Officials report on death of man found in RV fire

Pathologists released the cause and manner of death for a man whose body was found in the aftermath of an RV fire in Homosassa.

Acute carbon monoxide poisoning and thermal injuries due to a structure fire caused the 73-year-old's death, which was ruled a suicide, according to autopsy and toxicology reports released Thursday, Nov. 18, by the District 5 Medical Examiner's Office.

Due to the nature of the man's death, the Chronicle is not releasing his identity.

Citrus County emergency crews discovered the man's body while responding the afternoon of Oct. 17 to a blaze at the Cedars Lake Mobile Home and RV Park off of South Mason Creek Road.

A spokesman for the Florida State Fire Marshal said Thursday the investigation into the cause and origin of the fire remains ongoing.

Ashley Renea Hilligoss, 37, announced her new plea Wednesday, Nov. 17, at the U.S. District Courthouse in Ocala, according to court records and the Department of Justice on Thursday.

Hilligoss' codefendant, Citrus Springs 32-year-old Dustin Shane Sandiford, already pleaded guilty in September to his federal charge

Revamped arts festival debuts

Professional artist Christian Stanley works high above the ground Thursday, Nov. 18, as he paints a giant mural on the side of Coach's Pub and Eatery in downtown Inverness. When complete, the project will transform the once-barren exterior wall into a scenic mural depicting many of the iconic settings in Inverness.

Celebration's 50th anniversary is both a throwback and an evolution

FRED HIERS
 Staff writer

The Festival of the Arts is taking a glance backward in time as its city organizers are laying out its path forward and the future.

Saturday and Sunday will reflect the city's efforts to host the festival in a way similar to how it was organized earlier in its existence. The festival will now host only makers of fine art and no longer offer crafts — something that the festival incorporated only years later.

But festival organizers said it's also time to expand the festival and offer new activities and venues.

The festival will include a free interactive art area for children and live music entertainment. The festival this year will also incorporate the Valerie Theatre for the first time by showing animated films created by students at the Lecanto School of the Arts. The Valerie will also host an interactive art installation.

Inverness is also having a mural painted during the festival for the city's downtown. The mural will be by Christian Stanley, an artist based in Orlando. He began the mural this week and the city hopes to attract people to watch the art being created.

This weekend's event will be the 50th anniversary of the festival, first hosted in 1971. The festival, in its current format, was canceled in 2020 and an abbreviated version was held at Liberty Park because of social distancing.

There will be $8,500 in prize money for the artists. Of that, the city will buy $2,000 in art from two artists and display it in the Inverness government center. That will be part of the city's new effort to support and market the art community and fine arts.

The reorganization of the festival with a focus on fine arts, and the city's expansion of the event, along with buying and displaying art, is meant to send a message, said Pamela Zeljak, Inverness' art consultant.

"It helps artists and art organizations in the community know that the city values the arts," Zeljak told the Chronicle. "(And) it makes art accessible to a greater (audience)."

Christian Stanley uses a scissor lift Thursday, Nov. 18, to help accomplish his mural project that will reach 22 feet in height when complete.

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Ron DeSantis quickly signed four bills into law Thursday from a special legislative session aimed primarily at preventing workers from being required to get vaccinated against COVID-19.

Focusing on vaccination mandates pursued by the White House, DeSantis touted the "strongest piece of legislation that's been enacted anywhere in the country" and said Florida is "respecting people's individual freedoms."

"The states are the primary vehicles to protect people's freedoms, their health, in our constitutional system," DeSantis said during a bill-signing ceremony at Brandon Honda in the Hillsborough County community of Brandon. "What Biden is doing is not vacancies, including a spot in Citrus County.

After interviewing a dozen applicants Tuesday, Nov. 16, the Judicial Nominating Commission (JNC) for the Fifth Judicial Circuit of Florida sent five nominees to the governor's office.

Those picks, according to the JNC on Thursday, were: Sarah Jones, Kristie Healis, Barbara Kissner-Kwatkosky, Jason Nimeth and Cheri Russell.

DeSantis will name two of those people to succeed retiring circuit judges S. Sue Robbins and William Hallman III.

Whoever DeSantis selects to fill Robbins' vacancy is expected to preside over cases in Citrus County due to Circuit Court Judge Stacy Youmans leaving the courthouse in Inverness to take over the docket Robbins left in Marion County.

Jones is a general magistrate at the Lake County Judicial Center; Healis is a Hernando County judge; Kissner-Kwatkosky is a general magistrate at the Marion County Courthouse; Russell is an Ocala-based marital and family-law attorney; and Nimeth is a Lake County judge.

Judicial applicants have to live within the judicial circuit — which covers Citrus, Marion, Hernando, Lake and Sumter counties — and must be a member of The Florida Bar for at least five years.

State installs new traffic signal

At County Road 491, State Road 200 intersection

MICHAEL D. BATES
Staff writer

At long last, the traffic light is up at the County Road 491 and State Road 200 intersection.

This deadly corner has seen numerous accidents throughout the years and two fatal accidents this year. Talk of putting up a signal light has been going on two years. County Commissioner Jeff Kinnard was the leading proponent for this project to get the Florida Department of Transportation to take action.

The two roads meet north of Hernando, just south of the Withlacoochee River bridge that divides Citrus and Marion counties.

County Road 491 intersects State Road 200 at a 30- to 40-degree angle, which makes it difficult for drivers on C.R. 491 making a left turn onto S.R. 200 toward Ocala.

MATTHEW BECK/Chronicle

Motorists head south on State Road 200 Thursday, Nov. 18, at the intersection of County Road 491. A new traffic signal is currently being installed at the intersection.

In addition to the main travel lane on S.R. 200, there is a right-turn lane for drivers on S.R. 200 planning to turn onto C.R. 491, so the driver of the car on C.R. 491 must determine both if a car in the right lane on S.R. 200 is planning to turn onto C.R. 491, and if a car in the turn lane is blocking view of a car in the through lane that will continue through the intersection.

Flood victims can apply for low-interest loans

MICHAEL D. BATES
Staff writer

Citrus County businesses and residents affected by severe storms and flooding Sept. 15-19 can now apply for low-interest disaster loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA).

A state disaster declaration makes the loans available for Citrus, Hernando, Levy, Marion and Sumter counties.

From January to October, the county received an average 66 inches of rain. And during the summer months (June to September) it recorded 49 inches, an all-time wet season record, according to the Southwest Florida Water Management District.

County commissioners in September got the ball rolling on these loans by declaration to help residents rebuild their flood-damaged homes.

Dozens of homeowners appealed to commissioners at that meeting for relief. Other than the loan program, the board said its hands are tied.

"Businesses and private nonprofit organizations may borrow up to $2 million to repair or replace disaster-damaged or destroyed real estate, machinery and equipment, inventory, and other business assets," said SBA's North Florida District Director Jon Richards.

Loans up to $200,000 are available to homeowners to repair or replace damaged or destroyed real estate, said Kem Fleming, director of SBA's Field Operations Center East in Atlanta.

"Homeowners and renters are eligible for loans up to $40,000 to repair or replace damaged or destroyed personal property," Fleming said.

The SBA will open a Disaster Loan Outreach Center at noon Nov. 29 at the Citrus County Canning Center, 3405 W. Southern St. in Lecanto. That office will close permanently at 4 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 9.

Here are the hours: 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Friday; 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4.

Disaster loan information and application forms may also be obtained by calling the SBA's Customer Service Center at (800-659-2955) or emailing DisasterCustomerService@sba.gov.

Duchess of Sussex gets goofy on Ellen DeGeneres' show

NEW YORK — It was the Meghan hour Thursday on the talk show of her friend, Ellen DeGeneres, as the Duchess of Sussex helped welcome a special guest, hit the studio lot to prank vendors and said she'll be cooking Thanksgiving dinner herself.
"I love to cook. We'll be home and just sort of relax and settle in," Meghan said of her second Thanksgiving in California with Prince Harry and, now, their two kids.

Associated Press

Meghan and DeGeneres, who met at a pet store more than a decade ago, chatted about Halloween (Archie was a dinosaur and baby Lili a skunk), and more serious issues like Meghan's work to push for federal paid family leave. And she said Harry has taken nicely to the California lifestyle in Montecito, where Ellen is one of their neighbors.

"He loves it," Meghan said. "We're just happy."

Meghan got Ellen-style goofy when she donned an earpiece so Ellen could tell her what to say and do as she perused the wares of three vendors on the studio lot. Meghan mewed in cat ears, devoured hot sauce on crackers like a chipmunk and held a huge crystal to her face — all after a pretend assistant told the trio of sellers to treat her just like everybody else. They could barely keep from laughing.

