

13.8 million people 65+ projected to have Alzheimer's in 2060

By 2060, the number of people age 65 and older with Alzheimer's or dementia is projected to reach 13.8 million, barring the development of medical breakthroughs to prevent, slow or cure Alzheimer's.

