NEWS BRIEFS

Potential threat made to Citrus High School

Citrus High School principal Laura Mason emailed staff and students on Wednesday afternoon about a potential threat against the school. According to Mason's announcement, it was reportedly made on social media. The threat is being investigated, but has not been confirmed by the district or the Citrus County Sheriff's Office. Citrus County School District spokeswoman Lindsay Blair added that neither CCSO or the district have been able to locate the source of the alleged threat. At this time, Mason wrote, the threat is considered unsubstantiated.

A Citrus County School District bus was involved in a vehicle crash just before 3:15 p.m. Oct. 27 in the northbound lane on the corner of State Road 44 (Gulf-to-Lake Highway) and County Road 491 (Lecanto Highway). School district spokeswoman Lindsay Blair said the Forest Ridge Elementary school bus was returning from a kindergarten field trip. Twenty-nine students were on board. According to staff reports, another school bus arrived at the scene to transport students and personnel back to campus. At this time, no known injuries have been reported.

County to price Pirates Cove

Commission votes 3-2 to negotiate figures, but not to expend county funds

MICHAEL D. BATES
Staff writer

A divided county commission Tuesday voted to direct staff to negotiate a purchase price for the Pirate's Cove property at the end of Ozello Trail for use as a passive park. Commissioners Ron Kitchen Jr. and Scott Carnahan adamantly opposed the move and were the sole nay votes. "I don't think our staff needs to get involved," Carnahan said. If Ozello wants to negotiate with the real estate agent, fine, he said. But he didn't want to expend county resources or use taxpayer dollars to buy the property — if it comes to that. Kitchen called this another example of "government mission creep" — overextending the county's reach and taking on too many projects at one time. There are more important priorities, he said, including repaving of roads. "We don't need any more parks," Kitchen said. Kitchen likened this move to what the board did in 2017 when a group of Homosassa residents asked for assistance in securing funding to buy property along the Homosassa River for a park. County commissioners offered support, but said they would not put any county taxes into the plan.

And they didn't. But Commissioner Jeff Kinnard said it won't hurt to at least find out how much it will cost the county if it wants to buy the property. He disagreed with Kitchen about the necessity of parks, especially as the county grows. "It is the county's responsibility to build parks," he said. "Our county is growing up." Kinnard said the purchase would come from state grants or impact fee money — not one dime of taxpayer money would be used, he said. Kinnard envisions the Pirate's Cove property as a world-class "passive park," with picnic tables and grills. It would be a tourist draw, he said. Pirate's Cove is a pristine 3.6-acre site with 750 feet of water frontage and abuts an existing park. The property has sat idle

Courthouse annex takes shape

CARL HALL/Chronicle
Carl Hall, Citrus County's facilities management director, speaks about a renovation project in the former Supervisor of Elections office in downtown Inverness. The space, originally home to the Coca-Cola bottling plant, is being converted into additional space for the county's judiciary.

Demolition work finishes soon; remodeling to take about 20 months

The new courthouse annex was originally home to Coca-Cola's bottling plant in Inverness.

BUSTER THOMPSON
Staff writer

Citrus County's halls of justice are over a year and a half away from getting bigger. Since late September 2021, construction crews have been gutting 112 N. Apopka Ave. next door to the county courthouse in Inverness, setting the stage for a courthouse annex remodel to provide extra room for the local judiciary. Transforming what was once an elections office and Coca-Cola bottling plant into a satellite courthouse is expected to take around 20 months, the county's facilities management director said Monday, Oct. 25.

Ray Morrison, now 87, was only 15 when he and six of his buddies joined the Navy in August 1950 — Morrison had a doctor's birth certificate. He served four years in the Navy as a link instructor, teaching simulated instrument flying to future pilots. Edwin Graham, 91, joined the Navy in 1949. Assigned to a newly constructed ship, he was scheduled to take a South American goodwill cruise, the first U.S. warship that would travel through the cape, back up the west coast and then through the Panama Canal and up to Washington, D.C. "But when we got off the coast of Jacksonville, that's when the Korean War broke out and our plans were changed," Graham said. "We went through the canal to Hawaii." He also served four years in the Navy, then had a career in law enforcement on Long Island, New York. On Wednesday, Oct. 20, the two Inverness men, who previously didn't know each other, were among the 66 veterans and 66 guardians to take an Honor Flight to Washington, D.C.

Since 2005, Honor Flight, a national organization, has taken veterans to Washington at no cost to them. Their fares are paid through donations raised by local organizations, individuals and service clubs.

To date, about 245,000 veterans from around the nation have taken an Honor Flight.

The Oct. 20 flight was courtesy of the Villages Honor Flight, which flies out of the Orlando Sanford International Airport in Sanford.

"It was their 50th Honor Flight and they wanted to make it extra special, and they did," Morrison said.

On Friday, Oct. 22, the two men sat down together at Morrison's house to talk about their experiences of that day.

"The trip can be described in one word," Morrison said, "Wow."

"Double wow for me," Graham said.

The agenda is basically the same for every Honor Flight. The veterans leave early in the morning and spend the day visiting some of the iconic memorials and monuments around Washington, D.C., including the Air Force Memorial, Korean War Memorial, The Vietnam War Memorial ("the wall"), the World War II Memorial, Arlington National Cemetery, the Marine Corps War Memorial ("Iwo Jima") and others.

There are USO "girls" singing, bagpipes playing, flags waving, mail call with handwritten letters from students to the veterans, patriotic songs, and one-on-one care from a volunteer guardian.

Morrison's guardian was a retired businessman and former Air Force veteran who lives in The Villages.

"Mine was a beautiful young lady, 67 years old, with 26 years in the Navy as a pharmacist," Graham

Ray Morrison, left, and Edwin Graham are two Korean War veterans who recently returned from an Honor Flight. Honor Flights host veterans on a trip to the nation's Capitol, visiting many of the monuments and sites dedicated to veterans.

Each of the Honor Flight veterans who flew to Washington, D.C., received a coin to commemorate their trip.

After a very long day, they arrived back in Florida after midnight.

Both Morrison and Graham said the most emotionally moving stop on the tour for them was the changing of the guard ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery.

"To see the faces of those Marines — they look so young," Graham said. "We had a fellow with us who was a World War II veteran who had seen action, and he was really moved."

"There were a lot of tears," Morrison said.

However, as is typical of vets who experience an Honor Flight, their most moving moments were all the ways they were personally honored for their military service.

"Every place we went, people were applauding and shaking our hands and thanking us for our service," Morrison said. "There was a motorcycle brigade lined up, shaking hands with every one of us and then they escorted us to D.C. (from the airport in Baltimore, Maryland). In Baltimore, one guy saluted every one of us."

"We had a police escort everywhere we went," Graham said. "They even stopped the traffic lights."

When they returned to Sanford after midnight, they took a bus to an American Legion post in Lady Lake, greeted by a crowd of about 300 people.

"I never expected anything like this," Graham said.

"I've talked to guys at my church who are veterans about going," Morrison said. "One was in Korea and saw action, and he didn't want to talk about it. And one morning, my wife, Laverne, and I were at the Hen House for breakfast and I saw a World War II veteran and mentioned it to him, but he said he absolutely would not fly."

For veterans who cannot fly to Washington, D.C., Villages Honor Flight offers Virtual Honor Flight events two or so times a year.

villageshonorflight.org or visit online at www.villageshonorflight.org.

"I highly recommend it," Graham said.

"When I got home, I was still wound up ... and talked to my wife until after 3 a.m.," Morrison said. "This is something I'll remember for the rest of my life."

since the restaurant/motel housed on it was destroyed by the no-name storm in 1993 and later demolished in 2010.

Commissioner Holly Davis said it makes sense to at least see how much the property will cost. That, she said, will determine if she will pursue it.

Commissioner Ruthie Schlabach questioned if an expanded park would create traffic issues along Ozello Trail.

Ozello resident Cecelia Treat urged board members to move forward with negotiations.

"This is a chance to take a special piece of property and turn it into a special place," Treat said.

The Ozello community supports the idea of expanding the park and it fits with the natural attributes of the area, she said. Tourists, she added, come to Citrus County for the water.

