

PACking a punch: Campaign finance groups quash donor limits

Under state law, one person may donate up to $2,650 directly to the governor's campaign.

But the state doesn't control how much that person can donate to political action committees. In one day, Rex Sinquefeld, a megadonor from St. Louis, gave $250,000 to the Uniting Missouri PAC, which supports Gov. Mike Parson. That's nearly 95 times the individual campaign contribution limit.

ALEXIS ALLISON/Missourian
Source: Missouri Ethics Commission