that Democrats performed very poorly in their House races, are not likely to flip the Senate, and lost big in the state legislature races? I think not! The victories that the Republicans won in the state legislatures have provided the GOP with the needed influence over the congressional and legislative redistricting process that begins next year! Watch closely for when the smoke settles it will become obvious that conservatism was the big winner!

We are witnessing an unpresented power-grab by the Democrats in their attempt to gain the presidency, one that will surely cause the election to be contested — as well it should be! This election is headed to the Supreme Court for a resolution, and if the Supreme Court invalidates the election, the Senate and the House, not the people will vote on a president and vice president. As you can see, we are a long way from a final solution. Remain calm, and don't pay any attention to the media's spin, for this election is far from over.

Now I'm just waiting on inspection and the lights to be hooked up and we can move in, thanks to you wonderful people of Citrus County. A lot of people are still calling in, asking what I need. I need living room furniture. I need a kitchen table. I would love to have a microwave — the kids like that - than that, we are so good to go and so anxious to get in our new home and that little girl just loves her bedroom. Thank you, everyone, you all are great.

- My thanks to Brian Coleman, Les Cook and Susan Gill for your work on behalf of the residents of Citrus County. I wish the three of you a long, healthy, happy retirement, which is much deserved. Enjoy the next phase of your lives.
- As Gerry Mulligan said, there are still good people, and I will tell you my story: The craft fair at the Depot was very good.

I met the nicest vendor, Jan Lamarco. She made wonderful birdhouses with great themes. My story starts with picking out the one I would buy after I looked around the fair. At the end, I went back to pay and my money was lost. An announcement was made and the head lady helped me look, to no avail. I was very distraught. What did Jan do? She gave me the birdhouse, knowing how upset I was. She did not have to do that. Just one more wonderful person in our sad country. I thank Jan so much.

Biden vows to move quickly

President-elect Joe Biden waves as he leaves The Queen theater Tuesday, Nov. 10, 2020. in Wilmington. Del.

Says Trump resistance is 'inconsequential'

STEVE PEOPLES AND WILL WEISSERT Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del. — Vowing "to get right to work," President-elect Joe Biden on Tuesday shrugged off President Donald Trump's fierce refusal to accept the election outcome as "inconsequential," even as Democrats elsewhere warned that the Republican president's actions were dangerous.

Raising unsupported claims of voter fraud, Trump has blocked the incoming president from receiving intelligence briefings and withheld federal funding intended to help facilitate the transfer of power. Trump's resistance, backed by senior Republicans in Washington and across the country, could also prevent background investigations and security clearances for prospective staff and access to federal agencies to discuss transition planning.

As some Democrats and former Republican officials warned of serious consequences, Biden sought to lower the national temperature as he addressed reporters from a makeshift transition headquarters near his home in downtown Wilmington.

He described Trump's position as little more than an "embarrassing" mark on the outgoing president's legacy, while predicting that Republicans on Capitol Hill would eventually accept the reality of Biden's victory. The Republican resistance, Biden said, "does not change the dynamic at all in what we're able to do.'

Additional intelligence briefings "would be useful," Biden added, but "we don't see anything slowing us

The measured comments come as Biden prepares to confront dueling national crises that actively threaten the health, safety and economic security of millions of Americans irrespective of the political debate. Coronavirus infections, hospitalizations and deaths are surging, the economy faces the prospect of long-term damage, and the nation's political and cultural divides may be worsening.

Biden is betting that his low-key approach and bipartisan outreach — a sharp reversal from the current president's style — will help him govern effectively on Day One. But just 71 days before he will be inaugurated, Trump and his allies seemed determined to make Biden's transition as difficult as possible

From his Twitter account on Tuesday, Trump again raised unsupported claims of "massive ballot counting abuse" and predicted he would ultimately win the race he has already lost. His allies on Capitol Hill, led by Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell, have encouraged the president's baseless accusations. Trump's tweets were swiftly

GOP lets Trump fight election for weeks despite Biden's win

WASHINGTON — Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell said Tuesday there's "no reason for alarm" as President Donald Trump, backed by Republicans in Congress, mounts unfounded legal challenges to President-elect Joe Biden's election victory — a process that could now push into December.

