

Women in Business: Holiday Pop-Up Shop

This is a first in a monthly series where The Pilot will be highlighting Women in Business in Curry County

The Coos Curry Douglas (CCD) Business Development Corporation, a non-profit organization that helps many types of businesses thrive, held a holiday pop-up shop at the Chetco Brewery, in Brookings, on Tuesday, December 10th highlighting local women in business.

The pop-up shop took the place of the regular monthly meeting usually held by the CCD and was a huge success. With sixteen local women business owners at the event there was a variety of goods, wares and services for local shoppers to take advantage of. "For the holidays we have twenty-five percent off in the store and gift wrapping," said Tammy Tanner owner of Feather Your Nest and a pop-up shop vendor. "We're the husband destination should they need some help."

Another vendor at the event was Jennifer Smith who is owner and operator of Organically Healed, a life-coaching business, and Rescue Threadz, a t-shirt company. Smith believes in paying it forward and donates a portion of her sales from Rescue Threadz to the South Coast Humane Society.

"With Organically Healed, I work with people one on one to help empower them with anything they might be having challenges with in life and I also use my horses as part of my coaching, if somebody wants to do that," said Smith. "The Rescue Threadz is a t-shirt business that is all animal themed. It's t-shirts with a cause."

The purpose of the CCD is to provide support, offer resources and networking opportunities, among other services, to entrepreneurs in the region. This event at the brewery focused on women in business.

"We're the economic development for Coos, Curry and Douglas Counties," said Kem Todd. "We help them close gaps and over-come obstacles."

CCD holds monthly meetings in each of the three counties to offer an environment where women can share ideas, grow and

City of Brookings to Acquire New Electric Trucks & Charging Station

By LINDA LEE
Curry Coastal Pilot

The City of Brookings will be adding two new electric trucks to its fleet in 2025 thanks to a grant from the Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT).

The grant comes from a Carbon Emission Program funded by the ODOT as part of a green initiative backed by the federally funded National Electric Vehicle Infrastructure (NEVI) program and the 2021 Bipartisan Infrastructure Law.

Started in 2022, and running until 2026, the NEVI program is intended to bring communities into the electric vehicle (EV) future by delivering fifty-two million dollars in funding throughout the state to, not only provide vehicles, but charging stations throughout specific corridors within the state.

"This is a great opportunity for our city to embrace practical solutions now and in the years ahead," said Brookings City Mayor Isaac Hodges.

ODOT's role in the NEVI program will be to manage and ensure all federal standards are met with the distribution of funds, purchase of vehicles and to ensure all federal standards are met.

According to ODOT, the department does not own, install, operate or maintain any of the NEVI charging stations, stating that pre-qualified private companies will manage and complete that work. It's anticipated that about fifty public EV fast charging stations will either be installed or upgraded throughout the state.

"This grant allows Brookings to make a smart investment into its future," said City Manager Tim Rundell.

Approximately $426,000 was awarded to the city and will be used to purchase and maintain the vehicles and install the charging stations. Matching funds in the amount of approximately $48,000 was required by the city and brings the total investment to nearly

"By adding electric trucks to our fleet and building the charging infrastructure, we're improving efficiency, cutting operating costs and positioning the city to meet future demands without placing a burden on taxpayers," said Rundell.

Former Curry County Roadmaster Alleges Mismanagement, Settles Lawsuit

ELLIOT SCHWARZ
Curry Coastal Pilot

Richard Christiansen, former Roadmaster for Curry County, has reached a $500,000 settlement with the county's insurer, CIS, following a January 2024 lawsuit alleging improper use of public funds and workplace intimidation. Christiansen's claims, centered on managing the county's road fund reserves, have brought attention to governance practices within Curry County.

Christiansen was dismissed from his position in February 2024.

The settlement underscores the deep divisions over fiscal priorities. Christiansen and Sheriff John Ward offer conflicting accounts of a heated meeting that has become emblematic of the broader dispute.