"Let Mommy taste some. My boo loves hot sauce," Meghan told one seller with a table full of hot sauces. "Mommy wants some heat."

Later on "The Ellen DeGeneres Show," Ellen and Meghan welcomed Brittany Starks, a

Tennessee mother and hair-dresser who gave back after being helped herself through hard times by braiding the hair of schoolchildren for free. Since, she has started a charity, A Twist of Greatness.

Detective: 'Tiger King' star won't talk about missing spouse

TAMPA — A detective in Florida investigating the disappearance of Carole Baskin's second husband said Thursday that the "Tiger King" star had three times refused requests for interviews, and that the probe was ongoing.

Cpl. Moises Garcia of the Hillsborough County Sheriff's Office in Tampa held a news conference to provide an update on the investigation into Don Lewis' disappearance. The case was reopened following the March 2020 release of "Tiger King: Murder, Mayhem and Madness," a Netflix documentary series which became a huge hit during the pandemic.

Lewis was a Tampa millionaire who vanished in 1997, leaving Baskin with dozens of big cats at their animal sanctuary. The series launched rumors about how Lewis disappeared, including conjecture that he was buried in a septic tank on the sanctuary's property or living in Costa Rica.

The detective said he and his investigators had conducted 50 interviews and followed up on 200 leads.

When asked about the Costa Rica rumor, Garcia refused to comment, but he said federal agents had run down leads in the Central American country. Getting a search warrant for the animal sanctuary to follow up on the septic tank rumor would require probable cause, either evidence showing something happened on the property or a witness who could testify to that effect, he said.

Zeljak said returning to a focus on fine arts and expanding the festival is only possible because of the work of volunteer committees and people who remember and helped create the festival years ago.

She also said people who are not knowledgeable about fine art shouldn't be intimidated about coming to the event.

"You don't have to know anything about art," Zeljak told the Chronicle. "You don't have to be an artsy kind of person to enjoy the festival."

"All the artists travel around to festivals and are used to talking to folks who may be (attending) for the first time," she said.

The festival will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 20 and Nov. 21, at 1 Courthouse Square, Inverness. There will be at least 50 artists participating in the event that's free to the public. There will also be food and drink vendors.

The decision to focus on fine arts was based on the fact that there are already ample festivals that offer crafts, Zeljak said.

"We wanted to return to the roots of the festival," she said.

Zeljak said she's not concerned that focusing on fine arts and no longer allowing crafts will reduce festival attendance.

Meanwhile, the festival will hopefully draw more people, families, and children by offering new events, such as the free children's art activity area where children will be encouraged to participate in creating Thanksgiving arts and crafts, rock painting, and face painting.

Liz Fernley, director of marketing, events and cultural arts, said the festival will also incorporate music at the Valerie Theatre, including a classical violinist and a pop and rock band. The Valerie will also host an interactive art installation. To learn more about the installation, visit the city's website at www.inverness-fl.gov/Calendar.aspx?EID4828.

The festival will again be in the city's downtown, allowing visitors to be closer to downtown shops and restaurants, Fernley said.

Sandy Levin, art show committee volunteer, helped put the festival together many years ago.

"What we've tried to do now is go back and find the history of the art festival from the original people involved ... to capture for our 50th anniversary how it started and how it was run ... the true origination and spirit of the festival," Levin said.

"It was the social occasion of the year when everyone in the community participated," she said.

People came to both days of the event to see and meet artists, but also catch up with neighbors and friends, she said. School bands and choir groups would also perform at the festivals.

Zeljak said the hope is to get the community involved and make the festival an attraction that they can support.

"Our goal is to celebrate the arts community and bring the community together around the arts," she said, "and we want make it big and amazing."

One of the artists hoping for the festival's success is Chuck Tripp of Citrus County.

Tripp makes three-dimensional metal artwork, typically of nature scenes and animals.

Tripp, 69, had lost his job at a lumber company during the Great Recession in 2008. Before that he had worked with metal making automated machines and custom gates.

Out of a job, Tripp made seven pieces of art.

"I sold them all in one week and made $1,000 and said to myself there's got to be something to this," he told the Chronicle.

The Inverness Festival of the Arts was the first show Tripp participated in 10 years ago.

Now Tripp almost sells out of the pieces he brings to shows

He said he enjoys talking to visitors who look at his art and answers their questions.

Many of his customers tell him what they want and he makes it to their specifications, Tripp said. And if they don't like it, they don't have to buy it.

Marti Estep of Inverness will also be an artist at the festival. Before retiring, she was an art therapist for 15 years and social worker.

"I love to create," she said. "So painting is what motivates me."

Selling her art helps defray her costs and makes room to create more, she said.

"And it makes me happy to know my art is making someone happy," she said.

She enjoys attending festivals because her art is seen, but it also motivates her to finish more work, she said.

"I already sold two pieces posting them on Facebook (about the festival)," she said. "I wouldn't have done it if not for the festival."

"It's also very reinforcing when people see and appreciate what I do," she said.

The festival and its changes also has political support.

"I love the direction the city is going in during the last couple of years," said Inverness Mayor Bob Plaisted.

"I think we're on a new trajectory," he said of the festival. "I'm excited about that."

'Falloween Picnic' brings fun

Special to the Chronicle

The 18th annual Falloween Picnic event, held Oct. 29 by Citrus County Community Center staff, was a huge success.

People of all ages gathered at the Central Citrus Community Center for games, music and dancing. This long-running event was canceled last year due to COVID, so there was extra excitement for its return.

Live music was provided by Wes St. Onge, Sue Voesley and Sally Smith Adams, who played upbeat tunes to encourage more than 120 attendees to hit the dance floor.

Zumba instructor Donna Scarpella, who teaches at the community center at 11 a.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, provided a demonstration along with some of her regulars.

Shoppers were welcomed into the Circle of Friends Gift Shop, where discounts were offered on an assortment of merchandise. Citrus County Parks & Recreation staff even showed up for an unexpected song and dance interlude.

The highlight of the event was the costume contest. First, second, and third place awards were given for five categories: prettiest costume, funniest costume, cutest costume, scariest costume and most original costume.

Some of the standouts included a cupcake, police officer, ladybug, witch doctor and "cereal" killer. After the contest concluded, lunch was served by community center staff.

Centers provide meeting places throughout the County for residents of all ages. They offer people a place to go for nutritious meals, social activities and an array of regularly scheduled programs.

For more information about the community centers, call 352-527-5975.

Judge: Girl, 14, competent for adult trial in armed standoff

DAYTONA BEACH — A 14-year-old runaway accused of trying to shoot deputies during a standoff in central Florida this year has been ruled competent to stand trial.

After the girl answered a judge's questions on Wednesday, her public defender and prosecutor agreed she understood the legal ramifications of the charges against her and could assist in her defense, The Daytona Beach News-Journal reported.

She has been charged as an adult in the June 1 standoff with attempted first-degree murder of a law enforcement officer, burglary of a dwelling while armed and criminal mischief causing damage of $1,000 or more.

The girl and a 12-year-old boy ran away from a children's home after she argued with staff over her desire to go outside and catch lizards.

Prosecutors said the pair broke into a house and armed themselves with weapons they found there, including an AK-47, a 12-gauge shotgun and a .22-caliber pistol. Then they opened fire on Volusia County Sheriff's deputies who responded to the break-in, according to the sheriff's office and body camera video.

The deputies initially held their fire, but eventually shot the girl after she pointed a shotgun at them and refused to put it down. The boy surrendered and wasn't hurt.

Jury recommends death for young boy's fatal shooting

TAMPA — Jurors recommended the death penalty on Wednesday for a Florida man convicted of fatally shooting his girlfriend and her 10-year-old son during an argument.

Following a two-week trial, the panel of seven women and five men unanimously concluded that Tyrone Terrell Johnson, 45, deserves to die, the Tampa Bay Times reported. The Hillsborough County jury had found him guilty of murdering the mother and child, but prosecutors only sought the death penalty for the boy's slaying. A judge will officially sentence Johnson at a hearing scheduled for January.

Johnson was staying at an apartment near Tampa with Stephanie Willis and her son, Ricky Ryon Willis, in October 2018 when the couple got into an argument, officials said. Johnson told detectives that he grabbed a handgun and began shooting at his girlfriend when she attacked him and kept firing as the boy entered the room.

Investigators said physical evidence did not match Johnson's account. Blood beneath the boy's bed and two bullet holes in his bedroom wall indicated he'd tried to hide as he was shot, officials said.

Man gets 6-month sentence for COVID relief fraud

MIAMI — A Florida man has been sentenced to six months in federal prison for lying to get a low-interest COVID-19 relief loan.

