

Columbia installs naloxone distribution boxes

Several naloxone distribution boxes have been placed throughout the city. The idea is to make the medication, which can reverse opioid overdoses, more accessible to residents. Each box of naloxone includes two intranasal doses.

