

Race Issues Studied As Committee Begins Two-Day Session At Raleigh

BY W. T. BOST
Greensboro Daily News Bureau
200 W. Washington Bldg., Fayetteville, N. C.

Dr. Frank Graham, head of the National Council on Race Issues, opened the first of the two-day sessions of the committee on race issues in Raleigh today. The session was held in the auditorium of the Raleigh Hotel. Dr. Graham, who is also president of the National Council on Race Issues, opened the session with a prayer. He then introduced the members of the committee. The members are: Dr. Graham, Chairman; Dr. J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; Dr. C. I. Lewis, Director of the National Bureau of Research in Chemistry; Dr. H. C. Houder, Director of the National Bureau of Standards; Dr. W. C. Coker, Director of the National Bureau of Health Services; Dr. J. H. Holloman, Director of the National Bureau of Economic Research; Dr. J. H. Holloman, Director of the National Bureau of Economic Research; Dr. J. H. Holloman, Director of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Dr. Frank Graham Hero of Meeting As Thorny Problems Are Discussed

and medical care movement with a foreign issue, the committee was alive and militant. Dr. Graham was the undisputed hero of the hour. President David D. Jones of Bennett College, Greensboro, had pitched a problem into the corporate lap even then literally overflowing with what the street calls "hot issues." Whether he or some member had proposed a major issue program, medical care and hospitalization with courses in the projected medical school open to all North Carolina residents, the committee met in the all-pervasive anonymity.

Nobody seemed to think it important to identify himself for reportorial or societal purposes. But after Dr. Graham had pleaded passionately for the medical care and hospitalization program of the recent report and held them high above all other auxiliary and incidental issues, Dr. Jones did rise and say he and all the committee would support the program. He did wonder, however, if the committee that some day we must face up to this issue. The schools which affect to give vocational training, meet the issues of the people for whose health they ostensibly have been established, are "shames and shames," he said either directly or inferentially. He wondered what change our so-called law school students would have for entrance into real law schools.

Teachers Back Pay Proposals

(Continued From Page 1)

Paul Reid, Raleigh, comptroller of the state board of education, one of the agencies sponsoring the program, indicated that the present talk preceding the N. C. E. A.'s president.

Phillips did not guarantee that the General Assembly would approve the program, but he was sure that there was a good chance of success if there was unity in the ranks of the teachers.

He said that the original request of the association was for a 25 per cent over-all increase in pay, but he added that the counter proposal of 20 per cent was accepted. He said that the original request of the association was for a 25 per cent over-all increase in pay, but he added that the counter proposal of 20 per cent was accepted. He said that the original request of the association was for a 25 per cent over-all increase in pay, but he added that the counter proposal of 20 per cent was accepted.

CAR IN WHICH JULIAN PRICE MET DEATH NEAR NORTH WILKESBORO
Shown here is the wrecked car in which Julian Price, one of Greensboro's most prominent citizens, sustained fatal injuries in an accident near North Wilkesboro yesterday afternoon. The Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company executive was reported to have been riding in the front seat with his Negro chauffeur, who also was injured. E. D. Broadhurst, Greensboro attorney, and R. R. Harrill, Jefferson Standard employee from Elizabethton, Tenn., also sustained injuries. (Daily News photo by Paul W. Harvel.)

Toll From News Mill

North Carolina . . . And The Nation

War Dads To Meet

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The North Carolina convention of the American War Dads will open here tomorrow, with Dr. H. Roe Hader of Kansas City, national executive director, as principal speaker.

The convention continues through Sunday when a memorial service for war dead will be held at the Col. Walter W. Wemyer Commanding the Charlotte Quartermaster Depot, is to explain procedures for possible return of bodies to the United States. Robert Smith of Charlotte is state president.

State To Get Colors

RALPHIGH, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Col. Severn S. MacLaughlin, commanding officer of the North Carolina Military District, announced today that the colors and standards of the North Carolina National Guard troops that served during World War II would be returned to the state in a brief ceremony at the capitol here on Monday, November 11.

Governor Cherry will receive the colors for the state. He will be assisted by Brig. Gen. J. Van B. Melts, adjutant general. Colonel MacLaughlin will make the formal presentation.

Right On The Job

CONCORD, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Bertie Ball was cruising on Highway 29 leading to Charlotte about 4 o'clock this morning when he saw a car almost stuck off the highway as a driver sped by, followed by a larger car, the driver of which Ball recognized as a federal officer.