Willie Curry, 58, was sentenced Wednesday in Miami federal court, according to court records. He pleaded guilty in August to wire fraud in connection with his fraudulent application to the U.S. Small Business Administration.

According to a plea agreement, Curry applied for an Economic Injury Disaster Loan with the SBA in June 2020. He falsely claimed that Will Curry Computers was established in 2015 and had annual gross revenues of approximately $755,416, a cost of goods sold of approximately $170,664, and 10 employees. Prosecutors said Curry actually established the business in 2020, and it had minimal revenues or costs of goods sold and no employees.

of exploiting a young girl to produce child pornography, in exchange for a prison term of between 15 and 30 years.

To abide by their plea agreement with Sandiford, prosecutors agreed to drop his two other charges of possessing and distributing child pornography.

Antoon will sentence Sandiford on Jan. 21.

Hillgoss photographed a then-4-year-old girl engaged in sexually explicit conduct, and sent the images to Sandiford at his request.

FBI agents discovered the illicit photographs during a search of Sandiford's cellphone before they arrested him in December.

Sandiford was also using 137 gigabytes of digital storage service split across a handful of foreign countries to house more than 17,000 illicit files and videos.

Hillgoss contacted the FBI a couple of weeks after Sandiford's arrest to express concerns about photos she sent him while they were dating.

Among Sandiford's collection of child pornography, FBI agents would find a photograph of Hillgoss standing next to the girl inside her local home.

Federal investigators also uncovered a text conversation between Sandiford and Hillgoss sharing the girl's explicit photos.

In a June interview with the FBI, before her arrest, Hillgoss admitted to taking the illicit images and sending them to Sandiford because she felt threatened by him to do so.

constitutional. There has never been a federal vaccine mandate imposed on the general public.”

DeSantis has spent months battling with the Biden administration about COVID-19 policies, and Thursday's event was held in a community that shares a name with part of a conservative derogatory slogan about President Joe Biden — “Let's Go Brandon.”

Attorney General Ashley Moody called the Hillsborough County community “the shining city on the hill representing freedom,” resulting in the first brief round of “Let's go Brandon” calls during the event.

Some Brandon Honda employees, lined up behind DeSantis, held signs saying “Brandon Florida” and “Freedom has a home here.”

Asked about why Brandon was selected for the bill-signing event, DeSantis, who has referred to the Biden administration as the “Brandon administration,” replied that “Brandon, Florida, is a great American city.”

The Republican-controlled House and Senate passed the bills along almost straight party lines Wednesday during the final day of a three-day special session called by DeSantis.

The main bill (HB 1B) allows Florida private-sector workers to avoid vaccination requirements if they provide medical reasons, religious reasons or can demonstrate “COVID-19 immunity.” Also, they can be exempt if they agree to regular COVID-19 testing or agree to wear personal protective equipment. Employers could face fines up to $50,000 per violation if they don't properly follow the law.

The bill also bars government agencies from requiring workers to be vaccinated. In addition, it reinforces a law known as the “Parents' Bill of Rights” to ban student mask and vaccination requirements in public schools.

The school part of the bill came after months of legal battling between the state and some school districts that required students to wear masks. Those districts have dropped mask requirements recently as COVID-19 cases have subsided, and districts have not imposed vaccination mandates.

Democrats criticized the new laws and the special session, which they decried as a waste of time and as being about DeSantis' widely speculated White House ambitions in 2024.

“It's a disgrace the governor chooses to call a symbol of technological and medical advancement ‘the jab’ to continue scaring people and confusing them about the effectiveness of the vaccine,” House Minority Co-Leader Bobby DuBose, D-Fort Lauderdale, said in a statement. “We need to continue listening to public-health and medical experts to get over this pandemic and truly let Floridians prosper.”

Sen. Shevrin Jones, D-West Park, said the measures, which also include a bill to start moving away from oversight of worker safety by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration, will “gut worker safety and tie small businesses' hands.”

“This week is yet another charade from power-hungry politicians who care more about scoring points off of one another than they do keeping families and communities safe,” Jones said after the session ended Wednesday.

But House Speaker Chris Sprowls, R-Palm Harbor, said the bills “send a clear message to the Biden administration and the federal government that Florida stands for freedom.”

Also, Florida Surgeon General Joseph Ladapo said the legislation pushes Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis, seated, signs a bill in front of supporters and members of the media during a news conference Thursday, Nov. 18, in Brandon, Fla. DeSantis signed the bill that protects employees and their families from coronavirus vaccine and mask mandates.

back against a federal belief that “you don't control your body” and called requiring students to wear masks “spiritual warfare.”

Florida has filed three lawsuits against federal vaccination mandates, including a challenge filed Wednesday in Pensacola in which Moody is seeking to block a directive that workers at hospitals, nursing homes and other health-care providers be vaccinated.

Florida also has challenged vaccination requirements for employees of federal contractors and employees of businesses with 100 or more workers. OSHA announced Wednesday that the rule applying to employers with 100 or more workers is on hold after an order by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which hears cases from Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. The order did not resolve the underlying legal issues in the fight about the vaccination requirement.

After signing the bills

Thursday, DeSantis said, “not bad for a couple of weeks' work.” Republican leaders agreed before the session on the details of the four bills, which went unchanged during committee hearings and floor debates in the House and Senate.

The other bills: ■ HB 3B, which creates a public-records exemption related to allegations that employers have violated the law preventing vaccination mandates. The exemption would shield from public release information about investigations into the alleged violations.

■ HB 5B, which will start a process that could lead to the state taking control of worker safety and health issues from OSHA. In part, the bill provides $1 million to DeSantis' offices to work on a plan for picking up the duties of OSHA.

■ HB 7B, which removes the authority of the state surgeon general to order vaccinations during public health emergencies.

House panel probing free speech at U of F

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE—A U.S. House subcommittee opened an investigation Thursday into whether the University of Florida interfered with academic freedom and free speech when it stopped three professors from testifying as experts in a lawsuit challenging Florida's election law, before reversing course.

Members of the House Subcommittee on Civil Rights and Civil Liberties sent a letter to UF president Kent Fuchs requesting documents and communications regarding the creation of the school's conflicts-of-interest policy and its denials of faculty requests to engage in outside activities.

"We are concerned that UF is censoring its faculty based on viewpoint, which would set a dangerous precedent that flies in the face of its own commitment to freedom of expression," the letter said.

It added, "We are also concerned that, possibly due to pressure from trustees, politicians, or others, UF has adopted and enforced a conflicts policy that undermines the academic and free speech values that are essential to American higher education."

In an email, university spokeswoman Hessa Fernandez said the university had received the letter. "We are working to respond within the guidelines we received," she said.

In the letter, the House members said they were concerned about a school policy change last year requiring university employees to get approval before engaging in outside activities. Before the change, employees merely had to notify the school.

Under the new policy, four law school professors were prevented from stating their university affiliation last year in a friend-of-the-court brief for a lawsuit challenging a law that made it more difficult for felons to get their voting rights back. Then, UF denied requests from a medical school professor to testify in lawsuits challenging Gov. Ron DeSantis' ban on school mask mandates, the letter said.

Finally, last month, the university prohibited three professors from testifying in the lawsuit brought by civic groups against the election law which critics believe restricts voting rights. A school official said that such testimony would put the school in conflict with the administration of Florida Republican Gov. Ron DeSantis, which pushed the election law. More than half of the university's trustees are appointed by the governor.

The university reversed that decision earlier this month, saying the professors could serve as experts.

The professors have filed a lawsuit against the university, and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools' Commission on Colleges is reviewing what happened.

Fuchs has appointed a task force to review the school's conflict of interest policy, and a preliminary report could be ready by the end of the month.

Ex-teacher called 'monster' gets 2 years for sex crimes

Associated Press

MIAMI — A 23-year-old woman called her former high school teacher a "monster," cursed at him and then clapped as he was handcuffed and led from a Miami-Dade courtroom to serve a two-year prison sentence for sexually battering her when she was a teen.

The victim couldn't contain her rage at Tom Privett, who sat stone-faced behind his mask Wednesday while she described him taking advantage of her at a time when she was dealing with a death in her family and other hardships, the Miami Herald reported.

"You psychologically manipulated me and brainwashed me. You made me worship the ground you walked on. You insulted me when I failed to do the things you asked of me. You started touching me when I was 14 years old," she said. "I was the puppet and you were the strings controlling my every move."

Privett, 72, pleaded guilty to two counts of sexual battery of a helpless victim. His sentence also includes two years of house arrest and 20 years of probation, the newspaper reported.

Privett spent nearly three decades at South Dade High, teaching government, coaching the champion cross-country team and establishing the school's acclaimed Mock Trial Team for aspiring lawyers. He transferred to the Terra Environmental Research Institute magnet school and met the victim in 2012.