Republicans on Capitol Hill signaled they are willing to let Trump spin out his election lawsuits and unsubstantiated claims of voter fraud for the next several weeks, until the states certify the elections by early December and the Electoral College meets Dec. 14.

McConnell's comments show how hard Republicans are trying to portray Trump's refusal to accept the election results as an ordinary part of the process, even as it's nothing short of extraordinary. There is no widespread evidence of election fraud; state officials say the elections ran smoothly. The delay has the potential to upend civic norms, impede Biden's transition to the White House and sow doubt in the nation's civic and election systems.

Trump remained out of sight at the White House, tweeting his views, but the social media company Twitter swiftly flagged the president's tweets that he actually won the election as disputed.

"It's not unusual, should not be alarming," McConnell told reporters on Capitol Hill. "At some point here we'll find out, finally, who was certified in each of these states, and the Electoral College will determine the winner. ... No reason for alarm."

Democrats were livid, saying McConnell and Republicans in Congress are so afraid of Trump they are willing to risk the nation's tradition of an orderly transition.

Biden, taking questions from reporters in Delaware, called the president's refusal to concede an "embarrassment."

flagged by the social media network as disputed claims about election fraud. America's allies began to acknowledge what Trump would not. French President Emmanuel Macron met with Biden via videoconference. German Chancellor Angela Merkel and British Prime Minister Boris Johnson, among six world leaders overall, congratulated Biden on his election.

"I look forward to strengthening the partnership between our countries and to working with him on our shared priorities — from tackling climate change, to promoting democracy and building back better from the pandemic," Johnson wrote on Twitter.

Nation BRIEFS

US surpasses 1 million virus cases in Nov.

NEW YORK — The U.S. has surpassed 1 million new confirmed coronavirus cases in just the first 10 days of November, with more than 100,000 infections each day becoming the norm in a surge that shows no signs of slowing.

The 1 million milestone came as governors across the nation are making increasingly desperate pleas with the public to take the fight against the virus more seriously. The Wisconsin governor planned to take the unusual step of delivering a live address to the state Tuesday, urging unity and cooperation to fight bars and restaurants to close at 10 p.m., and lowa's governor said she will require masks at indoor gatherings of 25 or more people, inching toward more stringent measures after months of holding out.

The alarming wave of cases across the U.S. looks bigger and is more widespread than the surges that happened in the spring, mainly in the Northeast, and then in the summer, primarily in the Sun Belt. But experts say there are also reasons to think the nation is better able to deal with the virus this time around.

"We're definitely in a better place" when it comes to improved medical tools and knowledge, said William Hanage, a Harvard University infectious-disease researcher.

No charges against officer in fatal shooting

INDIANAPOLIS — A grand jury has declined to indict an Indianapolis police officer who fatally shot a man in May during a foot chase after police said the 21-year-old exchanged gunfire with the officer.

The grand jury's decision not to indict Dejoure Mercer, the Black officer who shot and killed Dreasjon Reed on May 6, was announced Tuesday by special prosecutor Rosemary Khoury. Reed also was Black.

Reed's shooting was not recorded by any police camera because the department only began implementing a body camera program in August. But Reed livestreamed an earlier car chase and part of the foot chase on Facebook.

Khoury, who was appointed to oversee the investigation into Reed's fatal shooting, had announced on Aug. 21 that she had requested that a grand jury be impaneled to handle the final stage of that investigation and consider whether an indictment should be brought against Mercer.

LA Times to pay $3M in discrimination case

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Times and Tribune Publishing have agreed to pay $3 million to settle a lawsuit that said minority journalists and women were paid less than white reporters.

Nearly 240 current and former reporters and editors will benefit from the settlement that was granted preliminary approval last month by a judge in San Bernardino County, the Times reported Tuesday.

