Reston man pleads guilty to creating fraudulent COVID-19 stimulus checks

ADOBE STOCK

On Wednesday, April 14, 38-year old Jonathan Drew of Reston pled guilty to pled guilty to bank fraud and aggravated identity theft. He committed these crimes with a scheme to create counterfeit Economic Impact Payments (also known as COVID-19 stimulus checks).

He was accused of stealing the mail of over 150 Fairfax County residents from December 2019-August 2020. The mail Drew stole included bank statements, credit cards, credit card statements, W-2 forms, and more than $700,000 in checks, including a COVID-19 stimulus payment and checks Drew used to create counterfeit checks. Using the personal identifiers in the mail he stole, he was able to lease an apartment, open bank accounts and attempt fraudulent transactions in their name, and create fraudulent stimulus checks.

Investigators first caught up to Drew when residents in a townhouse community in Reston, Virginia — about 30 minutes outside of Washington, D.C. — reported their paychecks and credit cards were stolen in January 2020, a U.S. Postal Inspector said in an affidavit supporting the charges.

His crimes began in December of 2019, when residents of a townhouse complex reported stolen mail, including paychecks. He was arrested in March of 2020 after investigators did a search of his apartment and found personal identifiers of over 40 people, but he was released on a $1,000 bond. Soon after, the Postal Investigator determined that 41 checks, amounting to over $700,000 went missing from a Reston woman's mailbox.

Upon his second home search, the Postal Investigator found a $1,200 stolen stimulus check along with six counterfeit stimulus checks. According to the affidavit of Postal Inspector Joseph E. Nestro, Drew was working with a man named Brandon Dow, whom he had known for three years.

Raj Perekh, acting U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia spoke out and stated "The defendant illegally obtained the personal identifiers and financial information of more than 150 individuals in EDVA by stealing their mail, which he then used to conduct fraudulent transactions and create counterfeit COVID-19 stimulus checks. We are firmly committed to holding accountable fraudsters who engage in identity theft and exploit a national economic crisis for personal gain at the expense of hardworking members of our communities."

Drew is facing a maximum penalty of 32 years prison, although actual sentences for federal crimes are typically less than the maximum penalties. The mandatory minimum he will face is two years.

Award ceremony held for local Fairfax County volunteers

Volunteer Fairfax, a local volunteer action group, held a virtual event for their 29th annual Fairfax County Volunteer Service awards this past Tuesday. The event was held to celebrate the giving spirit of volunteerism and honor those who had made a difference in their communities. Typically, the event would be held during a dinner but because of the ongoing issues with the pandemic the organization held the event virtually.

"We try very hard to provide a platform for these people and organizations to shine and to celebrate what they have accomplished," said awards organizer Hollie Gordon.

The virtual event opened with a message from actor Billy Dee Williams who celebrated those who had contributed their time and energy and bid them that the force be with them. The event began and was hosted by Volunteer Fairfax COO Emily Henrich Swenson who announced the winners of prizes and acknowledgements for the volunteers that helped in such categories such as education and literacy, environmental sustainability, quality of life, and social advocacy.

Some of the winners honored in the event included Leslie Ann Wertz who won the Quality-of-Life Award for her work as a line operator for Recovery Programs Solutions of Virginia. Through RPSV Wertz provides one-on-one help for people in emotional distress, loneliness, and support. Wertz also helps in other ways ranging from counseling people in need to serves food.

Homicide suspect in custody after man found in Bailey's Crossroads

Detectives from the Fairfax County Police Department Major Crimes Bureau are investigating after a man was found dead April 17 inside a parking garage in Bailey's Crossroads.

Officers responded around 3:30 a.m. to the 5100 block of Leesburg Pike after 58-year-old Hernan Leiva, of Falls Church, was found suffering from apparent stab wounds and blunt force trauma to his upper body. Rescue personnel pronounced him deceased on scene.

As detectives investigated the circumstances that led to Leiva's death, a man later identified as Bazen Berhe, 22, of Alexandria returned to a parking lot near the scene and turned himself into police. Officers arrested Berhe and he was charged with second degree murder.

Preliminarily, detectives determined that Leiva and Berhe were involved in a previous dispute. This morning, Berhe assaulted Leiva when they arrived at work, fatally wounding him. Detectives recovered knives and a hammer at the scene of the crime. The Office of the Chief Medical Examiner conducted an autopsy April 19.

Victim specialists from the Major Crimes Bureau's Victim Services Division have been assigned to ensure that the family is receiving appropriate resources and assistance.

This is an active investigation and detectives are continuing to examine evidence and interview witnesses to determine what led to the man's death. Anyone with information is asked to contact the Fairfax County Police Department Major Crimes Bureau at 703-246-7800, option 2. Tips can also be submitted anonymously through Crime Solvers by phone – 1-866-411-TIPS.

This is being investigated as the 4th homicide year to date in Fairfax County.

Two from Fairfax County among six sentenced for nearly $8 Million health care fraud

The last of six defendants were sentenced April 16 for participating in multiple health care fraud conspiracies involving kickbacks and fraudulent billings that resulted in nearly $8 million in losses to federal, state, and private health care benefit programs.

"Health insurance programs, and the American public, rely on pharmacy professionals to safeguard the system from harmful kickback schemes, and to make truthful representations about the services they provide," said Raj Parekh, Acting U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia. "The defendants betrayed their duties as health care professionals, performed illegal kickbacks, and defrauded essential benefit programs out of millions of dollars. EDVA is committed to prosecuting those who exploit taxpayers and engage in the unacceptable fleecing of these important public institutions and programs."

According to court documents, Mohamed Abdalla, 48, of Allendale, N.J., owned multiple pharmacies in northern Virginia, including Medex Health Pharmacy in Falls Church and Royal Care Pharmacy in Fairfax. As the owner of these pharmacies, Abdalla oversaw and executed two related schemes to defraud health care benefit programs. One scheme involved the payment or receipt of unlawful kickbacks for expensive drugs and devices in violation of the federal Anti-Kickback Statute. Another scheme involved billing federal, state, and private health care benefit programs for numerous expensive drugs and devices that were not medically necessary, not prescribed by a physician, or were not received by a beneficiary.

"Health care professionals who use fraud and deceit to steal funds and scam the system will be held accountable for their actions," said James A. Dawson, Special Agent in Charge of the FBI Washington Field Office Criminal Division. "These individuals, who are supposed to be trusted by the American public, were fueled by greed and their own interests to exploit their profession and pad their pockets. The FBI and our law enforcement partners will continue to root out fraud in the health care industry and protect the public from their illegal schemes."

From at least January 2014 through at least the end of 2018, Abdalla participated in several schemes to pay kickbacks for the referral of prescriptions for compound medications and for an expensive naloxone auto-injector device used to treat opioid emergencies. Abdalla and his conspirators then billed federal health care benefit programs, including Medicare and TRICARE, which is the Department of Defense's health care program, in violation of the Anti-Kickback Statute. Abdalla obtained more than $2 million from these schemes.