The sentencing came more than a year after Miami-Dade schools police arrested the retired teacher. Former students and faculty told the Herald that Privett's conduct with young female students had raised questions for years.

One former student, who now lives in the Midwest, told prosecutors that Privett manipulated her into months of sexual encounters when she was a summer school student in the late 1980s, the Herald reported. She watched Wednesday's hearing on Zoom.

"As a woman and a mother, I was sickened and horrified when I learned of your latest victim," she told the court in a letter, read by Miami-Dade prosecutor Natalie Snyder. "I felt immense guilt over not doing something to stop you over the last 30-something years. You are finally getting some of what you deserve."

WATER-FRONT PROPERTY

Commission needs to leave setbacks as-is

In two months, county commissioners will wade, once again, waist deep into waterfront setbacks. Three years ago, county commissioners voted 3-2 to kill a Land Development Code proposal that would have allowed waterfront property owners to build homes 15 feet from the water's edge.

It was current Commissioner Jeff Kinnard and then-Commissioner Jimmie T. Smith who voted for setback reductions, saying there were other ways to prevent pollutants from entering the water, and that the county should allow property owners their choice on how to do that.

The current setback is 50 feet (35 feet with berms or swales in place) to prevent stormwater runoff from carrying fertilizer and other nutrients into the water. The Citrus County Planning and Development Commission (PDC) would have to issue a variance if less than that.

While the efforts of Inverness attorney Clark Stillwell, Stacey Worthington, a Planning and Development Commission (PDC) member Citrus County Building Alliance president and Art Jones, the founder and president of One Rake at a Time, who are advocating for reduced setbacks should be commended in fighting for property owners' rights, the idea of moving houses closer to the water is a bad idea. You lose uniformity when you take away setback limits. The commission should certainly listen to the experts who say setbacks should not be changed; there a number of other factors they should weigh when making their decision in the coming months.

Those factors include: the Federal Emergency Management Agency floodplain maps, enacted in July 2020 with its changes already in effect; rising sea levels; the sharp cost increases of homeowners and flood insurance; and coastal flooding issues that creep up, especially during hurricane season.

With this issue sure to come before commissioners for an official vote, Commissioner Kinnard certainly has to be mindful of the perceived conflict of interest as he weighs his vote. In 2020, the planning board denied Kinnard's request for a variance to build his home within 35 feet of Dixie Shores. The PDC said he could accomplish what he wanted on the property within the 50-foot county rules. Kinnard is on record as saying distance requirements are arbitrary and previously called berms and swales an outdated science.

"The setback number is arbitrary," Kinnard said Friday. "It's just a number picked out of the air. There's no science behind it."

Commissioners should hold firm with current setbacks; it's a bad idea to change them.

THE ISSUE:

County talks modifying waterfront setbacks.

OUR OPINION:

Leave it as it stands.

Call road maintenance about potholes

To the person that's looking to find who to call to fix potholes in Pine Ridge, Citrus Hills or anywhere in Citrus County (in the Wednesday, Nov. 3, Sound Off, "Patch our potholes please"): Call Road Maintenance. The number is 352-527-7610. They're open Monday through Thursday. They will take care of those potholes. I've done it several times. Good luck.

Commission not fiscally responsible

(Re the Tuesday, Nov. 2, front-page story, "County backs funding bids," "Crystal River, Inverness both seeking money from coming legislative session"): If the commissioners don't want to fund Turkey Oak improvements, why did they give half a million of our tax dollars to an out-of-county planning board that has no authority over anything and then spend a quarter of a million dollars to have a consultant study the road? That's total hogwash, a total waste of our money. Quit acting like you're fiscally responsible when you keep voting to give our money away for nothing.

Park will be underwater

I agree with the (Nov. 4) "Hot Corner" article about Ozello underwater in 25 years or before. If the commissioners buy this property for a park, $700,000 plus upkeep, etc., will be underwater, too.

LETTERS to the Editor

More taxes, no road repairs

I just paid my 2021 real estate tax in full. The assessment for stormwater was a 4% increase for a total of a 7% increase over my 2020 tax. I do not live in the flood plain in Crystal River, Arrowhead or Red Level, but those of us who do, think they are getting a free gift from this tax.

The flooding in these areas is due to record high rainfall this year — 46 inches. Dr. Mark Fulkerson states they will do a study to see what can be corrected. Bet when the three 3- to five-year study is complete, no cost effective solution will be forthcoming. Looks like the commissioners have found a way around the Save Our Homes law (max 3% escalation in assessed value) to tax us at their convenience. Still no resolution for road repair in Citrus County. Stand by for more non-ad valorem taxes in the future. Remember this when they come up for re-election.

Event was a grand success

It was an honor to attend the VFW and American Legion event at the pavilion in Liberty Park. The parade was grand, and so proud of Citrus folks who attended it.

Blessed with a Fourth of July child, who is so active in her community. Thanks to Barbara Mills and all the swell folks who made the event such a success. Thanks to Publix for the food and delicious cake. Yum. God bless America.

Roundabouts work around the state

I am responding to a Sound Off call, "Seniors won't adapt to a roundabout," published Nov. 16.

The caller should be aware that Clearwater Beach has had a roundabout for quite a while. Both locals and tourists have successfully navigated it for years.

Maybe this is because roundabouts are already common in other parts of the state and across the USA itself. They are also very common in many countries around the world.

Closer to home, the caller can take a short trip to The Villages, where he will be able to see many roundabouts already in use.

Roundabouts save time and gasoline; you don't have to stop if nobody else is already in the intersection.

We are all growing older. There comes a time when every one of us will have to recognize that it is our time to stop driving. Maybe the caller should consider if now is the right time to give up the keys.

Control COVID to help economy

Sen. Rick Scott has a weekly newsletter. This week he made another outlandish statement. He "highlighted the need to implement substantive fiscal reforms to end the ongoing inflation crisis fueled by the Biden Administration's reckless tax-and-spend agenda and growing supply chain crisis."

Economists believe that COVID-19 caused our inflation and not Biden's "reckless tax and spend agenda," and Scott knows this.

Let me explain: Last year, amid the pandemic, most people followed the CDC's directions and stayed home. People didn't spend money going to dinner, they didn't buy sports tickets and go to concerts, they didn't take autos trips, and they didn't go on vacation. In addition, they didn't buy a lot of "stuff." Instead, they banked their savings. As a result, the U.S. personal saving rate climbed sharply to a record 32.2% in April, up from 12.7% in March. At the same time, consumer spending fell 12.6% as the economy slowed down and unemployment rose.

Companies large and small saw this slowing of the economy, and since there were no buyers, they stopped manufacturing goods.

Within a year, what goods on the shelves were purchased, inventories disappeared, and shortages occurred. No one was manufacturing replacement goods to fill the shelves.

Last spring, we believed we had COVID-19 under control. People left their homes and started to fill pent-up demands by using their savings to buy. The problem, of course, is there were no goods on the shelves to fill those demands. Companies couldn't react fast enough to the significant increase in buyers. They could not hire laid-off employees fast enough. They faced raw supply shortages, climate-change-induced weather, and labor woes. All these created a significant shortage of goods. Then the law of supply and demand took over. Less supply and greater demand create inflation and price increases.

Economists tell us this inflation is temporary. But, first, we need to get COVID-19 under control by vaccines and masking. That will help manufacturing and the shipping industry get back to normal, and inflation will stabilize.

Scott knows this, but he'd instead give tax breaks to millionaires rather than fix Citrus County roads. He's for tax credits for the rich instead of tax credits for kids. Biden's Build Back Better plan will help all Floridians and not just Scott's wealthy and privileged friends.

Thomas Mitchell

COVID the root cause of inflation

The pandemic is the root cause of the current inflation, not Biden.

For example: When millions of workers around the world started to work from home and stopped commuting, the demand for fuel cratered overnight. Fixed costs of the energy suppliers did not crater overnight, they stayed right where they were. If they need to sell, for example, 1 billion gallons to cover their fixed costs at $2 a gallon, they need to get $4.00 a gallon when the demand is cut in half.

When the cost of fuel to deliver goods is doubled, the cost of the delivery will go up to cover the fuel cost. To cover the increased cost of delivery the reseller has to raise prices of the goods to cover the delivery cost.

When the demand for goods remains the same but the supply of goods is reduced, the cost of goods will go up. Supply and demand rules and further compounds the rate of inflation. To pay for the increased cost of goods wages go up.

When wages go up, so do the cost of goods to pay the increase in wages. When wages are not raised, workers migrate to higher paying jobs. When business lose workers they raise wages to attract new workers.

