Feeding frenzy

A group of white-tailed deer standing in a snowy field, looking towards the camera. The deer are of various ages, with some showing prominent antlers. The background is a dense forest of evergreen trees.

A photograph showing a group of deer in a winter setting. In the foreground, two deer are prominently featured, their heads lowered to graze on a patch of bright green grass that contrasts sharply with the surrounding snow. The deer have light brown or tan fur. In the background, several other deer are visible, some standing and others partially obscured, all in a similar snowy environment. The background is slightly blurred, emphasizing the deer in the foreground.

Several deer dine on freshly-laid alfalfa last week. Kostiuk said the feed will attract many more deer, but they usually wait until he is gone to come out of the woods.
