

Some parks have seen updates to parking fees and seasonal camping rates

Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD) has updated some visitor fees at select parks as part of a broader, proactive effort to build a more resilient financial future for Oregon State Parks.

As of October 1st, Oregon State Parks will no longer waive the parking fee at twenty-one additional day-use parks. The parking fee is currently $10 for in-state visitors and $12 out-of-state visitors.

The parking fee does not apply to visitors who walk, bike, use public transportation, have a valid hangtag from camping at an Oregon State Park or a twelve or twenty-four-month parking permit.

Currently, OPRD charges for parking at twenty-five parks and waives parking fees at over two-hundred twenty-five parks across the state.

The twenty-one additional parks include some of the busiest parks in the system such as Harris Beach State Park, which experienced an estimated two million day-use visits last year. Visitor fees help pay for maintenance and operation.

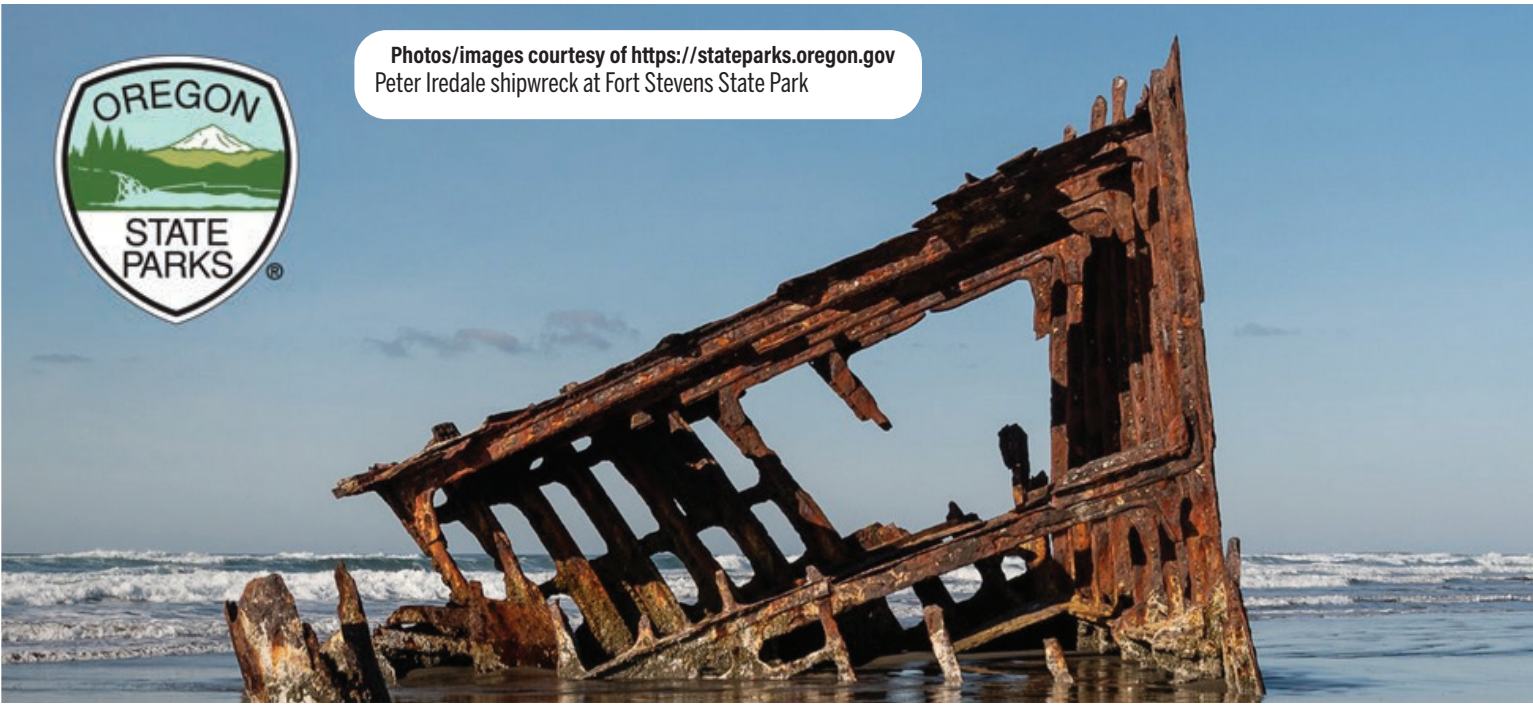

Some overnight camping rates will also see updates for visits beginning May 1, 2026:

