Carleen Ryon-Kemp
Business Outreach Representative
Bishop Sanitation, Inc.

With over two million accident-free miles logged as a long haul trucker for folks like Disney World, Carleen Ryon-Kemp truly knows about hard work, determination and how to deliver an excellent customer experience.

In addition to educating newly-rural customers about the benefits of septic procrastination avoidance, Carleen looks forward to expanding our current service lines. While most are familiar with our yellow trucks, portable restroom equipment and expert septic services, Bishop red & black volcanic cinder landscape rock products are available through local retail partners in the Gorge. Interested in the mineral content? Carleen can assist!

If you'd like to schedule a consultation and get better acquainted with our products and services, simply phone or text Carleen directly*: *509.310.3662

You're also invited to contact our friendly office to schedule service before there's an unfortunate situation.

ONE COMMUNITY HEALTH

CARING FOR ALL, CARING WITH HEART
CUIDANDO A TODOS, CUIDANDO CON EL CORAZÓN

Health Care That Comes With Heart

Since 1986, One Community Health has won the hearts of many people throughout the Columbia River Gorge. With us, patients thrive through an integrated approach to medical, dental and behavioral health.

We serve all people in Hood River, Wasco, Klickitat and Skamania Counties.What's more, wellness is convenient, thanks to our regional outreach programs and multiple locations in Hood River and The Dalles.

Experience the difference with whole-person health care. It's rooted in gratitude and shaped by our compassion for patients and the community at large.

When the elements hit the Gorge hard, the Insitu facilities team hits back harder. When the community needs a playground built or holiday lights strung, they're ready. When the task seems like it's too much, they laugh at the challenge. Insitu's crew of facilities management superstars answers the call whenever they are needed – inside the company, out in the Gorge communities and around the globe.

Meet Kristen Kendall, M.D., OB-GYN

Choosing a doctor is about choosing who to trust with your health.

When it comes to women's health, having an expert by your side is important for your piece of mind.

Dr. Kendall chose to practice obstetrics and gynecology in the Gorge for the chance to build close relationships with her patients. She's focused on making sure her patients have the information they need, plus guidance and support to make the most informed decisions about care.

When she's not serving patients, you might find Dr. Kendall enjoying a hike with her family or curling up with a good book. Joining the group at Providence Hood River Women's Clinic is a perfect fit and we're glad to have her on the team.

Call the clinic today to schedule an appointment.

DARRYL LLOYD

WRITER | PHOTOGRAPHER | LECTURER

Darryl and his brother, Darvel, grew up at the base of Mount Adams on the Flying L Ranch and have been adventurers all their lives. His passion for the mountains, geosciences and exotic cultures has led Darryl to adventure around the world by sea and spend decades as a wilderness mountaineering guide, a licensed master mariner in the merchant marine and an innkeeper. Darryl became a full time photographer in 1998 and his photos have appeared in regional galleries and many publications.

His newest accomplishment is his book, Ever Wild: A lifetime on Mount Adams. It was released in the Fall of 2018 by Carpe Diem Books and has received acclaim from sources such as the Portland Tribune and Columbia Insight.

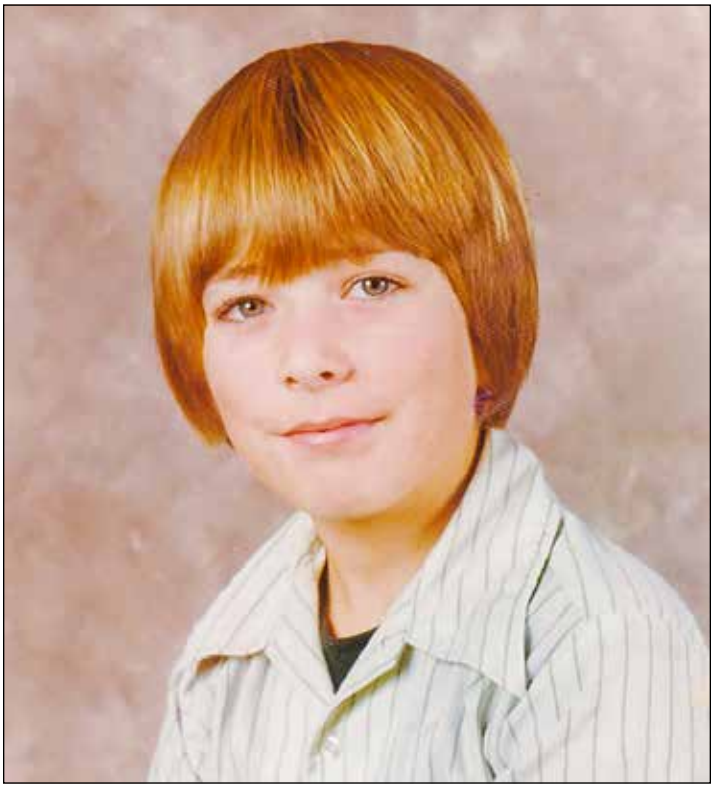
JOHN SCHWINGE

John Schwinge



Elaine Bakke | White Salmon Enterprise

Born and raised in Underwood, John Schwinge was like many other teens his age growing up in the early 1980s. He wanted a part-time job after school to make extra money.

