

AI is thirsty

A short AI query, email or prompt can consume the equivalent of a 16.9 ounce water bottle, according to researchers at the University of California, Riverside. That includes the water needed to cool AI data centers as well as water used at power plants to fuel those machines.

