

Brad Alcorn ready to serve Brookings

ALCORN

Appointed to City Council on April 6 during special meeting

BRIAN WILLIAMS
The Pilot

Brad Alcorn could have spent retirement enjoying the outdoors. After devoting 34 years to serving his hometown as a peace officer with the Fresno Police Department, no one would have begrudded him for hanging a gone fishing sign. Spend a couple of minutes with Alcorn, 57, and it becomes clear he wants to give back to the community. He's spent the past couple of years, sitting on the City of Brookings Parks and Recreation Commission and the Curry County Budget Committee and working with Sheriff John Ward to bring a K9 program into the department. "Anytime you have the opportunity to help your community like this as long as I am physically capable I will certainly do it," Alcorn said.

He became even more immersed in the community after being appointed to the Brookings City Council during a special meeting on April 6, filling the Position 1 seat vacated by Bill Hamilton. He received the oath of office from City Manager Janell Howard that night.

"I take that oath seriously. I am all in. I am 100 percent committed," Alcorn said. "I'm not doing this to say I'm going to be running for this office. I haven't committed to that choice, but what I am committed to is I'm committed to doing this job to the best of my ability and to making sure

Gold Beach extends emergency declaration

LINDA PINKHAM
The Pilot

Gold Beach city councilors unanimously extended the city's resolution R1920-10 emergency declaration "until further notice" at their regular "virtual" meeting on Apr. 6.

Conditions that led to the Council emergency declaration on March 24 "have declined, rather than improved," according to the staff recommendation in the board packet. The original emergency declaration mirrored the statewide school closure date of Apr. 28, but it's likely the schools will not reopen this school year.

Uncertainty about what the governor plans to do as the state begins to eventually ramp up led to the decision to not choose a specific date. Instead of having to potentially extend it several times, the resolution can be rescinded at any time.

In other business, the council moved the budget committee meeting dates from Apr. 23-24 to May 13-14.

The council also made the gas tax measure withdrawal from the ballot official by councilors voting their approval. The measure had been pulled on the last day to withdraw, Mar. 18, with the approval of Mayor Karl Popoff.

"Given the uncertainty right now because of the pandemic, we just didn't think it was reasonable or prudent to proceed on the May ballot," said City Administrator Jodi Fritts when she announced the withdrawal of the measure last month. "As things

Financial roller coaster

Curry Health Network CEO addressed the good and the bad

LINDA PINKHAM AND
BRIAN WILLIAMS
The Pilot

It's been a rough couple of weeks for everyone involved with Curry Health Network. Curry Health Network CEO Ginny Williams spent nearly two hours at a special board of director's meeting on Thursday, April 9, explaining the dismal financial figures for the organization for the previous quarter and the difficult cost-reduction actions the organization took to remain solvent. The following night, April 10, after another special board meeting, Williams went live on CHN's Facebook page for nearly 30 minutes, answering questions, but shared some positive news related to its finances. CHN lists six locations on its website — Curry General Hospital, Curry Medical Practice and Curry Medical West in Gold Beach; Curry Medical Center in Brookings; and Curry Family Medical in Port Orford. Williams said that even with their cost-reduction plan if they had not received significant help, CHN would have "run out of cash by June." Fortunately, some of the work behind the scenes is starting to pay off as CHN learned it received a portion of the CARES Act. "They distributed $30 billion directly to hospitals and Curry Health Network received approximately $957,000 today," Williams said on April 10. "In addition, we've submitted our application and our loan for the SBA portion of the CARES Act, we've been approved for $4.4 million." Of that $4.4 million, Williams said $770,000 is estimated that CHN will have to repay, but it won't have to start repayment for six months. The terms of the loan are 1 percent interest and it can be paid over two years, she explained. Also, Advanced Health and AllCare Health will be distributing early some incentive funds to every hospital that they work with where they have members. "Knowing the funding sources that we have and that have been committed to us I feel very, very confident that Curry Health Network will be here now and long into the future," Williams said. And I can't wait for the day where we have all of our providers too busy and not able to see everybody because we have a thriving organization."

