

Future Tiger honored

LSU women’s basketball signee Lola Lampley was one of 24 women named as a 2026 McDonald’s All-American Monday afternoon announced on ESPN’s NBA Today.

Lampley is the 15th LSU signee to earn a spot on the McDonald’s All-American Game roster. She is the sixth player under Mulkey to have been named a McDonald’s All-American.

This year’s McDonald’s All-American Game will take place in Phoenix at the Desert Diamond Arena on March 31.

Lampley, a native of Indianapolis, Ind., is in her senior season at Lawrence Central High School. The 6-foot-2 wing has a long track record of success across USA Basketball, where she won gold medals at the 2024 FIBA U17 World Cup and 2023 FIBA Americas U16 championship. Lampley has also competed on the Nike Elite Youth Basketball circuit.

Lampley recently surpassed 1,000 career points and was named to the 2026 Nike Hoops Summit roster.

Lampley ranks in the top-30 of all major recruiting services including 247Sports (No. 15), On3 (No. 17), Prospects Nation (No. 17), and ESPN (No. 29).

Lampley’s length, anticipation and versatility make her one of the premier perimeter defenders in her class. She is extremely effective at operating in the face-up game with impressive fundamentals and strong instincts as a cutter and playmaker. Her adaptability fits the mold of recent LSU wings who thrive in Mulkey’s physical, defense-first system.

Lampley will join the LSU program for the 2026-27 season in her freshman year in Baton Rouge.

LSU gets first SEC road win

The LSU men’s basketball team scored the first three points of overtime and never trailed in the extra session to score a 92-87 win over South Carolina Saturday afternoon at the Colonial Life Arena.

The Tigers posted their 14th win of the season and their second in league play.

Tied at 78-78 after 20 minutes on a snowy day in Columbia which limited the crowd on hand in person for the contest, the two teams traded free throws for the first three minutes of play before South Carolina’s Meechie Johnson’s bucket brought Carolina back to within one, 85-84, of the Tigers with 1:34 to play.

The teams swapped more free throws and the Tigers lead was 86-85 with 39 seconds left. Off a South Carolina timeout, the Tigers worked the ball around and Pablo Tamba found Max Mackinnon open on the right side for a three-pointer with 21 seconds left to make it 89-85 in favor of LSU.

After two free throws by Carolina with nine seconds left, LSU’s Rashad King was fouled and he made 1-of-2 to push the Tiger lead back to three at 90-87 with just over seven ticks to play.

LSU elected to foul to prevent a tying three-point shot and Johnson missed on the first shot of a two-shot foul. He tried to intentionally miss the second shot but it didn’t draw iron turning the ball back to the Tigers with 3.8 seconds to play.

Marquel Sutton got behind the defense for a long pass from Mackinnon for a dunk to end the game with LSU getting the five-point win.

The entertaining, high scoring game saw the Tigers contribute in distributing the ball efficiently for easy open baskets, despite not having DJ Thomas dressed for the game with the nagging lower left leg injury.

LSU would have 23 assists on 31 baskets during the game and stayed even with South Carolina on three-pointers as both teams made nine for the game.

LSU would shoot 51.7 percent for the contest (31-of-60) and after barely making 50 percent on Wednesday for the second Saturday in a row on the road was over 80 percent at the free throw line, making 21-of-25 for 84.0 percent.

While the Tigers had 11 turnovers in the game, LSU committed only two in the second half and extra session combined.

USC had 15 points off the LSU turnovers, but while Carolina committed just six total, the Tigers were able to get 13 off those mistakes.

Mike Nwoko, 9-of-13 from the field, had 21 points to lead LSU, 14 in the second half.

Rashad King, who returned to the starting lineup in place of Thomas, had 18 points and three assists, while Sutton had 16 points.

Mackinnon did a little bit of everything with 15 points and a season high eight assists.

Johnson led South Carolina with 21 points and six assists, while Kobe Knox had 15 points, Elijah Strong 12 and Mike Sharavjamts added 11.

Demons fall to Nicholls

The Northwestern State men’s basketball team nearly flipped the script Monday on Mike McConathy Court at Prather Coliseum, storming out of halftime with its best stretch of the night and turning a sluggish first half into a one-possession game before falling 61–58 to Nicholls in Southland Conference men’s basketball play.

The Demons (6-16, 4-9) opened the second half on a sustained run that erased a double-digit deficit and shifted the momentum inside Prather Coliseum.

The Colonels (10-13, 9-5) had pushed their lead to the night’s largest early in the half, going up 39-22 after Zee Hamoda hit a 3-pointer and a pair of free throws.

Everyone had counted the Demons out—everyone except the Demons themselves.

Northwestern head coach Rick Cabrera said the close loss was just part of the story of the Demons’ season.

“This has just been the story of our season,” Cabrera said. “I’m always going to take some blame as the coach. I’ve got to help my guys finish and get off to better starts, because in each of those games they come out sleepwalking. But we’re not out of it. We’re going to keep fighting, keep chopping wood and keep getting better.”

The Demons’ second-half surge was fueled by stops on defense and contributions from multiple players.

Izzy Miles jump-started the comeback at the free-throw line, going a perfect 8-for-8 from the stripe, while Chris Mubiru asserted himself in the paint, scoring, rebounding and protecting the rim. Kordrick Turner and Willie Williams added key buckets.