Ball joined the chase which was short-lived when the leading car was wrecked in a side-ditch. Ball and the federal officer, whom Ball did not identify by name, saw two men flee from the wrecked car in which the officers found 25 cases of tax-paid liquor. Liquor cases were confiscated and officers spent about an hour to locate the two men who fled from the car.

Paper May Close

KANNAPOIS, Oct. 25.—(UP)—J. L. Moore, publisher of the Kannapolis Daily Independent, today said his shortage of newsprint was "desperate" and that unless he could borrow paper from other publishers in the Independent might be forced to suspend publication.

Moore said he had only enough newsprint to publish for a few more days and he had appealed to other publishers, but so far had been able to obtain only a few rolls.

The Independent's paper supplier has been manufacturing because of a strike, Moore said.

Plan March Of Dimes

CHARLOTTE, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Representatives of eight southern states, and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, concluded a two-day conference today looking to formation of plans for the March of Dimes drive next January 15-30.

States represented were North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee and Virginia.

Floyd Executed

RALPHIGH, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Edward W. Floyd, 40, Northampton County farmer and former prison camp guard, died in the gas chamber at Central Prison today for the 1934 slaying of his father-in-law and sister.

Floyd, stooped with his head bent, apparently in prayer, meekly entered the death chamber at 10:15 a. m. and the gas was turned on at 10:20 a. m.

He was pronounced dead by prison physicians at 10:13 a. m., 10 minutes later.

City News BRIEFS

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Representing Woman's College, Edith McNeely, senior, of Greensboro, president of the Lutharian group on campus, and Miss Mabel S. Smith, faculty member, will lead the group, are attending this week end the Southern Regional Conference of Lutharian Students at Clemson College, Clemson, S. C.

ALLOWED VISITORS

Mrs. B. B. Springer, 3009 Collier Drive, is a patient at Wesley Long Hospital. She is allowed visitors.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Chandler, of Charlotte, Ga., announce the birth of a daughter, Mrs. Chandler, Oct. 23, in Rome, Ga. Mrs. Chandler is the former Louise Stanley, of the St. Leo's Hospital nursing staff.

HANDBOOK APPROVED

The 1947 handbook of soil-bulldozing, published by Guilford County Agricultural Conservation Association committee at a meeting Thursday at the local Producers and Marketing Administration office, it was announced yesterday by J. L. Thomas, chief clerk at the PMA office. S. E. Boswell, committee chairman, presided.

CLUB ENTERTAINED

Members of the Civilian Club were entertained at their luncheon yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Raleigh by Mrs. Amelia Cardwell, Jack Sealey and Charles Underwood, vocalists.

ARREST REPORTED

Grayson Dowell, of Wilkes County, was charged with possessing and operating an unregistered still in an arrest reported yesterday by Guilford County Sheriff G. B. Dowell. Dowell was released on $500 bond to the November term of District Court at Wilkesboro.

Daring Attempt To Flee Prison Halted By Guards

WHITEVILLE, Oct. 25.—(UP)—Emmet Jarman, long-term convict, made his seventh try for freedom today but failed after a "rope" attempt at the jail which he bagged a freight train, jumped aboard, and leaped off down the track amid pot shots from pursuing prison guards.

At a nearby county prison camp, Jarman escaped about noon, and made his way to the nearby Atlantic Coast Line tracks. He flagged a local freight train by standing in the middle of the track. When the train stopped, he climbed on, but before the engine got up speed again, pursuing guards also caught the train.

Jarman made for a nearby field, but he was discovered by the guards, and then jumped off, with the guards firing.

He was finally captured shortly afterward when guards surrounded him in a thicket.

In Raleigh, Prison Inspector Kyle Matthews said Jarman had a "very bad prison record." Jarman had served 10 years of a five-year sentence for assault with intent to commit criminal assault.

Store Operator Uses Ingenuity To Find House

(Special to Daily News)

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 25.—G. C. Simpson, new manager of the Ouslow F. C. X. store here, yesterday offered a reward of up to 25 points of hard-earned information leading to the location of a house or apartment so that he can move his family here from Lumberton.

And today he has had all sorts of offers. So many have been telephone calls and personal contacts that Simpson said this evening that he hadn't been able to get much done around the store.

"We got plenty of places to go see tonight," Simpson said.

Simpson arrived in Jacksonville last week from Lumberton where he was associated with the F. C. X. He has replaced Howard Godwin as manager, Godwin having taken a job as secretary to the Ouslow F. C. X.

