Lessons Learned from Wildfires and Pandemic Spark Creation of CCCOAD

The tumultuous events of recent years, from devastating wildfires to the challenges of a global pandemic, have highlighted a crucial gap in local disaster preparedness—the need for better, faster coordination across the community.

In response, a powerful network has emerged: the Curry County Community Organizations Active in Disaster (CCCOAD).

Formed in 2022, and modeled after successful initiatives nationwide, the CCCOAD is a unified effort to ensure that when disaster strikes, local resources are managed efficiently and the community’s diverse needs are met.

"We saw the critical need for better communication and coordination between non-profit agencies and local government," said Ruth Dixon, current chair and founding member, "and decided to do something about it."

This whole-community structure brings together a diverse membership, including nonprofit organizations, local Tribes, government agencies, businesses, faith-based groups and concerned citizens.

This collective expertise allows the CCCOAD to address everything from ensuring an adequate supply of food and water to providing crucial mental health support to assuring community members that help is there when needed.

One of the network's most vital functions is connecting those in need with resources quickly. Whether a household needs emergency supplies such as food, water, or medicine, or a busi-

Representative Court Boice announces re-election campaign

State Representative Court Boice (R-Gold Beach) announced that he has filed for re-election to continue serving the people of House District 1.

“I am running because these challenges must be confronted directly and without hesitation,” Boice added. “Throughout Coos, Curry, and Douglas counties, people are weary of being ignored. They want leaders who listen, stand firm in their principles, and work tirelessly to solve problems. That’s what I’ve been committed to and will continue in Salem,” he added. “Our side doesn’t want crime, poverty, or lawlessness—we expect and our citizens deserve peace and prosperity.”

Representative Boice was first appointed to the seat in early 2023 and was overwhelmingly elected by his constituents in 2024.

In his announcement, Representative Boice emphasized that Oregon is at a crossroads, pointing to rising costs, growing homelessness, and policies that are hurtful to rural and working Oregonians.

“Our state is in serious decline, with fewer and fewer residents able to afford living here,” Boice said. “Crime is on the rise, taxes and spending are spiraling, unemployment remains high, businesses are leaving our state in frightening numbers, and families struggle to protect and properly educate their children. The Majority Party consistently demonstrates disrespect and disregard for Oregon’s ranchers, builders, farmers, fishermen, small business and forestry workforce.”

As part of his ongoing priorities, Rep. Boice has focused on tackling Oregon’s addiction and mental health crises, supporting rural economies, defending the Kicker, helping Veterans, preventing out of control Wildfires, and ensuring accountability in how taxpayer dollars are spent.

"I remain optimistic about our state moving forward, however, Oregon's leadership has profoundly failed us—after more than forty years of one-party dominance. The Portland Unions have ensured that these leaders remain in power, year after year, and decade after decade. I offer one simple example; they spend millions on homelessness while the problem worsens," added Rep. Boice.

“It’s all about the future of our kids and grandkids. I’m proud of what we’ve accomplished, but much more work remains. My job is to do all I can to make life better for every Oregonian. I would be honored to earn your support as we work to guide Oregon in the right direction and restore Oregon back to normal,” Rep. Boice concluded.

November tributes must confront the drastic toll of toxic exposure among veterans

ASBESTOS SHIPS

BY CRISTINA JOHNSON, NAVY VETERAN ADVOCATE
Asbestos Ships Organization

Every November, Americans devote special time to celebrate Veterans Day and the National Veterans and Military Families Month, recognizing the bravery of those who served and the dedication of their families who sustained them.

Beyond the usual parades and ceremonies during this season lies a reality often overlooked: the insidious toll of toxic exposure at numerous military facilities.

In Curry County, where veterans comprise roughly 12.1% of the population, the persistence of related health issues just exposes how such annual tributes fall short of extending genuine accountability and support to struggling former service members.

