The Door

I never even gave myself the chance to dream closed the door so no one could hear me scream trapped inside this dark dirty little room
At the rate I'm going it might be my tomb
I know that I don't wanna die here all alone Fearful of facing the demons I've always known I hear the foot steps down the tier I know they're coming to hear the snare and the bass as the devil keeps drumming
I can't run from the evil there's no place to hide everything I've been feeling comes from inside

Inside the mind of this lonely deranged drug addict
I heard a knock at the door that's when I panicked
I fear they've come here to get me and show me my death
So I put my hands together and took one last deep breath
I dropped to my knees and I started to pray
"Please Lord don't let them take me, please Lord not today"
As the door slowly opened a brilliant light shone through there stand my savior He said "I've come here for you."
I looked up at Him with tears in my eyes and asked
I asked "Oh Heavenly Father is it my time to die?"
"No my son" He answered as He held out His hand

"I'm here to save you from yourself, do you understand?" Initials J

People always ask me exactly what He meant

"What were you doing to yourself what did He prevent?"

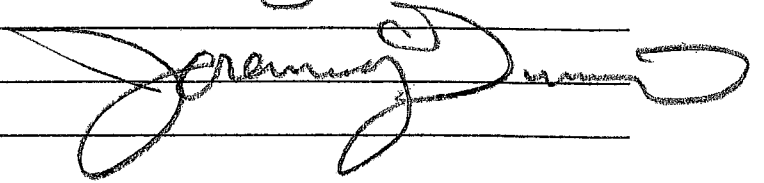

I answer the loss of my very soul, it burning eternally in hell Drugs gave me insanity a place called craziness in which I'd dwell except today I'm not trapped in an addicted mind anymore.

Now Everyday Yeah EVERYDAY I thank GOD..... for opening The Door.
