

Homeschooling on the rise for Black households in the U.S.

Since the first week of school, homeschooling rates have increased in the United States, with Black households more than tripling in percentage of families switching to homeschooling. In Missouri, the rate has increased by five percent in the 2020-21 school year.