Cutting Expenses
The larger financial woes for the health network have occurred as volumes of business have dropped as the COVID-19 virus has become the focus of hospitals across the country, and elective surgeries and procedures were canceled to preserve personal protective equipment needed for hospital workers across the state to safely treat coronavirus patients. In addition to not performing elective procedures, patients have avoided coming to the clinics for routine doctor visits. "Because of the financial situation that we found ourselves in we have been needing to make very significant and very painful decisions as it would relate to our employees, who we consider family," Williams said. "We have gone into a significant cost-reduction plan and that would

Brookings, Harbor firefighters making birthday house calls

LINDA PINKHAM
The Pilot

Staying home is hard for all of us during the COVID-19 stay-at-home order, but what if it's your child's birthday, with no party or friends? Calling the Brookings or Harbor fire departments isn't usually the right solution for social isolation, but these are special times. "In these long days of homeschooling and isolation, we would like to announce a special birthday gift," say Facebook posts from both Brookings and Harbor firefighters to parents and guardians.

"If your Pre-K through high school child has an April or May birthday, we want to be a part of it. This will include a fire truck visiting your house with lights and air horns, wishing your child a happy birthday! We will let the whole neighborhood know it's your child's special day." Both fire departments want to help your children celebrate their "at home isolation birthday parties." The visit does not include a ride on a fire truck but the firefighters say, "It's the next best thing! We will not be exiting the truck or allowing anyone inside it at this time, but we think this will brighten their day regardless! Get in touch and we will do our best to make it happen. A tip of the helmet to Brookings Fire, South Dakota for the fun idea!" A friend tagged engineer/firefighter Caitlyn Barbic at work one day with a birthday visit post by the Brookings, S.D., firefighters, thinking it was Brookings, Ore. An easy mistake that now has both local groups of firefighters doing lots of visits. "We went to seven houses last Sunday," Barbic said. "I've had messages from people in Hiouchi and Fort Dick, California and all the way on top of Cape Ferrello Road here. It's a great idea for other departments to do in the surrounding areas." Another couple of ideas to brighten up the celebration, even more, are to decorate the yard with balloons and signs and organize a drive-by parade of your child's friends. To arrange a visit from either Brookings or Harbor fire departments, call Brookings Chief Jim Watson at 541-469-1142 or Capt. J. Lee at 541-469-1141 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. In Harbor, call Engineer-Firefighter Caitlyn Barbic at 541-254-1182.

Juliet enjoyed her special birthday visit on April 2 from the Harbor Fire District.

Guest Commentary

Farewell, be well

LINDA PINKHAM

My brief but “spectacular” career as a small-town newspaper writer came to an abrupt end last week due to the present uncontrollable circumstances. I am writing today to thank everyone for reading my stories, sending me tips and telling me your stories for the pages of this paper. This has been one of the most enjoyable jobs I’ve held in my lifetime. I described it to friends as being like the paper for which the protagonist Norman Maclean writes in the book and film “A River Runs Through It.”

Put my last name in the search bar at currypilot.com and you will see why I loved this work because my work has been about our community and you. I found my stride with painting people portraits with words when I wrote the story about Trinity Sylvester, the port sampler. I became fascinated by the cranberry farming industry in “Cranberry Fields Forever” because they are a staple in my cooking. I was ecstatic to cover fishing stories, like “Seining the Rivers” because fishing is the reason I moved here. I especially love covering stories where the community comes together to solve big problems, like the “Handy Heroes” in last week’s edition. I started at the paper last summer, within the first month after this already fragile news enterprise was rescued from a lengthy bankruptcy by the current owners. Everything that could go wrong did — the real estate didn’t come with the business, so we had to move the Pilot and Triplicate offices, and then more recently the actual printing of the newspaper. The phone company wouldn’t allow us to keep the old phone numbers because the previous owners hadn’t paid the bill, which was then discharged in bankruptcy. The web domain couldn’t be sorted out from the other company’s holdings, so the email addresses from before didn’t work and the web archive disappeared. It’s a wonder anyone was able to find us. Then new laws in California made it impossible to continue distributing the paper through carriers, and the post office, with its struggles, has had a difficult time fulfilling that role. It’s been hard. It’s a miracle the paper has survived to this point at all! Community newspapers are very special to small towns because they cover the news that you won’t find in “USA Today,” “The New York Times,” or even “The World” in Coos Bay. The new owners are doing everything they can, but it’s going to be up to you whether a community newspaper remains in your town. Just like the restaurants that are having to survive off selling take-out only, this business is being starved under the current circumstances because businesses don’t advertise when their customers have been asked to stay at home. Events have been canceled everywhere, so there’s no ad revenue with those either. Classified advertising has already been on the decline in the face of strict competition from online ad sites. Every newspaper business is very succinctly controlled by advertising percentages and revenue versus the size of the news hole. And that is why my position as a staff writer needed to be eliminated. This paper is trying its best to keep bringing this community the joy of having a paper that’s all about here instead of far-off places. Please support them where and when you can — subscribe, renew, buy an ad. I’ll still be writing somewhere because that’s what I do, and who knows, maybe I’ll be back here someday. Stay safe, stay well, and be kind.