He heard about a job sharpening chains at Sperry Supply, a White Salmon saw shop, and applied. He, of course, was hired at the age of 17, and the rest is history.

Upon graduation from Columbia High School in White Salmon in 1984, John went to work for Sperry Supply full time, learning the "ropes" from the shop's mechanic, Kevin Strassner. During that time, John also attended service schools offered by brands such as Husqvarna, Jonsered and Pioneer.

When Strassner relocated to California some two years later, he was put into the role of small engine mechanic.

"I had to jump in and do the work," he said. "Ted (Sperry) didn't have anyone else."

Strassner continued working for Sperry Supply, repairing chainsaws and lawnmowers, until the business closed in 1995. It was purchased by Dave and Jan Clark, who renamed it DJ's Repair. They moved the business from White Salmon to its current Bingen location. At the same time, Strassner was hired by the Clarks as service manager and small engine mechanic — a position he still holds.

Initially, DJ's had a staff of three. Today, it has a crew of six. The business is still a logging supply and clothing business, carrying brands like Husqvarna and Stihl. Repairs can be made to small and large engines such as snowmobiles, ATVs, lawn and garden equipment, chain saws, brush cutters, etc.

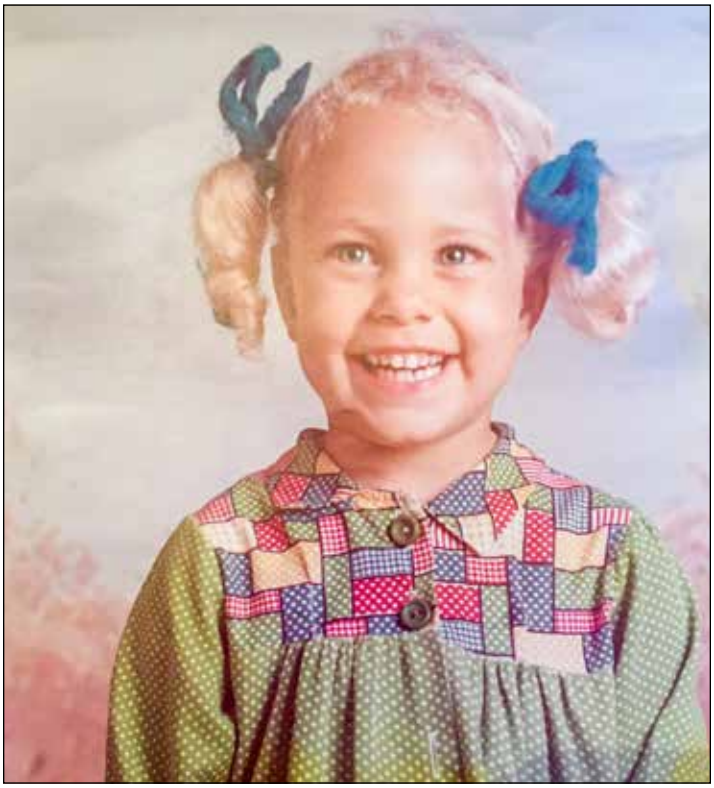
In addition, DJ's offers rentals on all major homeowner and contractor equipment such as excavators, backhoes, dozers, thatchers, chippers and miscellaneous garden tools.

Strassner said he's enjoyed his job so much these last 36 years because of its unique diversity.

"There's something different to do every day. Plus, I really enjoy working with all our customers."

When not working, Strassner is what he would call "a gentleman farmer." He and his wife, Lorie, live on a 20-acre farm in Hood River, raising chickens, goats and horses.

Janet Planet



Emily Fitzgerald | Hood River News

Janet Planet's life was forever changed by a Grateful Dead tour in 1992.

"I was in college and a friend of mine kind of introduced me to the bead world," Planet said — an introduction that led to years of making jewelry to sell and trade on the Grateful Dead tour, at festivals, concerts, art fairs and elsewhere on the road, and eventually to a brick and mortar shop in Hood River.