Unraveling the Burden of Military Service

Military service has long carried unavoidable risks, and among the most enduring is toxic exposure, a crisis stemming from the extensive use of hazardous substances, among them asbestos.

This natural mineral was particularly valued for its strength and affordability, making it vital in the construction of naval vessels and old military installations such as the historic Fort Lamerick in Curry County, established in 1856.

Unfortunately, such heavy reliance has posed grave risks

Wreaths Across America, which honors our fallen veterans, is gearing up for its annual ceremony on December 13th and organizers are putting out a vital call for new volunteers to ensure the program's future. Locally, the ceremony will be precisely timed to begin at 9 a.m. aligning with the 12 p.m. laying of the wreaths at Arlington National Cemetery. The Brookings' event will take place at the WJ Ward Cemetery. This year's ceremony will feature a dual Master of Ceremonies role shared by Representative Court Boice and Brookings' Mayor Isaac Hodges, with Dr. Jessica Carlson set to perform the national anthem. The commitment to honoring our local heroes remains strong. This year, the community raised an impressive $3,700, which will facilitate the purchase and placement of 257 wreaths for our fallen warriors. "The fundraising drive typically runs from April to October. We're usually at the parking lots of Bi-Mart and McKays," said Bemis. "We have corporate sponsors too, from local businesses in addition to the people who give." Beyond the ceremony itself, support activities are underway for the event. Tiny American Flags have been purchased and a few days prior, the flags will be meticulously placed at each grave site.

nationwide, including in the southwestern most region of Oregon, which logged over 50 asbestos-linked casualties. Equally alarming is the pervasive pollution caused by per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (PFAS), artificial compounds widely used in firefighting foams and turnout gear. Because these chemicals are difficult to break down, they can slowly infiltrate soil and groundwater, exposing veterans and nearby communities to ongoing health risks, alongside various other pollutants. The Urgent Call for Lasting Accountability

The commemorations each November remind the nation of its enduring promise to veterans and their families; yet, such remembrance rings hollow if government reforms seriously falter in implementation. To address this, lawmakers passed the Honoring Our PACT Act of 2022, which broadens access to healthcare services and disability benefits. Under this program, the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has already received nearly three million claims, including over 30,000 from Oregon, while almost two million applications have been approved. Building on this, the VA Home Loan Program Reform Act was likewise enacted to aid veterans struggling with mortgage payments. Even with these promising measures, navigating the claims process and obtaining rightful benefits remains a challenge for many. Ensuring these measures achieve their full impact requires that policymakers and other stakeholders collaborate to simplify processes as well as expand outreach to guarantee that all veterans and their families get the care and support they direly need. We're grateful for every opportunity to raise awareness of their toxic exposure, one of the many challenges they encounter during service. Many vets face illnesses from various exposures, in addition to everyday hardships such as healthcare gaps and housing insecurity. We urge citizens and policymakers to translate patriotic sentiment into tangible support.

Commonly known as: 47500 Pacific View Rd, Langlois, OR 97450 The sale will be held at In the lobby of the Curry County Courthouse, 29821 Ellensburg Avenue, Gold Beach. The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development will bid an estimate of $1,037,266.55. There will be no proration of taxes, rents or other income or liabilities, except that the purchaser will pay, at or before closing, his prorata share of any real estate taxes that have been paid by the Secretary to the date of the foreclosure sale. When making their bids, all bidders except the Secretary must submit a deposit totaling $103,726.65 [10% of the Secretary's bid] in the form of a certified check or cashier's check made out to the Secretary of HUD. Each oral bid need not be accompanied by a deposit. If the successful bid is oral, a deposit of $103,726.65 must be presented before the bidding is closed. The deposit is nonrefundable. The remainder of the purchase price must be delivered within 30 days of the sale or at such other time as the Secretary may determine for good cause shown, time being of the essence. This amount, like the bid deposits, must be delivered in the form of a certified or cashier's check. If the Secretary is the high bidder, he need not pay the bid amount in cash. All extensions will be for 15-day increments for a fee of $500.00, paid in advance. The extension fee shall be in the form of a certified or cashier's check made payable to the Secretary of HUD. CCCOAD

ness requires assistance, or someone needs mental health support or is in need of animal rescue and care, the CCCOAD serves as a central hub.

