

Missouri charter schools lacking in diversity

If you're a white student in one of Missouri's traditional public schools, expect about 83 percent of your peers to be white, too. If you're black and in a charter school, you can expect around 81 percent of your classmates to be black.