Knights Of Columbus Board Holds Meeting

ASHEVILLE, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The executive and finance committees of the supreme board of directors of the Knights of Columbus held meetings in Grove Park Inn here today in preparation for the quarterly meeting of the board this week end.

Most Rev. Vincent S. Waters, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Raleigh, arrived early today to welcome visiting delegates. Judge John E. Swift, Boston Superior Court judge and supreme knight of the Catholic society, is one of the principal figures at the meeting.

MEMBER OF CHORUS

BURTS CREEK, Oct. 25.—Miry Binity of Route 6, Greensboro, is a member of the cappelin chorus of 25 members of the Campbell College that will sing at the Baptist Student Convention to be held at First Baptist Church in Durham, November 1-5.

Annual Methodist Conference Scheduled For November 6-10

HENDERSON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Plans for the North Carolina annual conference of the Methodist Church which meets here at the First Methodist Church November 6-10 were announced today by Rev. C. D. Barefield, pastor-host.

More than 500 ministers and laymen are expected to attend all conference sessions, which will be climaxed with the reading of the appointments on Sunday afternoon by Bishop William Walter Peete, presiding at the conference. Several hundred others are expected to attend one or more sessions.

Stewardship will be the theme

South Boston Show

SOUTH BOSTON, Va., Oct. 25.—At the annual meeting of the Lions Club today, the Lions Club voted to sponsor a variety and minstrel show. Jordan Sizemore, committee chairman, announced that the show will be held at the Eastern Hotel. It will be presented the latter part of November.

Psychiatrists Meet At Kinston

(Special to Daily News)

KINSTON, Oct. 25.—Approximately 50 psychiatrists attended the annual sessions of the North Carolina Neuropsychiatric Association at the Caswell Training School here today.

The governing body of the association, the Wrentham State School in Massachusetts.

The delegates, who included a number of young psychiatrists attached to the medical staff at Camp Lejeune, were entertained at a dinner and supper by the school staff.

Dr. Maurice H. Greenhill of Durham, retiring president, presided over the sessions. He was assisted by Dr. Lloyd J. Thompson of the staff of Bowman Gray Medical School at Winston-Salem gave a paper on "Special Disabilities in Children With Organic Brain System Disorders." His lecture was followed by another by Drs. Frederick H. Hesser and Ludlow Pence of Durham.

These officers were elected for the ensuing year: Dr. David Young of Raleigh, president; Dr. B. Burce Sull of Durham, vice-president, and Dr. Frederick Hesser of Durham, secretary-treasurer.

The visiting delegates were high in their praise of the clinical material exhibited by Dr. W. Tom Parrott, superintendent of the school.

Clark Speaks To State Bar

(Continued From Page 1)

out the country. This is particularly true of war-time courts-martial, which are the principal objects of attack.

Since the Northwestern District is one of the largest and most influential units of the education association its approval of the program is significant. Indeed, school teachers have an "independent" opinion that the Northwestern teachers have done more than make up their own minds on this all-important matter.

He said that the war department's decision to review the courts-martial cases of many men and later restoring a man to duty has resulted in more than 50 per cent of the convicted men being given another chance with restoration to duty and a chance for an honorable discharge.

During the morning session, the bar heard addresses by Smith on his 70th birthday. He was born near Richmond, Va., November 25, 1877, the son of Joseph J. and Margaret Hill Price, and spent his boyhood days at Meherren, Va., where he attended public schools. He grew up amid the discouragements of reconstruction days.

Biographies of Julian Price relate that he went to work at the age of 18, after attending public schools. They report that he began business life as a telegraph operator and dispatcher for the Southern Railroad at Meherren, Va., where he worked for several years of his first jobs was cutting and selling wood to the railroad for use in wood-burning locomotives. He served as a billing clerk, ticket agent and, finally, as chief dispatcher.

He was transferred to Richmond, and then to Durham, in the state in which he was destined to become nationally known as a business executive, business and civic leader, and as a philanthropist. Leaving the railroad, he was a traveling representative of the American Paper Company from 1905 to 1908.

In that year, at the age of 38, Julian Price became an agent for the Greensboro Life Insurance Company. He spent his days selling life insurance, and when the value of life insurance was not appreciated as it is now, at night he would spend long hours mastering the details of his business, becoming familiar with every phase of the company's policies, so that he could instantly answer the questions of prospects. He then became general agent for the company, and in 1910 he was called in from the field and made secretary and agency manager.