When the velocity of money is slowed down within the economy, the Fed's print more money to keep up the money flow.

When the money flow goes to the consumer the consumer demand for goods goes up.

When the demand for goods exceeds the availability of goods, supply and demand gets in play and prices go up.

And so it goes ... until there is a Great Reset!

Military card party was enjoyable

I'm just calling to say I attended that military card party over at the vets and the organizer, Doris, and it was really, really wonderful and enjoyable and well organized and I had the most wonderful time. So accolades go out to the organizer. Take care and have a great day.

repair work to do out there with all the muck. We never had a problem until the county keeps insisting they want more growth, more growth, more concrete, more houses, take out all the trees. No wonder we have all these problems and then they want to charge us a stormwater tax. I think the county should be paying us. We catch all the rain for all the surrounding areas. It drains down, comes down through my yard and makes all these puddles and paths and washes out grass. It makes a big mess. Instead of me paying a tax, why don't they pay us? In the meantime, I wish they'd come out and look at some of these people's homes. I have neighbors who had to move out.

Who's in charge around here?
I'd like to know who is in charge around Kensington Estates. You have a food pantry operating at a horrifically busy intersection on (State Road) 44. You've got, what, nine, 10 tractor-trailers out there. Then the only other way to go is to go through Citrus Avenue where you have a mountain of unregulated, unlicensed ... golf carts driving up and down the street because they pretend to live in The Villages. The place is becoming a nuisance, quite frankly, and I'd like to know who are making these decisions.

Can't we water more frequently?
The Chronicle tells us now that the aquifer is full and there's water all over the place (in Thursday, Nov. 4's front-page story, "Rain gone, flooding persists," "Record precipitation during past year has left lingering affects across county"). Why are we still only watering once a week on our yards?...

Drive-thru wait was too long
I was the third car in line at (a fast-food restaurant). All I wanted was two sandwiches. I waited 20 minutes and I was still the third car in line. I left. They can keep the two sandwiches. The drive-thru needs a lot of lessons on customer service.

Lock up the animal abusers
For some time now, kind, normal people have been against animal cruelty and fighting for it. We were ecstatic when they made it a felony. Several cases lately and no info on their punishments. I think it should be made known that it is a felony. You are under new management now and these people should not be getting away with what they're getting away with. Lock them up, whatever. It's despicable.

Wondering about power surges

I'm calling Sound Off, as I did before, about these power surges about two or three times a month. Sometimes they last a half hour, sometimes five minutes or sometimes an hour. I called the electric company and they have no explanation. Their explanation is, "It could be a squirrel hitting a wire or it could be a tree hitting a wire." I've never had issues like this before. There's something wrong, but the electric company cannot give me an answer. All they make is excuses.

Roadside trash getting worse

I've traveled the roadways and seen so much trash accumulated along our highways, especially (U.S.) 41 from Inverness to Dunnellon, then (State Road) 44 from Inverness to Crystal River. It's amazing how much trash accumulates on these highways from people that are just irresponsible with their transportation of trash or people that just throw their trash out the window. I've never seen such (litter) in all my life. Clean it up.

Handle licensing in county

In reference to your (Wednesday, Nov. 3, front-page) article, "License fees hiked for non-sterilized animals," which I agree with, but the only thing I do not agree with is that Citrus County licenses are not in Citrus County. They're outsourced to out of state, I believe, from Orlando. Why don't they just handle licenses in Citrus County? Why do they outsource it to another county?

Separating trash, recyclables

I heard today that the trash pick-ups that we have are all put together at the landfill. The recyclables and the garbage, they all go together. We spend a lot of time keeping these separate. And the county, if they just mix it all together, that's terrible.

Part of my land is submerged

Today's paper says, "Rain gone, flooding persists" (Nov. 4's front-page headline). That is so true. My house is on a lake. I am high enough that I do not have a problem in my house, but the back third of my property is underwater. When that goes down, I'll have all that

Arbery trial nears close

Defense rests case; closing arguments set to begin Monday

RUSS BYNUM
Associated Press

BRUNSWICK, Ga. — Defense attorneys rested their case in the Ahmaud Arbery trial Thursday after calling just seven witnesses, including the shooter, who testified that Arbery did not threaten him in any way before he pointed his shotgun at the 25-year-old Black man.

Superior Court Judge Timothy Walmsley scheduled closing arguments in the trial for Monday, setting up the possibility of verdicts before Thanksgiving for the three white men charged with murder in Arbery's death.

Under cross-examination by the prosecution on his second day of testimony, Travis McMichael said that Arbery hadn't shown a weapon or spoken to him at all before McMichael raised his shotgun. But, McMichael said, he was "under the impression" that Arbery could be a threat because he was running straight at him and he had seen Arbery trying to get into the truck of a neighbor who had joined in a pursuit of Arbery in their coastal Georgia neighborhood.

"All he's done is run away from you," prosecutor Linda Dunikoski said. "And you pulled out a shotgun and pointed it at him."

Cellphone video from the Feb. 23, 2020, shooting — replayed in court Thursday — shows Arbery running around the back of McMichael's pickup truck after McMichael first points the shotgun while standing next to the open driver's side

Rittenhouse jury deliberates for third day without verdict

KENOSHA, Wis. — The jury at Kyle Rittenhouse's murder trial deliberated for a third full day without reaching a verdict Thursday, while the judge banned MSNBC from the courthouse after a freelancer for the network was accused of following the jurors in their bus.

The jury members will return on Friday morning to resume their work. Unlike on previous days, they had no questions and no requests to review any evidence Thursday in the politically and racially fraught case.

Rittenhouse, 18, is on trial for killing two men and wounding a third with a rifle during a turbulent night of protests that erupted in Kenosha in the summer of 2020 after a Black man, Jacob Blake, was shot by a white police officer.

Even as the jury weighed the evidence, two mistrial requests from the defense hung over the case, with the potential to upend the verdict if the panel were to convict Rittenhouse. One of those requests asks the judge to go even further and bar prosecutors from retrying him.

Also Thursday, Circuit Judge Bruce Schroeder banned MSNBC after police said they briefly detained a man who had followed the jury bus and may have tried to photograph jurors.

NBC News said in a statement that the man was a freelancer who received a citation for a traffic violation that took place near the jury vehicle, and he "never photographed or intended to photograph them."

Rittenhouse was a 17-year-old former police youth cadet when he went to Kenosha in what he said was an effort to protect property after rioters set fires and ransacked businesses on previous nights.

He shot and killed Joseph Rosenbaum, 36, and Anthony Huber, 26, and wounded Gaige Grosskreutz, now 28. Rittenhouse is white, as were those he shot.

Rittenhouse said he acted in self-defense after coming under attack, while prosecutors argued he instigated the bloodshed.

The defense has twice asked the judge to declare a mistrial, alleging that they were given an inferior copy of a potentially crucial video and that the prosecution asked improper questions of Rittenhouse during cross-examination.

Schroeder has said the mistrial bid will have to be addressed if there is a guilty verdict.

door. Arbery then runs around the passenger side as McMichael moves to the front and the two come face to face. After that, the truck blocks any view of them until the first gunshot sounds.

McMichael's testimony Wednesday marked the first time any of the three defendants has spoken publicly about the killing. The other two defendants did not testify. McMichael said Arbery forced him to make a split-second "life-or-death" decision by attacking him and grabbing his shotgun.

Dunikoski noted Thursday that's not what McMichael told police in an interview about two hours after the shooting occurred.

"So you didn't shoot him because he grabbed the barrel of your shotgun," Dunikoski said. "You shot him because he came around that corner and you were right there and you just pulled the trigger immediately."

"No, I was struck," McMichael replied. "We were face to face, I'm being struck and that's when I shot."

McMichael said he had approached Arbery because neighbors indicated something had happened down the road and he wanted to ask Arbery about it. Arbery was running in the Brunswick neighborhood at the time. He said Arbery stopped, then took off running when McMichael told him police were on the way.

Asked how many times he had previously pulled up behind strangers in the neighborhood to ask them what they were doing there, McMichael said never.

"You know that no one has to talk to anyone they don't want to talk to, right?" Dunikoski said.

The prosecutor also pressed McMichael on why he didn't include some details of his testimony Wednesday in his written statement to police, namely the part about his telling Arbery police were on the way.

McMichael said he was "under stress, nervous, scared" at the time of his police interview and "probably being choppy."

House moves toward OK of Dems' sweeping social, climate bill

WASHINGTON — A divided House moved toward passage of Democrats' expansive social and environment bill on Thursday as new cost estimates from Congress' top fiscal analyst suggested that moderate lawmakers' worries about spending and deficits would be calmed, giving the bill the votes it needs for passage.