- Overnight rates at our twenty-nine busiest parks will increase to the top of the current rate range from May 1st through September 30th. This increase will apply year round on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights (Top rate is $29 for tents and $52 for full hook-up RV).
- At all parks:
- Cabin and yurt prices will increase to the top of the rate range year round. (Top rates vary from $72 for rustic yurts to $129

Deranged barkers will entice you into a petrifying pavilion of gory games amidst the maze of the big top frenzy. Smell the rotten cotton candy, the stinking sawdust and the stench of beasts bound riled in their cages.

Those few who survive such a demented tour of freakish depravity will receive tasty Trick or Treats, soft drinks and helpings of Claire's infamous "Black Circus Chili" in the retreat of her "Nightbreak Beastro" at the end of the terrifying tent of doom. There, you are welcome to recover until your wobbling remains are able to walk once again.

Obituaries

Curtis Hamilton “Curt” Fox

March 28, 1944 - June 25, 2025

Curtis Hamilton “Curt” Fox was born March 28, 1944, in McNary, Arizona to Comer Philip and Mary Belle (Anderson-Fast) Fox. He grew up in Oregon, and graduated from High School in Coeur d’Alene, Idaho in 1962; he then attended Prairie Bible School in Three Hills, Alberta, Canada, graduating in 1969.

He met his future wife, Mary Sandison, while visiting his parents and younger brother in Redding, California, during a summer break from Bible School. They were married on June 7, 1969, at Redding, and recently celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary.

Curt followed a number of occupations over his lifetime: logger, millworker, minister, truck driver, retail sales and law enforcement. He was ordained as a minister in 1972, and pastored churches in Happy Camp, California and Manning, Oregon. He retired from the Brookings Police Department in 2002, after 20 years of service, including time as a Student Resource Officer. His passion in life was encouraging others, especially working with at-risk youth and adults, helping them through difficult times. He said he wasn’t a “Law Enforcement Officer”, but a “Peace Officer” – helping others find peace in their lives. His last ‘avocation’ was cooking meals for Awana’s at First Baptist Community Church of Brookings, and for shut-ins. He passed away June 25, 2025, following a 2-year battle with cancer.

Curt is survived by his wife, Mary; two sons, Nathan (Melanie) and their children Elyse and James; John (Brittany) and their children Ethan and Charlotte. Also, sisters-in-law Anna Fox and Joyce Fox; nieces Tami Fox, Holly Fox, Cassia (Adam) Peeler and nephew Samuel (Katie) Fox --- plus numerous great-nieces and nephews and their families across Oregon and Washington. He was preceded in death by his parents, brothers John Harmon (Fast) Fox and Philip Warren Fox and nephews Terry and Tracy Fox. Interment will be with his mother and brothers in Sutherlin, Oregon.

A Celebration of Curt’s Life will be held at 11:00 a.m. on Saturday, October 4, 2025, at Grace Bible Church, 302 North Hazel Street, Brookings. In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations in Curt’s memory be made to the Awana Program at First Baptist Community Church, P.O. Box 4159, Brookings, OR 97415, or to Gideons International, P.O. Box 2674, Brookings, OR 97415. There will be a time of fellowship and story-telling downstairs after the service.

Marlin (Russ) Montgomery

May 8, 1946 - May 12, 2025

Russ Montgomery, affectionately known to many as Rusty, Papa, or “Doc”, passed away unexpectedly on May 12, 2025, just four days after his 79th birthday. As a loving husband, father, and "Papa," his passing leaves a deep void in the hearts of all who knew him. Yet, his unconditional love and deep devotion to others will endure. For Russ, family and friends always came first. He always made others feel seen, valued, and heard.

