

South Oregon Coastal Legends Fest opens to big first year

By NATE SCHWARTZ
Curry Coastal Pilot

The inaugural South Oregon Coastal Legends festival had huge community support last weekend, as the folks from Gold Beach Main Street saw success for their first annual fest. Set right on the pacific at the Event Center on the Beach at the Curry County Fairgrounds, the music festival themed after the unique folklore of the South Coast. Despite it being the first year, attendance exceeded expectation.

“We were actually very surprised at how well it went for the first year. We were all a little nervous about the turn-out, but it was great! We had a lot of people come, not just from Gold Beach, but Port Orford, Bandon, Brookings... It was nice to see the families there and everybody having fun,” said Ryan Valentine, Gold Beach Main Street’s Community Coordinator.

Storytelling and tributes to great American legends were a cornerstone of

Trio brings back rich history of the Hiouchi Bridge

By ROGER GITLIN
Country Media, Inc.

The rich history of the iconic Hiouchi Bridge has been brought back to light and on proud display at the Hiouchi Café on Highway 199.

Hiouchi’s unofficial Mayor, Walter Ussery, Del Norte Historical Society Director, Karen Beteljewski and graphic artist Curtis Wohlgmuth combined their talents and research acumen to bring back decades-old photographs of the original Smith River Bridge developed and constructed by the California Division of Highways, Bridge Department, in 1929. Transfer of ownership moved to the California Department of Transportation (Cal Trans) and the Bridge name was changed to the Hiouchi Bridge, spanning the Smith River at mile post 4.22, on 199.

When the original Smith River Bridge was demolished in July, 1989 it was believed all the rich history fell into the debris pile. Not so,

Thanks to this trio of dedicated historians, the process of bringing back the past has been a rewarding and successful venture. One can see the display at the Café.

A bit of history... The Smith River Bridge was a rare California example of the cantilever highway truss Bridge, a type that enjoyed brief popularity during the decade spanning the late 1920’s and 30’s. Because this type was best suited to specialized applications, only limited numbers were built in the State. In fact, there are only seven remaining, following the removal of the Smith River Bridge some 35 years ago. The iconic Smith River Bridge was likely influenced by the Carquinez Bridge in the North Bay (1923-27).

The construction of the Smith River Bridge was an element of the old Smith River Road

Wyden, Merkley and Hoyle announce NOAA’s support for Port Orford

Washington D.C. — U.S. Senators Ron Wyden and Jeff Merkley, along with U.S. Representative Val Hoyle, announced on Oct. 9 the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) Fisheries included specific support for Port Orford’s local economy and job growth in its National Seafood Strategic Implementation Plan.

“World-renowned seafood is synonymous with Oregon, and is a vital part of our coastal economy and a delicious part of our dinner tables,” Wyden said. “I’m gratified NOAA recognizes the important role Port Orford plays in sustaining the local and regional seafood industry. This plan will net local jobs for Curry County, while Oregonians will reel in enhanced availability of fresh, local seafood in the region.”

“Oregon seafood is the lifeblood of our coastal communities and economy, and when the industry thrives, all of Oregon thrives,” Merkley said. “This national strategy from NOAA—which supports the revitalization of the Port of Port Orford—will boost Oregon’s coastal fishermen and world-class seafood producers, creating jobs in Curry County and across the country.”

Bad Immigrants?

I recently returned from a wedding of my granddaughter to a very nice Hispanic man, Luis. Luis' parents are Mexican immigrants and the pride of their neighborhood. Another granddaughter is dating a Nicaraguan who is showing lots of great characteristics. My nurse is a Mexican immigrant. So where are all the horrible immigrants that Court Boice refers to? Where does he get his information? If it's from former president Trump, well we already know his problem with the truth.

I've done many searches of official documents and don't find Mr. Boice's numbers. In the worst case there are no more immigrants committing crimes than citizens. What is true is there are more immigrants now than in the past. In fact world migration is increasing with nearly 280 million this year.

So why is this happening? There are a number of reasons but one of the biggest is climate change with its devastating storms, droughts, ocean temperature change and acidification, coral reef destruction, melting of permafrost releasing methane. All of these things effect the way people live.

So Mr. Boice, we are responsible for most of these problems and therefore responsible for fixing it and helping those who have been damaged.

