plan your visit ...

State, federal and non-profit groups are encouraging people to plan ahead at ReadySetGorge.com before they head out to the Columbia River Gorge National Scenic Area.

Increased visitation puts increased pressure on the Gorge's limited resources. If you're planning a trip to our region, please help keep our communities safe by following CDC and local health guidelines and respecting the requests of individual businesses. Always have a Plan B and a Plan C in case your destination is too crowded or closed. When recreating on trails, bring a face covering and maintain at least 6 feet of distance from other hikers and bikers.

Reservations are also now required at Multnomah Falls, the Gorge's most popular destination.

In order to improve safety and congestion, all visitors to Multnomah Falls (including children under 2 years) now require a reservation. Reserve your tickets at rec.gov. There is a $1 administrative fee for each ticket. Your ticket reservation does not guarantee you a parking space but if you arrive by car you must have a reservation ticket to visit the falls. If you arrive by transit, you do not need to make a reservation: Simply show you ticket from the Columbia Gorge Express, your Gorge Pass, or receipt from the hop on/hop off services along the Historic Highway (Sasquatch Shuttle or Water Fall Trolley).

Cars are only allowed to Access Multnomah Falls and the Historic Lodge from the Interstate 84 parking lot at Exit 31. Parking or stopping in front of the Lodge on the Historic Columbia River Highway is not permitted. Reservations are not needed prior to 9 a.m. or after 6 p.m.

The readysetgorge.com also maintains an updated listing of public lands recreation site status, the link can be found on the home page.

Additional information is abundant, including car-free itineraries, bike itineraries and guided tours.

Visitors should also check the website for timely warnings and closures based on weather; extreme fire conditions and drought can result in prohibition of campfires in the National Scenic Area and closures of surrounding locations in summer; extreme winter weather can close highways and access points in winter.

The website was developed by Friends of the Columbia Gorge, the Oregon Tourism Commission, Travel Oregon, the U.S. Forest Service and Oregon Department of Transportation and is designed for people planning to drive, hike or bike the Gorge.

In addition to specific information on popular Gorge sites, the website includes a comprehensive listing of information sources under the "Resources" tab, as well as current news and recommended precautions.

A natural border between Oregon and Washington, the Columbia River Gorge National Scenic Area encompasses nearly 300,000 acres of ecological, recreational, cultural and historical attractions.

The Gorge is immensely popular. "To avoid crowds, arrive early, come mid-week, or visit trails further east. One of the most important things you can do is plan ahead — and there are some great resources on basic steps to prepare at ReadySetGorge.com," said Rachel Pawlitz, public affairs officer for the U.S. Forest Service.

Heavy traffic — by car, boat, bicycle or foot — can have negative impacts, and visitors are encouraged to help protect the Gorge by carrying out trash, refraining from picking wildflowers and staying on designated trails.

Although maintained and updated regularly, even ReadySetGorge.com may be unable to keep up with closures, mandates and restrictions relating to the COVID-19 pandemic, especially those related to private attractions and services. Visitors are encouraged to call ahead to check for current restrictions in addition to having alternative plans in place should a favorite location be unavailable — but don't disrepair, the Gorge has a lot to offer and a fresh favorite will certainly be found.

D R I V E

From intimate views to sweeping panoramas, lush forest and farmland to arid high desert, the Columbia River Gorge has something for everyone and these byways and backroads will help you explore the best of it — or grab a map and stick a pin in it. There are no wrong turns in the Gorge.

Columbia Gorge Loop

Dramatic views of the western Gorge from Crown Point and Cape Horn, and of the eastern Gorge from Highway 14. Take a side trip on the Columbia River Historic Highway between Corbett and Ainsworth Park for a look at some of the most spectacular waterfalls around, including misty and majestic Multnomah Falls. From Troutdale, follow the Columbia River Scenic Highway east to Ainsworth State Park, then continue eastbound along Interstate 84 past Hood River to The Dalles. Cross The Dalles Bridge and head west on Highway 14 through Lyle, Bingen, Stevenson, North Bonneville and Camas to Interstate 205. Cross the Columbia River on Interstate 205 (Glenn Jackson Bridge) to Interstate 84, then return east to Troutdale.

Mount Adams Loop

Scenic, backcountry route to the foothills of Mount Adams and the Klickitat River Canyon. From Bingen, follow Highway 141 north through White Salmon, Husum and BZ Corners to Trout Lake. Then head east on the Goldendale-Glenwood Road through Glenwood, down the Klickitat River Canyon toward Goldendale. After you've climbed out of the canyon, head right back into it again by traveling south on Highway 142 to Klickitat and Lyle. At Lyle, head west on Highway 14 back to Bingen.

Mount Hood Loop

Dramatic views of Mount Hood and the scenic Hood River valley. From Hood River, follow Highway 35 south through the community of Mt. Hood to the junction with Highway 26, then west on Highway 26 through Zigzag, Welches and Brightwood to Gresham. From Gresham, head north to Interstate 84 and the return trip to Hood River. To extend the trip, take a side trip from Government Camp, going up the mountain to historic Timberline Lodge.