Her bead shop, Sparkling Creations, even operates under a motto taken from a Grateful Dead lyric: "Without love in the dream, it'll never come true."

"The old fat man sings the old true words," Planet said of Grateful Dead lead singer Jerry Garcia.

Planet made and sold jewelry on the road until 2006, when she had finally saved up the money to open up a storefront in Hood River. The shop moved to Oak Street in 2008.

"A brick and mortar definitely is more grounded, which has its perks," Planet said of opening the store, adding that one of the biggest perks for her is getting to engage in the Hood River community.

"In the past couple of years, I've just really been pleased to see people supporting each other, where through death, or sickness, or for fundraisers, to see all these people come together," she said.

Coming from Kentucky and Colorado, Planet said that the Columbia Gorge is "kind of the best of both worlds," with the greenery and small-town community feel of her home in Kentucky and the mountainous outdoors and extreme sports she loved in Colorado.

Sparkling Creations currently does jewelry repairs and custom orders, while also carrying "everything someone would need to make jewelry," Planet said, as well as a variety of rock and jewel specimens from around the world, ranging "everywhere from $3 to $300" in price.

"The variety you can find here is really expansive and extensive," Planet said.

She also offers crystal healing sessions, classes and workshops, as well as recommendations for customers looking for a crystal to take home.

"We believe that the crystals have different energies and different powers based on their different makeups, origins and colors," she said.

She takes pride in personally hand-picking every item in the store, taking frequent trips to different wholesale shows and the World's Largest Gem and Mineral Show, where she gets the chance to meet directly with miners.

When asked about her favorite aspect of running the store, Planet said, "Being excited about going to work every day, being enthusiastic with what I do, loving the ability to make people smile."

ADDIE CASE

Addie Case

Mark Gibson | The Dalles Chronicle

Addie Case, property manager for Cousin's Inn and Restaurant, is quick to articulate what she believes makes the popular restaurant and hotel a prominent feature of The Dalles community.

"It's home-style, so it's like coming home," she said of its popularity within the community. "We work to give you that vibe, with comfortable beds and home-style foods."

It's about keeping customer service "top-of-mind" all the time, she explained. "I'm always looking at everything from a guests perspective, asking what can we do better, what can we do differently," she said. "There is always a revolving door of change."

Thankfully, that revolving door hasn't included staffing. "We've been very lucky," she said. "The industry as a whole has a lot of turnover, but we don't," she said. "A lot of the staff has been here longer than I have." Case started with the hotel, and has worked for Cousins for over eight years. Like her customers, Case feels at home there. "It's really a feeling of family, more than a work environment," she said. "That's our core value.

The business employs about 110 in the summer, with 80 working in the restaurant and 35 in the hotel.

Case said the overriding focus of the business is care. "Taking care of our community, our staff, our guests — that is our core value. If the community wasn't here, we wouldn't be supported. So we give back to the community," she explained. As a staff and business both, they donate services and time, offer reduced rates for fundraising events, host an annual winter coat drive and giving tree over the holidays.

How they offer that care changes all the time, she added. "I deal with one thing, another pops up," she said with a smile. "It's one of those challenges, to stay consistent with who we are, but also to stay on the cutting edge, keeping it all fresh and consistent with who we are."

Cousins' Country Inn and Restaurant is owned by Escape Lodging, based out of Canon Beach. They also own and operate Fairfield Inn & Suites by Marriott in The Dalles.

"We are one of the few properties owned by Escape that include a connected hotel and restaurant," she said. She said the more rural a property, the more it makes sense to combine the two offerings.

Case expects to continue her work at Cousins' for years to come. "I love my job. It's connection, and community, the staff and guests and where I live. It's always fun to say I'm with Cousins', it's such a well-known facility."

ERICA & PEPI

Erica & Pepi

Kirby Neumann-Rea | Hood River News

It all started as sailing partners.

Pepi and Erica Gerald sell new and consigned recreational sports gear and accessories from their shop at the busy Second and State street intersection, but like many couples' tales, the road to that crossing had a few scenic turns.

Erica grew up in Kansas and Pepi on Mercer Island near Seattle, and they met at Western Washington University in Bellingham, where Erica worked on her Bachelor of Science in Biology, focusing on fisheries management. She worked in the field for years, with a Corvallis firm and commuting first from Seattle, and later from Hood River, while working on wetland restoration and biomonitoring aquatic insect populations.

When their children, Miyuki, 15, and Colin, 11, came along, she re-crafted the position to do less field work and more analysis so there would be less travel involved.