"This investigation is a prime example of how kickback schemes undermine the integrity of the U.S. military healthcare system, and degrade the acquisition process," said Christopher Dillard, Special Agent in Charge of the DCIS Mid-Atlantic Field Office. "These sentencings should send a clear warning that DCIS and its investigative partners will vigorously pursue fraudsters intent on lining their pockets with tax dollars earmarked for the care of our Warfighters."

In addition, Abdalla and employees at his pharmacies conspired to defraud federal, state, and private health care benefit programs by engaging in numerous other schemes, including billing for prescriptions in the names of themselves, family members, and other pharmacy employees that were not medically necessary and/or not prescribed by a licensed physician, and billing for prescriptions for pharmacy customers that were never filled. These additional schemes resulted in a loss to these health care benefit programs of approximately $6,216,434.39.

"Health care providers are trusted to recommend and provide prescription medications that their patients need," said Maureen R. Dixon, Special Agent in Charge, HHS Office of Inspector General, Philadelphia Regional Office. "Today's sentencing shows individuals who commit fraud and pay kickbacks will be held responsible for their illegal actions. HHS-OIG and our law enforcement partners will continue to work together to investigate allegations of health care fraud and ensure the integrity of Federal programs."

On March 19, Abdalla was sentenced to four years in prison for his role in the conspiracies. Five additional defendants have pleaded guilty and been sentenced for their respective roles in conspiring to pay kickbacks and defraud health insurance providers:

Onkur Lal, 30, of Alexandria, worked for Abdalla as a pharmacy technician and pharmacy intern before ultimately working as a licensed pharmacist. From approximately January 2014 to April 2019, Lal engaged in numerous health care fraud schemes resulting in millions of dollars in losses. At times, Lal used his specialized knowledge to circumvent audits and investigations by third parties, who were investigating fraud on behalf of health benefit programs. On March 5, Lal was sentenced to three years in prison.

Mohammed Tariq Amin, 35, of Fairfax, worked for Abdalla as a pharmacy technician and was the general manager of Royal Care for almost two years. From approximately January 2015 to November 2018, Amin conspired with Abdalla and others to pay kickbacks for the referral of prescriptions of an expensive naloxone auto-injector device. He also engaged in numerous other schemes that defrauded health care benefit programs and used his specialized knowledge to circumvent audits and investigations. Amin was sentenced April 16 to two years in prison.

Alexandria Police Department honors good samaritan

The Alexandria Police Department honored Christopher Palacios with the Chief of Police Award April 13, for his assistance in a deadly pedestrian crash from last year.

Palacios was instrumental in identifying the driver of the vehicle that struck and killed a pedestrian at the intersection of Duke Street and North Pickett Street January 26, 2020. He witnessed the crash, then followed the vehicle as it left the scene. After several blocks, Palacios and his wife got the driver's attention and convinced him to return to the scene of the crash.

"We are grateful to Mr. Palacios and his family," said Alexandria Police Chief Michael Brown. "It's difficult to identify a driver involved in hit-and-run crashes. Besides being in the right place at the right time, they acted selflessly to bring some closure to a family that lost a loved one. And Mr. Palacios' daughter, Sasha, attempted CPR on the victim."

Just a few of the Hugs Pillows distributed by Assistance League members.

Assistance League provides hugs pillows to elementary children

When members of Assistance League of Northern Virginia gathered last month to assemble 300 Hugs Pillow packages, they anticipated the pillows would please the children who received them.

The heart-shaped pillows, in vibrant patterns are filled with items that any child would love. But the volunteers could not imagine the real-life situations in which those pillows might be used, nor how precious they could be to the recipients.

Counselor Eliza Gallagher, from Loch Lomond Elementary School received some of the pillows assembled by Assistance League sent the following description of the comfort provided for one family:

"Yesterday morning we welcomed more students back into the building for the 10th time this year," she wrote. "Three of those students are from a family whose mother has filed for homelessness recently for the second time. They were SO excited to be back in school and literally had a little hop in their steps as they walked through the front doors. The mother came into the office about an hour after school started to pick her kids up because she had to go to work and didn't have any way of getting them at the end of the day."

Arrangements were worked out to have the children wait with the counselor after school so they didn't have to leave early. After school the wait was longer than expected and the children got anxious, especially the youngest. The counselor found a wonderful way to put the Hugs pillows to use.

"Luckily, thanks to you all I was able to offer them a 'coping skills' bag that the Assistance League had generously packed and given us," wrote Gallagher. "I was able to give them options between a Frozen bag, Alice in Wonderland, Flowers, and Blue Jean pillows and let them pick which animal they wanted as well. Immediately the youngest chose Frozen theme and pulled out all the content until her parent finally arrived. It was a gift to me to be able to provide them something while they waited that they could take home and call their own. A little after 10 p.m. last night I got a message from mom, that I wanted to pass along to you just to say thank you once again. Thank you for supporting our school, students, and me always. I am SO grateful!!"

Stories like these make Assistance League volunteers proud to be members of such a dedicated organization and to know their support is so appreciated, but the members are also very humbled to learn the critical situations that many parents face.

If you would like to learn more about the organization or to become a member, visit the website alnv.org.

Fairfax County-based Cyber and IT consulting firm to expand

SecureTech360, LLC, a small woman-, minority-, and service-disabled veteran-owned cybersecurity and information technology consulting firm, will invest $155,000 to expand in Fairfax County. The company will grow its presence in the healthcare IT and cybersecurity field to provide secure, scalable, and equitable healthcare solutions and products. The project will create 10 new jobs and enable the company to provide clients with patient-centric IP enabled healthcare, pharmaceutical, and ancillary services, powered by green technologies and cybersecurity.

"The recent growth of SecureTech360 is the perfect illustration of how businesses of all sizes can thrive in our Commonwealth," said Governor Ralph Northam. "Access to healthcare and medical records has never been more important, and SecureTech360 is at the forefront of streamlining these services to help address present and future needs. We take pride in having this company as one of our partners, and we look forward to its continued success in Fairfax County.'"

Founded in 2010, SecureTech360, LLC has doubled in size as a small business since its inception. The company focuses on modernizing technology, cybersecurity, and transforming the digital experience for its customers. Most clients are in the first responder community, and the company provides product offerings to help them navigate into secure cloud technology and scale operations for the future. In 2020, SecureTech360 was awarded the Governor's Volunteerism and Community Service Award, recognizing the company's staff for dedicating more than 300 hours to volunteering and raising funds for various causes in the community. The company was also honored as the 2019 Women's Veteran's Business Enterprise of the Year by the National Veteran-Owned Business Association.

"Virginia's leading position in the technology sector makes it an ideal home for innovative startups," said Secretary of Commerce and Trade Brian Ball. "SecureTech360's expansion in Fairfax County is a testament to the region's entrepreneurial spirit and top tech talent. We are very excited to support this SWaM-certified business providing great value to the healthcare industry."

"Motivated by a desire to increase diverse representation in the healthcare IT and cybersecurity space, SecureTech360 is excited about the opportunity to create jobs in Virginia for underserved populations," said Quiana Gainey, principal CEO of SecureTech360. "SecureTech360 will continue to build a bridge between individuals from marginalized communities and provide access to opportunities in the healthcare IT and cybersecurity industry through innovation and training. Our hope is to educate and empower disenfranchised individuals who have systematically been left out of industry while transforming our surrounding local economies."