Born on May 8, 1946, Russ moved to Sonoma in his early high school years. It was at Sonoma Valley High School in 1961 that he met Joan Lennon, who became his life partner. They married in 1964 and celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in 2024. Russ worked as a butcher at Safeway, while attending Sonoma State University before graduating from the University of the Pacific, School of Dentistry in San Francisco.

Following graduation, Russ and Joan moved to Brookings, Oregon, where Russ opened his dental practice. For 36 years, he dedicated himself to his practice, impacting countless lives through his compassionate and expert care. Russ was also a dedicated community servant. He gave his time by serving on the school board and as a board member and Chairman for the Sutter Coast Hospital Board of Trustees. He also provided numerous outreach support efforts to offer essential dental care for those in need. Upon retirement, Russ served as Medical Director for Oral Health at AllCare.

More than a healer and "smile maker," Russ was a fixer of things. An avid runner and bike rider, he completed a marathon at age 55 and continued to enjoy running and long walks. He even convinced his sons to ride their bikes from Brookings to Sonoma—not once, but three times! Russ cherished family getaways at their Sunriver house, where they enjoyed biking, rafting, golfing, and late nights out on the deck. The 4th of July celebrations at the beach house—filled with family, fireworks, and non-stop fun—were always "epic."

After retiring in 2014, Russ and Joan returned to their roots in Sonoma, settling into Joan's family home. This new chapter brought immense joy, creating a central hub for countless laughter-filled family gatherings. A true master gardener, his talents are on full display at the 4th Street house. He continued to volunteer in the community, spending many hours with his nephew, Marty Herrick, supporting the Field of Dreams.

Russ's greatest joy was being Papa to his grandchildren. He embraced the role with an open heart, always prioritizing quality time and enthusiastically supporting their many pursuits. Russ's greatest gift was the precious time he gave—fully present—during special outings, teaching life lessons and offering boundless encouragement. Papa was always their biggest fan. Beyond cherished family time, Russ and Joan loved hitting the open road, traveling in their Airstream, which they considered their true home away from home.

Russ will be remembered not only for his professional dedication and unwavering principles but also for his warmth, kindness, signature humor, and unconditional love for all. He possessed a rare ability to connect with people and make them feel instantly at ease.

He is survived by his wife, Joan; their two sons: Matt (and wife Connie) and Mitch (and wife Shelly) and seven grandchildren: Kyle (and wife Michele), Kelly Montgomery (and husband Alex Moffit), Mason (and wife Jenna), Max (and wife Jessica), Myles, Mary, and Meah; and his brother John Montgomery.

He is also survived by his brother-in-law Ron Lennon (and wife Michelle) and sister-in-law Lynn Chevalier. His nephews are Ron Lennon (and wife Carrie and family), Peter Chevalier (and wife Jode and family), and John Paul Montgomery (and wife Kae). His nieces are Dominique Chevalier-Welsh (and husband Scott Welsh and family), Alicia Herrick (and husband Marty and family) and Aunt Francine Maffei.

He was preceded in death by his father, John H. Montgomery; his mother, Jean Berry Montgomery; and his brothers: James, Richard, and Robert, as well as nephew Nicolas Chevalier, Uncle Bill Maffei, Brother-in-Law Peter Chevalier and Sister-in-Law Sandy Lennon.

The fall bear eat-a-thon is on, ODFW warns of danger

Now that autumn weather has replaced hot summer days, bears have begun their annual fall eat-a-thon, known as hyperphagia, to prepare for winter.

