

How cryptocurrency relies on a network of computers

A blockchain is a system made of a record of transactions that is shared among nodes in a peer-to-peer computer network. Any computer that accesses the blockchain is known as a node. Some nodes, known as miners, work at solving mathematical puzzles – the key to earning cryptocurrency.

Peer-to-peer network