Tensions Over Road Fund Management

Christiansen was hired in December 2017, following an 11-year term as Public Works Supervisor in Brookings, with approval from the Board of Commissioners. Within his first week, he attended a meeting of department managers in the "Blue Room" at the Curry County Annex on Moore Street. The meeting, intended as an introduction to various department heads, took an unusual turn when it was Ward's turn to speak.

"Sitting across the table, Sheriff Ward didn't say hello or welcome," Christiansen recounted. "Instead, he declared, 'I'm taking the road fund, and you can't do nothing to stop me.'"

Ward next produced a folded letter, purportedly from then-Governor Kate Brown, which he claimed authorized the use of road funds for patrol-related purposes. Unfolding the document dramatically, Ward stated, "This says the road fund's mine."

The exchange left Christiansen unsettled but resolved to understand the complexities of the road fund. In a subsequent hallway conversation, Ward reiterated his stance, telling Christiansen, "The only reason I can't get a sheriff levy tax measure passed is because the road fund exists."

Christiansen countered, "I told him, 'I don't believe that's true. I've worked on tax measures successfully, and the road fund isn't the problem.'"

Ward, however, has a markedly different recollection. In an email to The Pilot, Ward rejected Christiansen's version of events, calling it "totally false."

"Rich Christiansen has a much different recall of our first conversation. I had gone out to welcome him to the Road Department, and during that time, he brought up the use of the road fund. At no time did I say that I was taking road funds and that there was nothing he could do about it. That is totally false. I had only mentioned the [Oregon Revised Statutes] for the county being authorized by law to use Road Fund Reserves for road patrol and indirect cost to patrol. I told him I had no authority to direct the use, that it was the sole decision of the [Board of Commissioners (BOC)]. There were no statements made on my part that indicated that I was taking from the road fund reserves. I then reiterated that the BOC was the only one that could make the decisions."

Ward also accused Christiansen of mismanaging the situation, suggesting that he "was spending to tie up the funds just so none of it went to the Sheriff's Office...and I had nothing to do with him being fired."

Christiansen described the road fund as a vital resource, traditionally reserved for maintain-

Congress Must Protect Rural Access to Health Care

BY REPRESENTATIVE COURT BOICE
Oregon State Representative
District 1 including Curry and parts of Coos - Douglas Counties.

Rural communities face growing challenges in accessing healthcare, and Medicare’s looming physician payment cuts threaten to exacerbate this crisis. In timber-dependent areas, like those in District 1, which also includes Coquille tribal nation lands, these challenges are particularly acute. Years of economic decline tied to reduced timber harvests have strained local resources. Now, the potential for fewer physicians to serve seniors and tribal Medicare enrollees adds another layer of vulnerability.

The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) has proposed a 2.8% cut in physician payments for 2025. Combined with a payment system that fails to account for inflation, this would impose unsustainable financial pressures on medical practices. Unlike hospitals, which have seen significant payment increases since 2001, Medicare physician payments have only risen by 10%, despite operating costs soaring by more than 50%. This imbalance puts rural physicians on the brink, threatening patient care for seniors who rely on Medicare.

Physicians have already endured the effects of inflation, skyrocketing operational costs, and a pandemic that pushed many to their breaking points. One in five physicians is considering leaving their practice within two years. Without intervention, the loss of doctors will deepen healthcare disparities in rural areas, leaving many seniors without access to critical care.

This issue is also urgent for tribal Medicare enrollees who may live far from tribal-based healthcare facilities. With declining physician availability, these populations also risk being left without timely or quality medical services in rural areas.

Congress has a chance to avert this crisis by passing H.R. 10073, also known as the Medicare Patient Access and Practice Stabilization Act,” which would halt the scheduled 2025 payment cuts and implement a modest 1.8% increase in physician payments. This temporary measure is essential to stabilize practices and maintain access to care in rural and underserved communities.

Long-term solutions are needed to address systemic flaws in the Medicare payment system. A permanent inflation-based adjustment to Medicare’s physician payment schedule would help align reimbursements with real-world costs, ensuring predictability and fairness.

