Man faces bribery charges

Inverness resident allegedly tried to pay off fire chief to ignore haunted house

THOMPSON Staff writer

An Inverness man faces accusations he tried to pay off the city's fire chief to ignore his unsafe and unlawful haunted house.

Citrus County Sheriff's Office authorities booked 24-year-old Paul John Catucci into the county jail Oct. 20 under a charge of bribing a public servant, according to court and arrest records obtained Monday, Oct. 25. According to

Catucci's arrest report, two sheriff's office deputies assisted Inverness Fire Department Chief Steve Marfongella and a city's building

Neighbors later reported it, Williams said. Williams said Catucci admitted to taking donations for admissions into the haunted house, and to hosting roughly 100 people there the weekend before his arrest.

Along with being a business on a residential property without a variance or other exception, haunted exposed people to dangerous structural and electrical conditions, like haphazard wires and cords in proximity to open fuel cans.

"There's a multifaceted issue there," Williams said, adding city staff deemed the building in violation of safety and zoning regulations.

CRHS instructor tapped for recognition for work in STEM education

HANNAH SACHEWICZ Staff writer

veryone can see that Crystal River High School teacher Danielle Doherty-Koch is her students' number one fan and biggest cheerleader.

Most recently, she was named the Robert and Patricia Kern Project Lead the Way (PLTW) National Teacher of the Year.

According to PLTW, the award honors individuals who demonstrate strong alignment to their mission: exceptional commitment to students, school leadership and evidence of meaningful involvement in PLTW curriculum, assessment and professional development.

At Doherty-Koch's award ceremony Oct. 20, CRHS principal Phillip McLeod said she's one of the reasons why their Academy of Health and Careers is such a success

"I know she takes true pleasure in that work," McLeod said. "Her students love her and she loves her students."

This year marks Doherty-Koch's 10th year as a teacher. She instructs three of the biomedical classes at the academy, including human body systems, medical interventions and biomedical innovations.

The academy uses STEM curriculum from PLTW, a national nonprofit organization that develops it for use by U.S. elementary, middle and high schools.

Vince Bertram, PLTW president, flew all the way from Los Angeles to present Doherty-Koch with her award. He told students one of his biggest regrets was not telling his teachers how much of a difference they made in his life.

"Don't make that mistake," Bertram said.

Bertram said he always asks students what made the difference for them. He said they never tell him about their algebra

"They tell me about their teachers," Bertram said.

County goes from record heat to season's first cooldown

MICHAEL D. Staff writer

Mother Nature likes to tease us, and she was up to her old tricks this past weekend.

Only last week, Citrus County experienced a welcome spell of cooler weather. Cooler is defined as mid-80s for us.

But Saturday and Sunday, Citrus had temperatures near 90 and a 35-year record was shattered around Tampa, the National Weather Service

(NWS) said. Relief is on the way.

Starting Tuesday, the temperatures will drop steadily every day until we will be at 75 for a high Friday. Saturday should be picture-perfect with a high of 72 under sunny skies.

"It's definitely going to be our first real cooldown of the season," NWS meteorologist Paul Close said.

The tropics have been behaving the last month.

A non-tropical low pressure system is forecast to form off the coast of the eastern U.S. over the next couple days, according to Bryan Williams, meteorologist with the Florida Forest Service.

By the end of the week, it could gain tropical or subtropical characteristics while it moves eastward and away from Florida, he said.

The National Hurricane Center is giving this system a near zero chance to develop over the next 48 hours and a medium (40%) chance over the next five days.

The Atlantic hurricane season ends Nov. 30.

Dispute over US 98 median still not settled

Two weeks ago, county commissioners told the directors of the Sugarmill Woods Oak Village Homeowners Association (HOA) to honor their commitment to maintain the U.S. 98 median in front of their development or face the consequences. Still no word from the HOA.

County Administrator Randy Oliver said Monday the county attorney's office is preparing a letter to be sent to the homeowners association, but doesn't believe it has been sent vet.

"We haven't heard anything more on it," Commissioner Jeff Kinnard said. "I would assume that their homeowners association is meeting to decide how to proceed."

Local COVID cases continue to fall

Death toll at 777

FRED HIERS Staff writer

Citrus County's new COVID-19 infections continued to fall last week, as well as the county's hospital admissions and those needing intensive care and treatment.

The downward trend mirrors that seen nationally and more recently Florida. which is recovering after a severe surge during the late summer and early fall.

Between Oct. 15 and Oct. 21, Citrus County had 79 new confirmed coronavirus cases, according to the Florida Department of Health. That was a significant drop from just the week before when the county had 98 new cases. The contrast is even greater when the latest infection data is compared to one week in August when the county suffered 1,311 new cases.

The decline also reflects a Florida trend

Florida had 15,314 new cases during the week ending Oct. 21. That was a decline from the week before when the state saw 19,519 new cases and also down from 25,792 new cases during the first week of October, could change. A new variant which is more according to the FDOH.

As a whole, Citrus County has now had 20,360 cases, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. It's had 777 deaths due to the virus, according to a CDC website.

Between Oct. 14 and Oct. 20, 19 people died from COVID-19 in Citrus County. That was a 24% drop from the previous seven days. In the United States there have been 45.4 million cases and 736,112 deaths, according to the New York Times, which collects COVID-19 data. Why the decline? A growing number of people now have immunity, health experts say. That immunity comes from vaccinations and from having contracted the virus and recovered. The more people who have some measure of immunity, the more difficult it is for the virus to spread from person to person. In Citrus County, 60% of those eligible, are vaccinated.

