Regas Woods' journey to the Tokyo Paralympics

SEAN ARNOLD Riverland News

DUNNELLON — When Regas Woods crosses the finish line in the Men's 200 meter at the Tokyo Paralympics Games on Saturday, he'll have his hometown of Dunnellon on his back.

'Coach Woods has got you guys on his back over here in Tokyo, and we're going to cross the finish line together," he said before one of his early-morning training sessions in Tokyo. "I'm doing it for D-Town."

Woods was specifically talking to the youngsters he coaches in Pop Warner football and the high school athletes he'll be coaching when he gets back from Tokyo. When Woods speaks to youth, the words land with extra authenticity.

The two-time Paralympian lost both his legs at age 2 due to a congenital anomaly. He went on to win more medals than he can count and a slew of national championships and international honors in track and field. Woods has done all of it with limited resources, relying on the good will of coaches and trainers and his own bottomless well of perseverance.

"I've got kids, and I want to show them you can do anything you put your mind to, no matter what," he said.

Woods is back for his second consecutive Paralympics at age 40, and he's never felt hetter

"Being at this age, I'm supposed to be out of track and field," Woods said from the Yokota Air Base in Japan. "But I'm getting faster, I'm getting stronger.'

Woods' history in the sport goes back to elementary school in Orlando, where he was introduced to the Junior Orange Bowl Sports Ability Games by his first coach, Jim Beach. Woods won hundreds of medals at the annual event, sparking a lifelong passion.

After attending an Orlando school which integrated children with disabilities with able-bodied students, he returned to Dunnellon, where his mother and grandparents all graduated.

After hard rains, Duke mulls design changes

MICHAEL D. BATES Staff writer

The Duke Energy Crystal River Energy Complex on Wednesday, Sept. 1, received about 6 inches of rain in a 12-hour period. As a result, two water collection systems at the Citrus Combined Cycle Station couldn't keep up with the rain and it overflowed for about two hours, said Duke spokeswoman Heather Danenhower. The overflow was contained within the site boundary. The station returned to normal operation after the rain stopped, and workers are now considering making changes to the systems' design so they can hold more water.

Danenhower said Duke reported the issue to the Florida State Watch Office and Florida Department of Environmental Protection. Meanwhile, evidence Wednesday's torrential rains continues to be seen throughout the county. Neighborhoods in Homosassa, Crystal River and inland areas are still experiencing ponding on roads and standing water. This year, Citrus County is on a pace to receive more than 60 inches of rain, according to Dr. Mark Fulkerson, chief professional engineer with the Southwest Florida Water Management District (SWFWMD).

Traffic is detoured around flooded-road conditions along West Homosassa Trail. Retention ponds are overfilled and much of the ground is saturated See RAINS/Page A6 leaving large areas of Homosassa, east of U.S. 19, soggy.

Parkland school shooting suspect can't be called 'animal,' judge says

No trial date set

FORT LAUDERDALE — The former student accused of murdering 17 people at a Florida high school cannot be called derogatory terms such as "animal" or "that thing" by prosecutors or their witnesses at his upcoming trial, but calling the killings "a massacre" is legitimate, the judge has ruled.

Scherer said in a ruling released Friday that it's impossible to create a complete list of words that jurors shouldn't hear to describe Nikolas Cruz when he's tried for the Feb. 14, 2018, killings at Marjory Stoneman

Douglas High in Parkland. She sided with Cruz's attorneys that calling him names like "animal" or "that thing" during tors that they testimony, as some victims' parents have done in media interviews, would cross the line. But she said the defense request this week that Cruz only be called by his name or "the defendant" goes too far. "Some words and terms the Defendant requests not to be used, such as in court. 'school shooter,' 'murderer,' or

'killer,' in and of themselves are not derogatory," Scherer wrote. 'They are normal words that Circuit Judge Elizabeth may be used to describe particular facts."

She also said that the request by Cruz's attorneys that the killings only be referred to as "the incident," the "mass shooting" or "the tragedy" also goes too far, saying terms like "massacre" are legitimate and not derogatory or inflammatory.

Still, she cautioned prosecumust act

Half-shredded Banksy could fetch over $5M at auction

LONDON — A Banksy artwork that sensationally self-shredded just after it sold for $1.4 million is up for sale again at several times the previous price.

Auctioneer Sotheby's said Friday that "Love is in the Bin" will be offered at a sale in London on Oct. 14. The piece has a presale estimate of 4 million pounds to 6 million pounds ($5.5 million to $8.3 million).

It consists of a half-shredded canvas bearing a spray-painted image of a girl reaching for a heart-shaped red balloon.

Then known as "Girl With Balloon," the work was sold at Sotheby's in October 2018. Just as an anonymous European buyer made the winning bid, a hidden shredder embedded in the frame by Banksy whirred to life, leaving half the canvas hanging from the frame in strips.

The buyer decided to go through with the purchase — a decision that would be vindicated if the picture achieves its estimated price.

Alex Branczik, Sotheby's chairman of Modern and Contemporary Art, described "Love is in the Bin" as "the ultimate Banksy artwork and a true icon of recent art history."

"Love is in the Bin' was born of the most spectacular artistic happening of the 21st century,' he said. "When 'Girl With Balloon' 'self-destructed' in our saleroom, Banksy sparked a global sensation that has since become a cultural phenomenon."

The artwork will travel and go on public display in London, Hong Kong, Taipei and New York ahead of its sale next month.

Art handlers at Sotheby's auction house hold Banksy's "Love is in the Bin" Friday, Sept. 3, before it returns to auction at Sotheby's, London. It will be offered at an Oct. 14 auction in London, with a pre-sale estimate of 4 million pounds to 6 million pounds ($5.5 million to $8.3 million)

Courts weigh in on masks and money

Recap and analysis of the week in state gov't and politics

RYAN DAILEY The News Service of Florida

Ready, set, stay.

Whether the state Department of Education and Education Commissioner Richard Corcoran can continue to impose financial penalties on school districts that enact mask mandates is in limbo while the legal battle over student mask requirements persists.

Leon County Circuit Judge John Cooper last week dealt a legal blow to Gov. Ron DeSantis and state education officials in a high-profile lawsuit challenging the governor's July 30 executive order seeking to bar local school districts from requiring students to wear masks in class. As part of an Aug. 27 verbal ruling, Cooper issued an injunction blocking the state Department of Education from enforcing DeSantis' order.

The department this week continued efforts to withhold funding to districts in an amount equal to the monthly salaries of school board members who voted to enact mask mandates. Education officials on Monday said that they began withholding funds from districts a day before Cooper's verbal ruling, arguing that the judge's written decision had not yet been published.

 $But \, on \, Thursday, Cooper \, is sued \,$ a written ruling that said DeSantis overstepped his constitutional authority when he issued the executive order.