The discrimination lawsuit, filed in June, alleged that the Times violated California's Equal Pay Act and the state's Business and Professions Code. The paper and its former owners denied the allegations and don't acknowledge any wrongdoing in the settlement agreement.

Chicago-based Tribune Publishing sold the Times to Patrick and Michele Soon-Shiong in June 2018.

Earlier that year, Times journalists voted to join the News Guild, a unit of the Communications Workers of America, and the union demanded salary data for newsroom employees, the Times said.

Tampa Bay off to its best start since 2002

Brady-led Bucs out to prove they are as good as their 6-3 record

TAMPA — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers feel they're as good as their record, maybe even better.

The rest of the season will be about proving it after the most-lopsided loss of Tom Brady's career raised questions about how a team that's played so well at times could turn around and look as bad as they did against the New Orleans Saints.

"We know we're not that type of team, especially against a team who we obviously wanted to really beat," linebacker Lavonte David said Monday, reflecting on a 38-3 loss that dropped the Bucs from first place in the NFC South.

"To go out there and put on a show like that on Sunday night — guys feel some type of way about it," David added. "All vou can do is move on from it."

At 6-3, the Bucs are still off to their best start since 2002, when they won 12 of their first 14 and went on win their only Super

Two of their three losses this season have come against the three-time defending division champion Saints, though, with the latest underscoring the Bucs still have a ways to go to overtake New Orleans as the best team in the NFC South.

Brady has thrown seven interceptions through nine games, five of them against the Saints, who also beat the Bucs 34-23 in Week 1.

"It's about playing better and execution. We all have to do our job a lot better," Brady said Sunday night. "When you play good teams, there's little margin of error.'

Coach Bruce Arians said the team can't afford to dwell on what's already happened if it is going to realize its potential.

Brady said it starts with getting back on the practice field, learning from mistakes and getting better every day.

"It's not about predicting the future. I'm not here to say, 'This is what we're going to Tampa Bay's Kevin Cash won the AL Manager of the Year award on Tuesday night, and Miami's Don Mattingly took home the NL honor.

Long regarded as one of baseball's bright young minds, Cash guided Tampa Bay to an AL-best 40-20 record during the pandemic-shortened season. But he was roundly criticized for pulling ace left-hander Blake Snell in the sixth inning of the decisive Game 6 in the World Series against the champion Dodgers.

FALL MASTE

NO SPECTATORS AS PANDEMIC ALTERS TOURNAMENT

WOODS TO DEFEND TITLE AT AUGUSTA NATIONAL

BY DOUG FERGUSON | AP GOLF WRITER

othing about this Masters will look familiar until the champion slips his arms through a green jacket.

The purple, white and pink blooms of azaleas and dogwoods give way to the orange and gold hues of autumn leaves. Augusta National might look familiar with its emerald green fairways, blazing white sand in the bunkers, towering Georgia pines lining the fairways and the still water of Rae's Creek. It just won't sound the same, not without thousands upon thousands of spectators sending those recognizable roars from all corners of the course.

The biggest change is the calendar. Golf's annual rite of spring is now two weeks before Thanksgiving.
Indeed, this is a Masters unlike any other.

"It's going to be eerie. It's going to be different," Rory McIlroy said. "But at least we're playing for a green jacket."

Even that was in doubt when the COVID-19 pandemic shut down sports around the world a week before the first day of spring. Relief came a month later when Augusta National said it would move the Masters from the first full week of April to Nov. 12-15. And when the pandemic did not loosen its grip, the club had no choice but to close the door to its

For those who feel Augusta National is the cathedral of golf, it sure will sound like one. By now, the players should be used to the silence. Spectators have not been allowed at the previous two majors, or even big tournaments that typically draw big crowds like Muirfield Village and

Nowhere else than the Masters will the quiet be so deafening. "There's no other place like it," Tiger Woods said. "It echoes there. It travels. You can figure out who's doing what, and the roars for certain people are louder than others. It's unlike any other place in the world."

Woods won his fifth and most improbable Masters last year, capping off a return from four back surgeries that at one point left him wondering if he would ever play again.