Many people still continue to wear masks and social distance, reducing the chance for

But health experts also warn that things contagious or more resilient to vaccines could cause a surge.

This is not the first time COVID-19 cases declined. In early January, cases dropped across most of the country. Soon after, the Alpha and Delta variants both drove case counts up again.

Others think that's unlikely for now.

Last month, researchers advising the CDC released nine mathematical models of potential case rate trends through March 2022. The estimates indicate that while there may be a slight uptick in cases, but another major surge is unlikely in the coming months.

But COVID is unlikely to go away anytime soon.

"If the end is eliminating the virus altogether from circulation, like smallpox, I don't think we are getting there," Dr. Laith Abu-Raddad, of Weill Cornell Medical College, recently told Verywell Health.

Verywell Health is a website that provides health and wellness information from health professionals from around the world.

"We will go back to our normal life, but we will have this annoyance that will continue with us, but at lower risk," he said.

France returns Benin art treasures

PARIS - In a move with potential ramifications for other European museums, France is displaying 26 looted colonial-era artifacts for one last time before returning them to Benin - a decision authorities in the West African country described as "historic."

The wooden anthropomorphic statues, royal thrones and sacred altars were pilfered by the French army 129 years ago. The French will have a final glimpse of the objects, from the collection known as the "Abomey Treasures," in the Musée du quai Branly-Jacques Chirac from Tuesday through Sunday.

Calixte Biah, curator of the Museum of History of Ouidah, Benin, where the artefacts will first be exhibited, said the occasion was historic.

"It's been more than one century that they have been removed from their historical context. And when you look at the quality of each of these artifacts altogether, you realize that ... there were great artists," he told The Associated Press.

Benin is founding a new museum in Abomey, partly funded by the French government, that will ultimately house the works.

President Emmanuel Macron suggested that France now needed to right the wrongs of the past, making a landmark speech in 2017 in which he said he can no longer accept "that a large part of many African countries' cultural heritage lies in France." It laid down a roadmap for the return of the royal treasures taken during the era of empire and colony.

So far, however, France has only turned over one item — a

Making of Baldwin movie is halted

LOS ANGELES — Production of the movie that Alec Baldwin was making when he shot and killed a cinematographer last week has been officially halted, but producers of the Western described the move as "a pause rather than an end."

In an email to crew members, the movie's production team confirmed that work on "Rust" has been suspended at least until the investigation is complete. The team said it is working with law enforcement and is conducting its own internal safety review. The production company is also offering grief counseling.

The sheriff's investigation continued Monday. The team said that it could not respond to comments made in news reports or on social media. The email suggested that production could resume at some point.

"Although our hearts are broken, and it is hard to see beyond the horizon, this is, at the moment, a pause rather than an end," the email read.

Moments before the shooting, Baldwin was explaining how he was going to draw the revolver from his holster and where his arm would be positioned, court records show.

The actor had been told that the gun was safe to use for the rehearsal of a scene in which he was supposed to pull out the weapon while sitting in a church pew and point it at the camera, the records said.

Cameraman Reid Russell told a detective that he was unsure whether the weapon was checked before it was handed to Baldwin, and he did not know why the gun was fired.

The camera was not rolling when the gun went off and killed cinematographer Halyna Hutchins, Russell told authorities.

The postponement is a result of issues surrounding the consultant as well as county resident participation. Input sessions were originally envisioned as inperson. However, because of the high COVID incidence in Citrus County, they were switched to being

Add to that the fact that only about 100 county residents had signed up for the Zoom sessions, and it just didn't make sense to follow the original schedule. As Holly Davis, county commissioner spearheading the initiative, said, these planning input sessions are just too important. Hot Corner: WATERFRONT

■ Here we go again, "County mulls waterfront concerns" (Sunday, Oct. 24's, front-page story). They're looking to spend taxpayers' money — $616,000 to $700,000 — to buy a piece of land by the water so they can make a park or a boat ramp. We do not need it. Take that $616,000 or $700,000 and put it towards road repairs. We don't need to buy more property. More property means more maintenance. Quit buying property. We can't even maintain the property we have now.

■ I'm responding to Sound Off (about Sunday, Oct. 24's frontpage story sub-headlined), "Commission to tackle Pirates Cove, boat launch fees at Tuesday meeting" about buying land: Do not buy the land. No, no, no, no. A waste of taxpayers' money. Utilize that $700,000 for the dog shelter or to fixing the roads.

Affordable housing lacking

CITRUS COUNTY CHRONICLE -

Help! We have a major housing shortage in Florida. Citrus County has run out of affordable places to live. Most landlords are selling homes right out from under our feet. Houses that are available cost more than a lot of us on fixed incomes bring in a month. What is the solution?

Support programs that grow democracy

Not so long ago, if any of us heard someone suggesting that our democracy was in peril, we may not have even responded. Now, it is more common to hear such opinions, and we are more inclined to pay attention. Not only is such foreshadowing more frequent it is being asserted by notable and respected people.

If true, the consequence could be drastic. Our march to this moment has been influenced by misinformation and lack of information as much as ennui and contempt for politics and politicians. Somehow, we need to develop forces to counter this despair through increasing awareness and inspiring people to engage in our democracy.

On a local basis, we need organizations already engaged in the political process to partner with other community groups to develop projects that will encourage citizen involvement and ensure comprehensive communication of legitimate information. Reducing the information gap that has distorted understanding of historic and current events will enable more people to make better informed decisions and have a clearer view of the consequences.

Rather than sitting on the sideline and bemoaning the slippage of democracy, our

Do you want to be a hypocrite?

