

Paid family and medical leave programs, by state

Just eight states and the District of Columbia have active, mandatory statewide laws for paid family and medical leave that apply to public and private employers.

■ Currently operating ■ Awaiting implementation

