

The deadliest month: More homicides in September than in any month since at least 2001

Although 2019 hasn't surpassed highs from previous years, the number of homicides in Columbia in September has surpassed the record for a month since the state highway patrol's crime data became accessible. September's five homicides occurred over the span of 10 days.