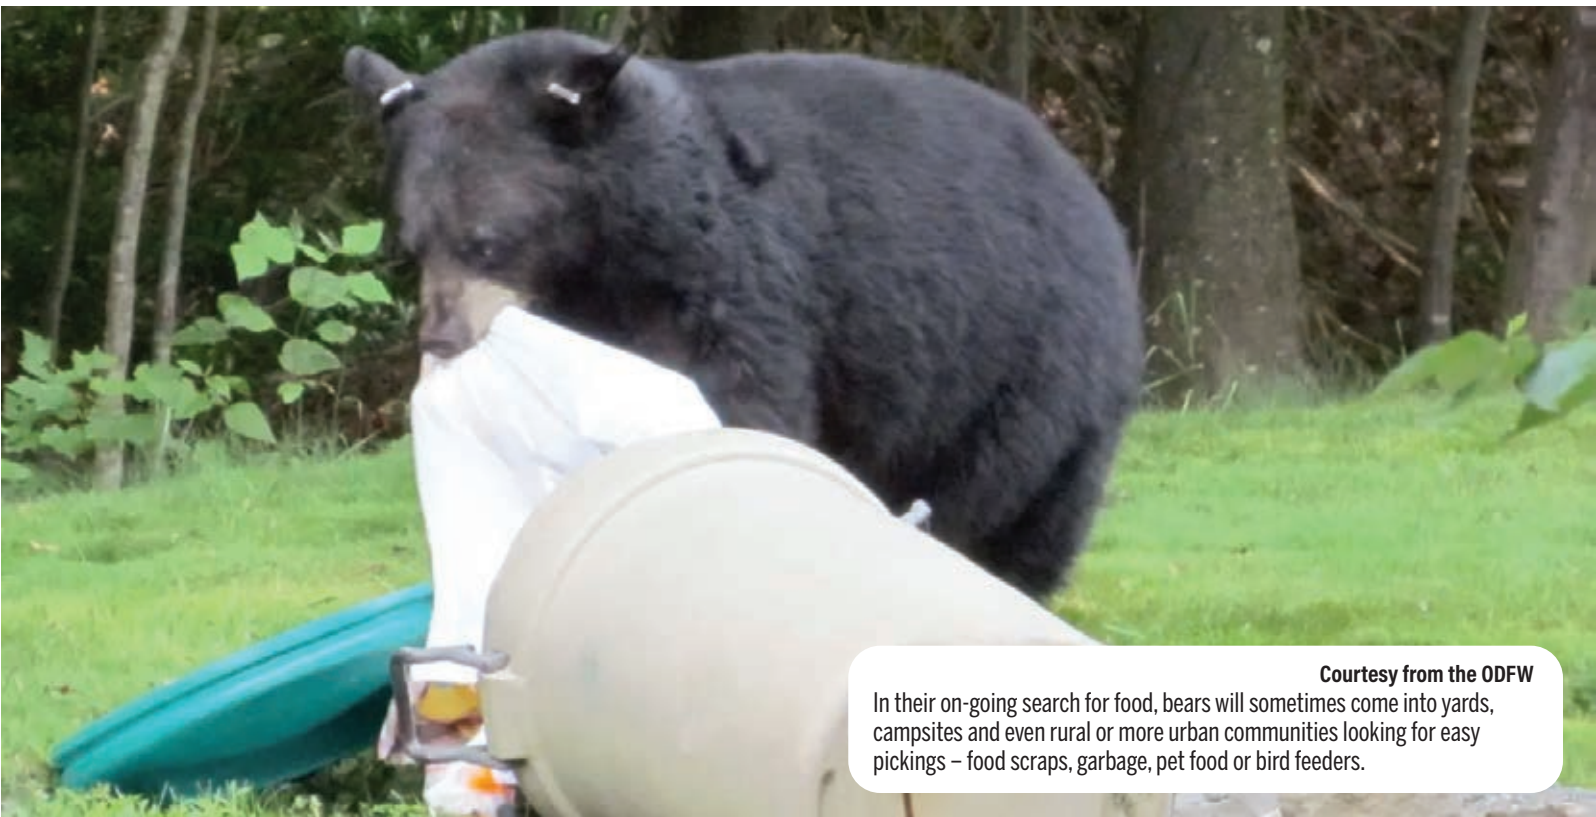

This intense feeding period begins in late summer when berries and fruits ripen and peaks when fruits like pears and apples are available. During this time, bears spend up to 20 hours a day foraging for food, according to a release from the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (ODFW).

Driven by the need to eat, bears will take advantage of free food – garbage, pet food, bird seed, livestock and poultry feed. State wildlife biologists urge Oregon residents, vacation rental managers, and visitors to remove or secure those food sources. Bears that become used to “people food” can pose a serious safety risk to people and pets.

