

More than 1 in 3 people in Missouri teleworking

Mirroring national trends, 36% of Missouri residents have substituted some or all of their typical in-person work for telework because of the pandemic. This trend has led to increased screen time, which can result in eyestrain, back pain and migraines.

Missouri

United States

The remaining 15% and 18% respectively represent people whose workplace has not changed over the course of the pandemic.