

More people, groups accused of Title IX violations; more faculty than previous year

Seven-hundred-and-fifty people or groups were accused of violating policy in 2017-18, an increase from 693 in 2016-17.

Note: The author of the '15-16 report counted student organizations as students — in '16-17 and '17-18, they were counted as a separate category. "Third Parties" includes parents or visitors, and residential life employees are considered staff.