Oregon’s black bears are highly concentrated along the coast, in the Cascades, and in the Blue Mountains. Coastal residents and visitors need to be especially vigilant as bears are common even in more populated and highly visited seaside towns.

However, the obligation also falls on vacation rental managers and guests to contribute to responsible coexistence with bears, according to the ODFW, which strongly encourages property managers to provide bear-resistant trash cans and educate guests how to use those cans and give them BearWise tips to minimize the risk of bear encounters or issues.

Skyler Gerrity, an

Courtesy from the ODFW
In their on-going search for food, bears will sometimes come into yards, campsites and even rural or more urban communities looking for easy pickings – food scraps, garbage, pet food or bird feeders.

ODFW Assistant Wildlife Biologist with years of experience working in coastal areas, says unsecured trash is one of the primary reasons bears are attracted to neighborhoods.

“Bears can smell food from miles away and home in on that source,” Gerrity said. “Leaving trash cans unsecured or accessible gives bears the opportunity to rummage through garbage, which can create a dangerous situation for people - and the bears too.”

Bears also have an incredible memory of where they have found food before – female bears pass this knowledge down to their young. Feeding bears, whether intentional or accidental, can have long-lasting negative effects on multiple generations of bears.

Most conflict between humans and bears is preventable, according to the ODFW.

“Bears don’t want to be around humans, but the prospect of an easy meal is often too good to resist,” the release states.

The ODFW urges residents and property managers to remove items that attract bears to the area as the most important step to protect people and ensure bears stay healthy and wild.

Follow these tips to be BearWise:

- Never feed or approach bears. Feeding bears, whether you mean to or not, will cause them to associate humans with food. It is also against the law in Oregon (ORS 496.730).
- Secure food, garbage and recycling. Ensure trash, compost bins and dumpsters are secure by using locking or screw-on lids, metal bars over dumpsters, or fully enclosed trash storage. Take trash out immediately before pick-up, not the night before pickup.
- Remove bird feeders. Birds have plenty of naturally available food sources.

A black bear tried its best to get into a Neskowin homeowner’s bear resistant trash can. The homeowner then built a small shed to enclose the trash can. The persistent bear left its prints and claw marks on the shed but did not succeed in breaking into it. This resident understands the need to be BearWise and keep black bears wild.

- Feed pets inside and store food indoors. Pet food attracts bears and other wildlife, putting your pets and wildlife at risk.
- Clean and store grills after each use.
- Alert neighbors to unusual bear activity (continued sightings during daylight hours, lack of wariness around humans or pets, etc.). Share these tips with your neighbors.

These simple yet effective steps will go a long way to avoid conflict and keep bears and people safe, the ODFW release states.

Contact your local district ODFW office if you need assistance with a bear-human conflict or observe unusual or aggressive behavior from a bear. Report human safety concerns to Oregon State Police.

for deluxe cabins/yurts).

- Boat moorage fees will increase from $15 to $20.
- Overnight parking, overflow camping and primitive camping fees will increase from about $10 to at least $15 per night.

The park system faces a projected fourteen percent budget shortfall due to increasing costs, impacts from record visitation and a reduction in lottery funds for operations.

These targeted fee adjustments, along with internal efforts to reduce costs, modernize procurement and explore new revenue, will help maintain current service levels and ensure the system remains strong and accessible now and in the future.