NOVEMBER MASTERS

Augusta National is expected to play slightly longer with softer fairways because the rye grass doesn't have as much time to take root as when the Masters is in April. The real change is the time of year. Instead of nearly 13 hours of daylight, there will be roughly 101/2 hours. That means starting in groups of three players off the front and back nine.

Imagine starting the tournament on Nos. 10 and 11, the two toughest holes at Augusta National. The last time there was a two-tee start for the opening rounds was in 2005 because of rain.

NO PATRONS

Being without patrons means more than just no roars. The Masters decided to cancel the Par 3 Contest on Wednesday because that's mainly entertainment for the crowd. And there's no reason to open the merchandise store without spectators. Instead, those with a ticket purchased from the club have been given an access for the first time. They can browse as often as they want but can make purchases only twice.

This is the longest time between the Masters since World War II canceled the tournament from 1943 through 1945. C.T. Pan won the RBC Heritage a week after the Masters. He will have waited 571 days to hit his opening tee shot in his first Masters. The attention leading up to the Masters isn't as great because the World Series just ended and America is in the middle of the NFL season. That could be good news for McIlroy, who is not having to deal with as much outside noise in his sixth attempt at the career Grand Slam.

NEXT UP

The trade-off for waiting 18 months for the Masters is only having to wait five months for the next one. This will be the first time since 1971 that a major was played consecutively. Dave Stockton won the 1970 PGA Championship, and Jack Nicklaus won the PGA the following February when it was held at PGA National in Florida.

MASTERS TRIVIA

The magnolia trees that line the 330-yard drive from the entrance gate to the clubhouse at Augusta National were planted in the 1850s. The road was paved in 1947.

TOP CONTENDERS FOR THE GREEN JACKET

BRYSON DECHAMBEAU

Age: 27 Country: United States World ranking: 6 Worldwide wins: 8 Majors: U.S. Open (2020).

2020 majors: PGA Championship-T4, U.S. Open-

Best of 2020: Winning his first major at Winged Foot with a U.S. Open strategy that showed he sometimes knows what he's talking about. Masters memory: A tie for 21st in 2016 to be the low amateur. That's still his best finish in three

Masters appearances Backspin: He might be getting more attention than Tiger Woods going into the Masters for the way he added nearly 50 pounds of mass to support his effort to swing as hard as possible. He wants to have a 48-inch driver in play for the Masters. He already has hit a 400-yard drive at home and plans to dismantle Augusta National with length. He still has to chip and putt, which he did exceedingly well

BROOKS KOEPKA

Age: 30 Country: United States World ranking: 12 Worldwide wins: 10

Majors: U.S. Open (2017, 2018), PGA Championship (2018, 2019).

2020 majors: PGA Championship-T29, U.S. Open-DNP. Best of 2020: Two shots off the lead going into the final round at Harding Park with a chance to become the first player to win the PGA Championship three straight years in stroke play. He didn't make birdie until the 12th hole, shot 74 and tied for 29th.

Masters memory: Bouncing back from a double bogey in the water on No. 12 to an eagle on the 13th and finishing one shot behind Tiger Woods.

Backspin: With the pandemic and injuries, Koepka has spent more time at home than at tournaments. He started the year at No. 1 and goes into the Masters at No. 12. In 14 tournaments this year, he has only had a chance to win the WGC-FedEx St. Jude Invitational. He drove into the water on the 18th and tied for second.

TIGER WOODS

Age: 44 Country: United States World ranking: 32 Worldwide wins: 93 Majors: Masters (1997, 2001, 2002,

Best of 2020: Breaking par all four rounds at Torrey Pines to tie for ninth. It was the only time all year he finished in the top 10.

Masters memory: Winning in 2019 to end 11 years without a major, 14 years without a Masters, capping off a return from four back surgeries and being able to share the moment with his two children.

Backspin: This is the first year Woods has failed to contend in any tournament when he wasn't injured. He went five months without playing because of the pandemic, and he has played consecutive weeks on only one occasion as he limits his competition.

Age: 28 Country: United

2020 majors: PGA Championship-T43, U.S. Open-T43.