"This opportunity won't come again," she said.

County staff will return to a future commission meeting with more details on the negotiated purchase price.

Theme park mecca lets its pandemic emergency order expire

Associated Press

ORLANDO — The mayor of the Florida county that is home to the nation's biggest theme park resorts is lifting a pandemic-related state of emergency order.

Orange County Mayor Jerry Demings said he was letting the order expire Wednesday afternoon.

The decision to let the order expire was made because Orange County's positivity rate has been below 5% for 17 consecutive days and the 14-day average rate was 3.5%, the mayor said. Demings said he would not hesitate to reinstate the emergency order if Orange County's numbers rise.

Under the state of emergency, county employees were required to be vaccinated with at least one shot by the end of August, or face discipline. Unvaccinated workers also were required to be tested weekly for COVID-19, but they will no longer have to do that.

Student charged with child porn

SEAN ARNOLD
Riverland News

A Dunnellon High School student was arrested after allegedly taking a video of a sexual nature of another student in a school bathroom and sharing the video with other students.

The student suspect, a 17-year-old boy, was charged with manufacturing child pornography and the distribution of child pornography.

The victim was seen performing a sex act in a private bathroom stall in the video, according to the Marion County Sheriff's report.

DHS School Resource Officer Craig Evans was made aware of the video depicting child pornography while on duty at the school Oct. 20. The video was taken on Oct. 19.

According to the report, a student who was walking to the bathroom was shown the video by the suspect, and that witness to the video confirmed to Evans the suspect took the video. A surveillance video also revealed another student making contact with the suspect outside the bathroom and witnessing the video.

Cpl. Evans contacted the families of the victim and suspect.

The suspect admitted to Evans he took the video and shared it with other students.

He was transported to the Marion County Jail.

Hard Rock considering two NYC-area casinos 8 miles apart

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Hard Rock wants to build a casino in or near New York City, even as it moves forward with a plan to build another one in northern New Jersey, about 8 miles away.

Jim Allen, chairperson of the global gambling, entertainment and hospitality company owned by Florida's Seminole Indian tribe, said Tuesday that Hard Rock will submit an expression of interest to New York officials by the Dec. 10 deadline.

New York has three remaining casino licenses to be awarded in the downstate region that includes New York City, which has long been the holy grail for the casino industry, given the region's population and wealth.

Speaking at the East Coast Gaming Congress in Atlantic City, Allen said Hard Rock has been planning a New York project ever since the possibility was announced seven years ago.

Afterward, Allen said in an interview that the company is not abandoning a plan it unveiled in 2015 to build a casino resort at the Meadowlands Racetrack just outside New York City.

"We're interested in both markets, and if God is good enough to allow us to operate in both, we would be happy to do so," he said.

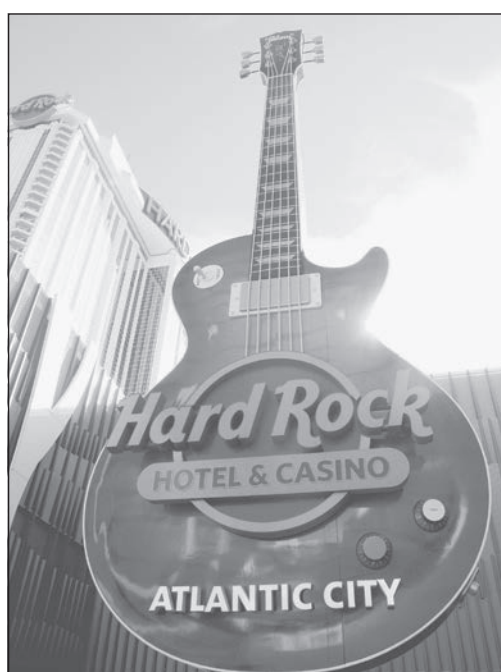

Hard Rock would need permission from New Jersey voters to build in the Meadowlands. They resoundingly rejected a plan in 2016 that would have authorized casinos outside Atlantic City, the only place in New Jersey they are permitted.

Allen, whose company spent a half-billion dollars to open a Hard Rock casino in Atlantic City in 2018, said the New York and northern New Jersey market can support numerous casinos.

Young women boycott UK nightclubs over 'spiking' concerns

LONDON — Young women across the U.K. boycotted nightclubs and pubs Wednesday as university towns and cities join in a national "girls night in" protest after increasing reports of drink spiking and students being drugged by needle injections.

The online campaign, which has gained momentum in university cities including Bristol, Brighton and Nottingham, wants to raise awareness about women's safety and demand more urgent action by the government and nightclubs to prevent "date rape" drugs from being brought into clubs. In this Jan. 16, 2020, photo, a giant electric guitar greets visitors at the entrance to the Hard Rock casino in Atlantic City N.J. On Tuesday, Oct. 26, 2021, Hard Rock's chairman Jim Allen said his company is interested in building a casino in New York.

boycotts in British cities this week have gathered thousands of followers on social media.

The protests came after a sharp rise in recent months of reports of drink spiking and needle "spiking" — where women report being injected with drugs in the back or in the leg at nightclubs — as students return to campuses after a long spell away due to the coronavirus pandemic.

The National Police Chiefs' Council said there have been 198 confirmed reports of drink spiking in September and October across the U.K., and 24 reports of people being injected while on nights out.

Police in Nottingham, central England, said last week that extra officers were being put on patrol on the weekends to ensure people could enjoy a safe night out. The force said that since Oct. 2, 14 women and a man have alleged being spiked "by something sharp, as opposed to a traditional method of contaminated alcoholic drinks."

One of the benefits of the county ending its contract with Nature Coast for ambulance service and having the fire department take over the job was firefighters and ambulance workers being cross trained to serve both functions.

But Stevens told the Chronicle Wednesday he won't force that issue, but rather allow employees in the two groups to cross train at their own pace and over time.

"Let that transition take care of itself," Stevens said. "Eventually we'll have that organization (that the county wants).

The county will provide the educational opportunities to cross train, but "I'm not going to force them," Stevens said.

There will be firefighters and paramedics eager to expand their skills, but others preferring to focus on one area of emergency work.

"Everybody in the organization has value," he said.

But certification as both a firefighter and a paramedic is not for everyone, he said.

"It's a hard bridge to cross. It's hard to keep up," Stevens said of the certification process that must be renewed every two years.

County Administrator Randy Oliver told the Chronicle that cross training won't always work.

One in 10 people typically have height problems if they have to climb a ladder, he said. Others feel too claustrophobic when they put on a respirator mask.

To staff ambulances and meet peak demand levels, Stevens said he had to hire additional paramedics and is still looking to hire more.

"They were working their paramedics to death," he said of Nature Coast.

The 2022 budget for the ambulance service is $12.98 million.

Stevens said the transition isn't without its problems.

Nature Coast EMS had

(Fire Rescue Chief Craig) Stevens also wants to work closer with local high schools to involve students in possible careers as paramedics or firefighters and begin training programs while they still attend school.

25 ambulances but was without the staff to man them all, he said.

The county took 16 and paid off what was still owed for them. Six of those were new. The remaining 10 had some problems, either mechanical or they weren't properly supplied with medical equipment or materials, Stevens said.

"They were below my standard," he said.

Two broke down while transporting patients in October.

The county ordered six new ambulances, but Stevens told the Chronicle he will have to wait as long as a year to get them. They cost $188,000 each.

The department is hiring two additional mechanics and staff to ensure fire and ambulance stations are adequately equipped and vehicles are maintained.

The next few coming years will have their own challenges for EMS and its facilities.

Ambulance crews share space at firehouses, but the county will have to decide what to do with Nature Coast's former facilities, Stevens said. The nonprofit organization had five stand-alone facilities, including a maintenance yard.

The county remodeled its fire houses, but adding ambulance crews may call for additional changes to the buildings, he said.

Stevens also wants to work closer with local high schools to involve students in possible careers as paramedics or firefighters and begin training programs while they still attend school.

There have also been other surprises.

Ambulance stretchers must be recertified every year. They are designed to prevent back injuries when transporting patients. They cost $30,000 each.

Stevens told the Chronicle they were not all recertified as they should have been, so that will have to be remedied.