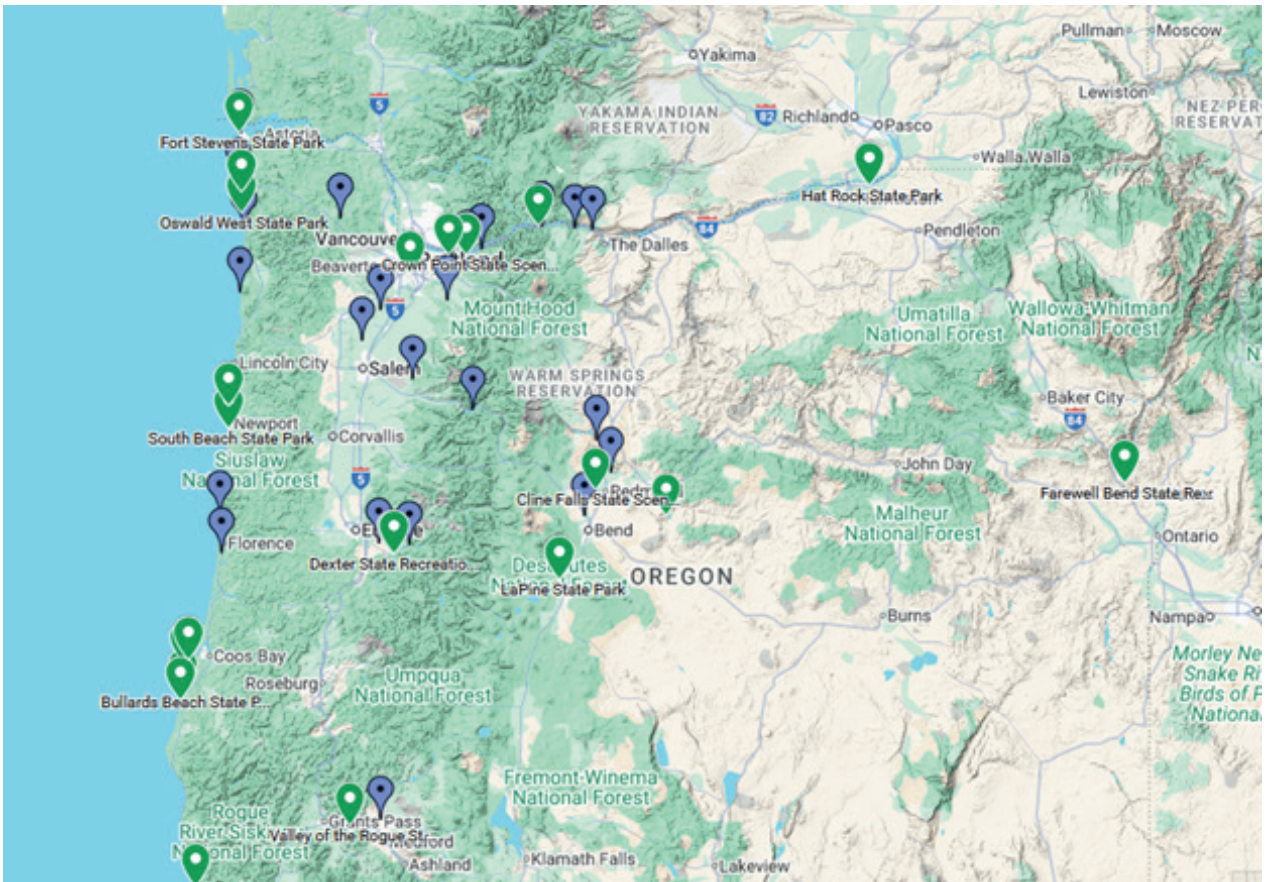

“State parks are some of the most beloved spaces in Oregon, but we have struggled as a state to sustainably fund them. We’re working to reimagine the future of Oregon State Parks as financially resilient system that will serve generations to come,” said Director Lisa Sumption.

State parks have three main sources of funding: a little less than half comes from constitutionally dedicated lottery funds, about fifteen percent comes from recreational vehicle license plate fees and roughly thirty-five percent comes from park fees from visitors. It is not funded by general fund taxes.

For visitors looking to save on parking, there are annual and twenty-four-month parking permits available for Oregon State Parks. The twelve-month parking permit costs $30 and the twenty-four-month permit costs $50. They can be purchased online.

Oregon State Parks is also collecting feedback to help guide its effort to reimagine a stronger resilient park system. The survey includes priorities for new and existing experiences, services and amenities as well as views on public-private partnerships, sponsorships and other funding options.

