

Hinkson Creek erosion to be repaired

Since 2007, erosion at the banks of Hinkson Creek has worsened. Due to this erosion, the creek is getting closer to a nearby sewer line. The City of Columbia is designing a creek stabilization plan to build the bank back up to prevent it from continuing to erode.