House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., told lawmakers in a letter Thursday evening that the chamber would soon begin final debate on the sprawling legislation. That would put the House on the doorstep of finally approving the package, a top priority for President Joe Biden that would bolster child care assistance, create free preschool, curb seniors' prescription drug costs and beef up efforts to slow climate change.

"At the close of the debate, all that remains is to take up the vote — so that we can pass this legislation and achieve President Biden's vision to Build Back Better!" Pelosi wrote, using Biden's name for the measure.

No settlement for separated migrant families amid criticism

WASHINGTON — Migrants whose children were taken from them under former President Donald Trump's zero-tolerance border policy have not reached a settlement agreement with the U.S. government, a lawyer for the families said Thursday as he and other advocates pushed back at increasing criticism of a proposal to pay compensation to them.

Attorney Lee Gelernt of the American Civil Liberties Union would not discuss details of the talks nor confirm a previously reported settlement proposal of several hundred thousand dollars to each affected person. He did, however, hold out the possibility of a trial, featuring parents separated from children as young as six months as witnesses, if there's no agreement to end the litigation.

"All I can say is there's no deal on the table and we have no timeframe necessarily," Gelernt said in a conference call with reporters.

The settlement talks, which would typically be private until an agreement is finalized, have instead become a new line of attack for Biden administration critics seeking to tie the issue to the increasing number of migrants seeking to cross the U.S.-Mexico border over the past year. Republicans grilled Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas about it this week when he appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

'Fundamental justice' Judge clears 2 in Malcolm X slaying

NEW YORK — More than half a century after the assassination of Malcolm X, two of his convicted killers were exonerated Thursday after decades of doubt about who was responsible for the civil rights icon's death.

Manhattan judge Ellen Bibeon dismissed the convictions of Muhammad Aziz and the late Khalil Islam, after prosecutors and the men's lawyers said a renewed investigation found new evidence that undermined the case against the men and determined that authorities withheld some of what they knew.

Aziz and Islam, then known as Norman 3X Butler and Thomas 15X Johnson, and a third man were convicted of murder in March 1966. They were sentenced to life in prison.

The third man, Mujahid Abdul Halim — also known as Talmadge Hayer and Thomas Hagan — admitted to shooting Malcolm X but said neither Aziz nor Islam was involved.

Bodies exhumed of Kashmir civilians killed in disputed raid

SRINAGAR, India — Authorities in Indian-controlled Kashmir on Thursday ordered an investigation into a police raid that killed four people — and later exhumed two bodies and returned them to families who claim Indian troops used their relatives as human shields and executed them in cold blood.

Police earlier said the two civilians died in crossfire when government forces on Monday attacked suspected rebels in Srinagar, the divided region's main city.

Witnesses and families of the civilians and one suspected rebel have denied the police version of events, saying they were deliberately killed by Indian troops while being used human amid a standoff.

Police said the rebels included a Pakistani citizen, but offered no evidence.

They also described one of the civilians as an "overground worker," a term Indian authorities use for rebel sympathizers and their civilian supporters.

Virus surge worsens in Midwest

States work to expand access to COVID vaccine booster shots

ED WHITE
Associated Press

A surge in cases in the Upper Midwest has some Michigan schools keeping students at home ahead of Thanksgiving and the military sending medical teams to Minnesota to relieve hospital staffs overwhelmed by COVID-19 patients.

The worsening outlook in the Midwest comes as booster shots are being made available to everyone in a growing number of locations. Massachusetts and Utah became the latest to say anyone 18 or older can roll up a sleeve for a booster shot, and an advisory committee for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is meeting Friday to discuss expanding boosters.

Cold weather states are dominating the fresh wave of cases over the last seven days, including New Hampshire, North Dakota and Wisconsin, according to federal data. But the Southwest had trouble spots, too, with more than 90% of inpatient hospital beds occupied in Arizona.

In Detroit, where only 35% of eligible residents were fully vaccinated, the school district said it would switch to online learning on Fridays in December because of rising COVID-19 cases, a need to clean buildings and a timeout for "mental health relief." One high school has changed to all online learning until Nov. 29.

At another high school, some students and teachers briefly walked out Wednesday, saying classes still were too large for a pandemic and the school needed a scrubbing.

Detroit health officer Denise Fair Razo said new cases have skyrocketed in the city in the last 14 days to 3,858, compared to 2,322 in the previous two-week period.

"We're in Michigan so we're not finding ourselves spending time outdoors in flip-flops and tank tops," Fair Razo said Thursday. "We are indoors and we're frankly becoming a little bit too relaxed. We're no longer wearing our masks. We're no longer washing our hands as frequently as we should. But we know these precautions."

Fair Razo is urging people to get tested for COVID-19 before gathering at Thanksgiving, even if they're vaccinated. She "absolutely" predicts a post-holiday spike.

Elsewhere in Michigan, some schools are taking next week off for the Thanksgiving holiday instead of just three days.

"This school year has presented some major stressors that are noticed and recognized," Superintendent Greg Helmer told parents, citing staff shortages and student absences in Ravenna.

Pirates still searching for offense after 3-1 loss

CHRIS BERNHARDT JR.

CRYSTAL RIVER — A young Crystal River girls soccer team got on the scoreboard Thursday night, and hopes that's a building block going forward this season.

Unfortunately for the Pirates it wasn't enough to hold off visiting West Port, which pulled away with a 3-1 victory at Bramlett Stadium.

"A little sluggish at times," Crystal River head coach Bill Reyes said. "We're coming along, we're progressing, but they really got to believe themselves, have faith in themselves and truly work for 80 minutes. Because if they do that we're going to be pretty good."

"We're a new team. We're a jelling team. We as coaches are still figuring out, we've got a lot of moving pieces with not a lot of depth. It's kind of unique in that for us to make a sub we're basically subbing on the field, rotating girls around to figure out what works."

After starting the season losing in four straight shutouts, the Pirates (1-5) trounced Central on Tuesday, 7-0. In this one they fell behind early and could never recover.

Victoria Carter took a shot that rattled off the left post and into the net to make it 1-0 in favor of the Wolfpack (4-2) in the 8th minute.

That score held until the 31st minute when Jamie Drake broke away for a goal to push the advantage to 2-0.

Ohtani voted AL MVP for 2-way season, Harper wins NL second honor

NEW YORK — Shohei Ohtani's two-way season was so incredible, MVP voters filled out the top of their ballots only one way.

Ohtani was a unanimous winner of the American League MVP award Thursday for a hitting and pitching display not seen since Babe Ruth, and Bryce Harper earned the National League honor for the second time.

Ohtani received all 30 first-place votes and 420 points in balloting by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

"American fans, the U.S.A. baseball, is more accepting and welcoming to the whole two-way idea compared to when I first started in Japan, so it made the transition a lot easier for me," Ohtani said through translator Ipppei Mizuhara. "I'm very thankful for that."

Ohtani batted .257 with 46 homers, 100 RBIs and a .965 OPS as the Los Angeles Angels' full-time designated hitter, and went 9-2 with a 3.18 ERA in 23 pitching starts with 156 strikeouts and 44 walks in 130 1/3 innings. It was the first full season on the mound for the 27-year-old right-hander since Tommy John surgery in 2019.

He averaged 95.6 mph with his fastball, 28th in the major leagues among qualified pitchers, and had a 93.6 mph exit velocity at the plate, which ranked sixth among qualified batters, according to MLB Statcast.

"MVP is something I was shooting for," Ohtani said. "I think every player is, as long as they're playing baseball professionally."

Ohtani won AL Rookie of the Year in 2018 after leaving the Pacific League's Hokkaido Nippon-Ham Fighters to sign with the Angels. This year he became the first two-way starter in the history of the All-Star Game, which began in 1933.

He called that the highlight of his season. "It was my first one and I got to play with a lot of players that I've always watched on TV," Ohtani said.

Brown accused of obtaining fake vaccination card

Bucs WR has been out injured past month

Associated Press

TAMPA — A Tampa Bay chef who told a newspaper that Tampa Bay Buccaneers receiver Antonio Brown obtained a fake COVID-19 vaccination card also said the player owes him $10,000.

The Tampa Bay Times reported Thursday that Steven Ruiz provided the newspaper with a screenshot of a July 2 text message exchange in which Brown's girlfriend asked the former live-in chef if he could obtain Johnson & Johnson vaccination cards for the player.

When the personal chef replied he could try, the girlfriend responded "Ab said he would give you $500."

Ruiz, who also claimed Brown owes him an uncollected debt of $10,000, told the newspaper he was unable to find a vaccination card for Brown.