The Virginia Economic Development Partnership worked with Fairfax County to secure the project and will support SecureTech360's job creation through the Virginia Jobs Investment Program (VJIP), which provides consultative services and funding to companies creating new jobs in order to support employee recruitment and training activities. As a business incentive supporting economic development, VJIP reduces the human resource costs of new and expanding companies. VJIP is state-funded, demonstrating Virginia's commitment to enhancing job opportunities for citizens.

"We are always pleased to help woman-, minority-, and veteran-owned businesses grow their presence in Fairfax County and Northern Virginia," said President and CEO of the Fairfax County Economic Development Authority Victor Hoskins. "Working with SecureTech360 is particularly gratifying because it is creating opportunities in IT sectors for diverse populations."

"As someone with a professional background in healthcare and who has worked for access to records and information that can be used to improve patient outcomes and health status, I am pleased that SecureTech360 is expanding its work and number of employees in healthcare IT in the 39th district," said Senator George Barker.

"Virginia companies continue to show resilience while navigating the COVID-19 pandemic, and I applaud SecureTech360 for recognizing a need across multiple industries to provide greater ease of access to medical records through its platform for consumers in the Commonwealth," said Delegate Vivian Watts. "I am proud to represent this woman-owned small business, and look forward to SecureTech360's continued success."

Cindy Guerra is director of the Incident Support Services Bureau with the Fairfax County Police Department.

FCPD welcomes new incident support services director

Interim Police Chief David M. Rohrer of the Fairfax County Police Department is pleased to announce, the hiring of Cindy I. Guerra as director of the Incident Support Services Bureau, following a national search. Ms. Guerra has formal training in police psychology and extensive experience in police operations, communications and officer wellness and support.

Guerra served most recently as a decorated police lieutenant during her 27-year tenure with the Chicago Police Department (CPD). After joining CPD in 1994, she rose through the ranks to the position of commanding officer of the Police Superintendent's Office of Communications and News Affairs. In this role, she was responsible for implementing all aspects of internal, external and executive communications, legislative affairs and community engagement strategies for the nation's second largest police department. She placed specific emphasis on creating and managing a dedicated internal communication function on behalf of the police superintendent to support officer wellness, morale and welfare. In addition, she worked closely with the community policing office on hiring campaigns, diversity training and community involvement. Guerra also collaborated messaging with the Latino community, in her role as a sergeant for the Office of Communications.

Guerra also served as the police superintendent's representative for coordinating officer wellness and family support initiatives within the Department and among external stakeholders. Her work there was credited with the development of their "You Are Not Alone" campaign which coordinated chaplain, peer support, clinical and public affairs resources into a comprehensive effort to combat a rise in Chicago police officer suicides. These efforts resulted in national recognition by the University of Chicago Crime Lab, NYPD and the National Alliance on Mental Illness.

Guerra earned numerous department awards and recognition throughout her distinguished professional career. She began her employment with FCPD April 12.

Steven. T. Edgemon.

Fairfax Water GM retires; new executive team introduced

Steven T. Edgemon has announced his retirement from Fairfax Water after 18 years of service at Fairfax Water and 40 years in the drinking water industry. His retirement will be effective June 30, 2021.

Edgemon has served as general manager since 2019 after 15 years as deputy general manager. Before joining Fairfax Water, he was vice president and general manager of Virginia American Water Company, based in Alexandria. Edgemon leaves behind a legacy of excellent financial leadership and successful acquisition of the Vulcan Quarry as a future water supply for our customers.

"We are so grateful for the dedication and experience Mr. Edgemon has brought to Fairfax Water," said Phil Allin, chairman of the Fairfax Water Board. "We will miss his leadership and guidance and wish him a very happy retirement."

Jamie Bain Hedges will become the general manager July 1, and John W. Kingsbury III will become deputy general manager. They have a combined experience of almost 70 years in the drinking water industry.

"Many water utilities today cannot compete with that level of experience," said Allin. "Ms. Hedges and Mr. Kingsbury have the knowledge and talent needed to build on the current success of Fairfax Water."

Hedges currently serves as the deputy general manager and has been with Fairfax Water for more than 31 years. Prior to her appointment to deputy general manager in 2019, she served director of the Planning and Engineering Division and manager of Planning. She has a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering and a Master of Business Administration degree, both from Virginia Tech. Hedges is a licensed professional engineer and a member of the American Water Works Association.

Kingsbury joined Fairfax Water in 2000 after serving 15 years with American Water. Prior to his appointment to director of Transmission and Distribution in 2005, he was manager of Mechanical and Distribution Maintenance. He has a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry from Marshall University and a Master's degree in Environmental Sciences and Engineering from Virginia Tech. He is a licensed Waterworks Operator, licensed professional engineer, and a member of the American Water Works Association, where he has served on committees at the local and national levels.

Men's Virility Restored in Clinical Trial; 275% More Blood Flow in 5 Minutes

A newly improved version of America's best-selling male performance enhancer gives 70-year-old men the performance they enjoyed in their 30's.

America's best-selling sexual performance enhancer just got a lot better.

It's the latest breakthrough for nitric oxide – the molecule that makes performance like this possible by increasing blood flow right where you need it!

Nitric oxide won the Nobel Prize in 1998. It's why "the little blue pill" works. More than 200,000 studies confirm it's the key to superior sexual performance.

And this new discovery increases nitric oxide availability resulting in even quicker, stronger and longer-lasting performance.

One double-blind, placebo-controlled study (the "gold-standard" of research) involved a group of 70-year-old-men.

They didn't exercise. They didn't eat healthy. And researchers reported their "nitric oxide availability was almost totally compromised," resulting in blood flow less than HALF of a man in peak sexual health.

But only five minutes after the first dose their blood flow increased 275%, back to levels of a perfectly healthy 31-year-old man! "It's amazing," remarks nitric oxide expert Dr. Al Sears. "That's like giving 70-year-old men the sexual power of 30-year-olds."

A new discovery that increases nitric oxide availability was recently proven in a clinical trial to boost blood flow 275% resulting in even quicker, stronger and longer-lasting performance.

WHY SO MUCH EXCITEMENT?

Despite the billions men spend annually on older nitric oxide therapies, there's one well-known problem with them.

They don't always work.

Dr. Joseph Loscalzo explains why. He's studied nitric oxide for over 43 years. He is the physician-in-chief at Brigham and Women's Hospital. He says a "deficiency of bioactive nitric oxide… leads to impaired endothelium-dependent vasorelaxation."

In plain English, these older products may increase levels of nitric oxide. But that's only half the battle. If it's not bioactively available then your body can't absorb it to produce an erection.

Experts simply call it the nitric oxide "glitch." And until now, there's never been a solution.

NEXT GENERATION NITRIC OXIDE FORMULA FLYING OFF SHELVES

Upon further research, America's No. 1 men's health expert Dr. Al Sears discovered certain nutrients fix this "glitch" resulting in 275% better blood flow.