The Geralds met as sailing partners at WWU when Pepi joined the sailing team, while also recovering from a hernia surgery.

The Geralds moved to Hood River, starting new jobs in 2001, Pepi doing sales and marketing for the sail company Mistral, and later going to work for Sailworks. He did international marketing for O'Brien while in Seattle, but the couple knew they wanted a quieter pace. They moved to White Salmon in 2001, at the start of a rebrand for Mistral. The terrible events of 9-11 happened, leading to a rough time in the industry. Pepi later went to work for Sailworks, the family moved to Hood River, and the next big change presented itself.

2nd Wind, when it was located on Oak Street between Second and Third, was an opportunity to pursue a business that connected them to the recreational activities they loved. They made a move in 2005, offering store founder Julie Blenn a purchase deal.

The '80s-era 2nd Wind sign still stands prominently in the showroom, but in 2012, the Geralds and their employees literally lined the sidewalk, passing skis, clothing, boards and more the two blocks south to Second and State. They love that the location — in addition to providing multiple gear loading zones — appeals to local clients, whereas the Oak Street store tended toward tourist trade.

"The family enjoys the gamut of the pleasures that their customers and friends pursue: Kiteboarding, hiking, downhill skiing, Nordic skiing, snowboarding, splitboarding (Nordic skiing with special dual boards), ski touring, biking and running. And, of course, sailing: For years, the couple has owned a sailboat together, the Catalina Jupiter.

"Working alongside Pepi gives me the time to be with him to enjoy everything about him that attracted me to him in the first place, and to allow our children the time with us, equally, every day," Erica said. "Our time is spent dedicated to work but so it with many people. Having the kids around to share in that and know us every way is a blessing."

Erica has served as a USA swimming official at local meets, and Pepi is active in the Columbia Gorge Kiteboarding Association. Through their shop and personal time, they support the Columbia Gorge Snow and Avalanche Institute, something they see as a way of helping the community use the mountain backcountry with utmost safety.

ROBERT & HALEY

Robert & Haley

Mark Gibson | The Dalles Chronicle

When Robert May, a 1990 graduate of The Dalles High School, walked away from his well-paid job at the local aluminum plant after five years, it seemed a little crazy to some.

But not to him. "I didn't owe any money, my truck was paid off, so I quit." Instead of clocking in at the plant, May worked as a hunting and fishing guide and taught snowboarding in the wintertime, working at night as a bar tender or serving tables to keep a steady income.

It was a lifestyle that took him all over central Oregon and the Cascade mountains.

Becoming a plumber, and eventually owning and operating Two Dogs Plumbing in The Dalles with his wife Haley, may seem an odd turn in direction, but May knows exactly how it happened.

"I played in a golf tournament in Klamath Falls," he explained.

May was paired up with the owner of the biggest plumbing shop in Klamath Falls, and they hit it off. "He hired me to clean his shop, and pretty soon I was his apprentice."

During the four-year apprenticeship, May found the plumbing trade both challenging and rewarding. "It's on-the-job training. You learn a trade for life, and you're getting a paycheck from the first week."

It was 2005, as he neared the end of his apprenticeship and was preparing to make the leap to journeyman, that he met Haley.

"He was my plumber," Haley explained with a laugh.

It was one of Robert's first solo jobs, a remodel and new bathroom. "The boss let me work it after hours, because he didn't have time to take on the project," he explained.

They discovered they lived only a few blocks apart in Klamath Falls, and hit it off. Robert completed the work even as he took the test for journeyman. "It used to be a really hard test, but I was obsessed with my code book. I missed only one of 100 in the closed book test, and scored 100 of 100 in the open book portion."

They were married in 2007. "I never did pay him for that remodel," Haley said.

As a journeyman, Robert could open his own business, and he and Haley decided to set up shop in The Dalles.

"I wanted to come home," Robert said. "I loved Klamath Falls, but it just wasn't home. The Dalles is one of the great places to be, everything is just right here."

Together, they started Two Dogs Plumbing, which offers a full range of services that include new construction, remodeling, service and emergency work and even sewer inspection and cleaning with a camera to locate problems and high-pressure Hydo Jetting equipment. The business proved to be a success, and they now employ a staff of three.

Haley to has come to call The Dalles home. "I probably would never go back now, this is home. I love having all four seasons, a real spring, summer, fall and winter."

The couple live just out of town with their three children, Aaliyah, 15, Jersey, 10, and Tucker, 9. The couple sees no big changes coming for Two Dogs Plumbing. "We're staying right here. I like the size and manageability of our business," said Robert. "It's gratifying to help people, they trust us, let us into their house. We're incredibly blessed."