'The law of Florida does not permit the defendants to punish school boards, its members, or officials for adopting face mask mandates with no parental optouts if the schools boards have been denied their due process rights under the Parents' Bill of Rights to show that this policy is reasonable and meets the requirements of the statute," Cooper wrote, citing a new state law that deals with parents' right to control health and educational decisions for their children.

Attorneys representing DeSantis' administration quickly filed an appeal Thursday, putting on hold Cooper's ruling against the state.

American Federation of Teachers President Randi Weingarten, left, bumps fists with a student during a visit at the New River Middle School, Thursday, Sept. 2, 2021, in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Weingarten is on a nationwide tour of schools to stress the importance of safely returning to five-day-aweek in person learning. Broward County is one of numerous school districts in Florida with a mask mandate for students.

legal wrangling.

Attorneys for parents who challenged the executive order fired back about four hours later by filing a motion requesting that Cooper issue an order vacating the automatic stay. If the request is granted, that could keep his ruling in effect during the appeal.

"If the automatic stay remains in place, plaintiffs will continue to face the increased risk of the delta variant infection, local schools boards will continue to face penalties from defendants from their (state officials') enforcement of the executive order. and local school boards will be faced with the choice of being subject to penalties issued by defendants or protecting plaintiffs, students and school staff by having the ability to issue mandatory mask mandates without parental opt-out," the motion said.

DeSantis on Wednesday expressed confidence that the 1st District Court of Appeal, which is stacked with judges appointed by Republican governors, will side with him. The governor said Cooper's ruling is "very vulnerable" to being overturned.

By Thursday, 13 school districts - representing more than half of the state's students — had moved forward with student mask mandates that allow exceptions only when parents present doctors'

SHOW ME THE DATA

While DeSantis defends his ex-legal battle over the state Department of Health's COVID-19 data reporting is brewing.

Rep. Carlos Guillermo Smith, D-Orlando, and the Florida Center for Government Accountability filed a lawsuit on Monday alleging the health department has violated public-records laws by refusing to provide detailed data about the COVID-19 pandemic.

The state agency until early June posted on its website daily reports that provided extensive data about issues such as cases and deaths, with information also broken down by county. But De-Santis' administration halted the daily reports in June and shifted to posting weekly information that is far less detailed.

Smith submitted a written request July 23 to the Orange County Health Department for daily information about COVID-19 cases, positivity rates, hospitalizations, deaths and vaccinations

Drew Love, legislative director for the Florida Department of Health, responded Aug. 9 and said the information Smith had requested was "considered confidential and exempt from public disclosure" under a state law and state rules.

The lawsuit disputed that the requested records are exempt from public release. The records do not include information identifying individual patients.

"The purpose of this action is to obtain critical records that the garding health care or condition department previously published of the child." — Leon County Cir-But that didn't slow down the ecutive order on masks in court, a daily on its website so that the cuit Judge John Cooper public will have knowledge of and the ability to scrutinize their government's response to the rampaging virus. This is the paramount goal of open government laws," the lawsuit said.

TAKE IT UP AT THE BALLOT BOX

DeSantis, meanwhile, scored a significant victory this week in other pandemic-related litigation.

Leon County Circuit Judge Lavne Smith on Monday upheld a decision by DeSantis' administration to cut off federal unemployment money for tens of thousands of Floridians in June, rejecting arguments that the move violated state law.

In an 18-page decision, Smith said DeSantis had the legal right to halt $300-a-week payments to Floridians from what is known as the Federal Pandemic Unemployment Compensation, or FPUC, program. DeSantis said stopping the payments was aimed at helping spur people to return to the workforce.

"This decision belongs solely to the state's chief executive." Smith wrote. "Ultimately, Governor De-Santis' strategy to promote reemployment by ending Florida's participation in the FPUC program is a political issue that the voters can approve or reject at the ballot box.'

The federal unemployment money stemmed from the stimulus law known as the CARES Act. Florida jobless people were able to receive $300 a week in federal money on top of the state's maximum $275 a week in unemployment benefits.

STORY OF THE WEEK

An appeal filed Thursday by Gov. Ron DeSantis' administration put on hold a Leon County circuit judge's ruling against the state in a battle over school mask mandates, but attorneys for a group of parents quickly requested that the ruling be allowed to take effect.

"We bleed Dunnellon," Woods said.

Woods commutes to Ocala for his training under Tony McCall at Trinity Catholic High School, where the first rubber track in the area was installed. He also trains at his sponsor Healthy Harts Fitness Gym.

"I've got to do what I've got to do," Woods said of finding support to remain one of the best in the world. "I don't have the funds to pay my coach like I need to. So (McCall) volunteers. He understands how it is. That's really going to be on my heart, to bless Coach.'

Among his many accomplishments, Woods is a seven-time national champion in three events, a three-time world championship team member, and a multiplemedal winner at the Pan-American Games. He competed in the long jump Aug. 28 in Tokyo, myself, 'It ain't about you, it ain't where he placed 10th, and is set to run in the 200 on Saturday, Sept. 3. The time of the event is 7:42 p.m. in Tokyo — 6:42 a.m. in Dunnellon. Coverage of the Games is on NBCSN, NBC and the Olympic Channel.

Woods is perhaps most proud of an event no one — except himself — believed he'd finish. During a race in Italy in 2019, one of Woods' running blades broke, sending him to the ground. He waved off assistance and insisted on finishing the race on one

"My exact words were, 'I'm good. Where I'm from, we don't quit, we don't lay down.' And I was talking about Dunnellon," Woods recalled. "I said, 'My other leg over here works.' And I got up and hopped probably 150 meters to finish the race."

The image of Woods hopping on one blade is a meme on Twitter with the accompanying caption: "What's your excuse?" Everybody in the stadium thought it was over for me, that I wasn't going to finish. I thought to about this race, you've got to get up and finish."

Woods is co-founder of the Never Say Never Foundation, which helps get running blades for athletes who can't afford them.

Woods is facing an extra challenge due to a new rules change that requires him to wear shorter prosthetics, which shorten his competing height to 5-foot-4. Woods said other athletes have left the sport due to the change.

"It increases my frequency, but you're not going anywhere," Woods said. "It's way tougher for me to run now. Running a 200 feels like running a 400 at that height."

Still, Woods won't allow the change to dictate his fate.

"Where I'm from, Dunnellon, we don't give up," he said. "It ain't over until I say it's over."

Woods' ultimate goal is to retire on U.S. soil at the 2028 Paralympic Games in Los Angeles, in front of family and friends. It sounds like a fairytale ending, but betting against Woods isn't wise.

Dunnellon's Regas Wood is a two-time U.S. paralympian. He will compete Saturday in the 200-meter stay healthy, hang on, to continue to make these teams," he said. "It seems like if I set my mind on something, it seems to happen in some kind of way.