He's combined those nutrients with proven nitric oxide boosters in a new formula called Primal Max Red. In clinical trials, 5,000 mg is required for satisfying sexual performance. Primal Max Red contains a bigger, 9,000 mg per serving dose. It's become so popular, he's having trouble keeping it in stock.

Dr. Sears is the author of more than 500 scientific papers. Thousands of people listened to him speak at the recent Palm Beach Health & Wellness Festival featuring Dr. Oz. NFL Hall of Fame quarterback Joe Namath recently visited his clinic, the Sears Institute for Anti-Aging Medicine.

Primal Max Red has only been available for a few months — but everyone who takes it reports a big difference. "I have the energy to have sex three times in one day, WOW! That has not happened in years. Oh, by the way I am 62," says Jonathan K. from Birmingham, AL.

HOW IT WORKS

Loss of power starts with your blood vessels. Specifically, the inside layer called the endothelium where nitric oxide is made.

The problem is various factors THICKEN your blood vessels as you age. This blocks availability causing the nitric oxide "glitch." The result is difficulty in getting and sustaining a healthy erection.

How bad is the problem?

Researcher shows the typical 40-year-old man absorbs 50% less nitric oxide. At 50, that drops to 25%. And once you pass 60 just a measly 15% gets through.

To make matters worse, nitric oxide levels start declining in your 30's. And by 70, nitric oxide production is down an alarming 75%.

Primal Max Red is the first formula to tackle both problems. Combining powerful nitric oxide boosters and a proven delivery mechanism that defeats the nitric oxide "glitch" resulting in 275% better blood flow. There's not enough space here to fully explain how it works, so Dr. Sears will send anyone who orders Primal Max Red a free special report that explains everything.

MORE CLINICAL RESULTS

Nutrients in Primal Max Red have logged impressive results.

In a Journal of Applied Physiology study, one resulted in a 30 times MORE nitric oxide. And these increased levels lasted up to 12 hours.

"I measured my nitric oxide levels, you can buy a test kit from Amazon," reports 48-year-old Jeff O. "Monday night I showed depleted."

Then he used ingredients in Primal Max Red and, "The results were off the charts. I first woke around 3 a.m. on Tuesday ready to go like never before. My nitric oxide levels measured at the top end of the range."

FREE BONUS TESTOSTERONE BOOSTER

Every order also gets Dr. Sears testosterone boosting formula Primal Max Black for free.

"If you want passionate 'rip your clothes off' sex you had in your younger days, you need nitric oxide to get your erection going. And testosterone for energy and drive," says Dr. Sears. "You get both with Primal Max Red and Primal Max Black."

HOW TO GET PRIMAL MAX

To secure free bottles of Primal Max Black and get the hot, new Primal Max Red formula, buyers should contact the Sears Health Hotline at 1-800-903-9439 within the next 48 hours. "It's not available in drug stores yet," says Dr. Sears. "The Hotline allows us to ship directly to the customer."

Dr. Sears feels so strongly about Primal Max, all orders are backed by a 100% money-back guarantee. "Just send me back the bottle and any unused product within 90 days from purchase date, and I'll send you all your money back," he says.

The Hotline will be open for the next 48 hours. After that, the phone number will be shut down to allow them to restock. Call 1-800-903-9439 to secure your limited supply of Primal Max Red and free bottles of Primal Max Black. You don't need a prescription, and those who call in the first 24 hours qualify for a significant discount. Use Promo Code NP0321PMAX954 when you call in. AWARD CEREMONY

"Volunteers serve not because of the need but rather the surplus of compassion and strong desire to make a difference in the community and world!" Wertz stated in a post on the Volunteer Fairfax website.

Another winner in the Education and Literacy category was Mike Mulreany who volunteered though the Adventures in Learning program which explores education through art, science, and world events. For seniors. Mulreany was a jack of all trades helping the program to continue running, his duties included such things as answering phones, setting appointments, and even driving trucks to keep things going.

Mulreany used his acceptance speech to promote programs such as Zoom learning and Tai Chi classes that are promoted through Adventures in Learning.

One organization that won an award for Environmental Sustainability was the South Run Landscaping Team who were awarded for their efforts to keep South Run Park healthy and place certain plants in certain areas of the park. While the team consists for 20 members, they also had nearly 240 volunteers helping them with the project.

"We love working outside especially when we can do it with such fun and interesting people. During the COVID pandemic doing landscaping was a really refreshing break. We feel that our physical and mental health have benefitted and it seems that people who visit the park also get a boost from our landscaping." Said lead volunteer Sally Burman in her acceptance speech.

These are just some of the winners and there were many more who were honored especially in the events special #Stronger Together award. This award was for those who contributed in some way directly to the pandemic from being front line medical personnel to manufacturing masks.

"This was a great event," said event coordinator Hollie Gorgon, "but we are looking forward and hoping to go live next year. Fingers crossed, but we'll see."

Do you have reflux disease? Many people do!

KEYS TO BETTER HEALTH
CINDY SANTA ANA

Reflux is also called Gastroesophageal Reflux Disease or GERD. It happens when contents from the stomach back up, or reflux, into the lower esophagus - the tube connecting the mouth and stomach. Normally when a person eats, a muscle in the lower esophagus closes after food goes into the stomach. The muscle is called a sphincter. It closes to stop the food from going back up into the esophagus. Reflux happens when the lower esophageal muscle does not close properly.

GERD symptoms can include heartburn, tightness in the chest, unpleasant taste in the mouth, dry cough that does not go away, wheezing, voice roughness, and a feeling that one needs to clear their throat often.

Foods to Eliminate Trigger Foods

It can be helpful to exclude certain foods that can reduce the lower esophageal sphincter tone and motility, cause mucosal irritation, or increase gastric juice secretion. These trigger foods include spicy and fatty foods, high-fat dairy products, certain spices, citrus fruits and juices, acidic foods and beverages, coffee and black tea, chocolate, mint products, onions, garlic, and tomato-based products.

No Added Sugars

Simple sugars raise blood sugar levels and produce an osmotic effect in the gastrointestinal tract. Sweets with peppermint, spearmint, and chocolate can often cause pain. To prevent this effect and minimize reflux symptoms, focus on foods that are sugar-free, eat whole foods, and avoid artificial sweeteners (aspartame, sucralose) as these can negatively alter gut microbiota.

Foods to Add Fiber

Regular and adequate intake of fiber is associated with decreased heartburn symptoms. Eat a diet rich in vegetables, fruits, and whole grains (if tolerated) to provide a daily fiber goal of up to 45 grams. Soluble fiber found in foods like oats, bananas, dates, lentils, and sweet potatoes can be added as this type of fiber is found to decrease symptoms and esophageal pressure. Certain fruits and vegetables are sometimes eliminated, such as citrus fruit and juice, tomato, onion and garlic, green pepper, radish, avocado, and olives due to their effect on reflux symptoms.

Healthy Fats & Plant-Based or Lean Protein

High fat diets, especially those which include increased amounts of saturated fat from fried or greasy foods and creamy sauces can worsen reflux symptoms. Fat takes longer to leave the stomach which can cause further symptoms. Animal protein sources from lean meats, fish and poultry, and pasture-raised eggs are better options. Fried and highly spiced meats, as well as processed deli meats should be avoided. You can also try plant-based or lean protein options, healthy omega-3 fats from walnuts, and monounsaturated fatty acids from seeds, pecans, almond butter, and olive oil.