East Side Loop

Broad vistas of wide open wheatfields, Deschutes River Canyon and juniper rangelands of the eastern Cascades. From The Dalles, head south on Highway 197 through Dufur, Tygh Valley and Maupin to the junction with Highway 97. Then go northeast on Highway 97 to the historic community of Shaniko, continuing north through Grass Valley and Moro to Biggs Junction and Interstate 84 for the return journey westbound to The Dalles. Worthwhile extensions to this loop may be made by traveling farther south on Highway 97 to the Highway 216 junction, then back north through Antelope to Shaniko. Or, keep traveling south on Highway 97 to Madras, then follow Highway 26 northwest to Warm Springs and the junction with Highway 216. Follow Highway 216 east to Highway 197 near Maupin and the return journey north to The Dalles.

Shorter Routes

Rowena Loops

These offer spectacular driving on the eastern end of the Historic Columbia River Highway. Start at Mosier and head East on Hwy 30 or The Dalles and head West on Hwy 30 for a combination of up-close and panoramic views that regularly draw car companies to film their commercials. For variety, loop back on the State Road-Sevenmile Hill route for spectacular panoramas of both the eastern and central Columbia Gorge.

Dalles Mountain Road

An unpaved route through a working cattle ranch, deeded by its last owners to the state of Washington. The ranch is now part of Columbia Hills State Park and the ranch house is a departure point for hikes and offers occasional historical and interpretive programs. The rugged road itself travels through spectacular viewing for wildflowers and wildlife. At the crest of the Columbia Hills it meets up with paved roads toward Centerville and Goldendale. From Interstate 84, turn north at The Dalles Exit 85 onto Highway 197, turn right at the junction of 197 and Washington Highway 14, then take the next left.

Hood River Fruit Loop

A picturesque trip through the orchard country of rural Hood River County. From I-84 take the Hood River Bridge exit, travel south on Highway 35 to the community of Mount Hood, turn right through Parkdale and take the Dee Highway back to Hood River.

H I K E

It's hard to imagine any location with more hiking trails per square mile than the Gorge. From short, tree-lined strolls with family to rugged ridge treks, you'll find something to meet all tastes.

Washington

Dog Mountain Trail #147

Rated: Most difficult.

Length: 3.1 miles with 2,800-foot elevation gain. Premier wildlife and flower hike in May through early June. Watch out for poison oak on the lower reaches, and pack a windbreaker.

Access: Trailhead 13 miles east of Steven-son on Washington Hwy. 14. Same trailhead leads to Augsberger Trail #4407, an eight-mile route gaining 3,050 feet. Northwest Forest Pass required.

Weekend permits required and parking restrictions apply. For more information: fs.usda.gov/goto/crgnsa/hikedogmountain

Sam Walker Trail #4402

Rated: Easy, universal access hike suitable for all seasons. Length: 1.1 miles with elevation gain of 60 feet.

Views of the Columbia River and Horsetail Falls. Trailhead 10 miles west of Bonneville Dam on Washington Highway 14.

Access: Turn south on Skamania Landing Road and proceed one-quarter mile to parking lot on west side of the road. Northwest Forest Pass required.

Catherine Creek

Rated: Easy.

Length: Several choices, including a 1.5-mile paved, handicapped-accessible path on the south side of the road with waterfall viewpoint, interpretive signs, benches and a stand of old-growth white oak along the way. Unpaved, limited-access trails north of the road. Rolling, open countryside abounds with wildflowers in the early spring. Located off old highway above Washington Hwy. 14 between Bingen and Lyle.

Access: From Bingen, turn north at Rowland Lake and follow paved highway around lake to plateau, and watch for parking area on the north side of the road.

Hamilton Mountain

Rated: Moderate to difficult.

Rigorous but rewarding climb to the top of Hamilton Mountain along Hamilton Creek with several waterfall viewpoints. Overlooks Beacon Rock in the western Columbia Gorge.

Access: Take the state park access road north from Washington Hwy. 14 opposite Beacon Rock.

Crawford Oaks Trail -

Hiking, biking and equestrians are welcome at this trailhead that offers two different loops that take you through grasslands, scrub oaks and wildflowers in the spring. The lower loop offers grand views of the Columbia River while the upper loop offers some great wildflower viewing in spring months. The lower loop trailhead is located at milepost 87 on Washington Highway 14. The upper loop is accessed by turning onto Dalles Mountain Road at milepost 84.5 on Highway 14. Travel several miles past the barns to the parking lot. Washington State Discover Pass required.

Gifford Pinchot Forest

East Crater Trail #48

Length: 2.5 miles with moderate elevation gain. One of several trails in the Indian Heaven Wilderness, located west of Trout Lake in the Gifford Pinchot National Forest. Trail passes small meadows, shallow lakes and alpine forest. Details at the Mt. Adams Ranger District in Trout Lake or visit the website at fs.fed.us/gpnf/trails/ssc/ssc_00048.htm.