To streamline its efforts, the CCCOAD operates through specialized work groups, each dedicated to a critical area of disaster management. These subcommittees are the operational heart of the organization, turning planning into action.

The active work groups currently include: Emergency Preparedness and Training: Equipping residents with essential skills; Shelter Operations and Housing: Providing safe, accessible lodging during crises; Supply Distribution: Ensuring equitable access to essential items like food and medicine; Mental Health and Trauma Support: Addressing the emotional impacts of disaster; Climate Resilience and Mitigation: Reducing long-term disaster risks.

The CCCOAD maintains a regional event calendar featuring emergency trainings, disaster response meetings, funding opportunities, and key deadlines, helping to keep all members of the South Coast region informed and prepared.

Signing up for emergency alerts is critical and community members should remember that basic preparedness starts at home. The ultimate goal remains simple: to make Curry County a more resilient place for everyone.

"CCCOAD is the bridge," said Dixon. "It's a network of community-based organizations, tribes, businesses and government entities all working together to strengthen our ability to withstand and recover from any emergency."

The CCCOAD's mission is to foster effective coordination, communication and collaboration across the entire community, from prevention and mitigation efforts to immediate response and long-term recovery.

Halloween Fun

Kimber Parker is ready to jump into high gear as Rudolph.

Denise Chisholm served up bloody good customer service at Bi-Mart during the Halloween fun.

Gabriel Dixon (l), Laisha Olmedo, Dammian Olmedo, 11, and Alejandro Olmedo, 4, made their first stop at the fire station to grab refreshing ice cream.

Abby Allred (l), Rainey Harris, 7, and Jason Harris are prowling around at the harbor looking for good treats.

Raylynn Ouellette, 6, enjoys a witch's brew of candy as Amy Vesey leads the way.

Brookings' residents were out in full force to enjoy Halloween and all the spooktacular events throughout the community. Besides the trunk-or-treats, kids enjoyed a walk along the downtown area, port, and businesses where they picked up a favorite treat. In addition, the fire and police department brewed up a good time by handing out candy and ice cream. All-in-all, this year's Halloween fun was a double pleasure and there was no rain to contend with making it an enjoyable event for everybody.

The Elks Lodge is helping out by allowing the wreaths to be offloaded at their parking lot, because the shipment requires an 18-wheel truck to get them here. "They're delivered to the Elks Lodge parking lot because there's no other place for that," said Bemis. "The truck can't get to the cemetery. It's usually an eighteen-wheeler." On the day of the event, there will be refreshments in the morning and the local Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) will provide an honor guard and rifle squad to kick off the ceremony.

In addition, Dan Brattain, founder of Cal-Ore Life Flight, has arranged for special flyovers during the ceremony.

The remembrance is capped off just after Christmas, when the cemetery staff performs the somber duty of removing the wreaths.

While the ceremony is a staple of the holiday season, the five-year stewardship of long-time organizers Don Bemis and Debbie Salzman is beginning to wind down.

Due to age, they can no longer commit the same level of energy to the program, so the search is on for dedicated community members to take the reins and ensure the tradition thrives for years to come.

"Volunteers are needed not just for the day of the ceremony, but to spearhead the program so that this important tribute is not lost to the community," said Bemis.

According to the website: Wreaths Across America was founded in 2007 to continue and expand the annual wreath-laying ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery begun by Maine wreath maker Morrill Worcester in 1992.

The organization's year-long mission—Remember the fallen, Honor those who serve, Teach the next generation the value of freedom—is carried out, in part, each year by coordinating wreath-laying ceremonies in December at thousands of participating locations in all 50 states and beyond.
