

February 2026

2026 YOUTH LARGE ANIMAL LIVESTOCK CLINIC

Youth livestock exhibitors are invited to attend a Large Animal Livestock Clinic hosted by Kendall-Grundy Farm Bureau in partnership with local University of Illinois Extension offices on February 28. This free clinic offers hands-on instruction to help exhibitors strengthen their livestock skills and prepare for the upcoming show season. YQCA certification will be available for a $3 fee. Registration is required by February 20, with the sign-up link available on the Kendall-Grundy Farm Bureau website or Facebook page.

AITC TEACHES TECHNOLOGY IN JANUARY

Throughout the month of January, students in Grundy County explored the role of technology in modern agriculture and how it has evolved over time. Lessons focused on the many different ways innovation has changed farming practices, such as the shift from hand milking dairy cows to today's advanced robotic milking systems. Students learned how technology improves efficiency and productivity on farms.

Students were also introduced to precision agriculture tools such as GPS and drones, learning how farmers use these technologies to monitor crops and manage fields. The lesson wrapped up with a hands-on GPS activity. Students practiced giving step by step directions to a partner, just like a real GPS system. This interactive lesson helped students connect classroom learning to real world agriculture technology used today.

KENDALL-GRUNDY FARM BUREAU FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS

Our foundations are now accepting scholarship applications for 2026. These scholarships are available to students pursuing higher education in any field. Applications are due by March 6 at 12:00 p.m. Visit the Kendall-Grundy Farm Bureau website for details and the application link.

ONLINE NOW!

SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE

Applications for both the Kendall County Farm Bureau Foundation and the Grundy County Farm Bureau Foundation Scholarships are now available online.
Deadline: 12:00pm, Friday, March 6th, 2026

KENDALLGRUNDYFB.COM/SCHOLARSHIPS

KENDALL-GRUNDY FARM BUREAU SUMMER INTERNSHIP APPLICATION NOW OPEN

The Kendall-Grundy Farm Bureau is now accepting applications for its summer internship program. The intern will gain valuable, hands-on experience in agricultural programs, office administration, and community engagement. Apply by February 20th. For more information and to submit your application, visit the Kendall-Grundy Farm Bureau website.