Luckily, both the county's fire department and Nature Coast used the same medical director, so the ambulance crews' transition to the county didn't require additional certification or testing, Stevens said.

And now that both services are under the same fire rescue department, Stevens said they can better coordinate. That means if a fire rescue vehicle arrives on scene and no one wants or needs medical treatment, firefighters can notify ambulance crews they're not needed and they can return and be available for another call.

Stevens said the EMS has responded to 1,600 calls between Oct. 2 when the county took over the service and Oct. 26, but is awaiting data about response times. The plan is to have more ambulances in service than Nature Coast EMS.

Stevens had 16 days from the time the county commission voted to take over the service to Oct. 2.

Stevens thanked his department and county support employees such as human resources and computer information technology staff for their help during the transition.

"If we didn't have that, we couldn't have done this in 16 days. No way, shape, or form," he said.

There will still be bumps along the way, Stevens said, "but we're going to do the best we can to resolve them."

That's because each Vault Bag is known to contain nearly 3 pounds of Gov't issued coins some dating back to the 1800's including all those shown in today's publication. "The vaults at Federated Mint are going empty," said Laura A. Lynne, U.S. Coin and Currency Director for Federated Mint.

That's because a decision by Federated Mint to release rarely seen U.S. Gov't issued coins, some worth up to 50 times their face value, means unsearched Vault Bags loaded with U.S. Gov't issued coins dating back to the 1800's are now being handed over to U.S. residents who find their zip code listed in today's publication.

"But don't thank the Government. As U.S. Coin and Currency Director for Federated Mint, I get paid to inform and educate the general public regarding U.S. coins. Ever since the decision by Federated Mint to release rarely seen U.S. Gov't issued coins to the general public — I'm being asked how much are the unsearched Vault Bags worth? The answer is, there's no way to tell. Coin values always fluctuate and there are never any guarantees, but we do know this. Each unsearched bag weighs nearly 3 pounds and is known to contain rarely seen Morgan Silver Dollars and these coins alone could be worth $40 - $325 in collector value each according to The Official Red Book, a Guide Book of United States Coins. So there's no telling what you'll find until you search through all the coins. But you better believe at just $980 these unsearched Vault Bags are a steal," said Lynne.

"These are not ordinary coins you find in your pocket change. These are rarely seen silver, scarce, collectible and non-circulating U.S. coins dating back to the 1800's so we won't be surprised if thousands of U.S. residents claim as many as they can get their hands on. That's because after the bags were loaded with nearly 3 pounds of U.S. Gov't issued coins, each verified to meet a minimum collector grade quality of very good or above, the dates and mint marks were never searched to determine collector values and the bags were securely sealed. That means there's no telling what you'll find until you search all the coins," said Lynne.

This is very important. After the Vault Bags were loaded with over 200 of U.S. Gov't issued coins, each verified to meet a minimum collector grade quality of very good or above, the dates and mint marks were never searched to determine collector values. The Vault Bag fee has been set for $1,500 for residents who miss the 48-hour deadline, but for those U.S. residents who beat the 48-hour deadline the Vault Bag fee is just $980 as long as they call the National Toll-Free Hotline before the deadline ends.

"Remember this, we cannot stop collectors from buying up all the unsearched bags of coins they can get in this special advertising announcement. And you better believe with each bag being loaded with nearly 3 pounds of U.S. Gov't issued coins we're guessing they're going to go quick," said Lynne.

The phone lines will be ringing off the hook beginning at precisely 8:30 a.m. this morning. That's because each unsearched Vault Bag is loaded with the rarely seen coins pictured left and highly sought after collector coins dating clear back to the 1800's including iconic Morgan Silver Dollars, a historic Peace Silver Dollar, stunning Silver Walking Liberty Half Dollars, the collectible Silver Eisenhower Dollars, spectacular Silver Liberty Head Half and Quarter Dollars, rarely seen Silver Franklin Half Dollars, high demand President Kennedy Silver Half Dollars, beautiful Silver Standing Liberty Quarter Dollars, American Bicentennial Quarters, rare Liberty V Nickels, one cent Historic Wheat Coins including 1943 "Steel Cents", one of the beautiful Winged Liberty Head Dimes, scarce Indian Head one cent U.S. coins and the last ever minted Buffalo Nickels.

"With all these collectible U.S. Gov't Issued coins up for grabs we're going to do our best to answer all the calls," said Lynne.

Thousands of U.S. residents stand to miss the deadline to claim the U.S. Gov't issued coins. That means U.S. residents who find their zip code listed in today's publication can claim the unsearched bags of money for themselves and keep all the U.S. Gov't issued coins found inside.

Just be sure to call before the deadline ends 48 hours from today's publication date. ■

Though bittersweet, hospital’s decision is about business

A noticeable trend in the past five years left Bayfront Health Seven Rivers in Crystal River delivering surprising news: After Feb. 11, it will close its labor and delivery unit and end its obstetrical and newborn services.

While the news came as a shock to many throughout the community, the numbers don’t lie. During the past five years, Bayfront Seven Rivers has seen a 27% decrease in births and even fewer are projected this year. This decision was made from a business standpoint.

State figures show Citrus County birth rates are below the state average, peaking in 2017 at 7.6 newborns per 1,000 residents. In nearby Marion and Hernando counties, newborn rates, per the Florida Department of Health, in 2019 were 9.96 and 8.25 per 1,000 residents. Two years, Citrus’ rates were less than seven.

This does present a “convenience” issue for those expecting mothers on the west side of the county, especially when they go into labor before their newborn’s projected due date.

Hospital officials’ decision also sends a message about the county, too. There’s not enough young people seeking such services.

THE ISSUE:

Seven Rivers to end birth services.

OUR OPINION:

It’s about business.

There is the nostalgia that makes the decision bittersweet for some. Many families in and around Citrus County have experienced the joy of welcoming an addition to their family at Bayfront Seven Rivers.

Those seeking obstetrical and newborn services still have Citrus Memorial Hospital in Inverness, which has invested heavily in its delivery services, as well as other nearby medical facilities in Marion and Hernando counties.

If the trend reverses in future years, we have confidence Bayfront Seven Rivers would be able to adapt to provide necessary services, but as it is now, we understand and respect their business decision.

There was no yard sale at end of long road

This is Wednesday, Oct. 20. My husband and I just came back from doing some errands and having lunch out. We saw a sign on (U.S.) 19 that there was a yard sale at Ozello, so we went all the way out there — like about 15 miles, one way — and there was no yard sale. So, people, if you read this and you think you’re going to follow that sign, don’t do it, because there’s no yard sale out there.

Only two students on bus wasteful

I think it’s a waste of money when I see a school bus pull into Crystal River High School with only two students on the bus. That’s a waste of funds and a waste of our taxpayers’ money.

They need to use our money more conveniently for everyone and they need to consolidate and cut back.

Water hyacinths for manatees

...I’m very pleased that someone has planted water hyacinths for the manatees in Homosassa Springs, because the springs are where they’re coming to stay warm and the water hyacinths are their primary food.

So it finally dawned on someone to plant and put them in that area. Also, the seagrass is not going to grow in the mucky bottom, so they just have to bring in some suction devices to suck up the black stuff on the bottom so that they can eat something decent and not get parasites. So, just my words today.

Stop sending me calendars

Since August, we’ve received five calendars for next year and they’re all asking us for at least $15. Do these organizations believe that money grows on trees and that everybody’s wealthy?

If we’re going to pay $15 for a calendar, we’ll pick one out at the store where we’ll have a large choice of pictures to enjoy.

Let’s see, now we have one for our den and one for our kitchen and one for our desk at work and two more to give away to someone else.

Thanks a lot.

If you’re sick, stay at home

Decided to go out to a restaurant — my first time since the pandemic started — and as soon as I walked in the front door, at the very first table, an older lady was sitting there and she was hacking and coughing and sneezing and blowing her nose and I turned right around and left. People, if you’re sick, stay home. Don’t go out...

Thanks for ridding neighborhood of drug dealers

I have to express my appreciation for Sheriff Mike Prendergast and the Citrus County Sheriff’s Office for the hard work and determination in ridding my neighborhood of the ringleader of drug dealing by the recent arrest of that lawbreaker right in my neighborhood.