Information: USDA Forest Service website, fs.fed.us/r6/columbia/trail.htm Trail-Park Pass information: 541-386-2333 or fs.fed.us/r6/columbia/trail_park.htm.

Oregon

Rowena Dell-Tom McCall Nature Preserve

Rated: Easy.

Offers stunning views of the Columbia Gorge, the mouth of the Klickitat River to the north, and a collection of spring wildflowers. Trailhead is at top of Rowena Loops. This is a relatively small area with rolling terrain and small lakes. The dirt foot paths are easy to follow and you won't need a map.

Access: Just 10 miles west of The Dalles on Columbia River Scenic Highway (Hwy. 30). You can also access from I-84; take the Rowena exit to Hwy. 30 and head west, or take the Mosier exit to Hwy. 30 and head east.

Mosier Twin Tunnels

Rated: Easy to moderate.

This section of the Columbia River Scenic Highway is closed to motorized vehicles; open to bicyclists and hikers. From Mosier end, it's a fairly easy half-mile walk to the first outlook and the Twin Tunnels. Watch for the historic rock parapet railings. At the Twin Tunnels you can still see some original rock work built by Italian craftsmen.

Access: Parking at either end of trail, at Mosier or at Hood River (Mark O. Hatfield trailhead). Parking pass, day or season, is required.

Lewis & Clark Riverfront Trail, The Dalles

Length: 10 miles.

Rated: Easy.

Paved flat pathway along the Columbia River, winds from the Columbia Gorge Discovery Center (through a tunnel under the railroad tracks) to downtown The Dalles and out to The Dalles Boat Basin and Riverfront Park. Also follows Chenoweth Creek, near the animal shelter, and past Taylor Lake. Watch for water fowl, ospreys, great blue herons and an occasional beaver.

Access: Many different locations to get on the trail, including downtown The Dalles at the Union Street underpass, the Pocket Park at Crate's Way in The Dalles, the Discovery Center, and the Boat Basin (Exit 84 off I-84).

Mt. Hood National Forest

Oregon

Camas Trail #490A

Length: 3.1 miles.

One of many hikes in the Barlow Ranger District on the Mt. Hood National Forest. This trail leads along Camas and Clear creeks, with views of the White River Canyon and Mt. Hood. Good spring or fall hike. For details, contact the Barlow Ranger Station in Dufur, or visit the Forest Service website at fs.fed.us/r6/mthood/dayhikes.htm.

Umbrella Falls #667

Length: 2 miles.

One of many hikes on the Hood River Ranger District, Mt. Hood National Forest. This is a forested route to Umbrella Falls viewpoint, connecting with Sahalie Falls Trail #667C. Details at Hood River Ranger District in Mt. Hood south of Hood River, or visit the website at fs.fed.us/r6/mthood/dayhikes.htm.

Historic Highway State Trail

A new waterfall stretch awaits hikers and bikers at Starvation Creek, part of the Columbia River Historic Highway State Trail, a years-long project to build a paved path from Troutdale to The Dalles. A 1.2-mile route from Starvation Creek to Lindsey Creek, dedicated last fall, is ADA accessible and offers views of Starvation Creek Falls, Cabin Creek Falls, and Hole-in-the-Wall Falls. Adventures can access the trail from Exit 55 on Interstate 84. A new extension — 3.2 miles running from Lindsey Creek to Wyeth — is in the works, with construction beginning in late spring and wrapping up this fall.

Rail to Trail and single track along The Deschutes River

You can bike or hike for 32 miles along the site of last railroad war in North America while enjoying the stunning views of rapids in the fast-flowing Deschutes River in this arid region. Bring plenty of water in warmer months and guard against puncture vine by using Slime in your innertubes if riding a bike. There is also several hiking only trails including the Blackberry Trail, which includes some shade, The Riverview and Ferry Springs trails. Trailheads are located at the park which is 15 miles east of The Dalles. No fee unless vehicle is left within the park overnight. For more information, oregon-stateparks.org

Indian Creek Trail, Hood River

Bridges and boardwalks await pedestrians at the half-mile South Side Indian Creek Trail, a new spoke of the trail network that brings a forest vibe inside Hood River's city limits. The original trail, which has been pieced together through the years, includes:

- East Indian Creek Trail, which stretches from Third Street and Hazel Avenue to 12th Street (now expanded by the Southside Connector). You can get to this section from downtown by taking the Second Street stairs, at State Street, and watching for the green Indian Creek trail signposts.

- A middle piece: Trail head starts at the entrance of the Columbia Gorge Community College and continues to where it meets private property; access takes walkers to the Avalon neighborhood, along a busy stretch of Indian Creek Road. Go south to Arrowhead Drive, turn west 100 or so yards to where the trail picks up next to the 14th hole of Indian Creek GC, and turns into West Indian Creek Trail.

