

Some film students concerned with school's planned relocation

MU's film school is currently in the Academic Support Center and has an accessible parking lot next to it. Film students have said if the school relocates to the Arts & Science building, they'll have to carry equipment, some over 100 pounds, farther than previously needed.