Ed Patterson

This is an appeal to all Del Norte County residents

During this election, there has been an increase in yard sign theft. This has been a problem for Democrats with Harris signs and Republicans with Trump signs.

As the leaders of the local Democratic and Republican Parties, we may not see eye to eye on many issues, but we are united on this point: stealing or vandalizing campaign signs is a crime!

The courts have ruled that displaying yard signs on private property is a constitutionally protected form of free speech. Taking these signs not only constitutes theft but also undermines the principles of democracy.

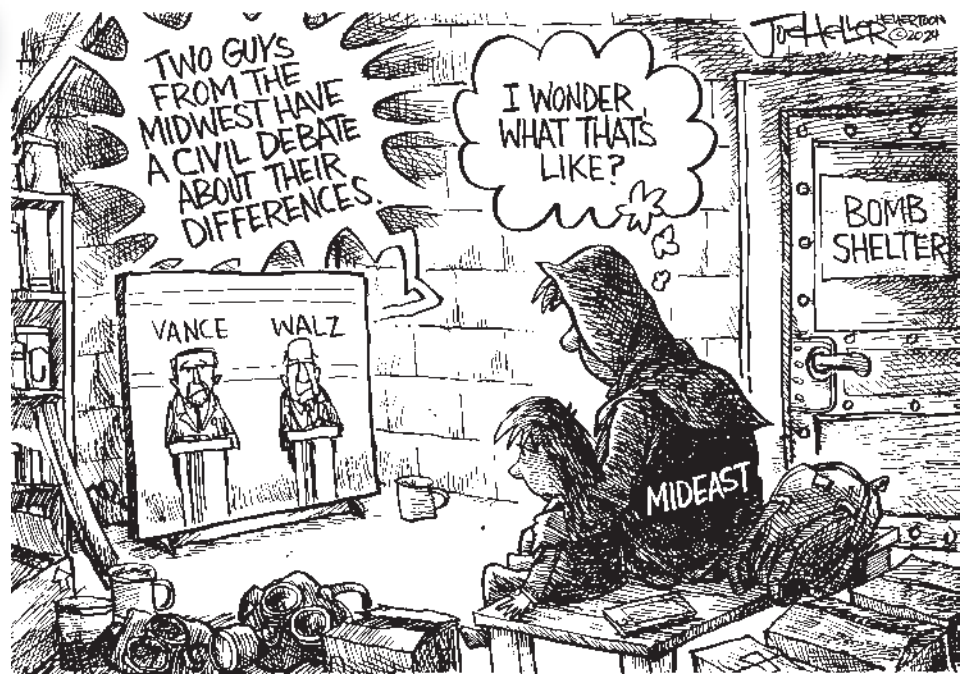

While you might not share your neighbors' preference for a candidate, it's important to honor their right to voice their opinions.

If you notice a political sign has been stolen or witness someone tampering with or stealing one, please report the incident to the Police (City) or Sheriff's (County) Department.

Please tell your family, friends, and neighbors to express their opinion by voting, not by committing crimes.

Why we can't take Oregon beaches for granted

By PHILLIP JOHNSON and CHARLIE PLYBON

Oregonians have the freedom to wander wherever they wish on the Oregon shore. The public is endowed with what is known as a "customary use right" to visit all 362 miles of our ocean beaches and rocky shores. Few citizens of other states enjoy this kind of unfettered access along the beach that was ensured for Oregonians and their visitors by our celebrated Beach Bill, initially passed by the legislature in 1967.

Today, however, this Oregonian legacy is under threat. Not because anyone is scheming to take away our rights—at least, not directly. Yet human actions are threatening our beaches from both directions. We may retain our access to the shore, but in coming years our access along the beach could be lost.

In Oregon, we like to say that "the beaches belong to the people," but that isn't exactly right. The key principle isn't ownership, in the sense of property. Rather, our right to travel the shoreline is based on something deeper and older, the customary use that goes back to the region's tribal history and continued on through European settlement. This public trust is established through a recreation zone that covers the entire shoreline. In Oregon, the beaches are common ground for everyone.

Oregon's entire shoreline has been public long enough that we tend to take this access for granted. When contemplating a visit to the waves, we just think in terms of where we want to go, not where we are allowed to be.