'Some say 'hang the cleats up.' "It's a challenge to myself, to I'll hang my running blades up."

Kraft, former officials settle SEC charges for $62 million

WASHINGTON — Federal regulators said Friday that Kraft Heinz Co. will pay $62 million to settle charges of accounting wrongdoing that led the company to report overly rosy financial results, which were later corrected.

Two former senior executives of the food company agreed to pay civil penalties, the Securities and Exchange Commission said.

The SEC said that from late 2015 through 2018, Kraft boasted about cost savings that were actually unearned discounts and misleading reports about nearly 300 contracts with suppliers.

The company's claims were widely picked up by Wall Street analysts, the SEC said, but in 2019 Kraft restated its financial results to correct $208 million in improperly recognized cost savings.

The SEC alleged that Klaus Hofmann, Kraft's former chief procurement officer, approved improper contracts. The agency said former Chief Operating Officer Eduardo Pelleissone was given many warning signs that expenses were being manipulated but didn't address them and instead pressured the procurement division to hit unrealistic savings targets. Pelleissone also approved the company's financial statements.

Kraft did not admit or deny the SEC's findings but agreed to avoid future violations and pay a civil penalty, the SEC said. Pelleissone will pay a civil penalty of $300,000. and Hofmann will pay a $100,000 fine and be barred from serving as an officer or director of a public company for five years, the agency said.

Truck running 24 hours is annoying

I agree with the person in the (Aug. 20) Sound Off about appreciating the semi-truck drivers. I do appreciate them. I know some of them. My problem is I'm in a residential area, there's a store across the street from me and one of the truckers parks his truck there for a week, two weeks or whatever and leaves it running 24 hours a day, seven days a week. I can hear that truck in my house. If he's got refrigerated stuff in that truck, shouldn't it be getting to where it needs to be getting instead of sitting for a week? If he wants to running, that's fine. But I don't

This really irks me

It's driven me crazy for two years that every time Judge Richard Howard's name is in print, you add "Ric" in the mid> dle. Don't understand that. Maybe the new management could please get rid of that? No one needs it. I'd appreciate it. It drove me crazy. Thank you.

Editor's note: While the judge's given name is Richard, he goes by his nickname of "Ric."

A better location for the homes

Those Habitat homes that you put in Citrus Springs, you should have put them on East Citrus Springs Boulevard instead of being on Deltona Boulevard. ... It would have been a better choice.

Hot Corner: ACQUITTAL=

■ I'm calling in reference to (Thursday, Sept. 2's front-page story) "Judge acquits teens in killing." In my opinion, "Ric" Howard did the wrong thing acquitting those three teenagers, despite the fact that they couldn't find a bullet that went into that lady and wherever it landed. Those kids were in that field closest to the house. They were shooting and they matched up the spent casings of those guns. ... Now maybe the law says you can't do anything about it because there's really no physical evidence. ... No good will come from this.

■ I would like to say kudos to Judge Howard for acquitting the teens in the killing. I do not know the teens. They did not deserve to be found guilty. There was no intent for harm. They were teenagers. Teenagers are not children. Children are not teenagers, but they were not thinking, as 13- and 14-year-olds. My question is, does not the gun owner hold some responsibility for having the weapons where they could get them? I've been told you have to keep your weapon locked up away from anybody else that can get it and harm others. So the fact that he was at work, he should have secured the guns before he left.

- First, I want to give my condolences to Mr. Ryder in the loss of his wife. Secondly, I cannot believe the injustice that's being done to this family. I cannot see how they cannot convict those three kids out there shooting when nobody else was found and the shells matched the rifle. It does not make sense to me at all.
- I'm calling in about the Sept. 2 front page, that our judge acquitted the three boys. He needs to think this over again because those-aged boys aren't supposed to be having weapons. And he's dropped this shooting, so slapped them on their hands because, trust me, they're laughing at you. ... They've just been slapped on the wrist and turned loose to laugh you off.

- The acquittal of those teens in the killing of Mrs. Ryder is absolutely outrageous. They did the crime; they should have done the time. ... In any case, it is a horrendous decision.
- I'm responding to Sound Off about the trial on the three teens that killed the lady, even though it was manslaughter, accidental or whatever you want to call it. I worked in a prison and that's where they belong. They were negligent and they've got to be held accountable for their actions, bottom line.

Say no to this ordinance change

This is in regards to an ordinance change going before the Board of County Commissioners on Sept. 16. The change concerns two parcels equivalent to 118 acres that are on either side of an existing auto salvage yard on West Norvell Bryant or County Road 486.

This ordinance will change the existing zoning from low density residential to an open storage area for auto storage. There are many reasons to decline this change.

Salvage yards are inherently a hazardous waste producer. My concern is whether the wastewater and contaminants are being captured before they enter the soil, the stormwater runoff system or sewage and ultimately our water sources. Another reason is that the bike trail to Crystal River and the road and drive are a fairly nice one: however, the addition of 100 acres of auto wreckage/salvage will have a negative impact on those biking West Norvell Bryant (Highway) and those in autos coming into Citrus County heading to Crystal River. To be clear, the salvage yard currently in place is an eyesore of old rusted autos. There are car pieces scattered along the roadside at times in proximity of the current yard. There are semi trucks stopped in the highway median at times, which could create a traffic hazard.

I am not sure of the number of minimum wage jobs that would be created; however, considering the enormous environmental impact this will have and changing the aesthetic appearance so dramatically in such a negative way, I feel that this is not a good change to the current

What's good for me is not good for thee

Nature Coast EMS (NCEMS) is having serious financial issues. The board of county commissioners, rightfully so, asked for concrete numbers from NCEMS before agreeing to bail them out once again. The county has spent millions taking over their debt, paying insurance premiums, resolving ambulance issues, etc. Moreover, there are labor issues and new regulations coming down the pipeline that they should have anticipated, which will affect their obligations to properly serve our community. This comes to light one week before the budget cycle ends and, after the TRIM notices went out. The voting decision was tabled until Sept. 14.

The county could encourage another EMS provider to also service our community, or temporarily utilize Fire Rescue's certified professionals to provide greater support in this area. This could resolve their employee shortages and their employment retention issues. Unfortunately, this last solution has been rejected under previous administrations. What should be obvious here is that the county should stop bailing out NCEMS time and time again, and a permanent solution needs to happen. However, factually speaking, nothing is ever permanent with government.

The county is already $129.9 million in debt and counting. The most important question is: Where will permanent funding come from? This commission denied the sheriff his request for extra funding to keep citizens safe after raking him over the coals. They are now grilling NCEMS by demanding concrete numbers before bailing them out. However, it's ok to vote to borrow $7-11 million dollars to build an animal shelter without so much as knowing the cost, square footage, occupancy, etc. The only known variable is that taxpayers will be responsible for more debt.