Living close to drug dealing has been overwhelming at times, with loud sounds at night from blaring boom boxes, lots of vehicular traffic, weird looking people walking to the drug house, an ambulance was there for an overdose, loud voices and arguments, the list can go on and on.

I complained several times, to the Citrus County Board of County Commissioners and code enforcement, they were only able to do so much, which I also appreciate, but the main help came from Sheriff Prendergast and the CCSO in making more than one arrest, the last of which makes it final. I can now live in peace and tranquility on my own property!

Thanks and God bless Sheriff Mike Prendergast and the Citrus County Sheriff’s Office!

Be careful with Medicare calls

Recently there was a Sound Off call about Medicare insurance calling to sign you up for benefits. Be very careful of these calls because they are not promoting U.S. government original Medicare; they are promoting Medicare Advantage Plans which are private insurance companies who are licensed to offer health insurance to Medicare eligible people. These plans are quite different from original Medicare as they operate like an HMO. You must stay within the network of providers for each plan or the cost becomes very high. They are usually not portable, in that if you live in another state for part of the year, a Florida Medicare Advantage Plan will not have in-network services in your second state. Also, if you need specialized treatment or surgery, you may not be able to use the doctor or hospital you prefer. Medicare Advantage Plans may be cheaper up front but they come with limitations subscribers need to be aware of before enrolling.

The people who are calling are salespeople and they receive high commissions if they convince you to enroll in a Medicare Advantage Plan. Their prime objective is not to offer you more benefits but to make money.

Because it is now open season to pick a different or new Medicare plan, the sales people are out in force to sign you up and make the money. The October issue of the AARP Bulletin offers a good overview of Medicare Advantage Plans and how it com-

Biden’s bill needs to become law

Some of you may remember stories about the time before Medicare coverage became law (under President Lyndon Johnson, a Democrat.)

Now President Biden another Democrat, proposes to include additional services under Medicare, specifically dental, hearing and vision.

For younger families President Biden wants to provide child care assistance age 0 to 5 and provide two years of universal pre-K for 3- and 4-year-olds, at a cost at or below 7% of most family’s income.

Biden’s child tax credit for 2021 is $3,600 per child younger than 6, and $3,000 per child age 6 to 18. Most families receive monthly payments of either $250 or $300 per child. This is available to Individuals making up to $75,000 a year or a married couple making up to $150,000 a year.

In addition, community college tuition will be free for two years.

Imagine how a death or serious illness can affect anyone, especially working families. Now think how welcomed it would be for families to rely on paid coverage for 12 weeks for family and medical leave. Two-thirds of earnings up to $4,000. a month, and the lowest paid worker would receive 80% of their income.

Who pays for these coverages? Corporate tax rates rise from 21% to 26% and top income rate for individuals would increase from 37% to 39%. The top capital gains would go up from 20% to 25%.

Wealthy individuals may make over $400,000 a year, but I do not know any of these individuals. Do you?

I do know my family, friends and neighbors. They include a mix of middle-class and poorer families. Many Americans were (before Obamacare) uninsured due to medical preconditions and/or because of exorbitant policy costs. Many now benefit from Democratic President Obama’s Affordable Care Act.

Now we all need to ensure that Biden’s bill becomes law to again help millions of our fellow Americans.

The bill is the $3.5 trillion Reconciliation Bill, which the Republicans led by Mitch McConnell refuse to pass. If you care, what will you do? Who will you next vote for?

Governor a hotbed of misinformation

You may have missed it since the Chronicle didn’t give it any coverage, but last Friday (Oct. 22), the Florida Supervisors of Elections — all 67 of them — issued a statement that started with, “The great American experiment, our cherished democracy, is under threat.”

It goes on to say that the “integrity of our democracy has been challenged by misinformation, disinformation, and malformation that sows discord and undermines trust in American’s electoral process.”

They won’t admit it, but this letter is directed at our Republican governor and our Republican legislators. I am unaware of any Democrat who believes the election was stolen from Donald Trump. Instead, after saying the 2020 election was the gold standard of elections for the nation, our governor pushed for laws that would make it more difficult for people to vote.

This voter suppression law is being challenged by the NAACP, Disability Rights Florida, The League of Women Voters, UnidosUS, and other organizations that oppose the new law as restraining voting by Black and brown people and folks with disabilities.

The Supervisors said, “false claims of voter fraud degrade confidence in our political institutions and discourage participation in our democracy.” The statement also said the election officials have been threatened by folks who believe these elections lie. They ask Floridians to “tone down the rhetoric and stand up for our democracy.”

As this statement was released, DeSantis was sending out a fundraising letter accusing Democrats of trying every trick in the book to sway the 2020 elections. He continues to be a hotbed of misinformation, disinformation and malformation.

US limits immigration enforcement actions

'Protected' areas to be off limits

BEN FOX
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — U.S. immigration authorities will limit arrests at schools, hospitals and other “protected” areas under guidelines issued Wednesday by the Department of Homeland Security, part of a broader effort to roll back the approach to enforcement under President Donald Trump.

Agents and officers are being directed to avoid making arrests or carrying out searches at a range of sensitive locations “to the fullest extent possible,” according to a memo from DHS Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas outlining the policy.

It is the latest in a series of immigration policies under President Joe Biden aimed at taking a more targeted approach to enforcement. The policy is similar to one under President Barack Obama that restricted arrests at churches and schools.

The new policy includes not just schools but medical and daycare facilities, playgrounds and recreation centers as well as demonstrations and rallies.

It also further alienated Biden critics who say weaker enforcement

Migrant caravan grows as it heads through Mexico

VILLA COMALTITLAN, Mexico — A growing migrant caravan filled the square in this town in Chiapas state on Wednesday afternoon after knocking off another 13 miles of its trek across southern Mexico.

About 2,000 migrants had walked out of the southern city of Tapachula near the Guatemala border on Saturday. While the multitude is challenging to count, it appeared significantly larger when it left Huixtla after a day of rest and its leaders estimated its size at 4,000. It reached the town of Villa Comaltitlan on Wednesday.

encourages migrants to seek to enter the country illegally. The Trump administration sparked criticism for seeking to arrest and remove anyone in the country illegally regardless of criminal history or community ties, though DHS also operated under a sensitive locations policy that limited enforcement actions in churches and other places.

Guidelines issued earlier this year for immigration enforcement directed agents to focus on recent border crossers, national security threats and people who have committed serious crimes. DHS also imposed limits on arrests at courthouses when people showed up for other matters and ended mass worksite raids.

“The caravan is like a magnet, it goes sucking up people, migrants who had been in the towns (of coastal Chiapas) are joining,” said Irineo Mújica, an immigration activist with the organization People without Borders.

Without any issue, the migrants passed a customs, immigration and military checkpoint where authorities typically seize drugs and look for human smugglers.

Though still significantly smaller than caravans in 2018 and 2019, this is the biggest group moving through southern Mexico since the pandemic started early last year. In January, a caravan left Honduras, but authorities in Guatemala broke it up.

Mayorkas has argued that his agency does not have the resources to pursue all of the estimated 11 million people in the country without legal status and that it should focus on those who pose the greatest risk to society.

In announcing the new policy guidelines, the secretary said agents and officers should consider “broader societal interests” and the impact of their activities on communities.

“We can accomplish our law enforcement mission without denying individuals access to needed medical care, children access to their schools, the displaced access to food and shelter, people of faith access to their places of worship, and more,” Mayorkas said.

encourages migrants to seek to enter the country illegally. The Trump administration sparked criticism for seeking to arrest and remove anyone in the country illegally regardless of criminal history or community ties, though DHS also operated under a sensitive locations policy that limited enforcement actions in churches and other places.

India is among the few countries on course to reach its targets for curbing the release of planet-warming gases. But a U.N.-backed report published Tuesday said the country had “significant room” for more ambitious goals, which it has yet to provide to the U.N. climate agency.

Asked about newer targets, Rameshwar Prasad Gupta, India’s top environmental official, said that “all options were still on the table.”

Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi will be attending a Group of 20 summit scheduled for this weekend in Rome, then the summit at Glasgow, known as COP26.

Gupta said that “net zero in itself isn’t a solution,” since cumulative emissions were the cause of the climate problem. He said countries need to focus on how much carbon is put in the atmosphere while getting to that goal.

Developing nations need space to grow and assistance — and without it, they are faced with a choice of compromising on development or relying on dirty fuels, he said.

But India’s dependence on coal — it’s the world’s second-largest user of the fossil fuel and has vast reserves — is likely to continue.

Nation & World BRIEFS

Stocks end lower, easing back from records

Banks and health care companies helped pull stocks on Wall Street mostly lower Wednesday, as the market eased back from its latest record highs.

The S&P 500 fell 0.5% after shedding a modest gain as the selling picked up in the last hour of trading. The Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped 0.7%. Both indexes set all-time highs the day before.

The tech-heavy Nasdaq composite ended essentially flat after an early tech company rally lost steam. Treasury yields were mixed. Energy futures mostly fell.

Investors were focusing on a mixed batch of earnings from a variety of well-known companies, including Microsoft, General Motors and Coca-Cola.

The S&P 500 slipped 23.11 points to 4,551.68. More than three-fourths of the companies in the benchmark index fell, with financial, health care and industrial stocks accounting for most of the decline. Those losses offset gains from communication services stocks and a mix of companies that rely on consumer spending.

The Dow fell 266.19 points, or 0.7%, to 35,490.69. Most of the blue-chip index’s stocks were in the red, led by Visa, which slumped 6.9% a day after reporting strong quarterly results.

The Nasdaq edged up 0.12 points, or less than 0.1%, to 15,235.84, and the Russell 2000 index of small companies took the heaviest losses, falling 43.58 points, or 1.9%, to 2,252.49.

US issues first passport with ‘X’ gender marker

DENVER — The United States has issued its first passport with an “X” gender designation, marking a milestone in the recognition of the rights of people who do not identify as male or female, and expects to be able to offer the option more broadly next year, the State Department said Wednesday.

The department did not identify the passport recipient, but Dana Zzyym, an intersex activist from Fort Collins, Colorado, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that they received it. Since 2015, Zzyym, who prefers a gender-neutral pronoun, has been in a legal battle with the State Department to obtain a passport that did not require Zzyym to lie about gender by picking either male or female.

Zzyym (pronounced Zimm) picked up the UPS package with the passport after getting an early morning text and phone call from their lawyer, Paul Castillo of Lambda Legal, that it had arrived. Zzyym had stayed up late celebrating Intersex Awareness Day with two visiting activists.

California virus cases stop falling

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — California Gov. Gavin Newsom rolled up his sleeve Wednesday and received a coronavirus vaccine booster shot, a move he encouraged others to take as the state heads into the time of year that in 2020 ushered in the deadliest spike of COVID-19 cases.

Much has changed since then — 88% of those 18 and older in California have received at least one dose of a vaccine that didn’t exist last fall and millions have survived contracting the virus and have a level of natural immunity, though it’s unclear for how long.

Still, millions are not vaccinated and new cases and hospitalizations have flattened after a steady two-month decline that saw California boast the nation’s lowest infection rate. State models show a gradual increase in hospitalizations in the next month.

Sudan arrests three critics of military coup

CAIRO — Sudanese security forces detained three prominent pro-democracy figures overnight, their relatives and other activists said Wednesday, as internal and international pressure mounted on the country’s military following its coup.

The arrests came as protests denouncing Monday’s takeover continued in the capital of Khartoum and elsewhere, and many businesses shut in response to calls for strikes. The coup threatens to halt Sudan’s fitful transition to democracy, which began after the 2019 ouster of longtime ruler Omar al-Bashir in a popular uprising.

Groups of protesters — in some places, dozens, in others, hundreds — set up barricades of stones on main roads throughout the day. Security forces waded in, chasing demonstrators and dismantling the barriers.

“It looks like a hit-and-run process, they remove, and we build,” activist Nazim Sirag said.

WHO: Europe led COVID cases, deaths last week

GENEVA — Europe stood out as the only major region worldwide to report an increase in both coronavirus cases and deaths over the last week, with double-digit percentage increases in each, the U.N. health agency said Wednesday.

The World Health Organization said new COVID-19 cases in its 53-country European region, which stretches as far east as former Soviet republics in Central Asia, recorded an 18% increase in COVID-19 cases over the last week — a fourth straight weekly increase for the area.

In WHO’s weekly epidemiological report on COVID-19, Europe also saw a 14% increase in virus-related deaths. That amounted to more than 1.6 million new cases and over 21,000 new deaths.

The United States tallied the largest number of new cases over the last seven days — nearly 513,000 new cases, though that was a 12% drop from the previous week — and over 11,600 deaths, which was about the same number as the previous week, WHO said.

Iran’s president says cyberattack meant to create ‘disorder’

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates — Iran’s president said Wednesday that a cyberattack which paralyzed every gas station in the Islamic Republic was designed to get “people angry by creating disorder and disruption,” as long lines still snaked around the pumps a day after the incident began.

Ebrahim Raisi’s remarks stopped short of assigning blame for the attack, which rendered useless the government-issued electronic cards that many Iranians use to buy subsidized fuel at the pump.

However, they suggested that he and others in the theocracy believe anti-Iranian forces carried out an assault likely designed to inflame the country as the second anniversary of a deadly crackdown on nationwide protests over gasoline prices approaches.

“There should be serious readiness in the field of cyberwar and related bodies should not allow the enemy to follow their ominous aims to make problem in trend of people’s life,” Raisi said. State television later aired footage of the president visiting a gas station in central Tehran.

ANNEX

“Right now, things have increased price wise; it’s hard to get certain materials,” Carl Hall said about the challenges of meeting a hopeful 14-month deadline. “For us, it’s trying to meet the schedule the judges want ... and get us in and operational as soon as possible.”

Not including senior judges and other hearing officers, Citrus County has four circuit judges and three county judges scheduling dockets of cases across five courtrooms, one of which doesn’t have adequate security for inmates.

Hearings are sometimes held in the jury-assembly room, the county commission chambers or a judge’s chambers if a courtroom isn’t available, but those areas cannot either host a jury trial or defendants in custody.

“We don’t have enough courtroom space for the folks we’ve got here now,” said Carol Falvey, the county’s administrative circuit judge. “We are continually trying to devise ways we can accommodate each others’ schedules. ... It’s a constant battle.”

As a solution, county commissioners agreed in July to back the annex plan, and budgeted

Citrus County Facilities Management Director Carl Hall stands in the space Monday, Oct. 25, discussing plans for the project.

$2 million toward the endeavor from the county’s $29 million share of the American Rescue Plan Act.

Workers with Lecantobased contractor Daly and Zilch Inc. have around three days worth of interior demolition to go, Hall said.

“So we’re just dealing with exterior walls and any interior walls that have to stay,” he said.

Most of what remains inside is an unwanted mezzanine and other unnecessary frameworks.

Having a clean slate of the site will give the county’s engineering architect — Hanson Professional Services Inc. — a better idea how courthouse amenities could fit within the confines of the structural walls, Hall said.

This would include offices for county judges Bruce Carney and Charles Helm, their assistants, an area for courthouse clerks to work, space for Citrus County Sheriff’s Office bailiffs and room for one courtroom, maybe two.

“It depends on the layout and the location,” Hall said.

Falvey said because county judges preside over misdemeanor criminal cases, the annex should have holding cells to house men and women during their court hearings.

Hall said the architect is going to try and keep most of structure’s older portions, like its brick walls and painted Coca-Cola display, preserved.

“They’re really looking to keep the historical portion of the building intact,” he said.

After it was used to bottle soda, the building housed county maintenance operations before the supervisor of elections moved in there for decades until relocating to Meadowcrest in 2019, leaving it vacant until renovations began.

“It was exactly the way it was left,” Hall said.

Once the architect comes up with a design for the annex in around two weeks, Hall said, they’ll present it to judges for feedback to finalize a blueprint in three months time. Afterward, a bid will be awarded to a contractor for the renovation work.