Lifestyle Suggestions

Lifestyle and behavior changes have been shown to reduce the symptoms of reflux and should be considered. Some recommended modifications include:

• Eat several smaller meals or snacks a day rather than three large meals. Having smaller amounts of food in the stomach allows more time for digestion and prevents stomach acid from backing up into the throat.

• Eat and drink slowly and chew foods well. Avoid chewing gum, drinking soda or fizzy beverages, and using straws as swallowing more air can worsen symptoms.

• Avoid eating or drinking three hours before lying down to avoid backflow of stomach contents. Try raising the head of your bed to prevent backflow.

• When eating, sit up straight with your shoulders back.

• Avoid smoking as nicotine relaxes the lower esophageal sphincter.

• Aim to achieve a healthy body weight as added weight increases intragastric pressure.

Mason loses doubleheader to Dayton

By Rick Horner
FAIRFAX COUNTY TIMES

The George Mason University Patriots faced off against the University of Dayton for a double header on their home field at Woerner Field over the weekend. Mason won their previous game against the Flyers on Friday scoring 7-6, the last game the Patriots won against Dayton was on March 19 at where Mason beat the Flyers 2-0 at home.

The Patriots gave up one run in the bottom of the first inning to Dayton as Flyers shortstop Ben Blackwell hit a solo home run off of Mason's pitcher Kieran Versaw-Barnes who is 1 for 4 in the season. Mason would tie it up in the top of the third inning when designated hitter Bailey Klein doubled off of Dayton pitcher Ben Olsen and batted in the run.

The bottom of the inning would see the bats heat up for the Flyers as Barnes allowed the first three batters to reach base before being replaced by Jonathon Kaiser. But Kaiser couldn't stem the tide and allowed four runs to give Dayton a 5-1 lead at the end of the third. The Flyers would repeat that performance at the bottom of the fifth inning against Mason reliever Matthew Henson extending their lead to 9-1.

Dayton would add another two runs at the bottom of the sixth inning and shut out the Patriots in the top of the seventh inning taking the first game with a score of 11-1.

Game two of the double header would see the Patriots turn up the heat when at the top of the first inning Mason center fielder South Trimble got on base on a walk. Trimble was later able to reach home on a wild pitch to get the first run of the game.

Dayton would respond at the bottom of the inning as the Flyers' Riley Triotta would get a two-run homer off of Mason's Austin Cabone. The number four seemed to be a favorite for the Flyers as in the bottom of the third inning Dayton put up four runs off of a two-run double by first baseman Alex Brickman and a two-run homer by right fielder Eddie Pursinger.

The Patriots bats wouldn't remain silent, in the top of the fourth Mason responded with a four-spot of their own as shortstop Peter Nielsen would hit a three-run homer followed a South Trimble run that would narrow the Flyer's lead by one. Dayton however answered right back in the bottom of the inning with another four runs against Mason reliever Mason Posey, this would include another two-run homer off the bat of Riley Triotta who would help to regain the lead for the Flyers.

Mason would put another run on the board at the top of the sixth inning but the Flyers would score another two runs at the bottom of the inning against reliever Sang Ho Baek for what would be the final score after seven innings of 12-10.

Mason will have their next game against Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond on Saturday, April 30.

Fairfax loses regional field hockey championships against Woodson

By Rick Horner
FAIRFAX COUNTY TIMES

This past weekend saw the Fairfax Lions women's field hockey team take on the Woodson High Cavaliers in the finals for the Occoquan Regional Finals. The Lions made their way to the finals with a bye in round one and then by beating West Springfield last week in a 7-1 blowout win. The Lions followed that up with another dominate win over T.C. Williams High with a 6-0 game.

This was the rubber match for the longtime rivals, in 2018 Fairfax lost to Woodson in the district finals but won against them in the regional finals. In 2020 the reverse happened when Fairfax won the district championship while Woodson went on to beat Fairfax in the regional finals.

The first half of the game saw strong defense from both teams, Woodson made a huge drive at the five-minute mark but the Lions beat back the potential onslaught. The defense held tight in the second quarter and ended up scoreless going into halftime.

The second half would see the Lions have several opportunities with corners but Woodson's defense was once again strong enough to weather the storm. After the first hour of play the game stood scoreless at zero apiece.

The first overtime would see three corners for Woodson as they threatened to break the Lions defense. Both teams were still scoreless at the end of overtime.

The second overtime would see a corner for the Lions which would allow a goal from the Lions #2 Emma Abromavage around the 10:30 mark. Unfortunately for Fairfax the referee took away the goal due to a call of endangerment play. The game would remain scoreless once again and would lead into one versus one play.

The Lions entered into one versus one for the first time this season. Woodson took the lead when #13 Gwyneth Durosko got the first goal. The Lions would have a rougher time when #11 Halley Beaudoin would get tackled by the Woodson goalie, this would get Fairfax a free stroke which was taken by Abromavage who would tie it up. Woodson would retake the lead after a goal made by #9 Allie Maahs.

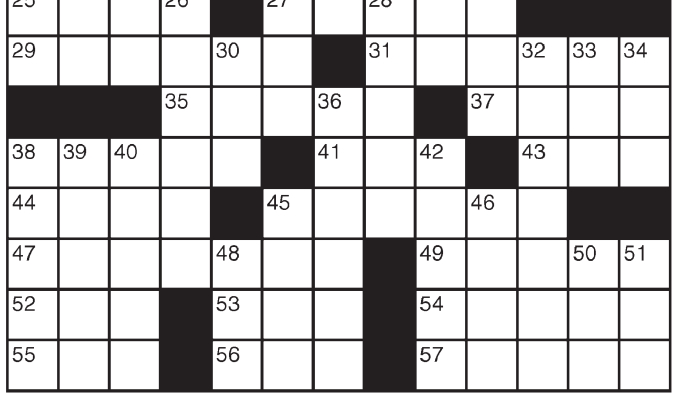

The Lions would continue to get a rougher response from the Woodson goalie when #4 Piper Rodgers got tackled, Abromavage would again take the stroke evening the score again at 2-2. Woodson's #5 Maria Page would score and retake the lead which would be evened up again by the Lions #8 Sara Silarszka for a ties 3-3 score.

It would be Woodson's #3 Zoe Hite would score the winning goal and win Woodson the regional championship and move on to the state tournament which will be held next Tuesday.

CORRECTION: In our April 16 issue, an incorrect statement was made in the article titled "Fairfax Lions ladies field hockey beats West Springfield 7-1". The article incorrectly stated that Woodson defeated Fairfax 5-1 in the Occoquan District Finals. Fairfax actually defeated Woodson 1-0 in overtime for the Patriot District championship.

The immersive instillation combines music, nature and technology

By Keith Loria
SPECIAL TO THE FAIRFAX COUNTY TIMES

With the weather turning perfect for an outdoor walk, the Wolf Trap Foundation for the Performing Arts is offering a great way to enjoy a stroll and listen to some amazing music in the process.

Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Ellen Reid has created the Ellen Reid Soundwalk, an immersive experience that brings together music, nature and technology. The GPS-enabled walk uses music to heighten experiences as one walks through the grounds of Wolf Trap.

"This is something I dreamed up three years ago," Reid said. "I love taking jogs and walks and I was taking a jog in Prospect Park in Brooklyn and I was struck at how connected I was to this route that I would run regularly. I started thinking about all the other people who felt connected and the meaning the path held for all of these people."

With that in mind, Reid wanted to create a project that held space for that connection. She came up with an idea for Soundwalk, and started making plans with different entities to have it at their sites.

"When the pandemic hit, it was clear that was a project that could move forward and take on a new meaning," Reid said. "This is something that can be experienced fully, and made to be done while socially distant and alone."

Wolf Trap was immediately interested and became a co-commissioner on the project. To get inspiration for the music that would be used, Reid "walked" the grounds with staff members on Facetime and they told her how each section was utilized and about their favorite parts of the trail.

"The next step was I came in person and built a draft of what I thought would work, and walked the trails and made changes and changes and changes until the day it opened," she said. "I took notes on my phone and photos of where I was, so I knew where my GPS was and where I was in the park."

People just need to download the free app and then they can embark on a mile-long route of trails around Wolf Trap, passing by the meadow, the children's theater, across Wolf Trap Run creek and even into the Feline performance center.

Watching 'Vanquish' might cause some anguish

LIONSGATE

Vicky (Ruby Rose) must follow orders in order to save her daughter.

By Ed Symkus
MORE CONTENT NOW

A long black and white credits sequence presents the highlights of a police officer's celebrated career, from his rookie days to his tenure as an undercover cop to when he was gunned down and relegated to life in a wheelchair … and promoted to police commissioner for his troubles.

But it takes only a minute or so after the credits, when the film has switched to color, that it's made clear that the commissioner - Damon Hickey (Morgan Freeman) - has, as he says to a priest in a confession booth, "slipped off the righteous path."

But before any of that can sink in, the film cuts to four bad cops who are working over another cop who they believe was going to rat them out. It looks like they might even have killed him. Or maybe he's just passed out. But before that can be clarified, it's revealed that the bad cops are doing this under orders from Commissioner Hickey. But before THAT can …

Sorry, it just keeps going from there. "Vanquish" (I have no idea why this film has that title) consists of numerous story elements, piling on top of one another, making things more complicated, but never offering enough explanation for anything to make sense.

Hickey, who tools around on his electric wheelchair in his posh modern mansion, is visited by down-on-her-luck old acquaintance Vicky (Ruby Rose) and her young (very ill) daughter Lily (Juju Journey Brener). When Hickey's not on the phone, calmly telling his nervous bad guy cops to relax, he's quietly making a deal with Vicky: "I'll help you and your daughter if you will use some of your old skills in return."

Vicky says no, she won't go back to her old ways and looks for Lily, with plans of leaving. But somehow, without Vicky knowing, Hickey has already had the daughter taken captive and, with a winning smile, tells Vicky that she'll be returned after Vicky straps on some weapons and a body cam, hops on a motorcycle, and goes out into the night to make five stops, gather up big bags of money at each of them, and return them to the mansion.

That's it. That's the whole slow-moving, darkly lit, garishly colored, stiffly acted movie. There are a few blasts of action, as Vicky meets up with a diverse assortment of villains at each destination, every one of them seemingly prepared to stop her, even though they're supposed to be paying her.

Those weapons she straps on? They're guns, big guns, and she knows how to use them because she used to … well, that goes back to her "old skills." The story has her mowing down anyone who gets in her way (which means everyone except Hickey). If the situation gets tense, she stays cool, even when the cousin (I think it was the cousin; this is so convoluted) of one of the guys she kills comes after her, and an overly choreographed, by-the-numbers car-motorcycle chase ensues.

Along the way, and through the night, little hints of Vicky's past come out, as does some info about why that cop was beaten up (killed?) at the beginning, but she - and we - are kept in the dark about why Hickey is making all of this happen.

Much of what happens here feels mundane, like it's

STAY TUNED

For fans of the video game,'Mortal Kombat' adaptation delivers

By Melissa Crawley
MORE CONTENT NOW

A bestselling fantasy book series comes to Netflix, a handmaid returns for vengeance and a video game adaptation stays true to its fighting roots.

Dispatches: Weekly TV news

The upcoming "Lord of the Rings" TV series (Amazon) will cost around $465 million to produce one season, which is more than other high-priced series, including HBO's "Game of Thrones."

Contenders: Shows to keep on your radar

"Great Performances: Romeo & Juliet" (April 23, PBS, 9 p.m. ET) is the U.S. premiere of the National Theatre's original film for television. It's set in a shuttered theater where a company of actors tell the star-crossed lovers' story.

"Mortal Kombat" premieres in theatres and on HBO Max on April 23. MMA fighter Cole Young (Lewis Tan), along with Earth's greatest fighters, battle the enemies of the Outworld. The franchise may have finally gotten it right by turning a video game into a film but treating it like a video game. Plot and character development are secondary to strong fight choreography and stunt work, which highlights what its source material does best.

Based on Leigh Bardugo's bestselling Grishaverse novels, "Shadow and Bone" (April 23, Netflix) follows orphan mapmaker Alina Starkov (Jessie Mei Li), as she discovers an extraordinary power that could change her world's fate.

The hosts of "Top Gear" (April 25, BBC America/AMC+, 8 p.m. ET) hit the road for more adventures, including an off-road excursion in the Scottish Highlands and driving some of the most iconic cars from the James Bond films.

HBO MAX

The 2021 film adaptation of "Mortal Kombat" will please fans of the franchise.

"Grace" (BritBox April 27) stars John Simm ("Doctor Who," "The Catch") as Roy Grace, a troubled detective struggling with his wife's disappearance. A department outcast thanks to his emotional past and unorthodox methods, Grace is demoted to investigating cold cases, but things take a turn when a colleague asks him to help solve a time-sensitive crime.

Gilead faces the wrath of June (Elisabeth Moss) in the fourth season of "The Handmaid's Tale" (April 28, Hulu). Emerging as a fierce rebel leader, she encounters dangerous new challenges but her desire for justice and revenge threatens to destroy her.

In "The Bad Seed" (April 29, Sundance Now/AMC+), the lives of two brothers fall apart when one becomes a suspect in a murder and the ensuing police investigation starts to uncover secrets that the other is desperate to keep hidden.

Janis Carter was a student in 1970s Oklahoma when she took a job caring for Lucy, a chimp raised as a human by two psychologists. When it became clear that Lucy needed to return to the wild, Janis agreed to go to Gambia to help her acclimate. What was meant to be a few weeks turned into a lifetime, as Janis became the leader of Lucy's small chimpanzee troupe and never returned to the U.S. Documentary, "Lucy the Human Chip" (April 29, HBO Max), is a first-person account of their remarkable friendship.

Report Card: Ratings winners and losers

Winners: Fox ordered a third season of animated series, "Duncanville."