How can this board be taken seriously when they do not apply the same standards to themselves as they demand of others?

Delay for boosters?

In this April 26 file photo, a nursing student administers the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine at a vaccination center at UNLV, in Las Vegas. Biden's plans to start delivering booster shots by Sept. 20 for most Americans who received the COVID-19 vaccines are facing new complications that could delay the availability of third doses for those who received the Moderna vaccine.

Third Moderna shot may not get approval by deadline

ZEKE MILLER Associated Press

WASHINGTON President Joe Biden's plans to start delivery of booster shots by Sept. 20 for most Americans who received the COVID-19 vaccines are facing new complications that could delay the availability of third doses for those who received the Moderna vaccine, administration officials said Friday.

Biden announced last month that his administration was planning for boosters to be available for all Americans who received the mRNA vaccines in an effort to provide more enduring protection against the coronavirus, pending approvals from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Food and Drug Administration agencies, Those though, are awaiting critical data before signing off on the third doses, with Moderna's vaccine increasingly seen as unlikely to make the Sept. 20 milestone.

According to one official, Moderna produced inadequate data for the FDA and CDC to recommend the third dose of its vaccine and FDA has requested additional data that is likely to delay those boosters into October. Pfizer, which is further along in the review process, in part because of data collected from the vaccine's use in Israel, is still expected to be approved for a third dose for all by Sept. 20. A key FDA panel is to review Pfizer's data on boosters on Sept. 17.

Efforts grow to stamp out use of parasite drug for COVID-19

WASHINGTON — Health experts and medical groups are pushing to stamp out the growing use of a decades-old parasite drug to treat COVID-19, warning that it can cause harmful side effects and that there's little evidence it helps.

With a fourth wave of infections, more Americans are turning to ivermectin, a cheap drug used to kill worms and other parasites in humans and animals.

Federal health officials have seen a surge in prescriptions this summer, accompanied by worrying increases in reported overdoses. The drug was even given to inmates at a jail in northwest Arkansas for COVID-19, despite federal warnings against that use. On Wednesday, podcaster Joe Rogan, who has been dismissive of the COVID-19 vaccine, announced he had tested positive for the virus and was taking the of ivermectin outside of FDA-approved indications and guidance," said the American Medical Association and two pharmacist groups.

Large studies are now underway in the U.S. and overseas to determine if the drug has any effect on preventing or blunting COVID-19.

The latest plea follows similar warnings from federal and state regulators who are tracking side effects and hospital admissions tied to the drug.

Louisiana and Washington issued alerts after an uptick in calls to poison control centers. Some animal feed supply stores have run out of the drug because of people buying the veterinary form to try and treat COVID-19.

"There's just not any good evidence right now suggesting this is a good treatment for treating or preventing COVID-19," said Randy McDonough, a pharmacist in Iowa City, Iowa Ivermectin is approved by the Food and Drug Administration to treat infections of roundworms and other tiny parasites in humans and animals like cows, horses and dogs. Tablets are used for internal parasites while ointments are used to treat head lice and other skin infections. The generic drug works by paralyzing the worms and killing their offspring.

The FDA has tried to debunk online claims that animal-strength versions of the drug can help fight COVID-19

"Taking large doses of this drug is dangerous and can cause serious harm," the FDA warned in a public advisory. The drug can cause nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, seizures, delirium and even death, said the agency.

Biden walks storm-ravaged Louisiana

wood. Off-kilter street signs. Less than a week after Hurricane Ida battered the Gulf Coast, President Joe Biden walked the streets of a hardhit Louisiana neighborhood on Friday and told local residents, "I know you're hurting, I know you're hurting."

Biden pledged robust federal assistance to get people back on their feet and said the government already had distributed $100 million directly to individuals in the state in $500 checks to give them a first slice of critical help. Many people, he said, don't know what help is available because they can't get cellphone service.

Residents welcomed Biden's presence, one of them drawing a sign with his last name and a heart for the dot on the "i." They laughed and posed for selfies.

More formally, Biden met with state and local officials in LaPlace, a community between the Mississippi River and Lake Pontchartrain that suffered major wind and water damage and was left with shearedoff roofs and flooded homes.

"I promise we're going to have your back," Biden said.

Arizona man who wore horns in riot pleads guilty

PHOENIX — An Arizona man who sported face paint, no shirt and a furry hat with horns when he joined the mob that stormed the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6 pleaded guilty Friday to a felony charge and wants to be released from jail while he awaits sentencing.

Jacob Chansley, who was widely photographed in the Senate chamber with a flagpole topped with a spear, could face 41 to 51 months in prison under sentencing guidelines, a prosecutor said. The man who called himself "QAnon Shaman" has been jailed for nearly eight months since his arrest.

Before entering the plea, Chansley was found by a judge to be mentally competent after having been transferred to a Colorado facility for a mental health evaluation. His lawyer Albert Watkins said the solitary confinement that Chansley faced for most of his time in jail has had an adverse effect on his mental health and that his time in Colorado helped him regain his sharpness.

U.S. District Judge Royce Lamberth is considering Chansley's request to be released from jail while he awaits sentencing, which is set for Nov. 17.

Lyft, Uber to cover drivers sued under Texas law

NEW YORK - Ridehailing companies Uber and Lyft said Friday they will cover the legal fees of any driver who is sued under the new law prohibiting most abortions in Texas.

The Texas law bans abortions once medical professionals can detect cardiac activity, usually around six weeks and often before women know they're pregnant. Rather than be enforced by government authorities, the law gives citizens the right to file civil suits and collect damages against anyone aiding an abortion — including those who transport women to clinics.

San Francisco-based Lyft said it has created a fund to cover 100% of the legal fees for drivers sued under the law while driving on its platform. Calling the Texas law "an attack on women's right to choose," Lyft also said it would donate $1 million to Planned Parenthood.

NZ police followed extremist who stabbed 6

WELLINGTON, New Zealand - New Zealand authorities were so worried about an extremist inspired by the Islamic State group that they were following him around the clock and were able to shoot and kill him within 60 seconds of him unleashing a knife attack that wounded six people Friday at an Auckland supermarket.

Three of the shoppers were taken to Auckland hospitals in critical condition, police said. Another was in serious condition, while two more were in moderate condition.

Prime Minister Jacinda Ardern described the violence as a terror attack. She said the man was a Sri Lankan national who was inspired by the Islamic State group and was well known to the nation's security agencies.

Ardern said she had been personally briefed on the man in the past but there had been no legal reason for him to be detained.

UK's vaccine chief says no to COVID jabs for children

LONDON — The U.K.'s vaccine advisors declined Friday to recommend the vaccination of healthy older children against COVID-19, saying the direct health benefits are "marginal." However, the British government said it may join others around the world in offering the vaccines after assessing wider societal issues.