Letters to the Editor

A disappointed patient of CHN

Editor: Whatever were you thinking when, during a worldwide pandemic, you fire, dismiss and furlough over 200 personnel, all of whom may be critical to the care of the communities in Curry County! Are the almighty dollar and your “bottom line” worth the lives of the citizens of these communities? It is indeed a sad day when doctors are given notice because “they cost the hospital too much”.

And the saddest thing is none of this was shared with the communities you serve before you did it. You and the Board of Directors have decided that to save the hospital, not the people, you will cut costs by depleting it of the very reason the hospital exists.....people to care for people when they are sick and in need. How dare you? Where am I supposed to go now that my orthopedist is no longer available or when I need a consultation with my cardiologist. Not to mention a sudden change in my primary care MD, negotiated by a phone call.

All three of my care providers are no longer there, to provide me the support and care I need. How dare you do this! Your hospital has been in the “red” since you took over. Is it because of the cost of personnel or poor management? Maybe you and the board should take a long look at what you have done, all in the name of “health care” for the county you serve.

Carol Betush

Come together for CHN

Editor: To say COVID-19 has caused havoc on our lives would be an unfair understatement. To blame the pandemic for every woe that abounds us would also be very unfair. The financial state of the Curry Health Network has been devastated by this virus but that’s not the only reason for CHN’s current monetary crisis. The recently opened, much-needed emergency center in South Curry County has come at a huge cost to the Network. That tremendous cost has reactively and drastically cut the staff and services at Curry General Hospital in Gold Beach. COVID-19 and its aftermath are to be blamed for exasperating most of this recent medical crisis. The truth is, this more accurately began as a much-divided County issue, that itself is devastating. This county health district should have had countywide unification long ago. It’s ridiculous that only the taxpayers north of the Pistol River are bearing the risks and cost of funding the more populous South County’s Curry Medical Center. South County’s longstanding refusal to participate in the county health district could effectively lead to CHN’s failure. That failure could tragically close the doors to the Medical Center in Brookings quickly and permanently. I can’t imagine a better time to unify this county, its health network and its citizens’ health choices together than right now.

Can’t keep up with electric rates

Editor: We see that Curry County Electric Coop. is again raising their rates. They excuse themselves as the last time was in 2016 so they are justified in doing it again. But they say it is only a small increase of 2.23%. Well...I don’t know how many others fare, but that last 3% resulted in $20 to $40 increase a month in my electric bill! Is everyone in Curry County ready to have their electric bill jump from $20 to $40 a month every few years? My income doesn’t keep pace with that! I’ll have to keep working until I am 90 years old. That looks like planned inflation to me. Who is it that benefits from inflation? Will anyone object? Is this rise in rates justified? Winston Churchill said, “The truth is incontrovertible, malice may attack it, ignorance may deride it, but in the end; there it is.”