Rural America cannot afford for Congress to delay action on this issue. Seniors and tribal members in places like District 1 deserve reliable access to medical care, not more uncertainty. Without intervention, the burden of inaction will fall hardest on those least equipped to bear it: the elderly, the vulnerable, and the underserved.

Congress must act now to protect the healthcare lifeline that Medicare provides and prevent the hollowing out of medical care in rural and tribal communities. The health of our seniors depends on it. I urge Senator Ron Wyden to lead the way.

Letter to the Editor

Recently NBC reported that Donald Trump wants to deport children born in the USA to parents of illegal (undocumented) immigrants in violation of the 14th Amendment. How far back does he want to go? My great and great-great grandparents migrated from Northern Europe back when the only documentation was a ship's passenger list. By definition, they were undocumented. So, if their children weren't considered citizens, then their children's children and so on down the generations wouldn't be considered citizens either. More recently, there are people now on Social Security who worked and paid taxes most of their lives, but whose parents came in illegally back in the 30's and 40's when people routinely went back and forth across the US-Mexican border to work in the fields. Will they be plucked from nursing homes to be deported?

And where is the logic in throwing out children who are legal, yet keeping the "dreamers" who were born outside the US and simply brought in illegally?

There is a reason why the 14th amendment is written as it is. As early as the 1860's Congress wisely recognized this question affected many early migrants and their children, including my ancestors and yours. It also included the recently emancipated slaves formerly considered property, guaranteeing them rights to their new country of residence after what they endured.

Before casually tossing aside the 14th Amendment, the incoming Trump administration needs to do more logical thinking about potential ramifications.

ing county infrastructure valued at over $555 million. By 2019, $2.2 million was reportedly reallocated from the fund to expand the Sheriff’s Department’s operations, a move Christiansen warned could jeopardize long-term infrastructure needs.

Governance and Budgetary Changes

In 2018, the county’s Citizen Budget Advisory Committee recommended capping road fund use for law enforcement at $400,000 for one year, with no further allocations. However, Christiansen alleged that subsequent changes in the county’s budget committee facilitated additional reallocation of road funds to law enforcement. He expressed frustration with the lack of transparency and governance over these changes, describing them as detrimental to the road fund’s intended purpose.

Sheriff Ward frequently voiced his belief that the road fund was a financial obstacle. Christiansen recalled Ward stating during several discussions, “As long as the road fund is there, the voters won’t support my levy.”

These repeated assertions highlighted the Sheriff’s persistent efforts to redirect resources from the road fund.

The Moss-Adams Audit

To address concerns about the county’s financial practices, Christiansen supported commissioning an independent audit by Moss-Adams LLP. The audit was intended to provide clarity on road fund allocations and identify areas for improvement in county financial management. Christiansen described the audit as a potential steppingstone to gaining public support for future tax measures.

However, Christiansen claimed that significant resistance emerged as the audit progressed. Despite initial approval from the Board of Commissioners, Christiansen alleged that the audit’s findings were suppressed.

“Moss-Adams was ready to deliver the report, but I was terminated before the findings were presented, and the county shelved the results,” Christiansen said.

He emphasized the importance of the audit’s transparency, stating, “The public deserves to know how their money is being managed.”

Civil Rights Lawsuit and Settlement

In January 2024, Christiansen filed a civil rights lawsuit against Curry County and several officials, including Commissioners Brad Alcorn and Chris Paasch, County Treasurer David Barnes, Sheriff John Ward, and County Counsel Michael Ted Fitzgerald. Filed under the Civil Rights Act (42 U.S.C. § 1983), the lawsuit alleged improper treatment and whistleblower retaliation linked to Christiansen’s role as Roadmaster. CIS, the county’s insurer, agreed to settle the case for $500,000.

Looking Forward

Christiansen’s allegations and the lawsuit settlement have renewed calls for greater accountability and oversight in the management of public funds.