The chef added that a few weeks later he observed two vaccine cards on a dining room table that the receiver told him were purchased for the player and his girlfriend.

The Buccaneers announced shortly before the start of the regular season that their entire roster and coaching staff were fully vaccinated.

The reigning Super Bowl champions released a one paragraph statement in response to the newspaper report.

"After an extensive educational process conducted throughout our organization this past offseason highlighting the benefits of the COVID-19 vaccines, we received completed vaccination cards from all Tampa Bay Buccaneers players and submitted the required information to the NFL through the established process in accordance with league policy," the statement read. "All vaccination cards were reviewed by Buccaneers personnel and no

Stamkos, Point lead Lightning past Flyers

Knights makes 45 saves, Panthers beat Devils

PHILADELPHIA — Steven Stamkos and Brayden Point each scored in the shootout and regulation to lift the Tampa Bay Lightning to a 4-3 win over the Philadelphia Flyers on Thursday night.

Mathieu Joseph also scored in regulation for the two-time defending Stanley Cup champion Lightning, who have won seven of nine.

Claude Giroux scored twice and Travis Konecny also had a goal for the Flyers, who have lost eight straight regular-season games to Tampa Bay.

Stamkos and Point beat Flyers goalie Carter Hart on the blocker side in the tiebreaker, and Philadelphia's Sean Couturier and Giroux couldn't convert.

It looked like the Lightning had won it in regulation when Stamkos netted his team-leading ninth goal from a sharp angle with 1:56 left in the third. Hart couldn't come up with a seemingly routine save as the puck wiggled through his equipment and just over the goal line.

Giroux netted his second of the game with 8.1 seconds left to force overtime. Derick Brassard won a faceoff back to Giroux, who fired a long wrist shot past the blocker side of Lightning goalie Andrei Vasilevskiy.

The Flyers had the best chances in the five-minute, 3-on-3 overtime, but Scott Laughton drew iron with a shot and Cam Atkinson was stopped by Vasilevskiy with a pad save.

Vasilevskiy made 27 saves. Alex Kilorn and Anthony Cirelli each had a pair of assists for Tampa Bay.

Giroux's highlight-reel tally opened the scoring 1:34 into the contest. Brassard slipped a pass to Giroux at the blue line, and the Flyers captain got behind Lightning defenseman Cal Foote and Mikhail Sergachev and in alone on Vasilevskiy. Giroux beautifully deked from his backhand to his forehand to net his sixth of the season.

Konecny put Philadelphia up 2-0 later in the first when he fired the puck from a sharp angle past Vasilevskiy's blocker.

Tampa Bay tied it with a pair of goals in the second.

Point converted 1:51 into the period on a power play, taking a pass from Stamkos and shooting with his backhand from in front of the crease that deflected off the handle of Hart's stick and just inside the post.

Associated Press

Joseph tied it with 5:08 left in the second. Killorn sent the puck toward the net and it deflected off defenseman Justin Braun's stick in front and on to Joseph's forehand, and he stuffed it between Hart's right foot and the post. Killorn has an assist in five straight contests.

Panthers 4, Devils 1

SUNRISE — Spencer Knight made a career-high 45 saves to lift the Florida Panthers over the New Jersey Devils 4-1.

The Panthers extended their home regular-season win streak to 13 games dating to last season.

Jonathan Huberdeau and Anthony Duclair each had a goal and an assist, and Eetu Luostarinen and Carter Verhaeghe also scored for the Panthers, who are 9-0-0 at home this season.

The 13th consecutive home regular-season win for the Panthers tied them for the 20th-longest streak in NHL history. It's the longest since Toronto also won 13 in a row on home ice from Jan. 31 through March 24, 2018. Florida's longest previous home regular-season win streak was an eight-game run from Feb. 22 through March 10, 2018.

The Panthers scored at least four goals for the 11th time this season.

Dougie Hamilton scored for the Devils.

Penguins 6, Canadiens 0

MONTREAL — Teddy Blueger scored two goals and the Pittsburgh Penguins snapped a three-game skid, pounding the Montreal Canadiens 6-0.

Tristan Jarry stopped all 24 shots for the Penguins.

Pittsburgh exploded in the first period with goals from Sidney Crosby, Danton Heinen and Jake Guentzel. Blueger and Brock Gill scored in the second, and Blueger added a late third-period goal.

Cayden Primeau allowed five goals on 31 shots in two periods for the Canadiens. Samuel Montembeault replaced Primeau at the start of the third, allowed one goal and made 11 saves.

Maple Leafs 2, Rangers 1

TORONTO — Morgan Rielly scored twice and the Toronto Maple Leafs beat the New York Rangers 2-1 for their 10th victory in 11 games.

Jack Campbell made 27 saves for Toronto. Dryden Hunt scored for New York, and Igor Shesterkin stopped 28 shots.

The Rangers came in with four straight victories, and had earned points in eight of their last nine, but were unable to generate much of an attack until the third period.

The Leafs have won five straight and are 10-1-0 since a four-game slide.

Flames 5, Sabres 0

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Jacob Markstrom made 27 saves for his fifth shutout, Andrew Mangiapane had two goals and an assist, and the Calgary Flames beat the Buffalo Sabres 5-0.

Markstrom's five shutouts in 13 starts lead the NHL and is a career high.

Calgary also got two goals from Johnny Gaudreau, a goal and an assist from Matthew Tkachuk and two assists from Christopher Tanev.

McIlroy leads World Tour Championship by two

Associated Press

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates — Rory McIlroy is back playing his best golf again, even if it has come too late to win another Race to Dubai title.

Fresh off his 20th career victory on the PGA Tour, the former No. 1 opened birdie-eagle and shot 7-under 65 Thursday for a two-stroke lead after the first round at DP World Tour Championship, the season-ending event on the European Tour.

McIlroy wasn't one of the six players who arrived at Jumeirah Golf Estates still with a chance of finishing the season as European No. 1. Collin Morikawa, the leader of the Race to Dubai, is looking good for that title after opening with a 68.

Morikawa is looking to become the first player from the United States to be the European No. 1 and started the tournament with a narrow lead over another American, Billy Horschel, in the Race to Dubai standings.

They played together in the final group Thursday. While Horschel only made his first birdie at the 17th hole — he celebrated it rather sarcastically, to laughs from the gallery — in a 2-over 74, Morikawa gained four shots in his first seven holes on the back of his renowned iron play.

Morikawa, the British Open champion, played the final 11 holes in even par, though, after bogeys at Nos. 9 and 17, and was in a 10-way tie for fifth place.

The only players above him were McIlroy and three who shared second place after rounds of 67 — Tapio Puulkanen, Christiaan Bezuidenhout and Joachim B. Hansen, the winner of last week's Dubai Championship.

Sebastian Munoz has career-best 60 to lead Sea Island

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. — Sebastian Munoz saw the tough weather conditions on the way to the RSM Classic and figured all he could do was keep his head down and make birdies. He wound up with a 10-under 60 to shatter his career round by six shots.

Scoring was so low Thursday at Sea Island that all that got Munoz was a one-shot lead. The Nelly Korda takes a swing on the 18th hole Thursday during the first round of the CME Group Tour Championship in Naples.

Colombian, who won his first PGA Tour event just over a year ago, birdied his final hole at Seaside.

He led by one stroke over Sea Island member Zach Johnson at Seaside, while three players were one shot behind to par. Past champion Mackenzie Hughes, Chez Reavie and Scott Stallings each had a 9-under 63 on the Plantation course.

Four players were tied at 8 under, led by Canadian Corey Connors (62 at Seaside). His wife, Malory, gave birth last week to their first child, a girl named Reis. Jhonattan Vegas, Talor Gooch and Russell Henley shot 64 at Plantation.

Lee6 takes lead at Tiburon as Korda gets start she wanted

NAPLES — On a course she didn't expect, Nelly Korda delivered the round she needed with a 6-under 66 that left her two shots out of the lead and gave her a good start toward winning LPGA Tour player of the year.

The $1.5 million prize for winning the CME Group Tour Championship is in range, too.

Former U.S. Women's Open champion Jeongeun Lee6 didn't make a birdie on rain-softened Tiburon Golf Club until the sixth hole, and then she didn't stop. She finished with three straight birdies for an 8-under 64.

Lee6 had a one-shot lead over four players, including past Tiburon winner Sei Young Kim. Scoring was so low that 18 players were at 67 or better.

The 60 players who qualified for the season finale have the same chance to win the $1.5 million prize, the largest in women's golf, regardless of their standing in the Race to CME Globe.

The more compelling race is the points-based award for LPGA player of the year, which is down to Korda and Jin Young Ko, each with four victories. Korda has a 10-point lead, meaning Ko would have to be runner-up to have a chance.