When Jefferson Standard and Greensboro Life were consolidated in 1912, Julian Price became vice-president and general manager. At that time, Jefferson Standard had assets of $3,008,600 and insurance in force totaling $37,504,117. In 1910 he was elected president of the company, and his office he held until January 28, 1934, when he became chairman of the board and turned the reins over to his son, Ralph C. Price.

When Julian Price took over the presidency of the company, it had assets of $9,703,325 and insurance in force of $81,044,994. Today it has assets of $4,000,000 and insurance in force of $65,000,000, and ranks 30th among the insurance companies of the nation.

In 1920, Julian Price was elected to the Greensboro City Council and a sewerage and water construction plan that gave his city facilities to care for several times its population. He served on the council six years, and two years later came back to serve another term.

During the administration of Gov. Angus W. McLean, 1924-28, he was head of the state Salary and Wage Commission, and did much to set up a fair system of employment and pay for state employees. Julian Price was one of the state's most successful financial advisers, and after McLean's term of office he was mentioned for governor on the Democratic ticket. He refused to run, and would not allow his nomination.

Shortly after World War I he bought a majority interest in the Greensboro Record for a reputed price of $40,000, and nine years

Julian Price Dies Instantly In Wilkes County Car Crash

(Continued From Page 1)

North Carolina have lost their most progressive citizen and leader in his passing. We are all somewhat stunned when we reflect on it."

Bernard Cone, an official of the Cone Mill interests, spoke of his work as a citizen and a man. "This city has lost one of its finest citizens. I knew him personally for more than 40 years, and he was a man, conscientious, upstanding, and one whose word was as good as his bond. We have suffered a great loss."

Mayor C. M. Vanstory said, "The South has lost one of its greatest leaders, and the state its most influential citizen. There is no way to value what Julian Price has meant and done for Greensboro, and the loss is a real blow. I have never known anyone with his vision and courage."

Death came to the insurance executive just one month from his 70th birthday. He was born near Richmond, Va., November 25, 1877, the son of Joseph J. and Margaret Hill Price, and spent his boyhood days at Meherren, Va., where he attended public schools. He grew up amid the discouragements of reconstruction days.

Biographies of Julian Price relate that he went to work at the age of 18, after attending public schools. They report that he began business life as a telegraph operator and dispatcher for the Southern Railroad at Meherren, Va., where he worked for several years of his first jobs was cutting and selling wood to the railroad for use in wood-burning locomotives. He served as a billing clerk, ticket agent and, finally, as chief dispatcher.

He was transferred to Richmond, and then to Durham, in the state in which he was destined to become nationally known as a business executive, business and civic leader, and as a philanthropist. Leaving the railroad, he was a traveling representative of the American Paper Company from 1905 to 1908.

In that year, at the age of 38, Julian Price became an agent for the Greensboro Life Insurance Company. He spent his days selling life insurance, and when the value of life insurance was not appreciated as it is now, at night he would spend long hours mastering the details of his business, becoming familiar with every phase of the company's policies, so that he could instantly answer the questions of prospects. He then became general agent for the company, and in 1910 he was called in from the field and made secretary and agency manager.

When Jefferson Standard and Greensboro Life were consolidated in 1912, Julian Price became vice-president and general manager. At that time, Jefferson Standard had assets of $3,008,600 and insurance in force totaling $37,504,117. In 1910 he was elected president of the company, and his office he held until January 28, 1934, when he became chairman of the board and turned the reins over to his son, Ralph C. Price.

When Julian Price took over the presidency of the company, it had assets of $9,703,325 and insurance in force of $81,044,994. Today it has assets of $4,000,000 and insurance in force of $65,000,000, and ranks 30th among the insurance companies of the nation.

In 1920, Julian Price was elected to the Greensboro City Council and a sewerage and water construction plan that gave his city facilities to care for several times its population. He served on the council six years, and two years later came back to serve another term.

During the administration of Gov. Angus W. McLean, 1924-28, he was head of the state Salary and Wage Commission, and did much to set up a fair system of employment and pay for state employees. Julian Price was one of the state's most successful financial advisers, and after McLean's term of office he was mentioned for governor on the Democratic ticket. He refused to run, and would not allow his nomination.

Shortly after World War I he bought a majority interest in the Greensboro Record for a reputed price of $40,000, and nine years

Junior Order Meetings Set

High Point Host To 13th District

Greensboro Daily News Bureau
200 W. Washington, Phone 2015

HIGH POINT, Oct. 25.—Representative Carl Durham is scheduled to speak here tomorrow night when the Junior Order, United American Mechanics High District, hold its semiannual meeting at the Sheraton Hotel. Durham will make his address at the banquet to be held at 6:30 p. m.