Losers: "Castlevania" (Netflix) will end with season four.

FROM THE DOG'S PAW

Household rules by the cat!

By Abby! and Samson!
SPECIAL TO THE FAIRFAX COUNTY TIMES

"MEOWS! Welcome to our family Miss Abigail Aria! I know that you will enjoy living here as we are an exceptionally grand family. Purringly, you must obey some household rules for you to be happy in our happy home! MEOWS!

Purrs, first and foremost, most impawtant, I am HE WHO IS in charge. Not Dad. Not Mom, well, often Mom too, but I am the cat who tells everyone what to do all the time without question! If you want to live here happily, cooperate to the fullest extent of your sweet 10-month-old puppy-self. HISS! Don't mess with the cat!

Purringly, we need to discuss the humans! They are who they are and do what they do when they do what they do to do it for us. Meowsingly, Mom is my human. She is who I cuddle and snuggle with and spend my days lovin' on! She is the bestest-ever human, she is mine. Not yours. Mine. She takes care of all things for me, all the time, no matter what. When I want to cuddle with her, I take preference over anyone else. You get to have Dad. He's a nice enough guy, though he gets really weird in the summers as he loves being outside in all the heat and sunlight. Not sure what is up with that!? He's yours. You'll need to walk him daily and take him out back to play as much as pawssible- that is definitely beneath my dignity!

Meowsly, the food bowl upstairs is mine. Pawingly, it's where Mom places my meals every day. It is not for you. Cat food might taste and smell delicious to you, but it is not healthy for dogs. I will share my water bowl with you as long as you do not leave all kinds of disgusting drool all over the place and unidentifiable matter in the water. I mean, how gross can you be- but 'dogs drool, cats rule!' My treats are just that, mine! I leave your treats alone, and you do that with mine.

My litterbox is MINE. MINE! Precisely as I said, MINE! It's not yours. It's my place to do my pawsonal business and hide it for humans to dispose. It is not your little treat place, your inside digging spot for those days you cannot go out. It is not your place to sniff and explore, and for paw's sake, do not ever use it! Stay away from it! Meows.

An impawtant thing to note is beds. They are mine. They are my places to sleep or nap my day away. Sometimes I want the sunshine, and sometimes I like to curl up in the dark so all the beds in the house are mine so I may have my choice wherever and whenever I want. You may not nap or sleep in any of the beds in the house. Paws, I think you have a few dog beds, which are well beneath me, to nap or sleep! Meows!

Pawlease keep your barking and whining down to a minimum, so you don't disturb my impawtant naps throughout the day. If you must bark, pawlease bark once and not hundreds of times! There really is no need to bark every time you hear a noise! HISS! Whining gets you nowhere- so just stop, pawlease.

Meows, purrs, obey ALL of these rules, and we'll get along fine! If you have any questions, pawlease see the first rule! Welcome to the family! Abby"

"Arf?"

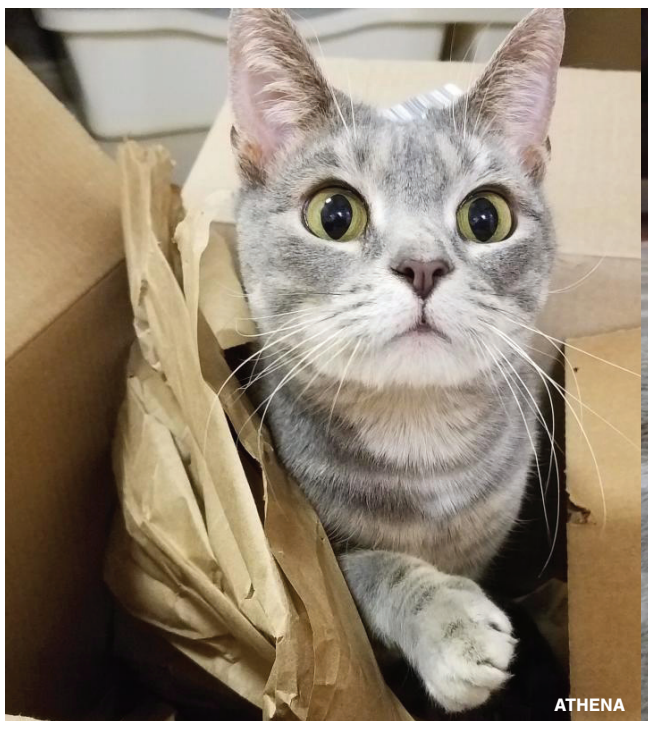

Pawlease meet a few friends needing adopting:

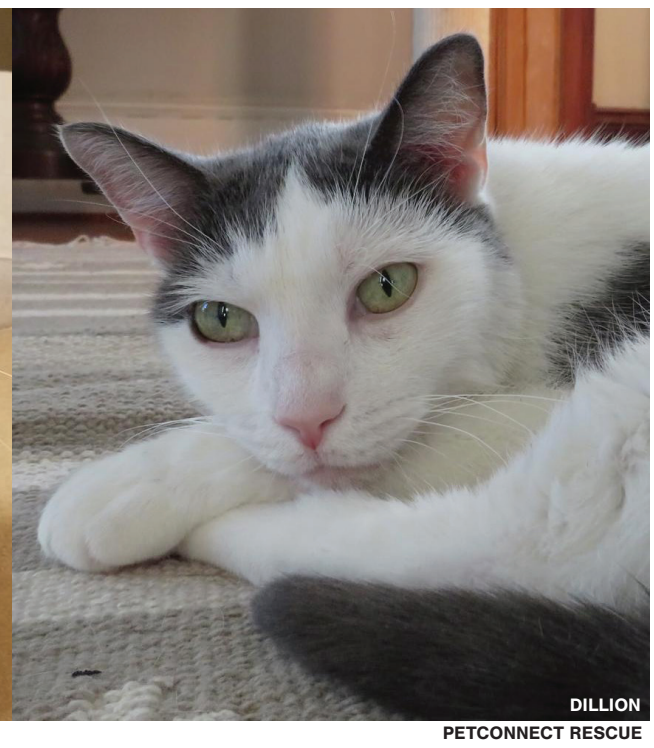

Dillion prefers an adult-only quiet home to enjoy his retirement years! At 13-years-young, he loves sunny spots for napping or warm lap receiving gentle stroking! He loves chasing a wand toy. He would love a cat-savvy human to help him settle into his new home. He will reward with purrs!

Athena, a sweet, gentle, affectionate, playful cat, loves curling up on a lap! When not snuggling, she loves playing, stalking, chasing, and pouncing on her toys! She lost her only-known human, who became unable to care for her. She may need time to settle and trust new humans. With patience, she can become a pawsomely devoted and loving kitty.

Bell

Breed: Domestic medium hair
Age: 1.5 years
Gender: Female spayed
Miss Bell is an affectionate, well adjusted, and alert kitty. She likes to be in the same room as people. While Bell just had her own litter of kitties and is newly spayed, she still has some kitten in her and is ready to play when you engage her with toys, she may even come tearing in from another room with a burst of energy, but she also likes to chill on the couch or just look out the window. Bell is ready for her forever home and has so much love to give!