Oregon’s earthquake preparedness

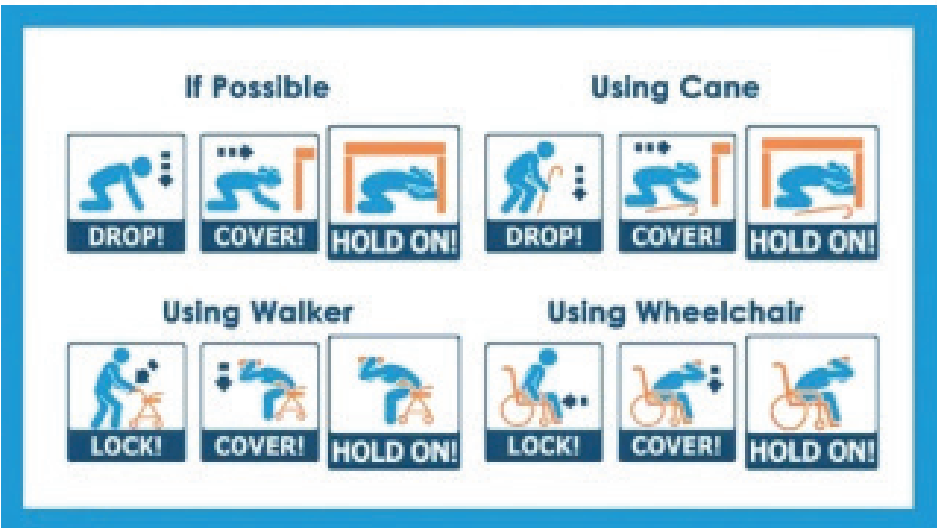

CIIM Intensity	People's Reaction	Furnishings	Built Environment	Natural Environment
I	Not felt			Changes in level and clarity of well water are occasionally associated with great earthquakes at distances beyond which the earthquakes felt by people.
II	Felt by a few.	Delicately suspended objects may swing.
III	Felt by several; vibration like passing of truck.	Hanging objects may swing appreciably.
IV	Felt by many; sensation like heavy body striking building.	Dishes rattle.	Walls creak; window rattle.
V	Felt by nearly all; frightens a few.	Pictures swing out of place; small objects move; a few objects fall from shelves within the community.	A few instances of cracked plaster and cracked windows with the community.	Trees and bushes shaken noticeably.
VI	Frightens many; people move unsteadily.	Many objects fall from shelves.	A few instances of fallen plaster, broken windows, and damaged chimneys within the community.	Some fall of tree limbs and tops, isolated rockfalls and landslides, and isolated liquefaction.
VII	Frightens most; some lose balance.	Heavy furniture overturned.	Damage negligible in buildings of good design and construction, but considerable in some poorly built or badly designed structures; weak chimneys broken at roof line, fall of unbraced parapets.	Tree damage, rockfalls, landslides, and liquefaction are more severe and widespread with increasing intensity.
VIII	Many find it difficult to stand.	Very heavy furniture moves conspicuously.	Damage slight in buildings designed to be earthquake resistant, but severe in some poorly built structures. Widespread fall of chimneys and monuments.
IX	Some forcibly thrown to the ground.		Damage considerable in some buildings designed to be earthquake resistant; buildings shift off foundations if not bolted to them.
X			Most ordinary masonry structures collapse; damage moderate to severe in many buildings designed to be earthquake resistant.

Governor Tina Kotek has officially declared October 16th through the 19th as a critical time for statewide earthquake preparedness, urging all Oregonians to join a massive effort backed by two key initiatives: the Great Oregon ShakeOut and the Great Oregon Camp-In. The proclamation emphasizes that "the safety and resilience of Oregonians depend on our collective understanding of how to prepare for earthquakes and other natural disasters," calling practice drills essential for saving lives. The efforts, led by the Oregon Department of Emergency Management (OEM), aim to cultivate a culture of preparedness. The core of the preparedness push centers on International ShakeOut Day. Oregonians should know and practice the lifesaving action: "Drop, Cover and Hold On." "The ShakeOut is more than a drill, it's a reminder that preparedness saves lives," said Erin McMahon, director of the Oregon Department of Emergency Management. "By practicing together, we are less likely to panic in the moment; activities like the ShakeOut and Camp-In create a culture of resilience that strengthens our communities." Decades of research and expert consensus confirm that this action remains the safest immediate response during an earthquake, particularly in older structures. It's noted that during earthquakes, the greatest risk comes from falling debris, collapsing ceilings and shattering glass. Being inside the building and attempting to evacuate during shaking exposes individuals to serious injury.