“The road fund was intended for infrastructure maintenance,” Christiansen stated. “Proper oversight is essential to ensure these funds are used as intended.”

The dispute has also shed light on deeper divisions within the county government. According to Christensen, Ward’s bold assertion regarding the road fund reflects an entrenched approach to governance that prioritizes expediency over collaboration.

“There’s a difference between taking a stand and misinterpreting allocation guidelines,” Christensen remarked, adding that his focus remains on ensuring responsible fiscal management.

Residents of Curry County have expressed growing concern over the implications of the conflict, which many see as emblematic of broader governance challenges. Community stakeholders have called for a renewed emphasis on transparency and cooperation among local officials, urging the Board of Commissioners to take decisive action to address the issue.

Commissioner Jay Trost, along with Commissioner-elect Patrick Hollinger, is calling for a forensic audit of the county budget. Trost told The Pilot “The issue of road fund allocation to patrol has been and still is a contentious issue that has been at the center of discussion, disagreements, and in my opinion has fractured many working relationships between county departments based on differing views as to the extent of its use to fund patrol. The reality is that it has been relied upon to preserve road patrol, while accelerating the ongoing budget crisis.

“This year’s budget committee chose to slow this crisis by only utilizing the interest gained on the road fund reserves to fund patrol, however this did result in a substantial budget reduction in patrol. When I was appointed to the Board in 2023, I quickly learned that the County was two fiscal years behind in reconciling the county ledger, and that we were not only heading for a financial cliff in the road fund reserves but also in the general fund. That was further realized when one-time federal funds had run out that were being used to fund the jail and corrections. This fiscal exposure led to the decision to reduce the overall county budget by 31%.

“The Board has agreed that a comprehensive audit, not only of finances but also of service delivery is needed. The goal of these proposed audits is to provide a nonpolitical roadmap that should guide future boards to better understand what the needs and demands are, what level of service we are able to provide, and ultimately to rely on relevant and accurate data to make future budget decisions. Since 2013 the County has budgeted over 18 million dollars from the Road fund reserves to offset the cost of Patrol.”

As the county approaches its next fiscal year, the Board of Commissioners is expected to discuss the controversy in upcoming sessions. The proceedings will be closely monitored by both county officials and the public, who are demanding clarity on the appropriate use of road funds and the resolution of this divisive issue.

Curry County officials have not yet publicly commented on the settlement or the allegations. As the county navigates ongoing financial challenges, the case underscores the importance of transparent governance and fiscal responsibility.

Dungeness Crab Season Delayed

Crab Season will be delayed for the remainder of the calendar year. According to the California Dept of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW). The action was taken to prevent whales from becoming entangled in crab gear. The whales are en route from Alaska to the warm Pacific waters of Mexico and Central America.

CDFW confirmed four humpback whales were entangled so far this year, with an additional nine humpbacks entangled in unidentified fishing gear that may be California Dungeness crab gear. Of all commercial fishing gears on the West Coast, the California Dungeness crab industry is associated with the most confirmed entanglements, and with recent surveys showing large numbers of whales still feeding off the California coast, CDWD announced it will further postpone the opening of Dungeness Crab Season until 2025.

National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration fisheries indicate 34 confirmed entanglement off the U.S. West Coast so far in 2024, the highest in the last six years.

"By taking advantage of this grant, we're building a foundation for a fleet that is both reliable and cost effective while staying adaptable to the challenges of the future," said Hodges.

1997 Travel Trailer Burns to the Ground on Cedar Street in Brookings Brookings Fire Captain Jeff Lee (l), Brookings Police Detective A. Pettis, Volunteer Fire Fighter Darryl Harmon and Oregon State Fire Marshal Aubrey Krause search for possible clues that led to the destructive fire of a trailer on Cedar Street in Brookings.

Homeowners Mark and Mary Anne Trailor look on as they try to reason their way through what happened to the trailer that caught on fire and burned to the ground.

The call came in at approximately 9:30 am Tuesday morning, December 10th, that a trailer was on fire at the residence of Mary Anne and Mark Trailor on Cedar Street in Brookings.

