

Missouri may become the 10th state to implement a prison nursery program

Nine states have implemented a prison nursery program for incarcerated mothers, and Missouri could be on its way to becoming the tenth. The program would allow mothers to keep their infants with them for up to 18 months as they serve their sentences.