Best of 2020: Ending 16 months without a victory by rallying to win the Zozo Championship at Sherwood.

Masters memory: Making eagle on the 15th hole in 2019 to take the lead, only to drop shots on each of the next two holes.

Backspin: There is no big weakness in his game except for not winning enough. What should help him at this Masters is the experience of contending last year and the experience of winning in his final start before going to Augusta.

JON RAHM Age: 26 (on Tuesday of Masters) Country: Spain

World ranking: 2 Worldwide wins: 11 Majors: None

2020 majors: PGA Champion-ship-T13, U.S. Open-T23.

Best of 2020: Reaching No. 1 in the world for the first time by winning the Memorial, and making a 65-foot birdie putt to win at Olympia Fields for his first FedEx Cup playoff win.

Masters memory: Shooting 65 in the third round to give himself a chance in 2018, and was still in the mix until hitting into the water on the 15th hole Sunday.

Backspin: Winning a major is the next step for the big Spaniard, the guess would be sooner rather than later. He has won multiple times worldwide in each of his four full years Age: 31 Country: Northern Backspin: This is his sixth time coming to the Masters with a chance to complete the career Grand Slam. What helps this year is not having the intense scrutiny on him because of the strange year brought on by the pandemic. What doesn't help is having only two top 10s in 12 starts since aolf resumed in June.

JUSTIN THOMAS

Backspin: After a lull in August in which he finished no better than 25th in three big events, Thomas appears to be trending in the right direction going to Augusta. He has yet to finish in the top 10 in his four previous appearances.

Celtics Hall of Famer Heinsohn dies at age 86

BOSTON — Tommy Heinsohn, who as a Boston Celtics player, coach and broadcaster over more than 60 years was with the team for all 17 of its NBA championships, has died. He was 86.

"This is a devastating loss," the team's owners said in a statement Tuesday. "Tommy was the ultimate Celtic. For the past 18 years, our ownership group has relied hugely on Tommy's advice and insights and have reveled in his hundreds of stories about Red Auerbach, Bill Russell, and how the Celtics became a dynasty. He will be remembered forever."

A Holy Cross product who was a territorial draft pick by the Celtics in 1956, Heinsohn beat out teammate Russell for the NBA's rookie of the year award that season and tallied 39 points with 23 rebounds in Game 7 of the NBA finals against the St. Louis Hawks.

It was the franchise's first title — and the first of eight in nine years for Heinsohn and Russell. Heinsohn was the team's leading scorer in four of the championship seasons.

Heinsohn retired in 1965 with totals of 12,194 points and 5,749 rebounds and remained with the team as a broadcaster. Celtics patriarch Auerbach tabbed him to be the coach in 1969, succeeding Russell.

Heinsohn was the NBA coach of the year in 1973, when the team won a then-record 68 games. The Celtics added championships in 1974 and '76. He was inducted into the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame as a player in 1986 and as a coach in 2015. Shortly after retiring as a coach in 1979, he rejoined the team's broadcasts, where his unapologetic homerism has endeared him to Celtics fans ever since. Alabama-LSU, Texas A&M-

Tennessee postponed

No. 1 Alabama at LSU and No. 5 Texas A&M at Tennessee will not be played Saturday because of COVID-19 issues, raising the number of Southeastern Conference games postponed this week to three.

The SEC said Tuesday that the Aggies and Volunteers will be rescheduled for Dec. 12, but the Crimson Tide's game against the defending national champion Tigers is in danger of not being played at all after COVID-19 cases in LSU's

On Monday, No. 24 Auburn's game at Mississippi State was postponed because of COVID-19 positive tests and contact tracing within the Bulldogs' program. That game has been tentatively rescheduled for Dec. 12.

Then on Tuesday, Auburn paused team activities after nine players and three staff members tested positive for COVID-19.

It was also confirmed Tuesday that Arkansas coach Sam Pittman will miss the Razorbacks' game at No. 6 Florida on Saturday after having two positive

South Carolina No. 1 in AP preseason women's poll

NEW YORK — Dawn Staley already has accomplished so much at South Carolina. Now she can add the first preseason No. 1 ranking in school history to the list of achievements.