But our shoreline is now caught in what is known as the "coastal squeeze." Sea level rise and increased storm surges, driven by climate change, are pushing waves and tides higher and higher, speeding up erosion and flooding the beach more frequently. And on the landward side, more and more landowners are seeking to protect their property from those higher waves with shoreline armoring, such as seawalls and riprap revetments (structures made of boulders).

Over time, this will be a deadly combination. Hardened structures lead to increased erosion, both by deflecting waves onto adjoining shoreland and by causing scour at the front of the structure. At the same time, they deprive beaches of their natural sand supply. Higher seas and stronger storms pull sand offshore, but if nature is allowed to take its course, they replenish the beach by mobilizing sand from bluffs and dunes as they move upslope. Deprived of this fresh sand supply, beaches will narrow, becoming inaccessible to people first at high tide, and then at lower and lower tide levels. Eventually, beaches may disappear entirely, as waves slap against solid walls and riprap forms artificial peninsulas protecting a handful of coastal property owners.

Loss of the beach wouldn't just be a disaster for Oregonians who love the coast. The shoreline is also habitat for a range of plants and animals, from snowy plovers to sand verbenas to seals. Our beaches are especially critical to migratory shorebirds, as they stop over on their travels from hemisphere to hemisphere.

The desire of property owners to preserve their assets is understandable and they can always rationalize that one seawall spanning a limited stretch of the shore won't destroy the beach. But shoreline armoring has a cumulative effect, with each structure further accelerating the eventual erosion of entire stretches of the beach. Statewide Land Use Goal #18 restricts armoring to properties developed by Jan. 1, 1977, but this is a flimsy barrier. Cities and counties, confronted by concerned and often litigious landowners, are beginning to more frequently issue "exceptions" to allow riprap and shoreline armoring of otherwise ineligible properties. Unless we change course, shoreline armoring will spread along our coast at the expense of our public beaches, depriving Oregonians of recreation and leisure, while also irrevocably damaging shoreline ecosystems. Clearly, we need to step back, consider the future of our beaches, and develop new policies that will enable us to preserve this precious resource.

The Oregon Shores Conservation Coalition and the Surfrider Foundation are partnering in a new campaign, Oregon Beaches Forever, designed to foster a statewide conversation about our public shoreline. This will be a long-term effort to educate our community on the geology of the coast and the impending consequences of climate change, as well as our best available planning options to deal with these implications, to save Oregon's beaches.

We will be working together to develop a common understanding of the challenges facing our common shoreline—and from there, create a constituency for change.

We don't profess to know for sure at this point what the best policies would be for Oregon. In other states and countries, a variety of approaches are being undertaken, from outright buyouts of threatened properties, to rolling easements (in which land is rezoned as untenable for development once reached by high waters), to transfer development rights (through which owners give up their property in return for permission to develop at greater density elsewhere). Various practical and policy experiments are underway. Our goal is to study the alternatives and present them to Oregonians and our local decision-makers, so we can decide together how best to preserve our beaches in the era of climate change.

For generations now, Oregonians and their visitors have cherished Oregon's coast and public beaches. The ultimate goal of Oregon Beaches Forever is to assure that this shared inheritance is enjoyed by many more generations to come. To do this, we will have to build a vision and a movement for long-term shoreline protection. We urge all Oregonians who share our love for the Oregon coast to join us in this effort.

Phillip Johnson is the Shoreline and Land Use Manager for the Oregon Shores Conservation Coalition.

Charlie Plybon is the Sr. Oregon Policy Manager for Surfrider Foundation

Legends

the festival, with mythic figures the likes of Bigfoot, Paul Bunyan, and Smokey Bear the major theme of the event. In addition to music acts, the oral storytelling tradition was a big part of the fun. Local tribes recalled the myths and histories of First Peoples, and sasquatch chasers shared their encounters.

The music certainly didn't take back seat, though. The Danielle Kelly Soul Project, Apple Barner, and The Ferguson Brother all brought their Southern Oregon sounds to the table as Oregonian acts, contributing to the emphasis on local storytelling. Tribute acts for Fleetwood Mac and the Eagles, Fleetwood's Bac and One of These Nights brought familiar favorites to the party. The bluesey Americana group American Mile headlined on their visit from Los Angeles, tying up the theme of American myths and legends up wonderfully.