Dear Abby by Abigail Van Buren

Home renovations hit a bump when mother-in-law moves in

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 15 years. Before we married, I purchased a house. He moved in a month after our wedding and made a lot of improvements to it. We are now in the process of doing more renovations. His mom moved in with us two months ago. Before she moved in, the plan was to take the downstairs – which has a living room and a bedroom – and convert it to a bedroom and a room leading out to a patio to have another entrance to our swimming pool. But she wants to decorate that room with her furniture and use it when her friends and family visit her. My husband says, “She is 77. She doesn’t have many more years left, so let her do what she wants.” He always adds, “I can tell her she isn’t wanted and find somewhere for her to go, but I don’t know where it would be.” I have always given in, but he doesn’t see it that way.

Should I let someone come into my house and redecorate it differently than how I want it? Please let me know if I am being selfish like he says. — INVADED IN THE SOUTH
DEAR INVADED: Let me get this straight: Your mother-in-law will occupy the downstairs of your home while you and your husband occupy the upstairs? If she wants to decorate her bedroom and the room in which she entertains her visitors, it won’t be a reflection of your taste, and frankly, it shouldn’t be. It is understandable.
What is clear to me is that you really don’t want her living under your roof. Because your husband can’t — or won’t — do the research to find reasonable alternatives for his mother, the task of finding something suitable is yours.
DEAR ABBY: My husband is terminally ill with cancer and hasn’t long to live. I would like to ask friends that, in lieu of flowers, they make donations to a scholarship fund for three very precious granddaughters who have spent most every day of their young lives with him. They are 10, 8 and 5. He has been their caregiver.

However, we have other grandchildren who are grown and have graduated from college, and great-grandchildren who are the same ages as these three granddaughters. I am afraid of offending these grandchildren by not including their children. Is asking for a memorial donation tacky of me to ensure these three granddaughters who have been so close to him are provided for? — PROVIDED FOR IN THE MIDWEST
DEAR PROVIDED: Your adult, college-educated grandchildren should be able to provide for their children without help from you. I assume there is a reason your husband has been the caregiver for the grandchildren whose future you are concerned about. If you and your husband would like to request that friends skip the flowers and contribute to a college fund for them, it’s your privilege. And if you get flak for it, you should explain the reason why.

Dear Reader

News related to the COVID-19 virus is changing by the minute. The Pilot continues to provide you with the most complete and accurate information possible about how these changes are affecting the lives of Curry County residents and visitors. Oregon Gov. Kate Brown's recent executive order directs businesses statewide to provide for customer and employee social distancing, and for employees to work from home whenever possible. So on Thursday, March 26, our office hours at The Pilot for walk-in customers will be temporarily shortened to 9 a.m. — noon. In addition, our reporters will be working from their home offices, to further limit the number of employees in our office and provide for everyone's health and safety. Meantime, feel free to call our customer service phone number at 541-813-1717. We will have staff on hand from 8 a.m. — 5 p.m. Monday through Friday to help with subscriptions, classi-

Coastline Neighbors waiving membership fees

Coastline Neighbors has been assisting people to safely live in the home of their choice since 2017. During the COVID-19 crisis, the organization is not able to offer all of its regular services.

At this time Coastline Neighbors will provide volunteer in-store shoppers, online grocery pick-up, and delivery of food. Help with medication delivery will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis. All eligible members will also receive friendly check-in phone calls.

Pattie Slagle, a board member for Coastline Neighbor, explained that normally the local non-profit operates on membership fees, but through the generosity of Wild Rivers Community Foundations, The Ford Family Foundation, Advanced Health and other local donors, Coastline Neighbors can waive all membership fees until July 1.

“We have eliminated the financial barriers the fees may have created,” Slagle stated. “There are at-risk people who shouldn’t mix with the general public during this time. Many people are fearful of going out to stores for groceries and necessary items. We want to help everyone have groceries delivered to their doorstep.”

Coastline Neighbors is working closely with other community organizations, local grocery stores and pharmacies to help meet the needs of Southern Curry County residents during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Volunteers are still needed, especially in the Gold Beach area. “We know there are individuals in our area who would like to help their neighbors right now,” Slagle said. “We hope they will contact Coastline Neighbors for more information on how they can volunteer.”