Registration will open at 5 p. m. and a dance will follow the banquet from 9 to 12 p. m.

Sunday the delegates will meet at 9 a. m. in executive and officers' sessions in the community room in a Legion frolic and initiation in the hotel ballroom. At 1:30 p. m. a banquet will be held at the Moose Hall.

The Junior Order auxiliary, Daughters of America, will hold separate sessions simultaneously with the Order meetings.

Delegates will represent Thomasboro, American Mechanics High District, Durham, Wilson, Raleigh and Wilmington and Danville, and Galax, Va.

James Parrott Dies At Kinston

(Special to Daily News)

KINSTON, Oct. 25.—Funeral for James Franklin (Jack) Parrott, 79, retired business leader, former merchant and postmaster, who succumbed to a heart attack at his home at 6 p. m. Thursday will be held at the residence at 2 p. m. Saturday with interment in Westview Cemetery.

Parrott, who was born in Kinston, was a son of the late Benjamin Franklin and Martha May Parrott. He entered the insurance business through his father, who was in the mercantile business and served as postmaster for a time. Since 1932 he had been associated with his son in the insurance and realty business here. He was active in church and community affairs. He was a member of the board of deacons of Gordon Street Church of Christ for many years. He was also one of the pioneer leaders in the building of the Commerce Hotel. He was engaged in farming for many years and was chairman of the Lenoir County Republican Executive Committee for some time.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mattie Kennedy Parrott, and one son, one daughter, six grandchildren and four sisters.

Cavel Worker Takes Own Life

(Special to Daily News)

ROXBORO, Oct. 25.—Walter Jerome Todd, 36, construction worker and former textile mill employee of Cavel Village committed suicide by shooting himself in the heart with a 12-gauge shotgun while sitting in his automobile about 10 a. m. today.

The body was discovered by state highway commission personnel about 2:30 p. m.

Dr. A. F. Nichols, Person County coroner, said death occurred instantly. He said no inquest will be held.

Todd, who had been engaged in building and remodeling houses in the vicinity of Roxboro, left home about 7 a. m. to go to work at Cavel Village. He was accompanied by his wife. He was driving a 1941 Buick when he shot himself while still sitting behind the steering wheel. He used a forked stick to pull the trigger.

He is survived by his wife, father, four sisters, mother and three brothers. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

GET ECONOMY MOROLINE PETROLEUM JELLY 10¢

Andrews Renamed To Head Grange Executive Unit

(Special to Daily News)

CLINTON, Oct. 25.—W. W. Andrews, Grange, was today re-elected chairman of the executive committee of The North Carolina Grange and T. W. Allen was re-named chairman of the tobacco committee following the closing of the 18th annual session of the Grange.

Andrews announced that the executive committee would promote vigorously a program to improve the schools, increase farm salaries and improve secondary and farm-to-market roads.

Andrews declared that the delegates were unanimous accord that the health conditions of North Carolina must be improved. He pointed out that the executive committee favored the good health program and the Grange will favor as its first objective the establishment of hospital and medical centers in the rural communities. The Grange will likewise support the research and expansion needs of State College, Raleigh.

Downward Price Trends Noted In Flue-Cured Tobacco Markets

(By The Associated Press)

Erratic to downward price trends were registered Friday on all flue-cured tobacco market belts, the federal-state marketing news service reported.

Average prices for majority of grades sold on the Eastern North Carolina markets for the fourth straight day continued to be lower, with even better quality grades showing successive losses for recording lows of the season. However, most of the drops were limited to $1 per hundred in comparison with Thursday's prices.

Leaf grades and nondescript on the Middle Belt slumped in the majority of cases, with some grades dropping as much as $1 to $3 per hundred, but smoking leaf remained firm.

Irregular trends were posted on the Old Belt market, with few more losses than gains being reported. Some of the changes were only $1 to $2 per hundred, but the inferior grades dropped as much as $3 to $4.

For REAL Speed in HEADACHE RELIEF Choose LIQUID CAPUDINE!

Capudine contains carefully selected and blended pain-relieving and soothing ingredients which can be combined only in liquid form. So when you take Capudine you don't wait for any ingredients to dissolve before or after taking. Very quickly, Capudine begins to relieve headache and neuralgia, ease accompanying nerve strain, and thereby restore your comfort for REAL speed using Capudine. Follow directions on label.