Trista Johnson hauls a chunk of snow to the sculpture her class is working on.

KayLynn Cronin and a friend create a tunnel through the snow.

From the left, Martylynn Norgard, Madison Buller and Isabella Willmarth appear to be enjoying a sunny afternoon outside.

Andrew Olson shovels snow away from the sculpture he was working on.

Fourth-grade student Havyn Pelland helps her classmates sculpt a pile of snow in Smokey Bear Park Tuesday.

Two students create a design on top of a snowbank.