Volunteer applications can be downloaded from coastlineneighbors.org.

To obtain a paper copy of the volunteer application, Coastline Neighbors has partnered with Coos Curry Electric to make the forms easily available. In Gold Beach use the drive-thru window to pick up and drop off applications.

In Brookings, the applications are in a box at the front door and can be returned through the Night Deposit slot.

If you want to become a temporary member for the modified services during the COVID-19 crisis, call 541-207-1366 or email coastlineneighbors@gmail.com to start the process.

Share this information with your family, friends and neighbors.

continue to develop over the next weeks and months, we will see if we try in November.”

With confirmed cases of COVID-19 in Curry County, the city has also moved to Phase 2 of their operations planning. “All we’ve done since Mar. 13 is dealing with this,” Fritts said. “We are overrun to say the least. It’s been an interesting month.” City Hall is closed for no direct contacts from the public, and all business being conducted by phone, email and mail until noon daily. The business office and public works department are staggering shifts to maintain physical distancing to keep staff from getting sick.

Because businesses have had to be closed, the city has been receiving a number of requests for relief on sewer and water bills from commercial accounts, Fritts said.

“Obviously, we can’t ask the hotels to pay. They’re not bringing in any money, and it’s not their fault. This has been one of about 50 things we are dealing with every day. There’s probably going to be more of those kinds of questions coming up in next few weeks that we’re going to have to decide on how we’re going to deal with them.. We’ve been dealing with questions we haven’t been asked before. I think that’s the hardest thing for staff to deal with. We all expected to deal with a natural disaster, but none of us expected to deal with 1918.”

The next meeting is likely to be a virtual meeting scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on May 4, with business relief measures a topic on the agenda.

that I am as up to speed and as knowledgeable about the issues that everyone is concerned with and I know from being a police officer that there are two sides to every story.”

Alcorn and his wife, Jennifer, bought a house in Brookings nearly eight years ago. Jennifer is the high-energy executive director of the Southcoast Humane Society. They have been married for 29 years, have three children and several grandchildren.

Alcorn’s law enforcement career includes working patrol, narcotics, robbery, sexual assault, homicide for eight years, being a K9 handler, SWAT team member for 15 years, an auto theft team member, and career criminal team member.

“I had some very interesting assignments in my career,” Alcorn said. “I worked cases from petty theft to police corruption. I’ve had a very full and colorful career. Enjoyed it immensely.”

When it came time to plan for life after law enforcement, the Alcorns knew they wanted to live in a small town near the ocean. They looked at the East Coast, the Gulf Coast and made a couple of trips to Hawaii.

But in the end, nothing had what Brookings offered.

“When we describe Brookings, we talk about stepping back in time,” Brad said. “The values are very traditional. The people are nice. They open doors for you. A handshake still means something here. You know your neighbors. You bring food to them, they bring cookies to you. It’s what our vision of America should be. That is what drew us here. And obviously, the rugged beauty of this place is just phenomenal.”

Brad did not jump right into community service, instead taking some time to find his footing and see where he could help.

“That’s a big transition from what I had done for most of my life,” Brad said. “It was a big jump for me.

Contributed
Brad Alcorn, who is reserve deputy, was instrumental in bringing K9 units to the Curry County Sheriff's Department.

I took the better part of a year and a half and kind of settled in and decompressed, and just kind of was watching what was evolving in the community and I felt like I could contribute in different ways.”

He’s served on the Parks and Rec Commission and the County Budget Committee for nearly two years. His greatest impact to date is helping start the Curry County Sheriff’s Department’s K9 program.

“I got to know Sheriff John Ward. I think he is a great sheriff,” Brad said. “I got to know him and I started to see the needs of the department and I knew that I could contribute there. In conjunction with John, we started a K9 program and got funded and it’s made a great impact on the community so far.”

The department currently has two experienced K9 units and plans to add a third. Brad helped write a grant that if approved would provide funding for a third, and if it doesn’t come in, they will reach out to the community for help.

Through his community involvement, people began talking with Brad about becoming an elected official and those talks became more serious when Hamilton stepped down.

