

Partying leads to COVID lectures

Campus police responded to multiple peace disturbances on or near campus the weekend before school started, mostly within Greek houses and student apartments. More often than not, the officers talked to people about the school's COVID-19 policies.