The South Korean star has some catching up to do after a 69 left her in a tie for 25th, especially with Korda looking as sharp as she has for so much of the year.

Butler, Heat beat Wizards

Curry scores 20 of 40 points in 4th, Warriors beat Cavs

Associated Press

MIAMI — Jimmy Butler scored 32 points and the Miami Heat beat the Washington Wizards 112-97 on Thursday night for their fourth straight victory.

The teams will meet again Saturday night in Washington.

Butler shot 11 of 19 from the field and made all 10 of his free throws in his second consecutive outing over 30 points.

Bam Adebayo added 20 points, Gabe Vincent had 18 points and P.J. Tucker 15. The Heat improved to 11-5.

Bradley Beal scored 30 points for Washington, and Kyle Kuzma added 19 points. The Wizards have lost two straight to drop to 10-5.

The Heat made 7 of 8 3-pointers in the third period to take control. Duncan Robinson's 3-pointer with 3:59 remaining in the quarter gave Miami its largest lead at 75-57. The double-digit result was the ninth in the Heat's 11 wins.

Guard Tyler Herro, Miami's second-leader scorer, sat out because of a bruised right wrist. The Wizards rested third-leading scorer Spencer Dinwiddie.

Warriors 104, Cavaliers 89

CLEVELAND — Stephen Curry scored 20 of his 40 points in the fourth quarter, hitting three straight 3-pointers, and the NBA-leading Golden State Warriors overcame a 13-point deficit to beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 104-89.

Curry made 8 of 12 shots, including 4 of 7 3-pointers, in the final period to help Golden State outscore the Cavaliers 36-8.

Nemanja Bjelica added 14 points, Andrew Wiggins had 12 points and Draymond Green had four points and 14 rebounds for Golden State. The Warriors improved to 13-2.

The injury-plagued Cavaliers dropped to 9-8.

Darius Garland scored a season-high 25 points for the Cavaliers.

Towns had 25 points and 12 rebounds to help the Minnesota Timberwolves beat the San Antonio Spurs 115-90.

D'Angelo Russell added 22 points, and Malik Beasley hit five of Minnesota's season-high 21 3-pointers for all 15 of his points.

Devin Vassell scored 18 points for San Antonio, and Larry Walker IV and Keldon Johnson each had 12. The Spurs have lost four in a row.

scored 17 of his 28-points in a third-quarter rally in the Memphis Grizzlies' 120-108 victory over the Los Angeles Clippers.

Dillon Brooks and Jaren Jackson Jr. added 18 points each, and Desmond Bane had 16. Brandon Clarke finished with 14 points, 10 of them in the fourth quarter.

Paul George led the Clippers with 23 points and six assists. Reggie Jackson had 18 points, hitting 4 of 8 3-point attempts. Luke Kennard added 15 points for Los Angeles, going 6 of 8 overall and 3 of 4 from 3-point range.

No. 24 Florida whips Panthers

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Colin Castleton had 19 points and 10 rebounds for his second straight double-double and No. 24 Florida dominated Milwaukee 81-45 on Thursday, the Gators' first game as a ranked team in nine months.

Florida definitely looked the part.

So did Patrick Baldwin Jr.

The Gators (3-0) issued 39 credentials spanning 22 NBA teams, all of them on hand to see Milwaukee's freshman star. The 6-foot-9 guard and projected lottery pick had 13 points on 6-of-15 shooting. He added three rebounds, two blocks, two steals and an assist. He also had three turnovers in 33 minutes.

Baldwin, who landed at Milwaukee (1-2) mostly because his dad is the head coach, was as smooth as advertised. "PBJ" handles the ball, has the size to make hard passes look easy, breaks down defenders in a variety of ways and has NBA range despite missing all three 3-pointers.

This was one of Baldwin's few appearances against high-major competition, so scouts wanted an up-close look.

They probably came away impressed with Castleton, who put up 15 points, 16 rebounds and six blocks in a lopsided victory against previously ranked Florida State on Sunday.

Castleton tested the NBA waters after last season but ended up returning to Florida for his senior season. The 6-11 forward from nearby DeLand is now averaging 16.7 points and 10.3 rebounds.

Castleton led four Florida players in double figures. Tyree Appleby had 14 points, six rebounds and five assists. Phlandrous Fleming added 12 points. And Anthony Duruji chipped in 12 points and seven boards.

The Gators broke the game open to start the second half, using a 32-4 run to turn an 11-point lead into a laugh.

No. 3 Kansas 88, Stony Brook 59

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Ochai Agbaji scored 25 points to continue his torrid start to the season, David McCormack added 12 points and eight rebounds and No. 3 Kansas pulled away from Stony Brook for a 88-59 victory.

Xavier 71, No. 19 Ohio State 65

CINCINNATI — Jack Nunge had 14 points and 14 rebounds, Paul Scruggs also scored 14 points and Xavier led wire to wire in knocking off No. 19 Ohio State 71-65.

Jamari Wheeler hit a 3-pointer to get Ohio State within two points with 17 seconds left, the closest the Buckeyes had been all evening.

E.J. Liddell had a season-low 17 points for the Buckeyes.

No. 22 St. Bonaventure 67, Boise State 61

CHARLESTON, S.C. — Kyle Lofton had 17 points and seven assists, Jaren Holmes added 14 points and 10 rebounds, and No. 22 St. Bonaventure beat Boise State 67-61 in the Charleston Classic.

THIS WEEKEND, THIS WEEK

Art Center Theatre presents 'Rumors'

The Art Center Theatre presents Neil Simon's "Rumors" on Nov. 19, 20 and 21 at the Art Center of Citrus County, 2644 N. Annapolis Ave. in Hernando. Friday and Saturday showings are at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday and the second Saturday matinee are at 2 p.m.

At a large, tastefully appointed Sneden's Landing townhouse, the deputy mayor of New York has just shot himself. Though only a flesh wound, four couples are about to experience a severe attack of farce.

Holiday TV preview

New movies, specials — and Charlie Brown

LYNN ELBER
AP television writer

LOS ANGELES — Supply-chain woes are this year's Grinch, threatening to steal gifts and good cheer. But TV is overstocked with holiday specials and rom-coms — including the Food Network's first movie and the rebranded GAC Family channel's Christmas debut.

There's options for watching some old favorites, such as 1965's "A Charlie Brown Christmas." The Peanuts special will air on PBS and is available on Apple TV+, which acquired the classic in 2020. The free viewing window the streaming service offered for it then has snapped shut this year.

In a twist for the Food Network's film, its debut is on corporate sibling discovery+. The streaming service offers a free-trial option so, like Santa Claus scoring courtesy cookies, enjoy the gift while it lasts.

Here's a sampling of what to watch while sipping nog and nibbling on roasted chestnuts — if available on store shelves. All air times are Eastern.

MOVIE TIME

■ "A Rich Christmas," streaming now on BET+. A self-absorbed socialite gets a new perspective on life when she's forced to work at a family homeless shelter. Bill Bellamy and Tyler Abnon star.

■ "Candy Coated Christmas," discovery+, Friday, Nov. 19. Molly McCook plays an executive whose life takes a detour when she visits the town of Peppermint Hollow. Ree Drummond (Food Network's "The Pioneer Woman") plays the local baker.

Annie offers advice

Dear Annie: My spouse and I have been married for over 40 years. Our children are married with children of their own. They seem happy and well-adjusted, and our whole family seems happy and healthy. I am very blessed and glad things are the way they are.

DEAR ANNIE

The problem: There is no love or affection in our marriage, and there hasn't been for over 20 years. We sleep in separate rooms. Despite my requests, which I don't make often, there is never any cuddling, affection, hand-holding ... nothing. When I suggest counseling, the response is that I am the one who needs counseling, that I am needy and insecure. I am in decent shape, take care of myself, have good hygiene, and do most of the housekeeping, grocery shopping, meal prep, etc.

All I want is a little attention. I am in my mid-60s, and the thought of spending the rest of my life like this really depresses me. I don't want to have an affair or get divorced, but I don't want to be lonely the rest of my life. The thought of the grandchildren going to separate homes to see Grandma and Grandpa makes me sad. Any advice would be greatly appreciated. — My Heart Aches for Attention

Dear Heart Aches: Don't let your husband convince you that being needy and wanting affection are the same thing. Props to you for communicating what you want rather than expecting him to read your mind.

It sounds like you're stuck between a rock and a hard place: You don't want a divorce, but your husband is unwilling to work toward a solution. Unfortunately, relationships are a two-way street; they require effort from both parties. If he's unwilling to make your needs one of his priorities — by at least going to couples counseling — perhaps this is not a marriage you want to be in. Your grandchildren deserve the