The Gamecocks received 29 of the 30 first-place votes in The Associated Press preseason women's Top 25 released Tuesday.

The Gamecocks, who had been second twice in the preseason poll, in 2014 and 2015, finished last season at No. 1 for the first time. Staley hopes that this year's team will get a chance to compete for a national championship after last season's NCAA Tournament was canceled because

Following the Gamecocks at No. 2 was Stanford, which received the other first-place vote from the national media panel. It's the Cardinal's highest ranking in the preseason since the 2009 season when the team also was second.

time Super Bowl champion said. "We're going to get back to work and try and do a lot better next week,' Brady added. "We've got to win one game. We're 6-3. I wish we were a lot better than that, but that's where we're at."

Sunday night's loss stopped a threegame winning streak that included a 38-10 blowout of the then-unbeaten Green Bay Packers.

The Packers and the Las Vegas Raiders are the only teams the Bucs have beaten who currently have winning records. They also have wins over the Broncos, Chargers, Panthers and Giants, who are a combined 10-24. "I think that's how vou're usually judged," Arians said. "We were pretty good against Green Bay and really poor against New Orleans.

WHAT'S WORKING

Despite having his two worst games of the season against the Saints, Brady has been everything the Bucs could have asked for — and more since signing a two-year, $50 million contract in free agency. Arians and general manager Jason Licht have assembled a star-studded cast around him, bringing in Rob Gronkowski, LeSean McCoy, Leonard Fournette and most recently, Antonio Brown, to bolster an already impressive group of playmakers led by Mike Evans and Chris Godwin. Prior to Sunday night, Brady had thrown 17 TD passes and just one interception over his previous six games.

"Part of it's scheme, part of it's reading out some things that Mike was open on and just finding him. ... But we've got to do a better job," Arians said.

He is the franchise's first winner of the award since Joe Maddon in 2011. Cash is 454-416 in six years as manager of the Rays. Tampa Bay won the AL East this year for the first time since Cash took over. The Rays leaned heavily on their bullpen throughout the pandemicshortened season, with 12 different pitchers recording at least one save matching the major league record. So the move to get Snell was in line with what made the Rays so successful this year, but it played a key role in the Dodgers rallying for a titleclinching 3-1 victory. Cash has insisted if he faced the same situation again, he would trust his bullpen to ell, hello again. I've been thinking about how connected thankfulness and gratitude are with our annual Thanksgiving Day observances this

It has been said that gratitude brings hope and that living a life of thankfulness is well worth the effort. It is a time commitment and a decision volunteers make every day. It defines our moments each time a project captures our heart and we come alongside others until it is completed along the volunteer path. We must intentionally look for the positives and reject the negatives, as is said in the popular song of yesteryear, "Ac-Cent-Tchu-Ate the Positive," in the lyrics, "You've got to accentuate the positive. eliminate the negative and. ... don't mess with mister in-between."

Helen Keller said, "True patriotism is the service of all to all." From the gigantic things of all to the small loving kindnesses we do for others, volunteers are grateful for the opportunity to serve the needs of others all around our county and beyond. It's what we do. It's what we enjoy. It's how we connect thankfulness and gratitude with each day's appreciation for the gift of life to do so. It's networking from one event to the next!

itrus County is host to a variety of clubs, allowing for nearly every resident to find a group of people who share their passion, whatever it may be.

Formed in 2010, the Nature Coast Disc Golf Club, based out of Floral City Park, is a group for fun-loving, active individuals who share a love of the flying disc sport.

Disc golf, less commonly referred to as "folf" or "frolf," is played by rules similar to those of regular golfing. It is typically played on a course with nine or 18 holes. Players will aim and throw their disc at a marked target "basket" and those with the lowest number of total throws

"It's really pretty fun," said Jerry Wolfe, club president. "We have a small group with different levels of players."