"We were woken from our beds by a police officer knocking on the door," said Mary Ann Trailor. "We had no idea that there was a fire."

A 1997 trailer, that was parked in their side yard, burnt to the ground and nearly took the occupant with it. It was only because of an alert neighbor who spotted the fire that the person was saved.

"We got called to a trailer that was on fire that was close to a structure with somebody laying on the ground next to it," said Brookings Fire Chief Jim Watson.

Wishing to remain anonymous, a neighbor approached the trailer while it was engulfed in flames and opened the door only to find a woman fall out into his arms. He dragged her to safety.

The woman was cared for by Brookings Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs), then transferred to the Curry County Medical Emergency Room facility for further treatment and evaluation. There is no update on her condition.

"The fire was well advanced when I showed up," said Chief Watson. "We had to back off and wait for the engines to show up."

Both the Brookings Fire District and the Harbor Fire District responded to the call.

"Harbor responded with a Type 1 and Type 3 Engines, and we had our big Type 2 Water Tender (pumper) that has a 2,500-gallon capacity," said Chief Watson. "With something like the Type 2 Engine, we don't need to hook up to a fire hydrant."

In total, there were about 10 firefighters that responded to the call as well as the police, EMTs and the state fire marshal.

"We are so grateful to the first responders," said Trailor. "They did such a great job. We just can't thank them enough."

Currently, the fire is under investigation by the state fire marshal's office, Brookings Police and Fire Departments.

Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. Brookings man arrested after allegedly firing shot during police contact

JEREMY C. RUARK
Country Media, Inc.

Eugene Police officers responded to W. 6th Avenue and Van Buren Street at 2:39 a.m. Dec. 3, after a caller reported a possibly intoxicated driver. The caller was following the suspect, later identified as 52-year-old Carl Russell Guenther, of Brookings.

“Guenther is reported to have pulled into the parking lot of the Signature Inn and parked,” a Eugene FaceBook post states. “When followed by the caller, he is reported to have confronted her. And she drove out and around the block to watch. As officers arrived on scene, they saw Guenther walking with a firearm in his hand and challenged him. He fired a round into the ground and then disobeyed commands, walking away from officers.” Guenther approached Signature Inn, where his vehicle was parked, dropped to his knees, then prone out on the ground. Officers took Guenther safely into custody without further incident, recovered a firearm from his waistband, and then transported him to Lane County Jail,” the release states.

Guenther faces the following charges:

- Unlawful Use Weapon
- Carry Concealed Weapon (spring assisted knife),
- Reckless Endangering,
- Unlawful Possession of a Firearm

“Supervisors noted the officers on the call were well organized and their response safely addressed a potentially dangerous situation in an area with numerous occupied apartments, hotels, a 24-hour 7-Eleven convenience store, and heavy foot traffic,” the release states.

Crescent Harbor larger vessels take precautionary measures exiting the Harbor during Tsunami warning

Del Norte Gets “Shook Up” by 7.0 Rio Del Quake

BY ROGER GITLIN
Country Media, Inc.

The time was exactly 10:49AM, Thursday when cell phones across the North Coast California and South Coast Oregon went berserk, warning of a possible tsunami. The National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) reported a 7.0 Earthquake just off-shore near Rio Del.

Tsunami warning followed. Board of Supervisors Chairman Dean Wilson told The Triplicate NOAA took precautionary measures and asked Del Norters to seek higher ground as the sensitive wave measuring equipment was unable to equate tsunami impact and as a precaution, asked the public to move inland. For a short period of time, the traffic was overloaded on streets and highways across Del Norte

Larger Harbor vessels had about an hour window to move from the shallow harbor to deeper waters, mitigating possible damage to their commercial boats.

By 12:31PM, NOAA pulled the warning. Del Norte and Crescent City returned to normal. No injuries or property damage were reported.