Falvey said she’d like to have a more direct and secure connection between the courthouse with its annex, but it will come down to what the design team recommends with the funds available.

“We’ll have to see what we can do,” the judge said. “My goal is to do as much as we can with the space we’ve been given so we can use it for a long time for the judges that are going to be over there, and save on expenses in any way.”

In the end, Hall and Falvey said they want to make sure what’s planned for the annex can sustain the needs of the county’s justice system for at least a decade.

“I want to make sure we do it a smart, thoughtful way, and in a way that can accommodate needs for years to come,” Falvey said. “We’re hopeful we don’t put ourselves back into the same position we’re in now with the existing courthouse.”

Pack nut-free choice for lunch

MetroCreative

School is in session and that means busy families may be in need of a few meal solutions that fit into their schedules — particularly items to grab on the way to school or work.

Granola bars often fit the bill as nutritious options in portable packages. While store-bought granola bars are convenient, they tend to be made with nuts or oats, which are not ideal for those with food allergies or intolerances.

People can easily whip up homemade granola bars that are chock-full of vitamins and minerals and can be customized to food preferences and tastes. This recipe for Nut-Free Granola Bars from “Eat What You Want” (Ten Speed Press) by Danielle Walker can be enhanced with raisins, chocolate chips or dried fruits.

Nut-Free Granola Bars

Makes 12

- 2 tablespoons warm water
- 1 tablespoon chia seeds
- 1/3 cup light-colored raw honey
- 1 tablespoon virgin coconut oil
- 2 tablespoons unsweetened sunflower seed butter
- 3/4 cup raw pepitas
- 3/4 cup raw sunflower seeds
- 1 cup unsweetened coconut flakes
- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon fine sea salt
- 1/4 cup chocolate chips, raisins, or dried fruit pieces

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease the short sides of a 9- by 13-inch baking dish or rimmed baking sheet with ghee or coconut oil. Line the bottom and long sides of the pan with parchment paper so the ends hang over the sides.

Whisk the warm water and chia seeds in a small bowl and set aside.

Melt the honey in a small saucepan over medium-high heat. Turn the heat to medium and simmer for 5 to 7 minutes, until a candy thermometer reads 225 degrees. Stir in the oil and sunflower seed butter and remove the pan from the heat. Let cool for 10 minutes.

Place the pepitas and sunflower seeds in a food processor and pulse once or twice until coarsely chopped.

Add the coconut flakes, sesame seeds, vanilla, cinnamon, and salt and pulse a few more times, until coarsely chopped and incorporated. Add the chia mixture and the honey mixture and stir by hand until just combined. Immediately spread the mixture into the prepared baking dish.

Place a piece of parchment paper on top and use a flat-bottomed measuring cup to press the mixture firmly and evenly into the pan. Remove the top piece of parchment and bake for 15 minutes, until golden. Sprinkle the chocolate chips over the top. Let cool in the pan for 30 minutes, then transfer the pan to the freezer for 1 hour, until set.

Remove the pan from the freezer and lift the parchment flaps to remove the slab from the pan. Using a sharp knife, cut into 12 rectangular bars. Serve the bars chilled.

Store in an airtight container in the refrigerator for 2 weeks, or in the freezer for 6 months. Defrost in the fridge overnight.

CoQ10's Failure Leaves Millions Wanting

Use this pill to supercharge your brain and think better than ever.

Millions of Americans take the supplement CoQ10. It's the “jet fuel” that supercharges your cells' power generators, known as mitochondria.

As you age, your mitochondria begin to die. In fact, by age 67, you lose 80% of the mitochondria you had at age 25.1 But if you're taking CoQ10, there's something important you should know.

As powerful as CoQ10 is, there is a critical thing it fails to do. It can't create new mitochondria in your cells.

Taking CoQ10 is not enough

“There's a little-known NASA nutrient that multiplies the number of new power generators in your cells by up to 55%,” says Dr. Al Sears, owner of the Sears Institute for Anti-Aging Medicine in Royal Palm Beach, Florida. “Science once thought this was impossible. But now you can make your heart, brain and body young again.”

“I tell my patients the most important thing I can do is increase their ‘health span.’ This is the length of time you can live free of disease and with all your youthful abilities and faculties intact.”

Medical first: Multiply the “power generators” in your cells

Al Sears, M.D., recently released an energy-boosting supplement based on this NASA nutrient that has become so popular, he's having trouble keeping it in stock.

Dr. Sears is the author of over 500 scientific papers on anti-aging and recently spoke at the WPBF 25 Health & Wellness Festival featuring Dr. Oz and special guest Suzanne Somers. Thousands of people listened to Dr. Sears speak on his anti-aging breakthroughs and attended his book signing at the event.

Now, Dr. Sears has come up with what his peers consider his greatest contribution to anti-aging medicine yet — a newly discovered nutrient that multiplies the number of tiny, energy-producing “engines” located inside the body's cells, shattering the limitations of traditional CoQ10 supplements.

Why mitochondria matter

A single cell in your body can contain between 200 to 2,000 mitochondria, with the largest number found in the most metabolically active cells, like those in your brain, heart and skeletal muscles.

But because of changes in cells, stress and poor diet, most people's power generators begin to malfunction and die off as they age. In fact, the Mitochondria Research Society reports 50 million U.S. adults are suffering from health problems because of mitochondrial dysfunction.

Common ailments often associated with aging — such as memory problems, heart issues, blood sugar concerns and vision and hearing difficulties — can all be connected to a decrease in mitochondria.

Birth of new mitochondria

Dr. Sears and his researchers combined the most powerful form of CoQ10 available — called ubiquinol — with a unique, newly discovered natural compound called PQQ that has the remarkable ability to grow new mitochondria. Together, the two powerhouses are now available in a supplement called Ultra Accel II.

Discovered by a NASA probe in space dust, PQQ (Pyrroloquinoline quinone) stimulates something called “mitochondrial biogenesis” — a unique process that actually boosts the number of healthy mitochondria in your cells.

In a study published in the Journal of Nutrition, mice fed PQQ grew a staggering number of new mitochondria, showing an increase of more than 55% in just eight weeks.

The mice with the strongest mitochondria showed no signs of aging — even when they were the equivalent of 80 years old.

If your bottle of CoQ10 does not have this NASA nutrient in it, then you are NOT getting the full benefits of CoQ10

Science stands behind the power of PQQ

Biochemical Pharmacology reports that PQQ is up to 5,000 times more efficient in sustaining energy production than common antioxidants.

“Imagine 5,000 times more efficient energy,” says Dr. Sears. “PQQ has been a game changer for my patients.”

“With the PQQ in Ultra Accel, I have energy I never thought possible,” says Colleen R., one of Dr. Sears' patients. “I am in my 70s but feel 40 again. I think clearer, move with real energy and sleep like a baby.”

It works right away

Along with an abundance of newfound energy, users also report a sharper, more focused mind and memory, and even younger-looking skin and hair. Jerry M. from Wellington, Florida, used Ultra Accel and was amazed at the effect.

“I noticed a difference within a few days,” says Jerry. “My endurance almost doubled. But it's not just in your body. You can feel it mentally, too,” says Jerry. “Not only do I feel a difference, but the way it protects my cells is great insurance against a health disaster as I get older.”

Increase your health span today

The demand for this supplement is so high, Dr. Sears is having trouble keeping it in stock. “My patients tell me they feel better than they have in years. This is ideal for people who are feeling or looking older than their age... or for those who are tired or growing more forgetful.”

“My favorite part of practicing anti-aging medicine is watching my patients get the joy back in their lives. Ultra Accel sends a wake-up call to every cell in their bodies... and they actually feel young again.”

Where to find Ultra Accel II

Right now, the only way to get this potent combination of PQQ and super-powered CoQ10 is with Dr. Sears' breakthrough Ultra Accel II formula.

To secure bottles of this hot, new supplement, buyers should contact the Sears Health Hotline at 1-800-658-9364 within the next 48 hours. “It takes time to get bottles shipped out to drug stores,” said Dr. Sears. “The Hotline allows us to ship the product directly to the customer.”

Dr. Sears feels so strongly about this product, he offers a 100%, money-back guarantee on every order. “Just send me back the bottle and any unused product within 90 days, and I'll send you your money back,” said Dr. Sears.