In Sunday's paper there is an article that lets small business owners know how to apply for PPP loan forgiveness (more government assistance). Therefore, any business owner who thinks government assistance for workers is socialism need not apply. If they do, then they will be labeled as a socialist or a hypocrite.

If only we had known

What would public health in Citrus be like if we knew then what we know now?

If we knew that Citrus County would have one of the highest COVID death rates of community can come together any county in the U.S., would we have acted differently?

If we knew that 1,276 students and 137 staff would contract COVID in our Citrus schools, would we have supported a mask mandate, despite the governor's executive order forbidding mask mandates in public schools?

Or if we knew that two Citrus teachers (that we know of) would die this fall from COVID, and others would have to be hospitalized, would it matter then?

If we knew that in late summer, nine people were dying from COVID every day in Citrus County, would so many of us have refused to wear masks?

If we knew that our family member, our close friend, our neighbor, the contractor who worked in our home were going to die from COVID, would we have gotten the vaccine?

If we knew that most — but not all — of the dead had refused to become vaccinated, would we have pushed harder for vaccines in our community?

If we knew that our friend or family member would be off work for months because of COVID "long-hauler" symptoms, would we beg them to get vaccinated, to stay out of crowds?

If we knew that it wasn't just the old people, the ones that had other conditions who died or got sick, would we have followed the warnings of the CDC?

We already know that elected officials in Florida and Citrus County refused to follow public health warnings in the name of "personal freedom." Now that we know the truth about what happened, should we trust our leaders to lead us in the future?

Knowing what we know now, would we accept some responsibility for the common good of our community? Surely there is something to be learned here.

Putting Citrus on the map for wrong reason

I picked up the paper a couple days ago and it's the usual stuff on the front page, but I'm looking at this (Tuesday, Oct. 19, front-page) article about COVID cases falling and then underneath the headline, it says we, Citrus County, had recordsetting death rates from COVID. So, Citrus had the worst death rates in the country this summer — in the country. This should have been the screaming headline when nine people a day were dying of COVID all around Florida and Citrus County, especially. We put ourselves on the map, all right. Where were our leaders? Oh yeah, they were busy bragging about how good we're doing and banning mask mandates. May those who died rest in peace and may God bless their families.

Pay back your debts

I'm calling in reference to the article about Aunt Martha's Produce Market closing (the Thursday, Oct. 21, front-page story). Something really stood out to me. Shannon (Burns-DeMitt) had $4,000 worth of IOUs up on the wall that she canceled and I have to say that is very, very compassionate, thoughtful and kind of Aunt Martha and Shannon and the family for allowing these people to do this. On the other hand, it's also bad business. People should have been paying that money back with $1 a week. Let me tell you something: I was into drugs way back in the '90s, OK, in St. Petersburg and I had a local gas station that gave me IOUs and I paid every single one of them off and I was on drugs. So, have a good day.

Wasting taxpayer money

(Re the Friday, Oct. 22, Page A10 editorial, "Hired Gun," "Assistance for bankruptcy attorney approved"): Here we go, wasting taxpayers' money again on the bankruptcy. Now he or she needs to hire an attorney to help them to assist them with the bankruptcy. Really? A waste of money. Do the bankruptcy with the attorney you have and let it go forward that way. You don't need to waste taxpayers' money to hire a different attorney. I bet you if the average citizen filed for bankruptcy, the county commissioners are not going to help them. A waste of taxpayers' money again — a big waste.

Maybe sign should be changed

(Re the Friday, Oct. 22, frontpage story, "Gov. calls special session," "Simpson, Massullo back plan to have lawmakers address vaccine mandates"): Gov. DeSantis vows to take action against government and businesses that choose to follow CDC guidelines by calling for a special legislative session. Rep. Massullo supports Gov. DeSantis' actions. I wonder why, since he has a sign on the front door of his medical office in Lecanto requiring masks before entering. Perhaps Rep. Massullo should change the sign to say, "Masks are not required, it's your choice.'

the yellow and white lines on Norvell Bryant Highway from Ottawa Avenue to Independence Avenue. However, they did not paint the left-turning lines at the intersection of Norvell Bryant Highway and North Forest Ridge Boulevard. They must have been supervised by the same company that was rebuilding U.S. 19 in Homosassa.

Waiting for refuge building to open

When is the Crystal River National Wildlife Refuge mansion going to open to the public? I was told in March of 2020 that all they were waiting for was the computer system to be installed and now, a year and a half later, are the doors open? How much longer will the taxpayers pay for this castle before we're allowed to enjoy it? This is maddening.

Don't fear the roundabout

FDOT roundabout training (is) on YouTube. Go to FDOT Roundabout for 2 minutes, 19 seconds of training. Never fear the roundabout. In Paris, they have one that handles 12 lanes of traffic. Take note that incoming traffic must yield and traffic in the circle has the right-of-way.

Tired of Medicare calls

Does anybody out there know where to file a complaint about all these Medicare insurance companies constantly calling? I did not sign up for any other Medicare companies. I do not want them. I'm happy with my Medicare. I called Medicare and they say there's nothing they can do about it. Meanwhile, those people say, "Well, you signed up and we're just following up with you." I never called and signed up. I never did. Does anyone know who I can complain to? Please give me a phone number, because it's nothing but harassment.

Police: 6 injured in Idaho mall shooting

BOISE, Idaho — Police in Boise, Idaho, said Monday that five people and a police officer have been injured in a shooting at a shopping mall. They say one person is in custody.

Police on Twitter said they are working their way through each business at the mall, but don't have information indicating additional threats.

Police are asking people to avoid the area. Police also said they were notifying the families of those involved.

