

Teen e-cigarette threat not just smoke and mirrors

More than 1 in 10 high school students use e-cigarettes in Missouri. In an effort to curb what the FDA has called an epidemic, the Columbia/Boone County Department of Public Health and Human Services is launching an educational campaign aimed at young people addicted to e-cigarettes.

Missouri high school students who use e-cigarettes
10.9 percent