“I’ve had people in the community encourage me to take that path and I’ve been considering it and I hadn’t quite made the decision yet and then this opportunity came up,” Brad said.

Brad ran it by his family to make sure they were on board.

“It was discussed. I talked with my wife about it. I talked with my kids about it, and I made the decision to do it,” he said.

Alcorn will have some time on the council before deciding if he wants to run for the next term. The seat will be part of November’s general election. Running for City Council is the furthest thing from his mind at the moment. He’s concentrating on what’s currently in front of him and doing what’s best for the community.

“I just can’t encourage people enough if they have an issue or if there is something I can help with or if there are points that they feel aren’t getting across to reach out to me and let me know,” Brad said. “So I can research it and background it and become familiar with it and help me make the best choices for everyone.”

Volumes fell sharply, and staff reductions continued in March, Williams said. Volumes are continuing to fall in April.

day, April 9, Williams said, all primary care including Gold Beach and Port Orford, they saw a total of 45 clinic visits. In previous months the average would be more around 100 and the highs would be about 140. Emergency room visits are significantly declining too and having an impact on revenue substantially.

Williams recapped the staff positions that had been laid off or changed to per diem in the round of layoffs that occurred earlier in the week.

“We make decisions that are not necessarily popular,” Williams said. “They are very difficult for us to make but they are necessary for the good of the whole. Unfortunately for the individuals, it can be very, very difficult.”

More Funding Sources

Other options outside of the CARES Act, include changing their payment method for outpatient services from AllCare and Advantage Health, which handle Oregon Health Plan patients. Instead of charging for services rendered, which have dropped precipitously, they would receive a monthly amount by contract, based on looking back 12 months. Kaiser Permanente is an example of a hospital that functions on a “capitated” rate.

Williams has initiated a discussion about the USDA loan debt service, but the loan they have isn’t currently qualified for relief. Williams was told they would get back to her in a month.

What's Next?

With anticipated funds coming in, the SBA loan and deferral of the USDA loan, the organization bought itself some time.

“Decisions have been based on assumptions and forecasting the next six months,” said board member Bryan Grummon. “Our obligation is to district residents who pay taxes for this.”

The tax district for CHN extends from Pistol River to Port Orford. Brookings residents voted against joining the special tax district that supports both Curry General Hospital and the Brookings ER and health care clinic.

Curry Health Network isn’t the only rural health provider facing challenges. Rep. David Brock Smith (R-District 1) noted that he has two other hospitals in his district facing similar challenges.

Williams acknowledged these are difficult times for everyone.

“Trust me when I say, I have been here for almost five years now and I have enjoyed building this network and working with the people here, especially our physicians and providers,” Williams said. “It’s nothing short of saying I am sorry for this and I sincerely apologize if you have been impacted, you and your family members, and we do intend to earn your trust and keep your trust going forward.”

Williams will be holding weekly live stream videos on the Curry Health Network Facebook page on Fridays at 6 p.m. to answer questions from citizens. The board will be meeting virtually by phone every week through the crisis on Thursdays at 4 p.m.

Recreational salmon season for area set for June 20-Aug. 7

RICHARD HEAP

The Pacific Fisheries Management Council (PFMC) concluded their April meeting last week. The last item on the agenda was the adoption of Salmon Management Measures for 2020 ocean salmon fisheries, including both tribal and non-tribal sectors.

The recreational salmon season for our area, the Oregon portion of the Klamath Management Zone (Humbog Mountain to the Oregon-California border), will be for all salmon except coho, June 20-Aug. 7.

The minimum size for Chinook remains at 24 inches.

In my 16 years of representing Oregon recreational fishermen on the Salmon Advisory Subpanel (SAS), this was, without question, the most challenging and arduous meeting I have ever “attended.” For seven days, over 60 people met via webinar from 7 a.m. until, in some cases 1 a.m., to produce a season package that met all the Fisheries Management Plan and Endangered Species Act harvest rates and spawner escapement minimums.

We were faced with forecasts of low ocean abundance for Klamath Fall Chinook coupled with overarching concerns about COVID-19 implications. While the SAS agreed that public health was beyond our responsibility, our recommendations to the council reflected our concern about having fishing closed by the states and “stranding” Klamath impacts in periods that were closed in this fashion.