Police were interviewing dozens of people outside the entrance to Macy's, one of five large department stores at the mall that has 153 stores in all. Police are also investigating what appears to be another crime scene at a restaurant near the mall.

Wall Street sets more records

NEW YORK — Wall Street ticked further into record heights on Monday, as a better-thanexpected profit reporting season gets into higher gear.

The S&P 500 rose 21.58 points, or 0.5%, to 4,566.48 and surpassed its last record set on Thursday. The Dow Jones Industrial Average also reached an all-time high after adding 64.13, or 0.2%, to 35.741.15. The Nasdaq composite picked up 136.51, or

Tesla jumped to the biggest gain in the S&P 500 after Hertz said it will buy 100,000 Model 3 vehicles for its fleet. The landmark deal for the electric-vehicle industry sent Tesla up 12.7%, and because it's one of the biggest stocks in the market, Tesla's moves have an outsized effect on the

Billionaire tax takes shape

WASHINGTON — Democrats are working frantically to shore up the revenue side of President Joe Biden's domestic package, poised to unveil a new billionaires' tax to help pay for his social services and climate change plan after earlier tax plans fizzled.

Biden said Monday he's hopeful the talks with Congress can wrap up overall agreement on the package this week. It's tallying at least $1.75 trillion, and could still be more. Biden said it would be "very, very positive to get it done" before he departs for two overseas global summits.

"That's my hope," the president said before leaving his home state of Delaware for a trip to New Jersey to highlight the child care proposals in the package and a related infrastructure measure. "With the grace of God and the goodwill of the neighbors."

Resolving the revenue side is key as the Democrats scale back what had been a $3.5 trillion plan, insisting all the new spending will be fully paid for and not pile onto the debt. Biden vows any new taxes would hit only the wealthy, those earning more than $400,000 a year, or $450,000 for couples.

Moderna: low-dose shot works for kids

Moderna said Monday that a low dose of its COVID-19 vaccine is safe and appears to work in 6- to 11-year-olds, as the manufacturer joins its rival Pfizer in moving toward expanding shots to children.

Pfizer's kid-size vaccine doses are closer to widespread use. They are undergoing evaluation by the Food and Drug Administration for youngsters in nearly the same age group, 5 to 11, and could be available by early November. The company's vaccine already is authorized for anyone 12 or older.

Moderna hasn't vet gotten the go-ahead to offer its vaccine to teens but is studying lower doses in younger children while it waits.

Researchers tested two shots for the 6- to 11-yearolds, given a month apart, that each contained half the dose given to adults. Preliminary results showed vaccinated children developed virusfighting antibodies similar to levels that young adults produce after full-strength shots, Moderna said in a news

People or profit?

Mark Zuckerberg, chairman and CEO of Facebook, speaks at the 2016 Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) forum in Lima, Peru. From complaints whistleblower Frances Haugen has filed with the SEC, along with redacted internal documents obtained by The Associated Press, the picture of the mighty Facebook that emerges is of a troubled, internally conflicted company, where data on the harms it causes is abundant, but solutions are halting at best.

BARBARA ORTUTAY Associated Press

Facebook the company is losing control of Facebook the product not to mention the last shreds of its carefully crafted, decade-old image as a benevolent company just wanting to connect the world.

Thousands of pages of internal documents provided to Congress by a former employee depict an internally conflicted company where data on the harms it causes is abundant, but solutions, much less the will to act on them, are halting at best.

The crisis exposed by the documents shows how Facebook, despite its regularly avowed good intentions, appears to have slowwalked or sidelined efforts to address real harms the social network has magnified and sometimes created. They reveal numerous instances where researchers and rank-and-file workers uncovered deep-seated problems that the company then overlooked or ignored.

Final responsibility for this state of affairs rests with CEO Mark Zuckerberg, who holds what one former employee described as dictatorial power over a corporation that collects data on and provides free services to roughly 3 billion people around the world.

Zuckerberg has an ironclad hold on Facebook Inc. He holds the majority of the company's voting shares, controls its board of directors and has increasingly surrounded himself with executives who don't appear to question his vision.

But he has so far been unable to address stagnating user growth and shrinking engagement for Facebook the product in key areas such as the United States and Europe. Worse, the company is losing the attention of its most important demographic — teenagers and young people — with no clear path to gaining it back, its own documents

In other words, the young see Facebook as a place for old people.

Facebook's user base has been aging faster, on average, than the general population, the company's researchers found. Unless Facebook can find a way to turn this around, its population will continue to get older and young people will find even fewer reasons to sign on, threatening the monthly user figures that are essential to selling ads. Facebook says its products are still widely used by teens, although it acknowledges there's "tough competition" from TikTok, Snapchat and the like.

So it can continue to expand its reach and power, Facebook has pushed for high user growth outside the U.S. and Western Europe. But as it expanded into less familiar parts of the world, the company systematically failed to address or even anticipate the unintended consequences of signing up millions of new users without also providing staff and systems to identify and limit the spread of hate speech, misinformation and calls to violence.

But Facebook appears unable to "Ultimately, it rests with Mark acknowledge, much less prevent, and whatever his prerogative is — the real-world collateral damage and it has always been to grow, to accompanying its untrammeled growth. Facebook profits rise amid revelations from leaked documents

Amid fallout from the Facebook Papers documents supporting claims that the social network has valued financial success over user safety, Facebook on Monday reported higher profit for the latest quarter.

The company's latest show of financial strength follows both an avalanche of reports on the Facebook Papers — a vast trove of redacted internal documents obtained by a consortium of news organizations, including The Associated Press but also of Facebook whistleblower Frances Haugen's testimony to British lawmakers.