- West Indian Creek Trail: Two trailheads next to Hood River Valley High School, one next to the ball fields and one west of the school parking lot, connecting to the Arrowhead access.

The trail continues west across Alameda Drive with a short loop around Barrett Park.

WATERFALLS

They make great places for a picnic, and best of all, quite often they're just a short walk from your car. They're the waterfalls of the Columbia River Gorge, and they deserve a place on your family's vacation calendar.

They make great places for a picnic, and best of all, quite often they're just a short walk from your car.

They're the waterfalls of the Columbia River Gorge, and they deserve a place on your family's vacation calendar.

Vertical basalt walls along the Gorge are graced with the greatest concentration of waterfalls in North America, particularly along the Oregon side of the western Gorge. It's a matter of geology, not coincidence.

The ancestral Columbia Gorge was a V-shaped river valley, but beginning around 15,000 years ago (at the end of the last ice age) a series of tremendous floods swept westward from a glacial lake near the present-day border of Idaho and Montana.

These "Bretz" floods, named after one of the geologists who discovered their traces, ripped the topsoil from eastern

Washington and carved away at the valley walls of the Columbia Gorge, leaving steep ramparts and tributaries abruptly hanging in midair.

The flood cycles lasted for thousands of years. Many more thousands of years passed since the last flood, and each winter brought another freeze-thaw cycle, sculpting away the rock behind those waterfalls.

As a result, several waterfalls now plunge into semi-circular amphitheaters; others fall out into midair, to be wafted away by the wind.

Most waterfalls are limited to the Oregon side of the Columbia River Gorge because landslides modify the steepness on the Washington side. The entire region's bed-rock material is tilted slightly southward. When it's saturated by water, the upper basaltic layers on the north side of the river slide into the gorge.

The greatest number of waterfalls is accessible from a portion of the old Columbia River Highway (Hwy. 30), which can be reached from Interstate 84.

If you're coming from Portland, take Exit 17 at Troutdale, Exit 18 from Lewis & Clark State Park, Exit 22 from Corbett.

OREGON

Multnomah Falls

Access: Car or hike.

After Yosemite Falls, this is the tallest falls in North America. Two million visitors a year flock to see this 620-foot plunge, fed by underground springs from Larch Mountain. Its highest flow is during winter and spring. Five flows of Yakima basalt are visible in the fall's cliff face. You can view the falls from your car, or take a network of trails up the falls. There's also fine dining at Multnomah Falls Lodge (built in 1925 and on the National Register of Historic Places) and information at Multnomah Falls Visitor Center.

Access: From I-84, take exit 31 to the freeway parking lot.

The Old Columbia River Highway is closed, as of press time, due to the Eagle Creek fire.

Bridal Veil Falls

Car or short hike.

Bridal Veil Creek abruptly drops twice in a tiered waterfall. The upper falls is between 60 and 100 feet tall, the lower from 40 to 60 feet in height.

Parking is a mile west of Exit 28 off Interstate 84. A short trail winds down to the base of the lower tier. Along the path, look across the Columbia River for seasonal views of falls on the Washington side of the river. The nearby community of Bridal Veil maintains its post office, a popular place to get a postmark for your wedding announcements.

Sheppard's Dell

Access: Car or short hike.

Tiered waterfall two miles west of Interstate 84's Exit 28 on the Historic Columbia River Scenic Highway. Short, paved trail leads to the top of the falls. Lower falls is a horsetail formation (40 to 60 feet drop); upper falls (35-50 feet) is a plunge formation. Exit 28 is closed, as of press time, due to the Eagle Creek fire.

Wah Gwin Gwin Falls

Access: Car/short walk.

One of the Gorge's four highest waterfalls, at 208 feet, is located behind the Columbia Gorge Hotel in Hood River. This falls flows from Phelps Creek dropping into the Columbia River. The name comes from Native American dialect meaning "rushing and tumbling waters."

White River Falls

Access: Car or hike.

A 1-mile round trip hike to the bottom of the falls gives majestic views of White River as it plunges 90 feet from a basalt shelf and tumbles into two separate pools before fanning out into a river below. At the base of the falls are the ruins of a hydropower plant which supplied electricity to The Sunshine Flour Mill in the Dalles from 1910 to 1960. Be careful. Swimming in the falls is prohibited due to the huge vortex in the waterfall pools, causing multiple drownings. The roof of the powerhouse is also unstable. Visitors should not go inside. Steep, rugged climbing. Bring water. Access: Take highway 197 south of The Dalles and drive 30 miles and head east onto highway 216 at Tygh Valley. Entrance to the falls is seven miles ahead on the right. Maupin and river rafting on the Deschutes are within 10 miles.