In its analysis of whether the rollout of coronavirus vaccines should be expanded to children aged between 12 and 15, the Joint Committee on Vaccination and Immunisation concluded that the benefits are "marginally greater than the potential known harms."

With just two per million of healthy children needing intensive care treatment for COVID-19, the JCVI said the "margin of benefit, based primarily on a health perspective, is considered too small to support advice on a universal program."

US expects 50K Afghan refugees

BEN FOX AND ELLEN KNICKMEYER Associated Press

WASHINGTON — At least 50,000 Afghans are expected to be admitted into the United States following the fall of Kabul as part of an "enduring commitment" to help people who aided the American war effort and others who are particularly vulnerable under Taliban rule, the secretary of homeland security said Friday.

Tens of thousands of Afghans have already made it through security vetting and arrived in the U.S. to begin the process of resettlement. Exactly how many more will come and how long it will take remain open questions, DHS Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas said as he outlined Mayorkas and other Biden administration officials are providing the most detailed look to date at what began as a frantic and chaotic effort to evacuate U.S. citizens, permanent residents and Afghans before the Aug. 30 withdrawal of American troops and the end of the country's longest war.

Jack Markell, former governor of Delaware, will serve as coordinator of what the White House is calling "Operation Allies Welcome." He will work alongside the National Security Council, Domestic Policy Council, DHS, and other federal agencies "to ensure vulnerable Afghans who pass screening and vetting reviews are safely and efficiently resettled here in the United States," said Karine Jean-Pierre, the White House principal deputy press secretary. one," he told reporters. Nearly 130,000 were airlifted out of Afghanistan in one of the largest mass evacuations in U.S. history. Many of those people are still in transit, undergoing security vetting and screening in other countries, including Germany, Spain, Kuwait and Qatar.

Mayorkas said there have been some evacuees who have been stopped at transit countries because of "derogatory information," though he provided no details.

More than 40,000 have arrived in the U.S. so far. Mayorkas said about 20% are either U.S. citizens or permanent residents. CITRUS COUNTY CHRONICLE -

Nancy Kennedy GRACE NOTES

All things new

t my church we talk a lot about God making "all things

That's a promise from Revelation 21:5 where Jesus talks about the end of this world as we know it and our beginning of eternity with him, the ultimate do-over, with a new heaven and a new earth.

Whether that's a long way off or sooner than we think, from the beginning of time God has been at work in people's lives restoring the beauty that has been lost and/or broken.

It started in the Garden of Eden when man first sinned and brought division with God and pain and suffering into the world, passing them down throughout the generations.

God entered the garden, making the first move toward reconciliation, offering forgiveness and redemption, even before the man asked for

That says something important about our God.

The man, Adam, did not ask God for forgiveness first; God offered it

God comes to us. He makes the first move.

The apostle John wrote, "We love him, because he first loved us" (1 John 4:19).

God, who created beauty, who created us so he could share beauty with us, has always moved toward us in the middle of the chaos we bring upon ourselves and each other, taking our brokenness and using it to make something beautiful.

Here's great comfort: Because God is not limited by time and space, he's always known from before forever even began what would break and how he would redeem it and repurpose it, how he would work everything together ultimately for good "for those who love him and are called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28).

He is making all things new. In 2011, a tsunami in Japan killed nearly 20,000 people. In their grief, a group of women cleared out debris in a field of a coastal city where they found colorful shards of broken pottery, remains from the city's

The women took the broken pieces of teacups and rice bowls, washed them and fashioned them into jewelry.

That turned into a cottage business for women, most who lost loved ones, their homes and their livelihoods in the tsunami.

Each woman named her own line of jewelry, often after someone who had died in the disaster.

The jewelry is still sold as part of the Nozomi Project (www.nozomiproject.com). Nozomi in Japanese means hope.

Even though jewelry doesn't bring back a lost loved one, it is a picture of how God can take lives shattered through disaster and tragedy, or even brokenness of our own making, and make something new and lovely, something beautiful.

This morning I Googled "all things new" and found several songs and books of that title, a church with that name and an All Things New addiction recovery program for women. There's something in us that longs for something new.

That is our hope. Not that all things will get better, but that Jesus will one day make all things new.

People we love die. Storms and fires and unspeakable violence destroy communities and nations, but God promises his people that he will turn our mourning into joy and our sorrow into dancing.

We are a broken people, broken by sin and rebellion. But God comes to us with a promise of his grace for all who want it.

Behold," he says, "I am making all things new."

DiLiegghios earn Knights' honor

Special to the Chronicle

Rolando and Elizabeth DiLiegghio of Citrus Hills were named the Knights of Columbus Council 6168 July Familv of the Month.

"Rolando and Elizabeth take responsibility and run with it,' Grand Knight Mike Belkin said. "As we recover from the COVID pandemic, they are ready to go again, resuming activities like Sunday night dancing.

'I cannot say enough about theirs being the kind of energy we need throughout our community," Belkin said.

Rolando has been a Knight since 2007. He is a fourth degree Knight and member of the local area's Francis Cardinal Spellman Assembly 1547.

He spent seven years as a director of the AFS corporation that owns and manages upkeep of property used by council 6168. In addition to his management responsibilities during that time, Rolando remodeled the bathroom in the council hall.

Elizabeth sings in the choir at Our Lady of Grace Church and is also a cantor. She is a member of the Ladies Auxiliary.

The couple were the council's Family of the Year twice. Once in 2012 and again in 2017.

have offered to resume hosting monthly hospitality coffee sessions after Sunday masses at Our Lady of Grace Church.

Before the pandemic, they ran Sunday night dancing in the Knights' hall and plan to start it up again on Oct. 3.

Rolando was born in France and grew up in Italy. At 17, he went back to Paris and from there came to Detroit, Michigan on a visa.

He initially worked in building construction but switched to cabinet making and established Custom Cabinet and Remodel Company. He ran this company until retiring in 1992 and moving to Lee County, Florida.

The DiLiegghios moved to Citrus Hills in 2006.

Rolando is particularly proud of the two houses he built "from the footings up" and another two that he remodeled.

Rolando and Elizabeth met on a blind double date in the early 1960s and they continued to double date for a couple of months because Rolando spoke only Italian.

They married 57 years ago in Madison Heights, Michigan and have four daughters, five grandsons, two granddaughters and two great-grandsons.

Seven Rivers Christian 28, Cornerstone Charter 6 The Villages 49, Crystal River 7 Tavares 30, Lecanto 10 (Thursday)

Sloppy Warriors win 28-6

Penalties, poor play anger Seven Rivers Christian

> CHRIS BERNHARDT JR. Staff writer

LECANTO — Perhaps it's a sign of progress that Seven Rivers Christian can win by three scores and still feel so disappointed.