Local vendors were on hand with refreshments, merch, and artisan goods. Community sponsors like Porthole Café, Woof's Pet Supplies, and the Tu Tu' Tun Lounge all contributed toward making the event possible and toward Gold Beach Main Street's goal of fostering local businesses and community.

"We had some restaurants that reached out to us that all said they had a spike in attendance over the weekend. Which was one of our goals, to kind of give that one little extra bump at the end of tourist season," said Valentine.

Gold Beach Main Street is currently gearing up for the holidays with their annual Halloween and Christmas events. However, the plans for the Second Annual South Oregon Coastal Legends Fest are on the docket.

"We have Halloween, then our Santa Drive Thru which we do every year. We counted about 300-350 stockings that we gave away to kids in the community. So, we're planning that right now. I imagine as soon as that's over, we'll start planning on next year's event. This year took a good 10 months to plan, and a lot of volunteers. Our volunteers were amazing," concluded Valentine.

OPRD seeking community feedback on Oregon State Parks

Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD) is seeking to understand how Curry County residents and visitors would like to enjoy and conserve the 20 state parks in Curry County through an online survey and three public meetings this month.

This feedback is the first of several opportunities to provide input during the two-year process to update the Curry County State Parks Master Plan adopted in 2003. The master planning process is an opportunity to assess natural, cultural and recreation resources as well as management goals and community needs.

The draft master plan is slated to be finished in late 2025 and will provide a 20-year vision with a menu of options that can be implemented over time as funds become available.

The public is invited to share feedback on how they use state parks in Curry County now as well as opportunities for the future. Options to provide feedback include:

- Online:
 - Survey runs now through Nov. 15, at www.surveymonkey.com/t/QMBPQCS
 - Online meeting noon to 1 p.m. Monday, Oct. 28. Advance registration is required: <https://us06web.zoom.us/join/zoom/register/tZYpc-GorTluHNZOIIBjaG8WZZOlgud19uFa#/registration>

- In-person meetings:
 - Noon to 2 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24 at Southwestern Oregon Community College, 96082 Lone Ranch Pkwy, Brookings
 - 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 24 at Port Orford Public Library, 1421 Oregon St, Port Orford

During each meeting, OPRD will share information about the master planning process and offer opportunities for community feedback and questions.

Oregon State Parks properties in Curry County include Cape Blanco, Humbug Mountain, Otter Point, Cape Sebastian, Pistol River, Samuel H. Boardman, Harris Beach, Crissey Field, Alfred A. Loeb and several others.

Once OPRD gathers this initial feedback, staff will incorporate it into the plan development. There will be additional opportunities to provide feedback during the planning phase and then again when the draft plan is available.

The draft master plan will balance the feedback received from stakeholders throughout the planning process. The management goals, strategies and development concepts proposed will incorporate priorities and concerns heard throughout the process.

Once the final draft master plan is complete, it will be presented to the Oregon State Parks and Recreation Commission for adoption.

For more details and information, follow the draft master planning process on our website: <https://storymaps.arcgis.com/stories/28def2137d3a4edf6e47ed660de3091>.

Bridge

(now Highway 197) in the development of the Redwood Highway. The plans for this roadway relocation and improvement were dated as early as 1926, though final bridge plans were not ready until 1928. Roadway improvements were being undertaken by convict labor (pre-Pelican Bay State Prison era).

Economy and local conditions dictated the choice of cantilever design; the type required no expensive falsehood be placed in the channel. The Smith River carried a large drift and was apt to rise rapidly at any time of the year, conditions which would have threatened any false-work, any structure this would have supported, and workers as well.

the State awarded the construction contract to the Parker-Schram Company. Construction began May 21.

The contractor built a small industrial railroad from the storage site to the bridge site. Painting was completed by July 6, 1929.

Governors C.C. Young (California) and I.L. Patterson (Oregon), highway officials from both States and Washington State along with a thousand on-lookers gathered at the Noon hour for the dedication.

The ceremony was highlighted by the wife of the chairman of the California Highway Commission breaking a bottle of Smith River water (Prohibition was the law, then) upon the Bridge and christened the Bridge "Hiouchi," the Tolowa word for "blue water."

The Hiouchi Bridge

is described as a through steel cantilever truss with suspended center span. The specifications of the Bridge are as follows:

- Length: 615 feet overall
- Width: 25.6 feet

- Two lane 24 ft.