The Hotline will be taking orders for the next 48 hours. After that, the phone number will be shut down to allow them to restock.

Call 1-800-658-9364 to secure your limited supply of Ultra Accel II. You don't need a prescription, and those who call in the first 24 hours qualify for a significant discount. To take advantage of this great offer use Promo Code NP1021UA143 when you call in.

Praying for Haiti

Good morning, as I gaze out the west window the full moon hangs in all its splendor. As always I stand in awe how it is not altered even a tad in the midst of the rocking changes and uncertainties of the world. Take this, the moon has no light of its own. It merrily reflects the sun. Amazing. That's just how I want to be - no light of my own, but unshakably reflecting the Lord through the adverse seasons of life.

This brings a question a reader had of whether we know the group of Mennonite people kidnapped in Haiti. I don't know them personally. My heart especially goes out to the children and baby, wondering what they may be facing. I am comforted to know that God surely is always bigger than any situation and he even cares more than any earthly being.

If I look at the trauma raging on all sides, there is no way of being filled with joy; then as my eyes are turned to the Savior I regain a sense of peace that only comes from resting in the One who can keep us safe.

As I hear of those in hostage I think back and retell my children stories of when I was 14 years old and my parents, older brother, and myself took a much anticipated trip to Haiti to visit my uncle and his family who did mission work there for a number of years. My heart still aches at the thought of visiting an orphanage owned by a native; those living conditions remain etched in my mind. The little children could sing like a bird, yet their eyes spoke of the trauma they have been through. Getting a sense of security in not being alone at night, they would huddle together in bed with up to four children in a half bed. Though I knew it was not possible, I would so much have liked to just make life okay for their troubled hearts.

I was drawn by their simple way of life and narrow foot paths connecting the little houses with thatch roofs. Our children dream of going to Haiti and helping someday. For now, our nook is home, maybe one day when the children are older and the way is clear, we'll attempt it.

With wide open ears they listen how most of these children in Haiti live their lives with a single meal a day, and how they're content with that. We take the opportunity to explain to them that while we tend to be discontent with our wide range of food options, they are happy with their daily rice and beans and sometimes for a special occasion, a bit of meat or the sauce.

I will inject though, that we have also witnessed that malnutrition due to a lack of even rice and beans. I still go in knots thinking about it. They had no choice of being born in that setting. On several occasions, we were invited to eat with Haitians in their homes. Outside the door of the teeny house where we were eating, little children with big eyes waited, in hopes of eating some leftovers.

Etched in my mind are the two little girls who clutched a plate between them, which we handed out to them and took turns taking bites till every last bit was licked clean from the plate.

May I ever thank the Giver of all good things and not be found fussing over food, or anything, for that matter!

I used to think I don't like rice and beans till I was in Haiti. I truly enjoyed their way of making it. We adopted their recipe, and now enjoy it here in our home.

Haitian Rice with Sauce

- 3 cups water
- 1 1/2 cup rice
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 1/2 teas chicken base
- 1/2 teas garlic powder
- 1 1/2 teas salt
- 1 cup cooked pinto or black beans (opt)

Pour water, oil, and seasoning into a medium sauce pan. Bring to boil, add rice. Stir then simmer for ten minutes. DO NOT stir while simmering. Remove from heat, cover and let set another ten minutes. Fluff with a spoon and add beans. Spoon onto your plate and ladle a generous serving of the following sauce on top. Very good!

Sauce:

- 2 cups pizza sauce
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 3/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/2 Tablespoon real lemon
- 1/2 cup chicken, diced
- 1/2 cup potatoes, diced
- 1/2 cup carrots, sliced
- 1/2 cup cabbage, chopped
- 1/2 cup onions, chopped

Dump all together in a medium sized sauce pan. Simmer until veggies are tender.

Note: these veggies are all optional, use what strikes your fancy. The Haitians would also mix up a bit of flour with water then form small logs with this dough and toss them into the sauce. When the veggies were done, the dough rolls were also ready! They use ample amounts of garlic in their cooking; feel free to tweak seasonings to taste. I seldom use exact amounts when cooking.

Cheesy Chorizo Nachos

- 1 package Cacique Pork Chorizo
- 1 package Cacique Queso Blanco Queso Dip
- 1 can (15 ounces) refried beans
- 2 tablespoons water, plus additional, if necessary
- 1 bag (12 ounces) tortilla chips
- 1 package Cacique Ranchero Queso Fresco
- 1/2 cup Cacique Crema Mexicana
- 1 large jalapeno, sliced thin
- 2 radishes, sliced thin
- Fresh cilantro leaves, for garnish
- Guacamole, for serving
- Cacique Mild Homestyle Salsa, for serving

In large nonstick skillet or well-seasoned cast-iron pan over medium-low heat, cook pork chorizo, using spoon to break it up. Stir regularly until completely warmed through and deep brown, scraping crispy bits from bottom of pan.

Microwave queso dip 2-3 minutes until heated through.

In medium bowl, thin refried beans with water. Beans should be thick but nearly pourable; add additional water 1 tablespoon at a time, if necessary.

Heat oven to 350 degrees.

To assemble nachos, add half the tortilla chips to 13-by-9-inch rectangular baking dish. Use spoon to drizzle half the queso dip and half the refried beans evenly over chips, distributing as evenly as possible. Sprinkle with half the crumbled queso fresco. Repeat with remaining chips, queso dip, beans and crumbled queso fresco. Bake 5-8 minutes until crumbled queso fresco softens and queso dip is creamy.

Remove from oven then drizzle with crema Mexicana and scatter pork chorizo over top. Garnish with sliced jalapenos, radishes and fresh cilantro. Serve with guacamole and salsa.

QB changes possible for Georgia, Florida

Meet Saturday in 'Cocktail Party'

MARK LONG
AP sports writer

GAINESVILLE — Florida coach Dan Mullen has fielded quarterback questions all season: Emory Jones? Anthony Richardson? Why Jones? Why not Richardson?

If he's frustrated by the weekly inquiries, Mullen hasn't shown it. He did, however, offer a possible glimpse as the Gators returned from a bye week and began preparations to play top-ranked Georgia in their annual rivalry game known as "The World's Largest Outdoor Cocktail Party."

"Have they named a starting quarterback? I'm sure that's got to be ... that's shocking," Mullen said on Monday. "That's their No. 1 deal, right, who their starter is? Much bigger than ours. They're the No. 1 team. So I'm shocked how anybody's even looking at our situation."

Both teams' unsettled QB situations are sure to be one of the main story lines as the Bulldogs (7-0, 5-0 Southeastern Conference) and the Gators (4-3, 2-3) square off in Jacksonville for the 86th time in the last 89 years. Georgia is a 14 1/2-point favorite, according to FanDuel Sportsbook.

Bulldogs coach Kirby Smart insisted Monday he doesn't know whether Stetson Bennett or JT Daniels will start.

"It's going to be based on practice," Smart said. "No decision has been made whatsoever."

Bennett started the last three games in place of Daniels, who is recovering from a strained lat. Bennett, who also started the second game of the season against UAB

Rookie propels Astros

Associated Press

Houston's Jose Altuve celebrates Wednesday after a home run during the seventh inning in Game 2 of the World Series between the Astros and Atlanta Braves in Houston. The Astros won 7-2 to tie the series at a game apiece heading to Atlanta for Game 3 on Friday.

Siri shines as Houston beats Braves to tie World Series

KRISTIE RIEKEN
AP sports writer

HOUSTON — José Siri launched himself head-first into home plate, popped up with arms flexed and screamed with all his might.

Welcome to the World Series, rook.

The career minor leaguer sparked a team whose biggest stars took a while to shine, sending the Houston Astros to a 7-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves on Wednesday night that evened the Fall Classic at one game apiece.

Jose Altuve doubled early, homered late and scored twice to break out at the plate. Siri's speed and aggressive play created havoc on the bases, leading to a four-run second inning that helped the Astros snap a five-game skid at home in the World Series.

It's the first time they've won a World Series game in Houston since a 13-12 victory over the Dodgers in 10 innings in Game 5 on Oct. 29, 2017.