Sherars Falls

Access: Car

The immense volume of the Deschutes River slams through a horseshoe-shaped bend at Sherars Falls, creating a rapid that is both beautiful and unnerving in its shear power. It is deemed unpassable by river hazard guides. Boaters, by law, are required to portage around it. It is on lands of the Warm Springs Indians and visitors, at times, can watch Native Americans dip net for Salmon and Steelhead from platforms in the way of their ancestors. Sumac, sage and cheat grass flavor the effervescent air of this dessert beauty. Take highway 197 south of The Dalles and drive 30 miles. Go East onto highway 216 at Tygh Valley. You will pass White River Falls. The entrance to Sherars Falls is 10 miles ahead on the right. Maupin and river rafting on the Deschutes are within 10 miles.

WASHINGTON

Dog Creek Falls

1.25-mile hike. Located off Washington Hwy. 14 east of Wind Mountain.

Hardy Falls

1.25-mile hike.

A horsetail waterfall, about 100 feet high, located in Beacon Rock State Park west of Stevenson. Turn off Washington Hwy. 14 to the park access road, drive to the picnic area and trailhead to Hamilton Mountain. Follow the trail 1.25 miles to reach two short spur paths; upper path to right leads to viewpoint overlooking the drop along Hardy Creek.

Shoreline Trail, Hood River

Length: 2.5 miles, flat asphalt and concrete surfaces, including three sections completed in 2015 and 2016. Shoreline Trail runs from Best Western Plus Hood River Inn's east training beach to The Hook recreation area at the far west of the Hood River waterfront, on land owned by both the city and the port. Public restrooms are located at the Waterfront Park, Event Site, and Marina. The City of Hood River built the newest section in March 2016, linking the existing Shoreline Trail to the water sports access ramps on the Hook. Shoreline Trail connects The Hook, Waterfront Park, Event Site, the new Nichols Basin trail (2015) and adjoining Hampton Inn trail section (2016, in front of the hotel but on city land to the Hood River footbridge (aka Rotary Sailpark), History Museum of Hood River County, Port of Hood River marina, and Best Western/Hood River Marketplace commercial area. Note: Just east of the marina, the trail goes under Hood River Interstate Bridge, where it begins its eastern-most section; there, it goes in front of the hotel but is open to the public.

At the footbridge, walkers have the option of taking the trail under the freeway and looping west along the slough natural area and back to downtown Hood River.

Near the footbridge in front of Hampton Inns, the trail overlooks Nichols Natural Area, a habitat restoration project of Columbia Riverkeeper. Please do not enter on foot.

Move

Summer, fall, winter and spring, the Columbia Gorge is a playground waiting for players: Get out on the water, stroll the fairways or take to the slopes for world-class active fun.

WIND SPORTS

During the warm summer months, the place to be is the Columbia River, whether you're interested in windsurfing, kiteboarding, stand-up paddle boarding (SUP) or other water sports. Thanks to both public and private entities, there are many different points of access to the Gorge's waterway. The Columbia Gorge Wind & Water Association (CGW2) has compiled an exhaustive list of various Gorge beaches. We've listed some of the more popular areas below, but for a complete list, go to the CGW2 website at cgw2.org.

OREGON

The Hook

Located on the west side of the Hood River Waterfront, the Hook is a recently revamped launch site for windsurfers, although it is extremely popular with kayakers, canoers, and SUPers. Nearby Wells Island provides a wind shadow that makes this an ideal area for beginners.

The Event Site

Located on the east side of the Hood River Waterfront, the Event Site is the busiest location for water sports in the Gorge. The lawn and beach will often be filled with people engaging in a variety of activities; kiteboarders launch throughout the summer from the adjacent sandbar that formed due to a debris flow from a flood a decade ago.

Swell City/The Hatchery

As the name suggests, an area that sees some big swells on classic west wind days. Both are popular windsurfing launch sites for more experienced sailors. The hatchery is next to the Spring Creek National Fish Hatchery, and both locations are on the Washington side of the river near milepost 56 of State Route 14.

Mayer State Park

While people have been known to windsurf here (a picture on the park website shows a stack of sails and boards at the park), Mayer State Park's sheltered cove provides better opportunities for swimming, boat launching, and SUPing.

Rufus

This small community is located on the far east end of the Gorge, Interstate 84 at Exit 109. A mixture between intermediate and advanced, Rufus is touted to have some of the biggest swells in the Gorge, and is used by both windsurfers and kiteboarders. Also features a boat launch.

Arlington

Another small community located on the Oregon side of the east end of the Gorge (Exit 137 off I-84), the launch site at Arlington was recently improved by the CGWA and offers advanced territory for both windsurfers and kiteboarders. Also features a boat launch.

WASHINGTON

Doug's Beach

Located just east of Lyle, directly off SR 14 at MP 74, and managed by Washington State Parks. This windsurfing site is also considered to be a prime location for expert sailors, especially when areas near Hood River and White Salmon are busy.

PARKING FEES

Note that effective June 2018, the Port of Hood River began charging for parking in portions of the Hood River Waterfront (in addition to the existing paid lot at Event Site). Parking pay kiosks were installed for the following areas: On-street, Portway east of Second Street; on-street, First Street along Nichols Basin; the parking lot known as Luhr Jensen Lot two blocks west of the Event Site, on the north side of Portway. Kiosks require debit or credit cards.

