

French-style event space plans turned down once again

After Terri Wright's plans to turn her property into a French countryside event space were quashed by the Boone County Planning & Zoning Commission on Dec. 20, the Commission decided to stay with their initial decision after she appealed Tuesday evening.