Altuve hit a leadoff double and scored in the first inning before adding a solo homer in the seventh as the Astros rolled past the suddenly sloppy Braves.

José Urquidy gave the Astros five solid inning and Houston's bullpen, already so important this postseason, did the rest.

The series shifts to Atlanta for the first of three games Friday night.

Hornets sting Magic 120-111

Associated Press

ORLANDO — Miles Bridges scored 31 points, Gordon Hayward added 24 and the Charlotte Hornets beat the Orlando Magic 120-111 on Wednesday night for their fourth win in five games.

Bridges, who scored 30 or more points for the third time in four games, hit a 3-pointer with 1:02 remaining to put the game away for the Hornets, whose only loss of the season came in overtime against Boston on Monday night.

Cole Anthony led Orlando with 24 points and six assists. Wendell Carter Jr. added 20 points and 10 rebounds for the Magic, who committed eight turnovers in the fourth quarter after leading for most of the game.

Jalen McDaniels came off the bench to score 16 points, hitting a 3-pointer to put Charlotte ahead for keeps with 8:18 left. LaMelo Ball followed quickly with another 3-pointer, and Bridges returned to the court to help the Hornets stay ahead.

Heat 106, Nets 93

NEW YORK — Bam Adebayo had 24 points and nine rebounds to lead the Miami Heat to a 106-93 victory over the Brooklyn Nets.

Jimmy Butler added 17 points for Miami (3-1). P.J. Tucker finished with 15, and Tyler Herro and DeWayne Dedmon each contributed 14.

Choosing the proper prop for the area

How about a little boat tech? First off, as far as the bite report goes the fish are getting happier by the minute. The ideal weather and water temps usually found in October can make for some of the best fishing of the year. The reds are gathering and feeding well around the points of outer islands and should get even better as the month goes on. The trout will transcend from the backcountry to the shallow flats in 2 to 4 feet of water, so get out and take advantage.

Rick Burns
FISHING REPORT

I was asked recently at one of my seminars as to what would be the proper prop to run on my boat for this nature coast area? Most assuredly meaning the rocky, oyster, vast shallow area.

Before we cover some basic lingo, purposes and varieties of props, let it be known that everything from shallow-water running capabilities to fuel economy, to top-end speed depends greatly on the propeller you choose. It's where the rubber meets the road. Props function as the wheels and tires of your outboard-driven boat that can greatly affect acceleration, speed and even the life of your motor.

For space sake we can't go into great detail, but this will give you a general idea.

The diameter of the prop is simply the circumference of a circle inscribed by one of the blade tips turning 360 degrees. The diameter for most outboard flats boats will be between 12 and 14 1/2 inches. In general, bigger props are more efficient at lower and mid-range speeds, but slower at top-end speeds because of more drag.

The pitch is no more than the distance a prop would travel forward through the water if there were no slippage. Here again, most flats rigs will run a pitch between 15 to 23 inches. Most common being 17 to 19 inches, which covers a wide variety of applications. Pitch is thus most directly related to speed. If you're not sure which prop you have on your outboard simply check the outside of the hub of the prop and you'll find numbers stamped into the metal. For example, a 14 x 17 prop has a 14-inch diameter and a 17-inch pitch.

Ask a technician and/or check the manufacturer's specifications to insure you have the proper prop for your outboard. The warranty folks could also be happier knowing, should something happen.

Another thing to consider is to always use GPS speeds for any calculations — speedometers are rarely anywhere near accurate.

Aluminum vs. stainless? If you're running an aluminum prop, whether here or anywhere else, you'd be wise to replace it with a stainless. How many guides do you know who run aluminum? And we're out there all the time. While aluminum makes an inexpensive backup, it's not a good choice for the primary — the slightest touch of an oyster bar or rock will wipe it out, while a stainless can endure incredible battering and still get ya home. Stainless also offers better performance because they can be thinner blades and several times stronger.

Special to the Chronicle

With the weather and the water temps starting to cool down, the trout bite is definitely on. As proof from left, Morgan Burns, Robert Wood and son Kyle.

Just remember, striking anything hard — even a sandbar — can cause even stainless to get out of round and possibly start a vibration. And if not corrected, can lead to big time problems for shafts, seals, gears and lower units. If any suspicion, don't hesitate to take it to a good shop for a check.

Four Blades or Three? Many flats guys like four blade props because of increased traction and lift which results in a quicker hole shot, and can keep the boat at plane at lower RPM.

I currently run a three blade on my Twin Vee simply because it's what came with my Suzuki and it performs for me quite fine. When I wear this one out I may opt for a four blade, we'll see. However, four-bladers cost considerably more than three-bladed ones and you lose a few mph at top end with them. It can be a personal preference thing. Three bladers have made a lot of anglers happy, but if budget is not really a factor you may want to spring for the extra blade. Here again, keep in mind the area we're in.

Hope this helps in some small way for a proper application.

Annie offers advice

Dear Annie: My slightly older brother and his spouse (in their mid-30s) are moving to Texas from California with their three toddler-aged children for no other reason than politics — politics to which no one else in the family subscribes.

I am unmarried and childless and have loved being “Auntie” from the moment these kids debuted. Actually, I moved back across the country after graduate school because I wanted to be a regular in their lives and not a “twice a year” relative. My parents are retiring within the year and were looking forward to being highly involved grandparents. My parents, my brother and I all live within 20 minutes of one another, and this move will bring our family life as we know it to an end. FaceTime is not a substitute for weekly hugs. Neither I nor my folks will be moving to join them as they hoped we would.

It wasn't up for discussion. The news was sprung on us suddenly and is in its final stage, and we never had the chance to say how having them live so close by has been an irreplaceable blessing. When they announced it, all I could muster to say was that I had no idea they were so unhappy here. I think I was too diplomatic in our initial conversation and responded by admitting that they needed to do what they believed was best for their family.

Our dilemma now is that if we tell them how much their close proximity means to us, they might stay and forever blame us for their unhappiness. Or, if we express our hurt, they may use this as a reason to not only leave but cut us out for good. How do we let them go and move forward with our lives while also communicating that their decision is truly devastating for those they are choosing to leave? If they stayed, we would have an established family of four living, loving generations in one place. I do not believe moving to Texas, where they know no one, will make them happy. I am willing to admit that I might be wrong. — California Brood

Dear California Brood: Tell your brother how you feel — not as an ultimatum, but in the spirit of honesty and vulnerability. Don't tell him what he should do; just tell him how you feel, and leave the decision up to him. Be sure to let him know that you will support whatever he decides. It sounds like your family comes first, and that is a beautiful and commendable thing. But not everyone has the same priorities. Perhaps your brother needs to spread his wings and leave the comfort of his hometown. Or perhaps his priority is his own family rather than the preferences of you and your parents. Part of being a family is supporting one another's goals, even if we don't necessarily agree with them. Besides, 1,500 miles has nothing on a strong family bond.

DEAR ANNIE

PHILLIP ADLER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

G.K. Chesterton wrote, “A good novel tells us the truth about its hero, but a bad novel tells us the truth about its author.”

A good trump split often makes life easy for the deal's hero, the declarer; but a bad split tells us the truth about the declarer's skill level.

In today's deal, how should South play in four spades? West leads the club ace, under which East plays the queen, showing the jack as well. (Here, he could not have a singleton.) West continues with the club king and another club.

South's two-club opening was strong, artificial and forcing. North's three-club rebid was the double negative showing a very bad hand. Regardless, South wasn't going to stay out of game with one of the best hands he had ever held.

“I did warn you, partner,” said the dummy as he tabled his cards.

After ruffing the third club, the declarer could have entered the dummy and taken a trump finesse, but he saw that there was little advantage in this play. It would be of benefit only if East had king-doubleton. A greater risk was a bad trump break.

South led the spade queen from his hand at trick four. If East had won with his king and played his last club, declarer would have ruffed with dummy's spade eight. Therefore, East ducked. But now South entered the dummy with a heart to the jack and took a trump finesse. When it won, he cashed the spade ace. The king didn't drop, but declarer claimed, stating that he would play his red-suit winners until East opted to ruff.