All other on-street spaces remain free, including Second Street and those on Portway abutting Waterfront Park.

WINTER SPORTS

Timberline Lodge

Classic Pacific Northwest lodge nestled midway to the summit of Mt. Hood above Government Camp off Oregon Hwy. 26. National Historic Landmark constructed in 1937, with adjacent day lodge, multiple chairlifts and 3,590 vertical feet of winter terrain from the top of Palmer to the bottom of Victoria Station. 503-272-3311 or timberlinelodge.com.

Mt. Hood Meadows Ski Resort

Largest night ski area in the United States, also with day skiing, cross-country, snowboarding and multiple chairlifts. Located off Oregon Hwy. 35 east of the Hwy. 26 junction. Plenty of summer hiking, too. Portland snow-phone: 503-227-SNOW. Hood River snow-phone: 541-386-SKIS. skihood.com.

Cooper Spur Ski Area

Family-oriented resort on the north side of Mount Hood overlooking the Hood River Valley. 541-352-6692 or cooperspurski.com.

Summit Ski Area

Oldest ski area in the Pacific Northwest, and the first on Mount Hood, established in 1927. Skiing, family tubing, cross-country and more. Located at the east end of Government Camp on Oregon Hwy. 26. 503-272-0256 or summitskiarea.com.

Mt. Hood Ski Bowl

Chairlifts and surface tows in the winter; dual alpine slide, miniature golf, mountain bike park and more in the summer, 87000 East Hwy. 26 at Government Camp. 503-272-3206, 503-222-BOWL or skibowl.com.

Other cross-country

All the major resorts around Mount Hood offer cross-country opportunities, as do other areas. Try exploring Trillium Lake, two miles east of Government Camp, and White River, east of the Hwy 26 and Hwy 35 junction. In contrast to the developed slopes of Mount Hood, Mount Adams in south-central Washington State offers a wilderness experience, for both skiers and climbers. There's plenty of backcountry for cross-country and snow-shoeing, with access via the communities of Trout Lake and Glenwood in Klickitat County. The Mt. Adams Ranger Station is based in Trout Lake; call 509-395-3400. Finally, a network of cross-country ski trails — plus snowmobiling — is open on the Wind River Ranger District in Skamania County. Routes such as the Hard Time Loop and Scenic Loop are accessed from the Wind River Highway. Call the Skamania County Chamber for details, at 509-427-8911 or 800-989-9178.

ON THE WATER

Rafting

If whitewater, drifting or fishing are your thing, the world-renowned Deschutes River might be the ticket. And Maupin, Ore. is your place of destination — 40 miles south of The Dalles on Hwy. 197. The cool green water from underwater aquifers cuts through basalt in this arid section of the state. With several rafting companies to choose from, thrill seekers can ride out class-4 rapid “Oak Springs” or take a float in your life vest through the Elevator Shaft. Trips range from guided to self-guided and options of half, full and multi-day trips are available. Guided fishing trips for those seeking summer steelhead or wiley “Redside” trout are also on tap. The town offers a full range of services including food, supplies, restaurants, lodging, fuel, shuttles and fly-fishing shops.

The White Salmon River also offers a thrill ride down a crystal blue, spring-fed stream complete with a 10 foot waterfall that can be run when water levels are safe.

THE DALLES

Columbia Gorge Discovery Center and Wasco County Historical Museum

This is the official interpretive center for the Columbia River Gorge National Scenic Area, located on Crate's Point, just west of The Dalles off Old Highway 30. The Discovery Center focuses on natural history and human cultures of the scenic area, with hands-on exhibits, films and recordings on subjects including Lewis & Clark, native flora and fauna, the Ice Age and more. The Wasco County Historical Museum features collections that illuminate both Native American history and pioneer development. Open daily except Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

541-296-8600, or check the website at gorgediscovery.org. Birds of prey show is 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Location: Interstate 84 at exit 82, then follow signs 1.5 miles west.

Fort Dalles Museum

The oldest historical museum in Oregon, this museum was established just after the turn of the 20th century, preserving the legacy of this regionally strategic military base. Fort Dalles (originally Camp Drum) was established in 1850, serving as a base of operations for U.S. Army troops. The ornate, wooden Surgeon's Quarters is one of the fort's last two surviving buildings, and houses a variety of tools, weapons, photos and other memorabilia from the 19th century. There's an impressive collection of antique vehicles and wagons. Visitors are also able to tour the Anderson house, a hand-hewn wooden homestead crafted by Swedish immigrants in Wasco County.

There's also a barn and granary. Fort Dalles Museum is located at W. 15th and Garrison streets in The Dalles. Admission for adults, $8, seniors 60 plus, $5, ages 7-17, $1, and free for children 6 and younger. Military discounts offered. The museum is open daily from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m. from March through October. For more information, fortdallesmuseum.org or call 541-296-4547.