Facebook said its net income grew 17% in the July-September period to $9.19 billion, or $3.22 per share, buoyed by strong advertising revenue. That's up from $7.85 billion, or $2.71 per share, a year earlier. Revenue grew 35% to $29.01 billion. Analysts, on average, were expecting earnings of $3.19 per share on revenue of $24.49 billion, according to a poll by FactSet.

Facebook shares rose 2.5% in after-hours trading after closing up 1% for the day.

"For now, the revenue picture for Facebook looks as good as can be expected," said eMarketer analyst Debra Aho Williamson. But she predicted more revelations and described the findings so far as "unsettling and stomach-churning."

CEO Mark Zuckerberg opened Facebook's earnings conference call with an oblique reference to the "recent debate around our company," then largely repeated a statements he made after Haugen's Oct. 5 testimony before a U.S. Senate subcommittee. He insisted that he welcomes "good faith criticism" but considers the current storm a "coordinated effort" by news organizations to criticize the company based on leaked documents.

ORAL &

hy is accessing your personal tion so important? There are many reasons, of course.

Let's take a moment and create a scenario. You are at an oral surgeon's office waiting to be seen for a consultation on a tooth extraction. You

HEALTH fill out the endless amount of paperwork son to why they do not reand one of the questions you are asked is to list your current medications. You write down your regular maintenance medications for blood pressure and cholesterol. You submit your paperwork and wait to be seen by the surgeon or nurse practitioner

and his/her staff. At the conclusion of the appointment, you and your provider agreed that the tooth does need to be extracted and book your next appointment. The morning of the surgery you follow all of the instructions the surgical staff has given you, including not taking your blood pressure and cholesterol medications.

You show up at the office at your scheduled time, surgery goes well and you return home to sleep off the anesthesia. Throughout the evening you noticed that at the site of extraction you are still bleeding a good bit. You give the surgeon a call and decide maybe you should go meet them in their office to make sure everything is OK.

While the surgeon is examining the site of extraction, you suddenly realized you never told the surgeon you were on Coumadin (a blood thinner medication)!

Now, there are many things the surgeon could have done to prevent this situation from happening, but ultimately it was the patient's responsibility to disclose all medication history. What could have been a way the patient could have prevented this from happening? One way is if you had access to all of your health information or even better: have access to your health information on your smartphone.

This leads us to ask "why?" Why were we not utilizing this tool and why were health care professionals not pushing this service to all of their patients when it was first introduced?

The biggest concern for many people was the fear of the information being hacked into or turning over the information to a third party app may cause a leak in information, thus medical institutions may have trouble maintaining > its clientele. Another reason why patients have a hard time obtaining health information is because health care professionals quote "HIPAA"

(Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act) as a rea-lease health information.

On the contrary, since 1996, HIPAA requires any health care institution "to provide patients with access to any data that are 'readily producible' in the format the patient requests."

Fortunately, as technology grows so do our trends and desires. With this said, nearly 77% of Americans own a smart device, giving patients access to many different health applications and health information all in the palm of their hands.

For iPhone users, there is a "Health" app that allows your phone to sync to many other health devices such as FitBit, Apple Watch, blood pressure monitors, etc., which can then all be submitted to your physician.

Another program that is helping diminish the stereotype that it is not safe to allow patients to access their health information is the Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center's Open Notes, which not only allows patients to access their health information but also encourages patients to contribute to their own medical chart.

Other resources health institutions are implementing this phenomenon are Fast Health Interoperability Resources (FHIR) and the Substitutable Medical Applications Reusable Technology Health Information Technology (SMART) applications.

Other supporting companies who are partnering with health care institutions are Google, Amazon and Microsoft to help safely store and transfer patient health information.

The advantages of health information technology are endless and a powerful and useful tool for not only patients but also for physicians and research teams to provide better and more personalized care.

Got 'text neck?'

How to reverse the trend and improve your posture ext neck" is a term coined for the straightened cervical curve that results from prolonged looking downward with the neck in flexion while using phones and tablets.

Excessive neck flexion causes a loss of the normal forward curvature of the neck. Human spines have a forward curve in the neck and the low back, and a curve toward the back in the mid-back. These curves are seen in the side view and they allow the spine to Dr. Cheryl absorb shock, like a McFarland-Bryant spring. BETTER HEALTH

that we take

and every jolt and jostle sends force into our spine. Loss of these curves causes the discs in between the bones to wearthey are not built to withstand the force, but when these normal curves are decreased, then the discs receive more forces.

The cervicalneck curve is the most common curve to be lost, due to injuries and poor posture. Therefore, preventing loss of this curve and restoring it is important regarding spinal arthritis/ disc degeneration and overall health, because most all nervous system signals travel through the nerves of the neck, and cervical disc space narrowing causes dysfunction of these nerves.

While technology is great for knowledge, as people spend more time viewing tablets and phones, they suffer with increasingly poor posture because they have their heads bent down and forward of their shoulders. We need to find a way to hold the tablet in front of our faces. Specific stretches and exercises help improve posture, such as rolling the shoulder blades back and down for 3 sets of 10, and pulling the chin in as the head is pulled back for

An orthotic pillow with a stable support roll built in (not beads that move) supports a forward curve while on your back and can support the spine in a straight line while side-sleeping. Chiropractic adjustments > with a drop table can gently restore forward curves, as I have achieved this result as evidenced by follow-up radiographs -X-ray studies.