Although the majority of club members are in their 20s and 30s, the ages of members in the Nature Coast Disc Golf Club range all the way from late teens to late 60s.

Nature Coast Disc Golf Club members Kevin and BJ Donelly, Eric Pemberton, Dana Smith and Paulie Bagwell pose in support after Bagwell successfully hits an Ace.

"We take in anybody; from no knowledge at all to a full skillset." Wolfe said. "As long as they come in with interest, we gear the games towards their skills.

New club members will play several rounds to establish what their player level is. Then, members sort into groups.

"If someone wants to learn,

they can come out and play," Wolfe said. "If they just want to come out and have fun, they can

She continues with a warning about that, "Now is the best time for big box stores to sell them because they're in bloom. But now is not the best time to plant them. If you were to buy and plant now, all their energy is going into producing those beautiful seed heads. They have little energy left to produce new roots and try to live through the winter. I've found this out the hard way. If you do buy something now, over-winter in the pot in a sheltered location. Cut back the seedheads in the spring, then plant. After winter, the plant will be geared up for growing. So it's better to wait.'

Kathy concludes, "Gardening is so enjoyable this time of year! Make sure you enjoy it to the fullest. And Happy Thanksgiving to all. Happy gardening,

Next Week: Mayflower 400th

An Air Force Reserve Hurricane Hunter aircrew flies into Hurricane Douglas on July 24, 2020.

We celebrate Veterans Day on Wednesday, Nov. 11. Veterans Day honors both living and dead veterans of the armed services.

This week, The Mini Page salutes the reserve branches of the military: the warriorcitizens who step in to help active-duty service members when needed.

Reserve support

All branches of the military — the Army, Air Force, Coast Guard, Marine Corps and Navy — have reserve branches. Many reservists are former active-duty troops.

A monthly job

Usually, reservists work part-time, just one weekend a month and two weeks in the summer. Sometimes, such as in wartime, they are called upon to be full-time. They might fill active-duty positions when those soldiers go to war.

The president of the U.S. is the commander in chief of reserve units. They answer to the federal, or national, government.

The Air Force Reserve 403rd Wing evacuated planes from bases in Texas before Hurricane Sally struck the Gulf Coast in September.

The Army Reserve:

- established in 1908
- about 200,000 reservists • more than 1,200 medical professionals deployed in response to COVID-19

The Navy Reserve:

- established in 1915
- about 60,000 reservists
- careers include rescue operations and disarming explosives

The Marine Corps Reserve:

- established in 1916
- about 38,500 reservists operates 160 training
- centers around the United

The Coast Guard Reserve:

- founded in 1941
- about 7,000 Guard members
- protects America's waterways and ports

The Air Force Reserve:

- established in 1948
- about 82,000 airmen
- works in air and space flight and in cyberspace

The National Guard is another branch of service. Each governor serves as commander in chief of the guard units in his or her state. They can be called to federal service by the president.

Reservist presidents

Several of our presidents have served in the reserve branches of our military, including Ronald Reagan (Army Reserve) and George H.W. Bush (Naval Reserve).

Veterans Day

Nov. 11 is the anniversary of the end of World War I. When Veterans Day was established in 1919, it was known as Armistice Day. Armistice means truce. The name was changed to Veterans Day in 1954.

On Veterans Day, many towns and cities host parades or special tributes to those who have served. This year, some events may be changed or canceled because of COVID-19 restrictions.

In 2015. in Paris. 195 world leaders agreed on measures to cut carbon pollution. The idea was to keep temperatures from rising beyond 3.6 degrees Fahrenheit above where they were in about 1900. That way, scientists said, we could avoid drastic climate change. However, in November 2019, President Trump declared that the United States would withdraw from the Paris Agreement in one year. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Benjamin Franklin said, "Sloth makes all things difficult, but industry, all things easy.'

Not always! At the bridge table, sometimes you need to speed, trying to win tricks as quickly as possible. At other times, it will be better to slow down and wait for tricks to germinate.

This deal was played in a knockout teams match. Each declarer was in four spades, and both Wests led the diamond jack. What should the Souths have done?

