

Physician-assisted death in the United States

Physician-assisted death is a practice that has been implemented when working with terminally ill patients. Ten states have made it legal, while others are considering legislation. A bill introduced in the Missouri House would legalize the practice.

Sources: Compassion & Choices,
BillTrack50, Death with Dignity

HENRY JOINER/Missourian