Vilified Astros begin another World Series

Cheered at home, but nowhere else in baseball

BEN WALKER AP baseball writer

HOUSTON — Carlos Correa, Jose Altuve and Alex Bregman whipped the ball around during a crisp infield drill, then came together for a group hug near second base after finishing up Monday.

High above the diamond at Minute Maid Park, the sun gleamed off an oversized banner attached to a light tower.

"World Series Champions," it said, along with "17" and the Astros logo. And it was solid gold.

Nope, no tarnish on that tribute. Not here in Houston, anyway.

Because if the stain of their sign-stealing scandal on the way to the 2017 crown is hanging over them, the Astros aren't showing it. Let the rest of the sports world condemn them forever as baseball's biggest cheaters they're focused, they say, on putting another shiny flag on that tower.

"I'm not worried about narratives. I'm not worried about any of that," Bregman said.

Back in the World Series for the third time in five years, they get that chance starting Tuesday night in Game 1 against the Atlanta

The Astros are favorites in Las Vegas and cheered at home, but nowhere else.

Heckled, cursed and taunted with fake trash cans at ballparks across the majors all season, the Astros know there's nothing they can do to change any fan's mind. The hate directed at them on social media, that's not going away anytime soon.

Neither are the whispers. During the AL playoffs, there was loosely lobbed innuendo and speculation about misdeeds.

Note this: During workouts Monday, the only camera in center field was for the Fox telecast. The official Major League Baseball report that issued penalties in January 2020 said the Astros used a team camera in center to illegally help steal signals flashed by opposing catchers.

We just want to really show the world that we're the best team out there. In order for us to do that, we've got to get four more wins. I don't think the outside noise motivates us at all," Correa said.

Hard to block out, though.

Lecanto boys, Citrus' Wood advance to regional golf tourney

Sports editor

MOUNT DORA — The Lecanto boys golf team recovered from a rough start, while Citrus' Luke Wood overcame a tough finish at the District 2A-9 golf championships Monday at Mount Dora Country Club.

The Panthers and Wood both advanced through districts to next Monday's Region 2A-3 Meet at Dubsdread Golf Course

'We started out very shaky with three players taking 10's in the first two holes. It took us four or five holes to get used to the tight course, as we haven't seen anything like that yet this year," Lecanto head coach Scot Roberts said. "It was nice to overcome such a horrible start to the tournament."

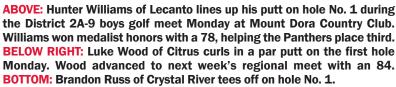

The Panthers finished the day with a score of 370, good for third place. Lecanto grabbed the third and final qualifying spot for regionals, edging county rival Citrus, which finished fourth at 390. Crystal River had its season come to an end with a 450 team score. Mount Dora won the district title with a 334, followed by The Villages (345).

Lecanto was led by junior medalist Hunter Williams, who was 4-over par after the first three holes, but settled in and was 2-over par the rest of the way to finish at 6-over par 78. That was one shot better than a pair of Mount Dora players and one from The Villages.

"Hunter started 4-over after three holes, fought hard the whole way around to shoot 6-over 78. I know we will play better next week," Roberts said.

Sophomore Albert Burns added an 89 for Lecanto, senior John Boatwright had a 99, freshman Reece DiMase carded a 104 and sophomore Jacob Siegendorf had a 123.

Wood started strong Monday with a 39 on the front nine,

Timme headlines AP preseason All-Americans

Drew Timme could have left for the NBA

after leading Gonzaga into last season's national title game. He likely would have been drafted and gone on to have a solid career.

But Timme wanted more. Certainly, a chance to finish off a championship run, but also to work one more season with coach Mark Few.

There was an added benefit, too: Timme was the lone unanimous selection by a 63-person media panel on The Associated Press preseason All-America team released Monday. He was joined by Illinois big man Kofi Cockburn, UCLA guard Johnny Juzang, Villanova point guard Collin Gillespie and Indiana forward Trayce Jackson-Davis.

Tampa Bay left wing Alex Killorn (17) celebrates Monday after scoring a goal during the first period against the Sabres in Buffalo, N.Y. The Lightning lost 5-1.

Olofsson scores twice, Sabres beat Lightning

JONAH BRONSTEIN Associated Press

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Victor Olofsson scored two goals and Craig Anderson made 35 saves for the Buffalo Sabres in a 5-1 win against the Tampa Bay Lightning on Monday night.

Drake Caggiula, Vinnie Hinostroza and Robert Hagg also scored for the Sabres in their first win against the Lightning in eight meetings. Tage Thompson had two assists.

Bouncing back from a 2-1 overtime loss in their road opener at New Jersey on Saturday, the Sabres continued their strong start by beating the twotime Stanley Cup champions to improve to 4-1-0 at home.

Alex Killorn had a goal for the Lightning, who opened a back-to-back trip with their first road loss of the season. Brian Elliott stopped 20 shots in his Tampa Bay debut.

Caggiula bounced in a wrist shot off the far post to beat Elliott on an unassisted breakaway with 38 seconds left in the second, giving the Sabres a 2-1 lead during a period when they did not have a shot on goal for the first 13 minutes.

Hinostroza added on his first goal with the Sabres in the early stages of the third period, taking the puck from Tampa Bay's Mathieu Joseph and beating Elliott with a wrist shot from the high slot.

Olofsson's goal off the rebound from Thompson's shot put Buffalo ahead less than two minutes into the game. Olofsson added a goal into the empty net with 2:30 remaining for his fourth of the season.

Hagg had an empty-net goal with 5:35 to go, six seconds after the Lightning pulled Elliott for an extra attacker.