For clarity, an impact is the number of a specific fish stock caught each day/month coupled with a release mortality estimate. If you have been following this process since the March meeting, you will remember that the season package that was put out for public review described a Chinook season from May 16-July 31 as our preferred alternative.

As we came to April, I chose to move the start date into June and I rolled the modeled impacts from May and early June into August. Initially, that produced two days. As the week progressed and both the troll and recreational sectors pushed open periods toward later in the summer, impacts were freed up.

My counterparts in California and I worked together to move those to the Klamath Management Zone recreational fisheries. I won't go into the detail about how that works, but suffice it to say we ended up with seven days in August.

Please don't interpret this as whining, I proudly and voluntarily represent you and our community. Just know that, more so now than ever, a lot is at stake here.

So, now we have a season. That season is built on “paper” fish. Our season on the water will depend on an array of environmental factors that are beyond our control. However, what we can control is our behavior. I know of no one happy about the stay-at-home order or the social distancing requirements. But they exist, and benefit not the “me” but the “us”. It doesn't matter if you don't like Gov. Kate Brown, or Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (ODFW), or the “government,” let us not use that as an excuse to ignore the public health and safety orders and advisories.

There is not one day of participating in your hobby that is worth someone's life or your community's health. The state agencies and the Port commissioners are not holding daily meetings to try and decide how to inconvenience or restrict the public.

Instead, they are being forced to react to the actions of a relatively small portion of our society that are putting us all in danger. Please, don't be one of those selfish, entitled and irresponsible actors. I was raised to cherish my constitutionally guaranteed rights with the further understanding that being a responsible citizen was even more important.

Make no mistake, ODFW will shut down recreational fishing and the Port of Brookings Harbor will close the facilities if forced. That is not a threat, those are facts. The Port of Brookings Harbor order in place now for the fish cleaning station reduces the number of people in the building to no more than four, and only one to a table. I would be glad to talk with any of you about the details, the math or the process on the phone or over coffee when this pandemic is over.

Richard Heap is a Port of Brookings Harbor Commissioner and president of the Oregon South Coast Fishermen.

Local organizations receive COVID-19 response grants

The first grants from the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund, totaling $195,920, are going to 18 organizations in Del Norte, Curry, Humboldt and Trinity counties to help deal with the effects of the coronavirus.

The COVID-19 Fund was launched on March 20 by Humboldt Area Foundation and its affiliate the Wild Rivers Community Foundation in Del Norte County. With additional support from The California Endowment and The California Wellness Foundation, the fund started with $150,000. During the first two weeks, over 55 individual contributions and donor pledges have grown the fund to more than $285,000.

“Every one of our board members has given to the fund,” said CEO Bryna Lipper. “We live in a generous community and think $1 million is within our reach. It will help thousands of people,” Lipper said.

To encourage giving to the fund, WRCF and HAF are taking no administrative fees, with 100 percent of every gift going to grants.

In making the grants, the organizations are using a streamlined review process that does not burden regional nonprofits and grassroots organizations with a lengthy application process. The grants are awarded to organizations such as food banks, senior centers and tribal services helping people such as seniors, those with compromised immune systems, homeless and first-responders.

“Our regional organizations and tribal nations are the boots on the ground for our vulnerable friends and neighbors, and they need support now. It's imperative they get it rapidly,” said WRCF Director Gina Zottola.

Sara Dronkers, Director of HAF's Grantmaking and Nonprofit Resources added, “Our team is reaching out daily to regional nonprofits, public agencies, businesses, civic leaders and Native communities from Garberville to Crescent City in Northern California, and all of Curry County, Oregon, to help charitable organization on the front lines of service.”

Grants from the COVID-19 Fund are just one tool HAF is utilizing to meet the current crisis. Other resources being mobilized include loans to nonprofits, grants from other funds, fundraising from partner foundations, and community leadership activities to bring partners together for action.