Original Wasco County Courthouse

This wood-frame, two-story building in The Dalles once was the seat of government for the largest county in the United States, when Wasco County extended all the way to Montana. The old courthouse, constructed in 1858, was nearly destroyed at least twice and was relocated on several occasions, but today it enjoys a permanent home, preserving a unique heritage as one of the oldest courthouse buildings west of the Mississippi River. Open 11 a.m. - 3 p.m., Wednesday through Saturday, June through August, other times by appointment. Directions: Interstate 84 to The Dalles, then take the City Center exit toward downtown. Turn south just past the chamber, then left on West Second Place. 410 West Second Place. 541-296-4798.

Rorick House

The oldest home in The Dalles was built by an officer stationed at Fort Dalles in 1850, and operates today as a historical museum with period furnishings and implements. Open Memorial Day to Labor Day, Saturdays and Sundays, from 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. It's located at 300 West 13th St., The Dalles. 541-296-1867.

St. Peter's Landmark

Former Catholic Church in The Dalles, preserved as a historical museum. Completed in 1898, the building features Carrera Italian marble, Kilgen pipe organ made of tigerwood, 40-foot stamped metal ceilings and a 176-foot steeple topped by a six-foot weathervane rooster crafted by Frank S. Gunning. Its stained glass windows were created by the Povey Brothers of Portland, and many of these windows memorialize pioneer families.

A wooden Madonna inside the museum was carved from the keel of a sailing ship that sank off the San Francisco coast in the 1850s. Third & Lincoln, The Dalles. Hours: 1 - 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday; 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. Tuesdays through Fridays. 541-296-5686.

The Dalles School District Historical Archives Museum

Contains memorabilia from both District 12 (1854-2004) and District 9 (1964-2004) before the merger and up to present day as District 21. Displays include yearbooks, photo albums, trophies, sport uniforms, Booster Girl and other club records. Elementary, junior high-middle schools, and high schools are represented. The museum is open every Saturday, 10 a.m. - 3 p.m., May through Sept. or by arrangement with Rymel Lovell, 541-296-6546, tlovell@netcnct.net. Museum location: 3601 West 10th St., former Wahtonka High School entrance nearest athletic fields.

DUFUR

Dufur Historical Museum

Located in the historic Schreiber Log Cabin on Main Street, featuring pioneer living history exhibits, weaving, old photos, farm implements and more. Museum open for the summer starting in June, Thursdays through Mondays. Call for hours: (541-467-2205. (Dufur also hosts the annual Vintage Dufur Days, featuring working steam-powered and horse-drawn antique farm machinery, usually held second weekend of August.)

WAMIC

Smock Prairie Schoolhouse

Wamic's one-room schoolhouse and museum located in Wamic, on the old Barlow Trail. From The Dalles, drive south to Tygh Valley, then west to Wamic.

SHANIKO

Sage Museum

Classic auto and wagon collection located in the historic city of Shaniko, in southern Wasco County. The museum also has a display of historic photos showing the boom years of Shaniko, at one time the largest wool shipping capital in the world. The auto and wagon collection is open May-Sept. 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. and the rest of the museum is open all day every day year round. Shaniko itself has a mural tour and many historic buildings, including a restored and recently-renovated hotel, the city hall and jail, schoolhouse, wooden water tower, and surviving portions of the original business district, including old boardwalks. Shaniko is located 57 miles south of Biggs Junction on Hwy. 97, a few miles north of its junction with Highway 197.

MORO

Sherman County Historical Museum

A window into Oregon's heartland, the museum comprises 14,280 square feet and more than 15,000 artifacts used in Native American families, Oregon Trail migration, rural households, churches, schools, businesses, livestock production, dryland wheat farming and conservation, military units and patriotic efforts. Exhibits of interest include photographs of Joseph and Jane Sherar, Sherar's Falls and Bridge; photographs of World War II Training Camp, Camp Rufus; monthly Sherman County artists series. From Interstate 84, take Highway 97 south from Biggs Junction to Moro. Watch for directional signs from Highway 97. Open daily 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., May through October. 541-565-3232, or visit the website, shermanmuseum.org.

CONDON

Gilliam County Historical Museum

Highway 19 North in Condon, adjacent to Burns Park and the fairgrounds. Open Wednesdays through Sundays, 1 to 5 p.m., May 1 through Oct. 31, and holidays that fall on Monday or Tuesday. Details, 541-384-4233.

WASHINGTON

STEVENSON

Columbia Gorge Interpretive Center

"The Museum at the Heart of the Gorge" is located west of Stevenson, near Skamania Lodge off Washington Hwy. 14. The interpretive center features a Creation Theatre, 37-foot replica of a 19th century fishwheel, restored Corliss steam engine, exhibit on Native American dip-netting, Columbia River navigation exhibit from 19th Century sternwheelers through modern barges, the world's largest Rosary collection, and information on the water route taken by the Lewis and Clark expedition. From Interstate 84, take the bridge at Cascade Locks over the Columbia River to Washington Hwy. 14, then head east toward Stevenson. Look for the access road to Skamania Lodge and the Columbia Gorge Interpretive Center on the north side of the road. Open daily, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. except for New Year's Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas. 800-991-2338, columbiagorge.org.