The Lightning scored in the opening period for the first time in six games when Killorn got up from his knees to knock in the rebound from Ryan McDonagh's point shot with 1:34 left in the first.

LINEUP CHANGES

Lightning forward Pat Maroon did not make the trip to Buffalo following the birth of his daughter. ... Alex Barré-Boulet returned to the Tampa Bay lineup after being claimed on waivers from Seattle. He started the season with the Lightning before getting waived and spending 11 days on the Kraken roster.

but finished the final five holes at 7-over par, to end the day at 12-over 84. That was still good for sixth place overall to punch his ticket to regionals, with the second-best individual score for a player not on a regional-qualifying team. The top three individuals not on a team that qualified also advanced to regionals.

"The front nine, I went par, then double-bogey, then I parred like four in a row. The back, I started off with a double, but bounced back, then I felt like I kind of fell off at the end," Wood said. "This course is tough, so shooting an 84 isn't that bad. And I love the course at regionals, so I'm excited."

Wood is very familiar with the Orlando course, playing it last year at regionals and just last week for a practice round.

"I definitely think my golf game is at a better point this year. I feel really good. I played Dubsdread last weekend and I shot like a 76. I feel good about it," he said. "I always want to shoot the best I can. But I definitely want to go to state for sure. It would be great to go to state as a sophomore.'

Also competing at districts for the Hurricanes were freshmen Brenden Boccia (96) and Walker Tyler (104) and juniors Chase Webb (107) and Shawn Tanuz (107).

Crystal River was led by junior Matthew Brown with a 102 and freshman Brandon Russ with a 104. Joe Meek added a 115, William Fletcher carded a 129 and Zachary Adams had a 137. All three are freshmen.

At the District 2A-9 girls golf meet Monday at Harbor Hills Golf Club in Lady Lake, a lengthy lightning delay meant that play had to be suspended due to darkness. The teams will return today at 8 a.m. to finish.

Four out of five Lecanto players had finished and the Panthers were in second place behind The Villages. Crystal River was in third and Citrus fourth. The top three teams advance to regionals next Tuesday, also at Dubsdread in Orlando.

Lecanto's Maegan Pungsuwan was in the clubhouse with a second-place score of 76. Megan Allen of Crystal River was third after an 81.

SERIES

I've gotten booed just as equal as anybody else," AL Championship Series MVP Yordan Alvarez recently said.

Outfielder Michael Brantley played against Houston that season while with Cleveland. He now wears an Astros jersey, fully aware many fans think it should say "Villains" across the front.

The team's cheating past, he knows, is as much a part of the uniform as the Astros star-featured logo. And it follows them to this day. "Sure does. We get it everywhere we go," he said.

The ones who get razzed the most are the four holdovers from that 2017 squad still on the roster, starting infielders Altuve, Correa, Bregman and Yuli Gurriel.

Bregman gets the most prickly about the subject. Altuve often breezes by it while Correa is quick to own what happened.

To manager Dusty Baker, it's in the past. Hired after manager A.J. Hinch and general manager Jeff Luhnow were fired by the team and suspended his players aren't spurred by the haters.

"That's what I think people are trying to make it, as their main source of motivation, but that doesn't motivate you nearly as much as just driving to win and driving for excellence," he said. "You can only be driven by, 'I'll show you,' or you can only be driven by negative motivation so far."

"I think this team is way past that because they know they can play. So this is what you have to dwell on, me versus the world?" he said. "After a while, like, how long can you have that mantra? So I think that's been gone a while.'

Altuve, the All-Star second baseman and driving force, has been with the Astros since 2011, from 100-loss seasons to 100-win years. He helped Houston beat the Los Angeles Dodgers in the seven-game 2017 World Series and lost a seven-game matchup to Washington in 2019.

Could this postseason run somehow alter the perception of the past?

"I haven't thought about that," Altuve said. "But I think we have the same mindset we always have, just going out there and try to win."

"There's not a single guy that's thinking about something else but by MLB, the 72-year-old skipper said winning," he said.

At who's funeral did Jennifer Granholm, then the Michigan governor, say, "... an improbable warrior that was leading an unlikely army of waitresses and street sweepers and shopkeepers and auto mechanics"?

In today's deal, South seems to have an improbable chance to make his contract of three no-trump after West leads the spade queen. Do you see a way to succeed?

Law & Order '14' @

East's weak jump overcall of two diamonds wouldn't appeal to everyone, especially at the prevailing vulnerability. But his partner was a passed hand, and East thought it probable that his opponents had at least a game available. Over two diamonds, South elected not to make a negative double because he was short in spades. This proved fortuitous because four hearts was doomed to failure.

Law & Order '14' @

West decided to lead from his better spade sequence. This seemed to defeat three no-trump because when declarer conceded a club trick, his last spade stopper would be knocked out. Then, when South led a diamond, the defenders would win with the ace and run the spades.

However, there was a winning line. After taking trick one with dummy's spade king, declarer called for the diamond three.

If East won with the ace, South would have nine tricks via two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs. Or, if East played low, declarer would win with his king and concede a club trick. Then his nine tricks would be two spades, two hearts, one diamond and four clubs.

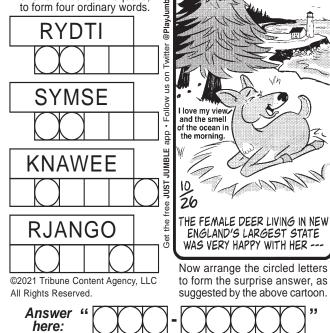

It was an unusual example of Morton's Fork.

Gov. Granholm was eulogizing at Rosa Park's funeral.