But the Warriors weren't too interested in putting a positive spin on their performance at Warrior Park on Friday night. The final scoreboard said they rolled to a 28-6 victory over Cornerstone Charter Academy. The mood around the team after the game told a different story.

'We played horribly. That was the worst we ever played," Seven Rivers head coach Monty Vann said. "It was apathetic. It was piss poor. Couldn't execute a thing. It was bad. It was bad all the way around, from quarterback play to line play, it was bad.

"There's no excuses. We just played bad. We sucked it up and we need to grow up. Our guys are treating it like a loss. I said, 'Don't you dare treat this thing like a win. Don't you dare celebrate this.' It's bad. It's just bad football.

Coming off a dominant 41-6 win over Trinity Christian last week, the Warriors (2-0) felt like a big favorite against the Ducks, who hadn't played in a game since the end of last season when they finished 0-6. They didn't play in the preseason or Week 1 due to COVID-19 issues.

Seven Rivers almost exclusively attempts onside kicks on kickoffs, and did so successfully to open the game. But the Warriors fumbled the ball away on the very first play from scrimmage, a sign of things to come.

Cantlay holding on

Keeps lead at East Lake as Rahm has 65 to close gap

DOUG FERGUSON AP golf writer

ATLANTA — For the second day in a row, no one had a better score than Jon Rahm at the Tour Championship. That's just what he needed to make up ground on Patrick Cantlay going into a weekend chase for $15 million.

Rahm birdied his last three holes Friday for a 5-under 65. Cantlay birdied his last two holes for a bogey-free 66 to keep one shot ahead.

It's not quite a two-man race for the FedEx Cup with 36 holes still to play at East Lake, though it was shaping up as a possibility. Bryson DeChambeau was the next closest player, and his 67 lost ground Friday. He was six shots behind.

We definitely feed off each other," Rahm said. "And that's probably why you see the difference in the scoreboard right now."

Cantlay looked as though he was protecting a lead, often playing to the fat of the green. That was more a product of showing respect to an East Lake course that punishes even slight misses on the wrong side of the hole. He hit 16 of 18 greens, and only twice did he have par putts from about the 5-foot range.

"I'm playing really well, and I think I'm playing the golf course the right way," Cantlay said.

Cantlay started the Tour Championship at 10-under par because he was the No. 1 seed in the FedEx Cup. Rahm began four shots back.

Asked if the idea was to chip away at the lead, Rahm replied, "What other strategy is there?"

"As soon as we teed off, that didn't matter," he said of the four-shot deficit. "There's a lot

COLLEGE FOOTBALL CAPSULES

Florida Atlantic (0-0) at No. 13 Florida (0-0), today at 7:30 p.m. (SEC Network) Line: Florida by 23 1/2,

Sportsbook Series record: Florida

according to FanDuel leads 3-0 WHAT'S AT STAKE?

Florida begins life without Heisman Trophy finalist Kyle Trask, All-American tight end Kyle Pitts and dynamic receiver Kadarius Toney. The trio made the Gators hum offensively last season, when they averaged 39.8 points a game. Quarterback Emory Jones, tight end Kemore Gamble and receiver Jacob Copeland have huge cleats to fill in Gainesville and will get a chance to shine against Florida Atlantic, which enters its second season under ex-Florida State coach Willie Taggart and its first with Miami graduate transfer N'Kosi Perry at quarterback. KEY MATCHUP

Florida's defensive front vs FAU's experienced offensive line. The Gators have a seemingly endless rotation of pass rushers led by Zach Carter, Brenton Cox, Jeremiah Moon and Khris Bogle. They could be challenged against a FAU unit that has combined 123 collegiate starts, including 35 for center Nick Weber and 33 for right tackle BJ Etienne.

No. 14 Miami (0-0) vs. No. 1 Alabama (0-0), today at 3:30 p.m. (ABC) Line: Alabama by 19 1/2, according to FanDuel Sportsbook.

Series record: Alabama leads 14-3. WHAT'S AT STAKE? Alabama is seeking a 20th consecutive season-opening win. It has not been even a game under .500 since the end of the 2006 season, when the Tide finished 6-7. Nick Saban took over as coach the following season. For Miami, the game represents a chance for arguably the program's biggest win in 20 years.

KEY MATCHUP Alabama's defense against a Miami offense led by QB D'Eriq King and a veteran offensive line with a collective 159 career starts. The Hurricanes returned 10 offensive starters. The Crimson Tide is led defensively by preseason All-American Will Anderson Jr. and fellow linebackers Christian Harris and Henry To'oTo'o, a Tennessee transfer. Alabama had 21 sacks in the final five games last season.

Rays top Twins 5-3

MARK DIDTLER Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG — Michael Wacha struck out seven over six innings, Kevin Kiermaier had an RBI triple during a three-run second and the Tampa Bay Rays beat the Minnesota Twins 5-3 on Friday

The AL East-leading Rays had lost two straight following a ninegame winning streak.

Wacha (3-4) gave up two runs and three hits, including two homers. He was 0-2 with a 6.99 ERA in his previous eight starts.

Andrew Kittredge, the third Tampa Bay reliever, worked the ninth to get his sixth save.

Jorge Polanco and Ryan Jeffers homered for the Twins. Randy Dobnak (1-7), making his first start since June 19 after being sidelined by a right middle finger strain, allowed five runs and six hits over seven innings. The righthander retired his final 15 batters. Austin Meadows doubled leading off the second, went to third on a wild pitch and came home on Randy Arozarena's broken-bat grounder. Kiermaier hit his triple and scored to make it 3-1 on Yandy Díaz's grounder. Nelson Cruz, acquired from Minnesota in July, had a runscoring double, and Meadows picked up his 94th RBI with a single that put Tampa Bay ahead 5-1 in the third.

Polanco connected on his career-high 25th homer in the first. Only Chili Davis, with 29 in 1991, has more homers as a switch-hitter in a season in Twins history.

Jeffers had a fifth-inning solo drive. Polanco got the Twins within 5-3 in the eighth on an RBI double down the left-field line that Meadows appeared to over slide.

WANDER-LESS

Rays SS Wander Franco didn't play, one day after leaving Thursday's game against Boston with a headache.

Tampa Bay manager Kevin Cash said tests were negative and anticipates the 20-year old will be back within a game or two.

UP NEXT

Rays: RHP Chris Archer (0-1) will make his third start after missing four months with right forearm tightness.

Twins: LHP Andrew Albers (1-0) will start Saturday and is coming off a win over Milwaukee on Aug. 27 in his first start since Sept. 30, 2017 with Seattle.