The best practice is to stay low and take cover under sturdy furniture, which offers the best protection until the shaking stops and safe evacuation can begin.

"Whether it's cooking without power or talking through your emergency plan with loved ones, these activities help build confidence and readiness," said Kayla Thompson, OEM's Community Preparedness Coordinator. Thompson encourages

CURRY COASTAL PILOT

This year’s last Yard of the Month winners

Commercial Winner

Manley Art Center
Manager Rob Clift (l) with Peggy Patton and Jenny
Dwaileebe (far right).

Residential Winner

Brookings Building official Terry Konrady (r) with Peggy Rupert and Councilor Phoebe Pereda.

It’s been a fun year for gardeners who have been full of activity getting their yards ready with the hopes of becoming a Yard of the Month winner and Brookings’ residents weren’t disappointed.

September marks the end of the season for the Yard of the Month event that is sponsored by the City of Brookings.

Closing out the year, the residential winner was Peggy Rupert at 7180 Vista Ridge Drive. Her yard extended into her backyard and it was her pride and joy. It was evident how much love and care she has for her yard.

She mentioned she lost her husband, Mike Rupert, in January and credited him for much of the work. They moved into the home nine years ago and started from scratch. She noted that she studied garden design in college in Aspen.

Rupert said the first thing to go in was the Princess flowers. Her favorites plants are those that are unique and do their own thing, like the Kinoki Cypress.

On the commercial side, Manley Art Center at 433 Oak Street was the winner. This year is the 70th anniversary of the center.

Members and garden volunteers Peggy Patton and Jenny Dwaileebe spend a lot of time caring for the art center’s garden and said the flowers bloom earlier in the year in spring, but the garden is still beautiful.

families to make the activities fun, suggesting a "supplies scavenger hunt" using the "Be 2 Weeks Ready" toolkit or building a living room fort for non-powered activities.

Use the Be 2 Weeks Ready toolkit to guide your activities and have a Camp-In checklist, which should include a complete your emergency plan. Taking stock of your emergency supplies is important as well as knowing how to prepare meals using alternative cooking methods, like a camp stove.

While earthquakes are often associated with well-publicized areas like California, the risk covers a much larger area of the United States. Oregon sits at the nexus of the Cascadia Subduction Zone, making robust preparedness efforts vital.

Before an earthquake strikes, experts advise taking these essential steps:

- Mitigation: Bolt furniture to walls and use safety latches on cabinet doors to prevent objects from falling.
- Insurance: Discuss coverage with your provider, specifically reviewing

EARTHQUAKES: WHAT YOU FEEL

EARTHQUAKE INTENSITY

An earthquake's intensity (or shaking) refers to how much the ground moves beneath your feet and varies from place to place depending on many factors. It is not the same as magnitude, which is a single value that describes the size of an earthquake.

THINGS THAT CONTROL SHAKING

- Type of earthquake
- Depth of earthquake
- Distance from fault rupture
- Ground material (soft soil, bedrock, etc.)
- Building construction (wood, brick, etc.)
- Your position (car, house, pool, etc.)

INTENSITY SCALE

I	Not felt
II	Very Weak
III	Weak
IV	Light
V	Moderate
VI	Strong
VII	Very Strong
VIII	Severe
IX	Violent
X	Extreme

ture to walls and use safety latches on cabinet doors to prevent objects from falling.

- Insurance: Discuss coverage with your provider, specifically reviewing extra expense and business interruption policies.

- Supplies: Assemble and store an emergency supply kit for a minimum of three days.

- Communication: Develop a communication plan that considers two-way radios or text messages as phone and cell towers may be down.

Even though the Great Oregon ShakeOut and the Great Oregon Camp-In have passed this year, they’re good reminders that Oregonians should prepare for earthquakes in the eventuality that one should occur in the region.