Roadway which crosses the Smith at right angles (no skew)

- Cost: $154,987.47.

• Lifespan: 1929-1989. Sixty years. May she RIP.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF MITIGATED NEGATIVE DECLARATION
As required by the California Environmental Quality Act, the California Department of Fish and Wildlife's Fisheries Restoration Grant Program is providing Public Notice of the completion of a Mitigated Negative Declaration for its proposed project to enhance the capability of streams to produce anadromous salmonids by maintaining, restoring, and improving stream habitat essential to salmonid production. Implementation Project Locations: Various streams in Humboldt, Mendocino, Del Norte, Siskiyou, Stanislaus, San Joaquin, San Luis Obispo, Sonoma, Marin, Santa Barbara, and Ventura.
Description of Project: This project will use grant funds approved by the California Legislature to initiate activities that are designed to restore salmon and steelhead habitat in coastal streams and watersheds that historically produced large populations of salmon and steelhead. The replacement of barrier culverts with bridges or natural stream bottom culverts will allow adult and juvenile salmonids access to additional spawning and rearing habitat. The installation of in-stream structures will recruit and sort spawning gravel for adult salmon and steelhead and create summer rearing pools and over-wintering habitat for juveniles. The mitigated negative declaration can be accessed online at https://www.wildlife.ca.gov/Grants/FRGP/MND. It is also available for review upon request at California Department of Fish and Wildlife offices: 1010 Riverside Drive, West Sacramento, CA 95691; the Northern Regional office: 1455 Sandy Prairie Ct, Suite J, Fortuna, CA 95540; the Bay Delta Regional office: 3633 Westwind Blvd., Santa Rosa, CA 95403; the Central Regional office: 20 Lower Ragsdale Dr., Suite 100, Monterey, CA 93940; and the South Coast Regional office: 4556 Lampson Ave., Los Alamitos, CA 90720. please contact Mr. Timothy Chorey at (916) 838-0760 to arrange a viewing. Oregon joining bipartisan group of states suing TikTok over accusations of addicting young people

By LYNN TERRY
Oregon Capital Chronicle

Oregon is set to file a lawsuit against TikTok over allegations that the popular social media company is endangering youth and trying to addict them.
With the state's courts closed on Tuesday for a software upgrade, Attorney General Ellen Rosenblum said the suit will be filed Wednesday in Multnomah County Circuit Court. Oregon is joining 13 other attorneys general in suing the company.
The Oregon lawsuit will seek a court injunction against the popular social media company, repayment of profits and penalties up to $25,000 per violation,

Rosenblum said in a release. "Social media companies, out of basic greed, intentionally design their platforms to addict users and keep them scrolling," Rosenblum said in a statement. "The more time users spend on the platform, the more money in Tik Tok's pockets! Tragically, it is our youth who are most harmed by these predatory practices."
The complaint said that Tik Tok's alleged misconduct is an integral part of its business model and that it tries to maximize the time users spend on the site to boost revenues from selling ads, Rosenblum's office said. Officials declined to release a copy of the complaint until it's filed.

They said the suit alleges that Tik Tok has violated Oregon's consumer protection laws by:

- "Deploying a content-recommendation system designed to be addictive to maximize the time young users spend on the platform.
- "Using manipulative features to exploit children's psychological vulnerabilities and are deployed to keep kids and teens on the platform for longer.
- "Engaging in a scheme that deceptively markets the platform and platform features as promoting young users' safety and well-being."

More than 60% of teens between 13 and 17 years old use the social media site, according to a 2023 Pew Research study. It found that most teens were using Tik Tok daily.
"From depression and self-harm rates, to impacts on sleep, physical health and emotional well-being, we have a responsibility to look at what's happening to our youth and hold tech companies accountable," Rosenblum said.
The other attorneys general – both Democrats like Rosenblum and Republicans – filing similar suits are from California, New York, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, North Carolina, New Jersey, South Carolina, Vermont, Washington and the District of Columbia.

To date, 23 state attorneys general have filed actions against Tik Tok, including existing actions filed by Utah, Nevada, Indiana, New Hampshire, Nebraska, Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas and Texas.