THIS DATE IN BASEBALL

1916 — Longtime pitching rivals Christy Mathewson and Mordecai Brown closed their careers, by special arrangement, in the same game. Mathewson won the game 10-8.

1923 — Sam Jones of the New York Yankees pitched a 2-0 no-hitter against Philadelphia Athletics without striking out a batter. New York's Babe Ruth had the only strikeout of the game.

1927 — Lloyd and Paul Waner became the first brothers to hit home runs in the same game, leading Pittsburgh to an 8-4 win over Cincinnati. Both homers came off Dolf Luque in the fifth inning, the only time in major league history brothers did it in one inning. Lloyd led off the inning with his second home run of the season, and a batter later Paul hit his ninth of the year. Both were bounce home runs, allowed until 1931; now ground-rule doubles.

1928 — The Boston Braves started a grueling string in which they played nine straight doubleheaders, a major league record.

1941 — The New York Yankees clinched the pennant on the earliest date in baseball history with a 6-3 victory over Boston.

1985 — Gary Carter hit two solo homers to tie a major league record and singled in another run to lead the New York Mets to a 9-2 victory over San Diego. Carter's feat followed a three-homer performance the night before as he became the 11th player in major league history to hit five home runs in two games.

1993 — Jim Abbott threw the New York Yankees' first no-hitter in 10 years, leading them to a 4-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

1995 — Robin Ventura became the eighth player in major league history and the first in 25 years — to hit two grand slams in one game as the Chicago White Sox beat Texas 14-3.

1998 — The New York Yankees reached 100 wins on the earliest date in major league history — five days before the 1906 Chicago Cubs and 1954 Cleveland Indians — with an 11-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

2002 — The Oakland Athletics set an AL record by winning their 20th straight game. They somehow blew an 11-run lead before pinch-hitter Scott Hatteberg homered in the bottom of the ninth inning to beat Kansas City 12-11. Oakland broke a three-way tie for the longest winning streak in AL history with the 1906 Chicago White Sox and the 1947 New York Yankees.

2017 — J.D. Martinez tied a major league record by hitting four home runs and the Arizona Diamondbacks routed the Los Angeles Dodgers 13-0 for their 11th straight victory. Martinez became the 18th player in major league history to hit four homers in a game, and the 16th in the modern era.

AP sources: UCF among schools Big 12 wants

The Big 12 is moving quickly on an expansion plan that could have the conference at 12 schools after Texas and Oklahoma leave, with BYU, Central Florida, Cincinnati and Houston as the "most intriguing" candidates.

Three people familiar with the Big 12's talks said Friday the eight schools being left behind by the Longhorns and Sooners are working to rebuild by adding four new members.

Two of the people said there were reaularly scheduled meetings planned for Big 12 university presidents and athletic directors in the coming days to discuss next steps, and another meeting of presidents was expected to take place late

One person said invitations to new members could go out as soon as next week.

The people spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the Big 12 was not making its internal discussions public.

Virginia Tech holds off No. 10 North Carolina

BLACKSBURG. Va. - Braxton Burmeister ran for a touchdown and threw for another and Virginia Tech made Sam Howell look pedestrian in a 17-10 victory over No. 10 North Carolina on Friday night in the opener for both teams.

Burmeister scored on a 4-yard run and found James Mitchell for an 11-vard scoring strike as the Hokies built a 14-0 lead they took into halftime.

Howell, who'd thrown eight touchdown passes in two prior games against Virginia Tech, was sacked six times and intercepted three times.

Charlotte tops Duke for first win over Power 5

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Chris Reynolds threw for 324 yards with three touchdowns, including an 11-yard scoring strike to Shadrick Byrd with 33 seconds left and Charlotte knocked off Duke 31-28 on Friday night for the school's first ever win against a Power 5 team. Victor Tucker had eight catches for 133 yards and Greg DuBose, a transfer from Division II Miles College, caught four passes for 128 yards and two touchdowns for the 49ers, who avenged a 53-19 loss to the Blue Devils last season. The 49ers overcame a Duke school-record 255 yards rushing and three touchdowns from running back Ma-

UCF rallies to beat Boise State on Thursday 36-31

ORLANDO — Isaiah Bowser rushed 172 yards, including the go-ahead touchdown with a little over four minutes remaining, and UCF rallied from a 21-point deficit to beat Boise State 36-31 on Thursday night in a game that began almost three hours late because of lightning-caused delays.

Boise State stormed out to a 21-0 lead before UCF cut the margin to 24-14 by halftime and scored two touchdowns in the third quarter to take its first lead.

UCF backup safety Dyllon Lester made a game-sealing interception with

After throwing a 100-yard pick-6 to Tyric LeBeauf — the longest in Boise State history — in the first quarter, Dillon Gabriel led scoring drives to end and begin the half. He threw for four 318 yards and four touchdowns, while being picked off twice by LeBeauf. Jaylon Robinson made six catches for 140 yards and a score for UCF.

De La Hoya pulls out of fight, says he has COVID

LOS ANGELES — Oscar De La Hoya's return to the ring will have to wait after the fighter said he tested positive for COVID-19.

The 48-year-old De La Hoya was scheduled to fight on Sept. 11 against former MMA fighter Vitor Belfort in a payper-view event at Staples Center in Los Angeles. It would have been his first fight since being stopped by Manny Pacquiao in 2008.

The former boxing champion posted a video online Friday of himself in a hospital bed, saying he caught the virus despite being fully vaccinated.

Their second drive went 97 yards on nine plays, concluding with a 34-vard touchdown pass, a 5-vard out from Nehemiah Vann that Carmelo Cordero caught and ran down the right sideline. Not until 2:46 left in the half did Seven Rivers finally score again, on a 2-yard quarterback keeper that Vann punched in on his second effort.

Brent Summers tacked on an 8-yard touchdown run at 4:50 in the third quarter, part of a night when he carried the ball 18 times for 138 yards. Nehemiah Vann connected with Mario Aguilera on a 4-yard scoring strike to make it 28-0 with 1:37 to go in

The usually prolific passing attack of Seven Rivers was stymied for much of the night, though, with Vann completing 8 of 18 passes for 127 yards. At least three touchdowns for the Warriors were called back to due to penalties, as the team was flagged 12 times overall. However, the Ducks had nowhere near enough firepower to take advantotal offense and attempted just two passes — one of them intercepted by Cordero on the final play of the first half.

