Buses see decreased ridership

Go COMO, the city's bus service, has seen a decrease in the number of riders due to a bus driver shortage, which forced the city to double wait times. The system currently operates without a fare by using federal COVID-19 relief funds that are set to expire at the end of 2026. The Tiger Line shuttle and on-demand paratransit service continue to see high demand.

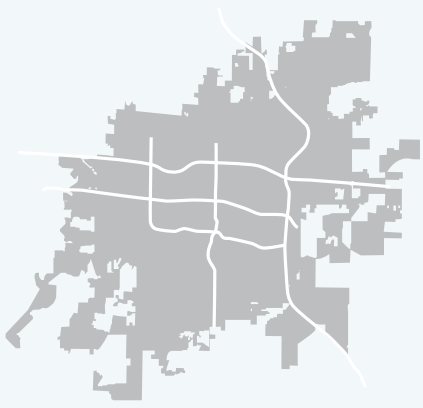

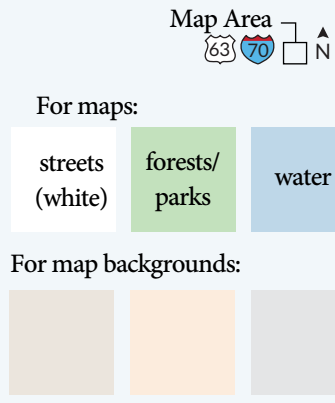

Source: Columbia Finance Department

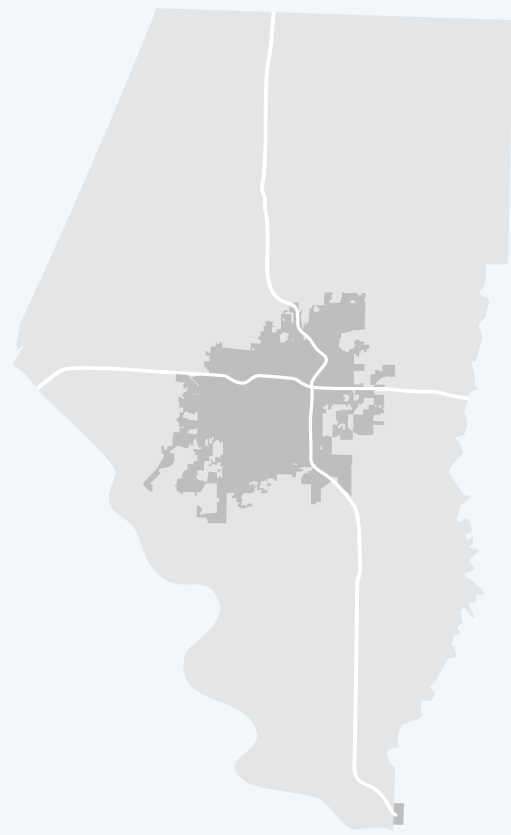

RYAN BRANDT/
Missouri News Network

Map Materials

City of Columbia map with major roads | Boone County map with city of Columbia inlet

Missouri state map with counties (editable-->ungroup)

U.S. State map (editable --> ungroup)