Coos-Curry Electric Co-Op and Beacon Broadband combat food insecurity with annual drive

By NATE SCHWARTZ
Curry Coastal Pilot

The Coos-Curry Electric Cooperative (CCEC) and Beacon Broadband are launching their annual food drive to combat local food insecurity. Along with their subsidiary Beacon Broadband, the South Coast co-op will be collecting monetary and non-perishable food donations throughout October, to be given to community food banks and pantries.

“It’s really our way of sharing our concern for the community. Being a cooperative, we want to invest in the communities we serve,” said co-op Communications Specialist Kelsey Bozeman. “We try to extend our outreach to our whole entire service territory. We work with local food banks and pantries to give food when they might need it most.”

Donations will be accepted through the Coos-Curry Electric Charitable Foundation, with 100% of the proceeds going directly to local food banks. Any donation of non-perishable food can be dropped off at any of the CCEC or Beacon Broadband offices. While food donations are always accepted and appreciated, there is a push from food banks for more cash donations.

“Last couple of years we’ve noticed that food banks have definitely been going toward monetary donations because they have a little more buying power. Those funds can be more catered toward their needs,” explained Bozeman.

And the need is great. According to Feeding America, nearly 13% of both Coos and Curry Counties are experiencing food insecurity. This extends far beyond just the unhoused and the ‘needy’; many households above the poverty line still face this issue. Feeding America states that 16% of Curry and 19% of Coos counties’ food insecure are above the maximum SNAP threshold.

Your donations will go directly toward feeding the most vulnerable among us, right here in our communities. Every dollar counts so consider making a donation online, or at any of the CCEC and Beacon Broadband offices today.

“We are hoping if you see our office, or our car, or crew, you could just throw a little in the bucket because everything counts,” said Bozeman.

Gold Beach PD Domestic Violence Awareness Month

By NATE SCHWARTZ
Curry Coastal Pilot

Throughout the month of October, the Gold Beach Police Department and their community partners will be supporting the SAFE Project in commemorating National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. The GBPD held the annual Domestic Violence Awareness Walk and Resource Fair this past weekend.

Locals donned purple and came out for a one-mile walk to raise awareness and donations for the SAFE Project. The SAFE acronym stands for Safety, Advocacy, Freedom, and Empowerment, and the organization strives to secure those ideals for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault. SAFE Project advocates are available 24 hours a day, to provide crisis responses for those experiencing or trying to flee dangerous domestic situations.

Local partners McKay's Market provided water bottles for participants, and were joined by Gold Beach Headstart and Wally's House, as well as other local law enforcement, to stand against domestic violence alongside the Gold Beach PD.

More events are planned for the month through the SAFE Project. Join your community in helping to prevent domestic violence, and in advocating for the victims in your neighborhood. Come out to an event, contribute

“Our fishermen are the heart of Oregon’s coastal communities,” said Rep. Hoyle. “NOAA is specifically focused on the resilience of the seafood sector in Port Orford, which will help create coastal jobs and support the health of our seafood industry. In Congress, I’ll continue working to bring back Oregonian taxpayer dollars to support economic growth and sustainability on the Coast.”

“As both Mayor of Port Orford as well as Manager of the Port I am ecstatic to see that the hard work and planning by the Port of Port Orford and all of its stakeholders has gotten this National recognition. The revitalization of the Port of Port Orford will change the tides of possibility for our region,” said Pat Cox, Mayor of Port Orford and Port Manager at Port of Port Orford. The U.S. seafood industry is critical to enhancing public health and nutrition, creating jobs, and building a climate resilient food strategy. It is facing unprecedented challenges resulting in an urgent situation for many fisheries and connected communities and putting our supply of sustainable seafood at risk. Ensuring a supply of sustainable seafood for U.S. consumers is a key part of NOAA Fisheries’ mission.

Bandon arson incident

On Oct. 3, around 12:58 pm, North Coos dispatch received a call of an active structure fire on Leeward Lane in Bandon.

Local fire, Bandon Police and CCSO Sgt. Slater responded to the scene. Once Bandon Police arrived, they quickly discovered the suspect was still on scene and was subsequently detained for Sgt. Slater’s Arson investigation. Soon after, Sgt. Slater identified the suspect as Ian A. Ward (39). Upon further investigation, Ward was arrested for arson in the second degree and reckless burning.

Ward was transported to Coos County Jail where he was booked on the requested charges. “Police action is not indicative of guilt. All persons are presumed innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.”