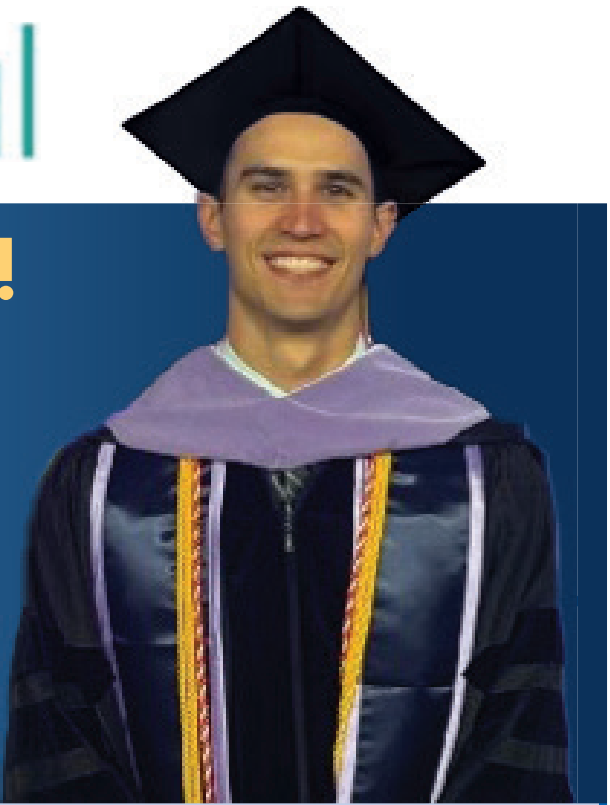

Equity Dental

A new dentist has arrived in town!

Equity Dental wants to introduce Dr Pete Lahti, DMD serving the community as an associate dentist with Equity Dental Clinics Brookings, LLC co-located in the Coast Community Health Center at 648 Chetco Ave, Brookings. The clinic opened on October 1, 2024. Dr Lahti, a 2024 graduate at Oregon Health and Sciences University’s School of Dentistry finished as the top ranked student in the class of 2024. Additionally, he has been inducted into the Omicron Kappa Upsilon National Dental Honor Society and honored with awards in Operative Dentistry, Oral & Maxillofacial Pathology, and Ethics & Professionalism. Equity Dental Clinics Brookings, LLC, is affiliated with Equity Dental, LLC, a benefits company owned by a group of Independent Dental Providers who believe that dental care should be available to everyone. Equity Dental Clinics Brookings, LLC is proud to be able to open the dental office with the help of a HRSA Oral Health Workforce Grant administered by the Oregon Health Authority, AllCare CCO of Grants Pass, Coast Community Health Center, Equity Dental, LLC, Dave Gilmore Healthcare Consulting, and Dr. Pete Lahti. The clinic is now accepting new patients on the Oregon Health Plan that have Oregon Community Dental Service or ODS as their dental plan, along with people that are experiencing dental pain that cannot get care due to financial issues first. They also accept private pay patients and those with other insurances. A similar practice, The Grove Dental Clinic, is opening soon in Grants Pass!

About Equity Dental:

At Equity Dental, there is emphasis on a strong preventative dentistry program with modern and science-based protocols that can prevent cavities and the need for many major restorative procedures. These therapies have been proven to be effective at stopping the dental infection that causes cavities and gum diseases. Equity Dental is focused on providing the most effective treatments that are also the least invasive. The ultimate goal is to eradicate oral infections from the communities we serve with less painful shots and dental drills.

More about Dr. Pete Lahti:

Dr. Lahti is a lifelong Oregonian, born and raised in Lincoln City, OR. He played football, baseball, and basketball year-round until he graduated high school. In 2015, he graduated as Taft High School’s class valedictorian, was honored as the Oregon Class 3A Football State Player of the Year and First Team All-State Quarterback and was named as First Team All-State Catcher in baseball. He furthered his education at Lewis & Clark College (LC) in Portland where he played football. At LC, he was a four-year starter on the defensive side of the ball, playing nickel, strong safety, free safety, and cornerback; honored twice as an academic all-district football player.