North responded with a forcing one-no-trump. He planned to rebid three spades to invite game with three-card support, but he upgraded for the nine-card or better fit.

Each South saw that he would lose tricks to the black-suit aces, so he could afford one heart loser, but not two. The first declarer took two heart finesses and grumbled when both lost.

The second declarer realized that hearts could wait. He ruffed a diamond at trick two, then played a trump to the nine. East won with his ace and exited with his second trump.

South took the trick on the board, ruffed its remaining diamond and led the club king.

West won with his ace and continued with the club jack, but declarer won with dummy's queen and ruffed the last club in his hand.

With no minor-suit cards left in his hand or on the board, South ran the heart queen. It lost, but East was endplayed.

If he led a minor, declarer would have sluffed a heart from hand and ruffed on the board; or, if East played a heart, it was away from the jack.

South succeeded with slow-th!

Annie offers advice ear Annie: My boyfriend is 48, and I am 39, and we have been together since May 2015. We haven't made too many public appearances since being together. I have two children, a 12-yearold boy and a 15-year-old girl. They love him dearly. He has one child, a 14-year-old girl, who barely communicates with my children and me.

When we met, he was s i months out of a two-year relationship, and was Ι eight months out of a 12-year marriage.

We met

DEAR ANNIE

on a dating site. Neither of us was looking for a relationship at the time. My children met him in June 2015, and I met his daughter the next month. My kids and I are adventurous and like the outdoors. He and his daughter, not so much. He works in engineering, and I'm a nurse. We are similar and opposite at the same time. I love action, comedy and dramas, and he likes zombie movies and action.

His daughter's mom and I have had an altercation. The cause of the disagreement was that she wanted to ruin our relationship, and he did nothing about it. I then had to step in after being frustrated. We bumped heads quite a bit, due to his daughter's mom. She ended up living across the street from us after we moved in together.

My concern is that we are not talking about marriage or even an engagement. More than a year after buying a home and we're still playing house, without moving forward. I have brought this to his attention because I want to know what's next. Each time I bring it up, I feel as if he blows me off and does not want to talk about it. He always says, "When I marry someone, I want to make sure they're the one.'

I have mentioned marriage at least five times, and now I'm ready to give up on this relationship. He always wants me to tell people that we have three children, but he's not changing the status legally. I don't think that I should wait on him to make up his mind to decide our future, as it's been over five years.

I think it has a lot to do with his money; maybe he thinks I'm after it or something. That isn't the case. The proof is that I would have stayed with my ex-husband. I feel as if I'm wasting my time and living a lie. The lie is that he'll probably never marry me and eventually I'll move on. I have asked him to see a therapist with me over and over, but it hasn't happened yet. I was going to pick a therapist, but he said that he would, but again, nothing. — Tired of Waiting

Dear Tired: Divorce can be traumatic. It sounds like your boyfriend might need time before he is ready to tie the knot. His comment about marrying "the one" is hurtful. You might be correct that it's time to move on. However, before making a decision, you need to tell him all that you're feeling. People are not mind readers, and so much of a healthy relationship is communication. Rather than waiting for him to decide what he wants, decide what you want and then tell him exactly what that is.

Therapy is doubly important because the lives of three children are at stake. His ex-wife living across the street is something that a professional should be able to help you and your boyfriend sort out.

*SCAM ALERT**

How to Avoid a Fake Check Scam

• INSIST ON CASH

4. IF POSSIBLE, GO TO THE BANK WITH THE PERSON PAYING YOU

- Don't accept a check for more than the selling price. You can bet it's a scam.
- Inform the Buyer that you'll wait two weeks before sending any merchandise.
- Never use money from a check to send gift cards, money orders, or wire money to strangers or someone you just met. Many scammers demand that you send money through money transfer services like Western Union or MoneyGram, or buy gift cards and send them the PIN numbers. Once you wire money, or give someone the gift card PINs, it is like giving someone cash. It's almost impossible to get it back.
- Toss offers that ask you to pay for a prize. If it's free, you shouldn't have to pay to get it.