Annie's advice

ear Annie: I read your column every day, and I read with great interest the letter from the wife whose husband had an affair 20 years earlier. She was bitter that none of her friends told her about it.

I found myself in a similar situation, only I was the friend, and I DID tell her that her husband was cheating on her. This was 35 years ago.

Remember the old expression about killing the messenger? That's what happened to me.

astated, but I believed she deserved the truth. She was my best friend, and I felt I'd be lying to her face every time I saw her if I didn't tell her.

I practiced for days trying to come up with the most supportive way of talking to her. I went and saw her, and we talked for about an hour, and it was very, very difficult. I left knowing that she had a lot to process and sort out, and I gave her some space. After a few days, I called but could not reach her. I left messages, but I never heard back from her.

Fifteen years later, I got a rather incoherent and angry letter from her, blaming mefor what, specifically, wasn't

The wife who wrote to you complaining that no one told her might have reacted differently 20 years ago if someone had let her know. If I had had a crystal ball and known our friendship would be over if I told her, would I still have told my friend at the time? I think so. I still believe hiding it from her would have been worse, a betrayal. — Killed Messenger in Pennsylvania Dear Killed Messenger: Thank you for your letter. I suppose it was easier to get mad at you than her husband who had betrayed her. Just know that her meanness came out of pain and that hurt people hurt people.

Dear Annie: Why do Americans have so many ice cream products?

This week, I went to the supermarket, and there were 10 new ice creams to choose from, and I was just about to finish off trying them all from the prior week. I'm not fat — yet.

Yes, even with the problems of supply, they somehow still manage to pack the refrigerators with new choices. I find myself spending at least five to 10 minutes trying to choose an ice cream that is healthy, economical and tastes good.

In my country, we have fewer ice cream choices, but they all taste good. Should I check myself to see if I have obsessive-compulsive disorder, or should I be concerned that we indeed have too many choices in America?

Another crazy complaint, if I may: I recently found out that a famous ice cream brand with a European label is not actually European. The first time I found this product, I happily told the clerk, who often sees me hanging around the ice cream aisle, that I had found a European ice cream.

He didn't seem surprised but actually looked concerned. I felt like an idiot after I found out it's made by an American corporation. No wonder he looked concerned.

So, this has been my problem, and I need a solution. Maybe you can help? — Too Many Choices

Dear Choices: Isn't America great? The complaint in many countries is that there aren't enough choices, while your concern about this country is that we have too many choices of ice cream. That's a sweet thought.

In all seriousness, you bring up a good point that too many choices can actually be detrimental to your well-being. Psychology professor Barry Schwartz argues that having an infinite number of choices can be exhausting. We can set unrealistic expectations and then think we might have made the wrong choice.

Butler, Heat pull away to top Magic 107-90

Associated Press

MIAMI — Jimmy Butler scored 36 points on 15-for-21 shooting, Bam Adebayo added 16 points and 13 rebounds and the Miami Heat pulled away in the fourth quarter to beat the Orlando Magic 107-90 on Monday night.

Markieff Morris had 16 points off the Miami bench, and Tyler Herro finished with 13 points, five rebounds and nine assists for the Heat.

Miami was 19 for 19 from the foul line, tying the second-most makes without a miss in team history. The Heat were 30 for 30 against Boston on March 24, 1993.

Franz Wagner and Jalen Suggs led Orlando with 15 points, while Cole Anthony and R.J. Hampton each added 12 for the Magic. Mo Bamba and Robin Lopez had 11 apiece for Orlando.

Butler also had five steals, and did the bulk of his scoring work at the rim for Miami. He had 11 field goals — a career best for the opening two quarters of a game — by halftime, the majority of those dunks or layups, and the Heat led by as many as 19 in the early going before taking a 57-44 lead into the break.

Bucks 119, Pacers 109

INDIANAPOLIS — Giannis Antetokounmpo finshed with 30 points, 10 rebounds and nine assists, and Khris Middleton added 27 points as the defending NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks beat Indiana 119-109.

Orlando center Mo Bamba (5) drives to the basket Monday as Miami guard Kyle Lowry defends during the first half in Miami. The Heat won 107-90.

Nets 104, Wizards 90

NEW YORK — Kevin Durant scored 25 points and the Brooklyn Nets bounced back from a poor finish a day earlier with a blistering start that sent them to a 104-90 victory over the Washington Wizards.

Patty Mills added 21 points off the bench, while James Harden finished with 14 points. nine assists and six rebounds.

Hawks 122, Pistons 104

ATLANTA — Trae Young had 32 points and nine assists, John Collins scored 22 and the Atlanta Hawks beat the Detroit Pistons

The Hawks have won 24 of their last 30 home games, including playoff games, dating

Celtics 140, Hornets 129 OT

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Jayson Tatum scored a season-high 41 points, Jaylen Brown added 30, including an emphatic dunk in overtime, and the Boston Celtics beat Charlotte 140-129, handing the Hornets their first loss of the season.

Miles Bridges had 25 points and 10 rebounds for the Hornets.

Bulls 111, Raptors 108

TORONTO — DeMar DeRozan scored 26 points against his former team, Zach LaVine had 22 points and the Chicago Bulls opened a season with four straight wins for the first time since 1996-97, holding off the Toronto Raptors 111-108.

Pelicans 107, T'wolves 98

MINNEAPOLIS — Brandon Ingram scored 27 points, Jonas Valanciunas had 22 points and 23 rebounds, and the New Orleans Pelicans snapped a season-opening three-game losing streak with a 107-98 victory over the Minnesota Timberwolves.