As much fun as Lewis & Clark was, the best part was meeting his life partner Alexa Hanson there. Fast forward nearly 8 years, and they are happily engaged and planning to get married in September of 2025. She has also moved to Brookings and is working as an Occupational Therapist.

“Alexa & I are excited to be in Brookings! Over the years, I made a lot of connections with dentists all over the state and was given opportunities to practice all over the state as well, but I chose Brookings for several reasons:

I have faith in the people that are running Equity Dental. They are solid, well-meaning people that have their hearts in the right place. Our mission at Equity is to provide care for underserved populations. We will be accepting a wide variety of insurances, including Oregon Health Plan/ Medicaid, and you, as patients, will get a lot of face time with me as your dentist!

I want to give back to a community much like the one I grew up in. The people in and around Brookings, much like Lincoln City, deserve quality care from a dentist that cares about them and sees them as people first. I have connected with several other dentists here in town and I look forward to contributing to caring for the people of the Southern Coast along with them.

I also appreciated having been a part of the football coaching staff at Brookings Harbor High School this last season. There are a lot of great kids on the team that I really enjoyed getting to coach every day and I had a great time getting to know the other coaches and parents involved!

The city of Brookings has a lot of what Alexa & I are looking for in a city. After living in Portland for 8 years, we appreciate the city for what it is but have enjoyed the transition into a quieter city. We also enjoy the outdoors and the beauty of the ocean. We look forward to exploring what the area has to offer. We would love recommendations for what to check out!”

Equity Dental, the City of Brookings and its citizens welcome Dr. Pete Lahti and Alexa to Brookings!

Tax Levy Sought for Sheriff’s Department Funding

By Linda Lee
Curry Coastal Pilot

The Curry County Sheriff’s Department is proposing another tax levy for the next upcoming election.

With all the turmoil from losing staff and a failed levy vote during the last election, the sheriff’s department is faced with tough decisions moving forward.

During a recent Curry County Commissioner’s meeting, a proposal was put forth by former commissioner Chris Paasch that the board approve a ballot measure that would create a law enforcement service district to help fund the sheriff’s department, and to provide support for the funding measure.

“It would be very similar to the one Josephine County did,” said Paasch. “It would be a formation of a service district for Curry County. It would have a permanent rate limit that would fund the operations of the district.”

What would have been called the Curry County Law Enforcement Service District wasn’t well received by the commissioners and they requested that time be given to look over the numbers and see what other options would be available.

In a November 12th workshop, the commissioners suggested that the sheriff’s department pursue a tax levy rather than try to form a service district.

Fast forward to the November 21st commissioner’s meeting, where a proposal was put forward to help fund the sheriff’s office with a tax levy, even though the tax payers of the county rejected that idea in May of 2024 with seventy-one percent of voters declining to support the then proposed five-year property tax of $2.23 per $1,000 of assessed value for a 24-7 sheriff’s office.

“There’ve been short falls of the sheriff’s department that we have to work through the budget problems we have in Curry County,” said Paasch.

The current proposition is that Curry County residents, specifically homeowners, fund the sheriff’s department with a seven-year levy, lasting from 2025 to 2030, at the rate of $1.12 per thousand dollars of the appraised value of a home, or roughly three percent of resident’s property value. This would roughly generate 4.2 million dollars of revenue for the department annually.

The monies would go to fund twenty-four jobs that are classified as: Sheriff; 8 patrol deputies; 1 civil deputy; 2 sergeants; 1 lieutenant; 1 administrative assistant; 1 dispatch lieutenant; 1 dispatch sergeants; and 8 dispatch workers.

“It would provide and sustain an adequate level of the sheriff’s services throughout the county,” said Paasch. “It would be effective upon voter approval during the May 2025 elections.”

The department manages: civil services; communications; corrections; marine; parole and probation; patrol services; records and search & rescue.

There was no discussion as to how the sheriff’s office would plan to fund the department after the year 2032.