Maryhill Museum

Set on a stunning 5,300-acre site overlooking the Columbia River, Maryhill Museum of Art is home to early 20th century American and European works, including more than 80 pieces by Rodin, an extensive Native American collection, particularly Columbia Plateau tribes, and much more. Children's activities, sculpture garden, café and museum shop make for a well-rounded experience.

Open daily, 10 a.m. - 5 p.m., March 15 through Nov. 15.

Artifacts

Good Books, Bad Art in Hood River on Columbia in Mall 202 near Second Street, is an emporium of used and new books of all kinds, and a large selection of cards, bumper stickers, shirts, posters and novelty items, along with walls full of "bad art" for sale.

THE DALLES

Klindt's Books

Arguably Oregon's oldest book store, Klindt's Booksellers has plenty of entertainment for a rainy day. Established in 1870, the creaking wood floors and oak casework are a reminder of an earlier time and worth seeing in their own right. klindtsbooks.com.

The Dalles Art Center

Find a new interest among the local artists represented here, and take note of the lovely old Carnegie Library that houses it at Fourth and Union streets. thedallesartcenter.org.

Nichols Art Glass

The Dalles artist Andy Nichols has a storefront on West Sixth Street where he not only sells but creates. "Great guy, great art and so close." Call ahead for information at 541-296-2143.

Visit the bears

The Dalles-Wasco County Library is famous for the bear sculpture by artist Jeff Stewart and inside find plenty of activities, particularly for kids. ci.the-dalles.or.us/library.htm.

ODELL

Laughing Tara Living Arts

(formerly Glassometry) on Lower Neal Creek Road, near Cardinal Glass provides classes, workshops and retreats space, now housing a spacious classroom and movement space, art gallery and intimate sanctuary. Bikers Paradise

HOOD RIVER AREA

Post Canyon

A 15-mile network of scenic trails for skilled bikers. From Hood River, head west on Cascade then follow Country Club Road for 1.5 miles to Post Canyon Drive on the right. Follow Post Canyon Drive for approximately 1/2 mile to the end of the pavement and park there.

Family Man Mt. Bike Area

The Family Man area is accessible from Riordan Hill Road, which is off of Country Club Road. It is about a mile beyond where Riordan turns to gravel. Family Man has some of the best mountain biking trails in the Northwest — all challenging enough for endless hours of fun, but safe enough for off-road rookies.

Surveyor's Ridge

A classic mountain trail that runs north-south from Mount Hood to the Columbia River on the east side of Mount Hood. This ride starts at the end of Pinemont Drive, 11 miles south of Hood River off Hwy. 35.

Falls Creek Falls Trail

A trail north of Carson, Wash., that runs through old growth forest and ends at the beautiful Lower Lewis River Falls. From Carson, take Wind River Road for 15 miles and turn right onto NF-30 / Meadow Creek Road and travel 1 mile. Turn Right onto NF-3062. After 2 miles, trailhead is located on right where road becomes NF-057.

Road Bike Ride: Rowena Loops

A mind-blowing seven-mile loop; start in Hood River and follow the Columbia River Historic Highway through the famous twin tunnels to Mosier. Then, pedal up a gentle grade up to the Rowena Crest and blaze downhill on a series of sweeping curves.

Lake Branch/ Lost Lake Loop

A large hill with excellent pavement and a beautiful reward at the end. Follow Tucker Road to the Odell/Dee intersection and veer right. Go six miles at the Dee turnoff to find the parking area.

Parkdale's Eastside Trails

From Hood River, head east on Highway 84 to Highway 35. Follow 35 south to Robin Hood Campground, the trail entrance. Visit local bike shops for more information on local trails.

MAUPIN

Sherars Falls Scenic Bikeway

The 33-mile paved route starts at the shady oasis of the city park in Maupin and heads north through town climbing to a plateau between the Deschutes and White rivers.

Riders will enjoy a long downhill into Tygh Valley before heading East on Hwy. 216 past White River Falls State Park. The road then descends for 500 feet into the Deschutes Canyon and passes Sherars Falls. About one quarter mile after crossing the bridge, make a u-turn onto the Deschutes River Access Road, heading north. You will return to Maupin park in about 10 miles.

CASCADE LOCKS

Cascade Locks EasyCLIMB Trail

Fun for the whole family, the EasyCLIMB Trail has several hours worth of trail to ride as you explore a restored section of the Columbia River Highway. This gentle path is perfect for bicycles or a leisurely afternoon walk. Don't forget your camera! Exit I-84, at Cascade Locks. The trail is .4 miles north on Industrial Parkway at the east end of town.