Contributions, small or large, can be made to the COVID-19 Regional Response Fund online at www.wrcf.org or by mailing checks to HAF at 363 Indianola Rd, Bayside, CA 95524. For more information call (707) 465-1238.

The first grants made from the fund (as of April 2) are:

- United Indian Health Services: $18,200, to get food and meals to 1,300 elders in local Native communities during the coronavirus pandemic and a gap in federal funding
- Del Norte Mission Possible: $10,000, for increased program and management support
- Family Resource Center of the Redwoods: $10,000, for its food
- Gold Beach Senior Center: $10,000, to help with increased food distribution needs in Gold Beach and Port Orford, Ore.

- The Wiyot Tribe: $1,000, for extra hygiene, cleaning and pet supplies for elders

- The Yurok Tribe: $20,000, to provide additional hygiene packages, food delivery and firewood to tribal members, including 900 elders and 500 at-risk youth.
- 211 Humboldt: $2,000, to the Mother Women Rising Support Group for extra help for clients

- Affordable Homeless Housing Alternatives: $5,000, for additional general operating support for homeless services

The ordinance then summarizes the procedures including 1) an administrative review and 2) an administrative hearing. The first stage, administrative review, is initiated by a contestant's timely written, telephonic, or in-person request for review of the circumstances surrounding issuance of the citation. The contestant will be required to complete a review request form. The reasons for the contest must be specified in the form in order to focus the investigation. The review process consists of an investigation by the issuing agency staff, who will review the citation and the circumstances surrounding its issuance. The second stage, administrative hearing, is initiated by a contestant who is not satisfied with the results of the administrative review. To initiate this process, the contestant must, on the written request form provided by the county, indicate whether the contestant prefers a hearing by mail or in person. The reasons for the contest must also be articulated on the form. In order to perfect the appeal, the contestant must also deposit the amount of the parking penalty, at the time the administrative hearing is requested. DEL NORTE COUNTY
BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
SUMMARY OF ADOPTED ORDINANCE 2020-011
AN ORDINANCE REPEALING, UPDATING, AND ENACTING PARKING REGULATIONS
Pursuant to Government Code 25124, the following is a summary of an Ordinance adopted at the Tuesday, April 14, 2020 Board of Supervisors' meeting, Regular Session, by the following polled vote:
AYES: Supervisors Cowan, Howard, Hemmingsen, Berkowitz, Gitlin NOES: None
This ordinance repeals and replaces the Del Norte County Parking Ordinance and updates and enacts a new parking structure to be codified under Title 10 Chapter 10 of the Del Norte County Code.
The ordinance states that definitions shall be the same as those definitions in the Vehicle Code. The ordinance requires signage prior to enforcement and allows for specified county staff to place the signs. It further color codes curb markings in accordance with their meaning (ie red curb means no parking, yellow curb means freight loading or passenger loading). Times are specified for these markings. The ordinance provides that no person who owns or has possession, custody or control of any vehicle shall park or leave a vehicle upon any highway for more than a consecutive period of seventy-two (72) hours. The ordinance provides that blocking a highway as well as parking in closed county property after posted closing times, and leaving a trailer on a roadway where it is not physically connected to a tow vehicle except while loading and unloading is not permissible. The ordinance allows for establishment by resolution of parking and related rules. The ordinance requires CDD to designate disabled parking in applicable projects. It requires visual designation of disabled parking and creates specifications for such. It restricts special parking privileges only to the disabled and requires signage for disabled parking. It further allows for removal noncompliant vehicles from both public and private parking. The ordinance specifies that nothing in the ordinance shall affect privileges for veterans. The ordinance makes parking within 15 feet of an emergency vehicle driveway a violation when the curb or markings state "keep clear." Finally, the ordinance provides that violations are infractions and that vehicles may be removed and the owner charged for costs of tow and storage up to the confines of California law.
The ordinance is exempt from review under the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to 14 California Code of Regulations Section 15321(a), as an action related to the enforcement of parking laws administered by the County of Del Norte. NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site <http://www.altisource.com/MortgageServices/DefaultManagement/TrusteeServices.aspx> using the file number assigned to this case 2019-02594-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.