Crystal River falls at The Villages

Facing a playoff team from Sumter County for the second week in a row, Crystal River dropped to 0-2 on the season with a 49-7 loss at The Villages on Friday night. The Buffaloes went up 21-0 by the end of the first quarter, before the Pirates finally got on the board with a touchdown by Joel Velazquez. But The Villages rolled from there, building a 42-7 advantage by halftime a week after knocking off Lecanto. - From staff reports

The other was a trick play. Jon Luke Vantresca took the snap and found Ian Tirado open over the middle for a 16-yard touchdown pass as 6.8 seconds remained in the game. "I think it's good that these guys, performance-wise, they know it was bad," Coach Vann said. "As you saw them walk off the field you could tell just by their body language, they knew they played a bad game. So we've got a lot to fix. We're going to have a good week of practice. "Here's what I believe is the biggest tage. They were limited to 73 yards of thing to us losing this game — because to me, I treat it like a loss — we had no passion. We didn't play for each other. We didn't have passion for each other

And we're treating it like a loss.

The reason for Cantlay's pre-tournament advantage was because of last week at Caves Valley. Cantlay and Rahm played in the final threesome, along with DeChambeau, going into the weekend at the BMW Championship. Cantlay finished 66-66 and won in a playoff.

gree, feels normal now. Cantlay was at 17 under. He and Rahm will be in the final group again. DeChambeau had more work to do, as did Justin Thomas, who made two mistakes with five bogeys in his round of 69, leaving him in the large group at 9 under. So did Jordan Spieth. He was going for his fourth straight birdie to get right in the mix, facing a 10-foot putt on the 13th hole. He three-putted, lost momentum and shot a 67. Spieth, Rory McIlroy (66) and Louis Oosthuizen (67) were at 8 under.

Gone are the low scores from the opening FedEx Cup playoff events, at rain-soaked Liberty Natitonal and Caves Valley, where players at each course had a putt at 59. The best anyone has managed at East Lake, still slightly soft from rain and a light breeze, had been a 65. bogeys and failed to birdie the par-5

So it's tougher for players to make up a lot of ground unless the leaders come back, and there has been little ally a lead that's safe with how tough indication Cantlay and Rahm are

117 69 117 Law & Order 'PG'

You are enjoying your breakfast, drinking white tea, munching on hot whole-grain toast and marmalade, reading the paper. Suddenly the phone rings. You jump, then reach for the receiver. "Good morning."

"Hi." You recognize the voice of your uncle. He knows you have had some success at the game, but he secretly thinks that he plays better than you. He calls only when he has a tough problem to set you.

Law & Order 'PG' @

While your tea and toast go cold, you write down the North-South cards in today's diagram. Before you can protest about the bidding, your uncle tells you that West leads the heart ace, then the heart king. You ruff and cash two top trumps, East discarding the club jack on the second.

Law & Order 'PG'

"How would you continue, Nephew?"

At least you have a chance to return to your breakfast while you think. Clearly East has the club ace; otherwise, West would have opened the bidding.

You have two major-suit losers and must avoid two club losers. This requires discarding three of your clubs on dummy's diamonds before West can ruff in with the spade jack and lead a club through dummy's king.

There is only one way to do that: Assume West has four diamonds.

"Right, Uncle, I cash the spade queen and diamond king. Then I lead the diamond eight and finesse dummy's 10."

Immediately the line goes dead. Now you know that the 10 wins, allowing you to cash the diamond ace-queen, discarding clubs while West has to follow suit impotently. West ruffs the diamond five, but you have discarded your penultimate club loser. Contract made.

Annie offers advice ear Annie: I am a 75-year-old woman in good health, and I've been married for 54 years. I have wonderful children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

My problem is that many lifelong friends and most of my family members don't seem to want to maintain a relationship with me. When I contact them, t h e y s e e mglad to hear from me, but the for past three or f o u r years. there has been no effort on their part to keep in touch with me.

My siblings and I have always been very close and shared things going on with our children and grandchildren. My siblings still talk to each other often, and my one sister-in-law keeps me informed about what's happening in the family. I love my family and friends, but I am about ready to give up on those who don't seem to want to have a relationship with me.

I have asked a couple of family members whether they have a problem with me, and they deny there are any issues. I think they probably love me, but for some reason don't like me.

I have examined my actions and spoken to a counselor and simply cannot find a reason for their distance. Any suggestions? — Feeling Rejected

Dear Feeling Rejected: You've done all the right things so far by talking to your family about this and consulting a counselor. You mention this has happened only in the past few years, which leads me to think it may just be because everyone's busy with children and grandchildren of their own. Or it could be because the advent of social media has made us lazier about reaching out in general. We check our Facebook feeds and feel content that we know what's going on in loved ones' lives.

on in loved ones' lives.

Regardless of the reason, your recourse is the same: Get out there in your community and make new friends. Volunteer at a local shelter. Join a book club. Start a neighborhood walking group. And be doubly thankful for all the people in your life who are always there for you. You'll be half as bothered by those who aren't.

Dear Annie: The letter you printed from "To Let It Go or Not," about an old friend's bringing up the time years before when he accidentally walked in on the letter writer's husband with a naked girl, really burned my buns.

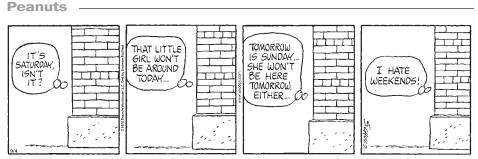

Believe me, the "friend" didn't just accidentally let that info slip. Chances are he deliberately brought up the undesirable incident of the past to throw a monkey wrench into their happy marriage.

I have seen this done hundreds of times by family members who bring up wrongdoings of other siblings in front of their children, by co-workers who can't wait to expose a mistake that otherwise would have gone unnoticed by others, by friends who embarrass others under the guise of joking. It makes me sick to think that these people are so inwardly miserable and insecure that they need to rain on someone else's happiness.

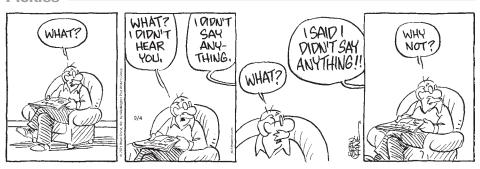

Shame on this "friend" for stooping so low as to try to deliberately hurt their marriage. Shame on the wife for permitting him to steal their happiness. At least now they can recognize this "friend" for what he really is: a jerk! — Living Happily Without Those Kinds of Friends

Dear LHWTKF: Well, that's an aspect of that letter I hadn't considered. Thanks for sharing your experience. I'd like to think there aren't that many false friends and saboteurs out there, but you never know.

How to Avoid a Fake Check Scam

INSIST ON CASH

shouldn't have to pay to get it.

• Don't accept a check for more than the selling price. You can bet it's a scam.

· Inform the Buyer that you'll wait two weeks before sending any merchandise.

 Never use money from a check to send gift cards, money orders, or wire money to strangers or someone you just met. Many scammers demand that you send money through money transfer services like Western Union or MoneyGram, or buy gift cards and send them the PIN numbers. Once you wire money, or give someone the gift card PINs, it is like giving someone cash. It's almost impossible to get it back.
