Parents joined their first-grade students at Falls Elementary Friday to take part in an annual learning experience, pumpkin math.

Pumpkin math teaches students about pumpkins, and helps them with their counting as they count out the seeds. The students also weigh the pumpkins and learn about the gooey guts of this classic Halloween decoration.

They also carve their orange orbs, with the help of their parents, so they have a Halloween decoration of their own to take home and proudly display.

Kat Pierre helps her son Logan carve his pumpkin.

Cory Jensen sorts out pumpkin seeds while his son Cale outlines his carving.