Harriett

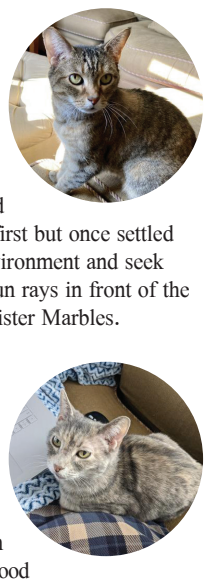

Breed: Domestic short hair
Age: 10 years
Gender: Female spayed
Harriet is a beautiful golden-brown tabby. Her human recently passed away and her and her sister Marbles were taken to the shelter where FFGW happily took them in to help find them a new home. Harriet can be a bit shy at first but once settled in she likes to take time exploring her new environment and seek out the best bird watching spots and soak up sun rays in front of the window. She is ready to be adopted with her sister Marbles.

Black Beauty

Breed: Domestic short hair
Age: 3 years
Gender: Female spayed
Black Beauty is a gentle little girl who likes to sleep with you and lay right beside you when you're relaxing or working! This little girl is new to FFGW and already making herself at home in her foster. She loves coming to you for pets, head rubs and does enjoy playing with her favorite mouse. You don't want to miss out on this outgoing and amazing girl!

Marbles

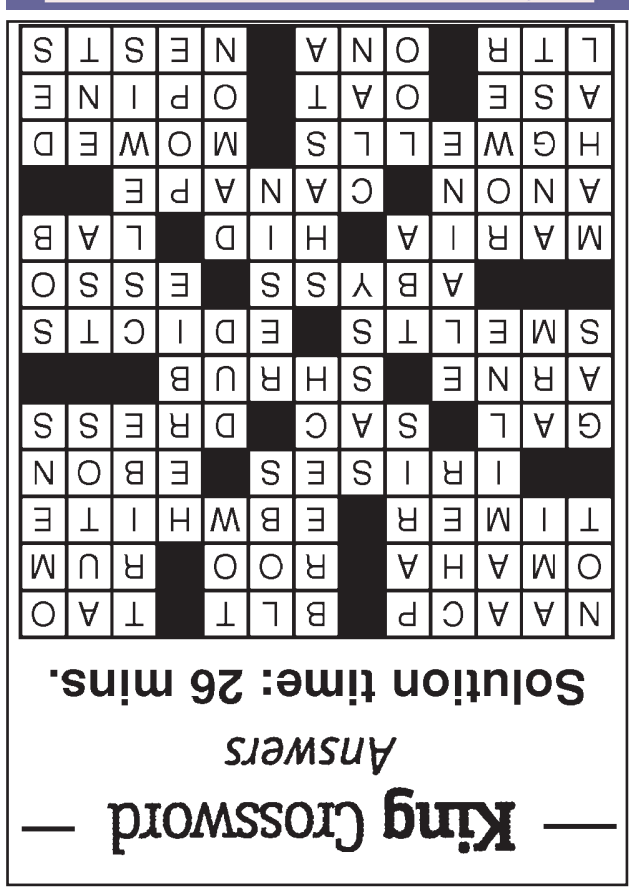

Breed: Domestic short hair
Age: 10 years
Gender: Female spayed
Marbles is a stunning dilute calico. Her foster mom said that Marbles is the 'gold standard of pets'. She's a good companion, but not needy, can entertain herself when she feels like playing, has good eating and litter box habits, and enjoys cuddling. Marbles has a great big purr you to help sooth your soul.

Madeline

Breed: Domestic short hair Age: 2 years Gender: Female spayed
Madeline is very loving and sweet. She has a calm nature and likes cuddling and sleeping. She's a doll baby that enjoys being petted and loved on. Madeline is everything you want in a Tuxedo girl. This little lady has a special trait too, she loves to hold your hand. Madeline is ready for you to help her settle into her new home.

ELLEN REID

"One thing I really like about Wolf Trap is that over the streams and bridges, there is this additional energetic string layer and drum solo, because I love the flowing brooks that go underneath the bridges on the trails," Reid said. "The grounds are so beautiful and so varied, so I think the Soundwalk works so well. You can move through different kinds of landscapes and explore the grounds in a new way."

As one walks through each new section, a new soundscape will be triggered, crafted to harmonize with the park's landscape. For example, when one walks through the children's theatre and steps on the stage, the music turns more happy and childlike, as if you're watching a fun family film.

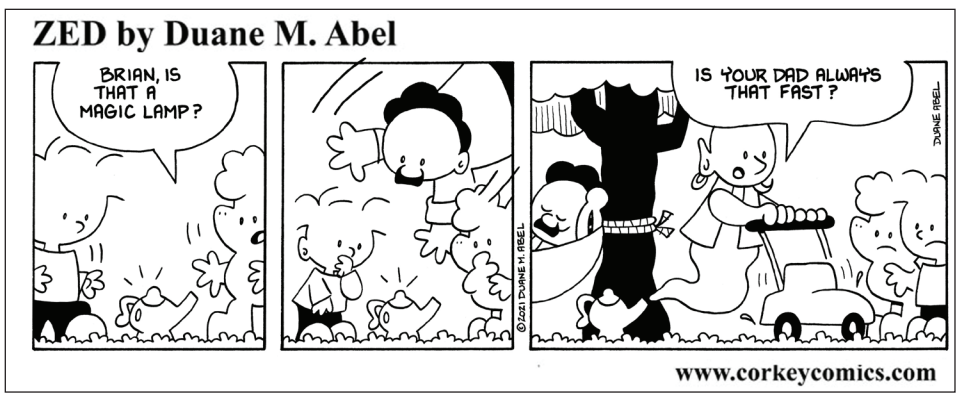

"Every section is based on what I saw there; that's part of the composition process," Reid said. "The open meadow had a different inspiration than some of the wooded trails. The music and the location had to make sense together."

Arvind Manocha, president and CEO of Wolf Trap Foundation for the Performing Arts, commissioned the piece as a way to bring music to the park for the first time in more than a year.

"As we emerge from the pandemic, we wanted to give our community a special opportunity to experience the beauty of music and nature in a safe and socially-distanced manner and to re-engage with Wolf Trap as we, with the National Park Service, celebrate the coming of summer," he said.

The installation runs through Sept. 6, is free to the public and can be experienced while following social distancing guidelines.

"I'm honored that Soundwalk will help to welcome audiences back to Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts after such a long and painful absence of music," Reid said. "I hope people visit multiple times throughout the year; just as the season or time of day affects our perception of our surroundings, music can also create a new frame of experience."

been borrowed from other, better films, and some of it is downright absurd. For instance, I had no idea that a handful of cocaine thrown into someone's face can alleviate the effects of that person having been slipped a mickey! But before that scene can be fully understood, a new character enters the story, and he's just what it "needs." He's a crooked FBI agent. Hoo boy!

Right near the conclusion of this thing, just before a climactic sequence that likely took up most of the film's budget to pull off, one of the characters looks at another one and says, "I've had enough," then brings about that ending. Having sat through what felt like a lot longer than the film's 90-minute running time, I wish he'd said and done it a lot sooner.
